

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS OFFICE, NO. 12, PEARL STREET. Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at twenty cents per week.

MINOR MENTION. N. Y. Plumbing Co. New spring goods at Retter's, tailor.

See W. C. Stacy & Co., No. 9 Main, for bargains in real estate. J. L. Forman is moving into the Epener residence, recently purchased by him.

R. L. Williams is to furnish the slate for the roof of the new Catholic church. Miss Mollie Corcoran, dressmaker, No. 714 Myrster street, between Seventh and Eighth streets.

Council Bluffs lodge I. O. O. F., No. 49, desires a full attendance of the members to-morrow night. All members of Bluff division Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, are requested to be at Plater's hall for drill at 7:30 sharp.

"Nancy & Co.," Daly's latest and merriest comedy is to be given by Arthur Rehan's company at the opera house next Monday evening.

A. B. Walker has at his office a showing of pebbles picked up on the Manawa beach. They are interesting specimens and show the nature of the beach to be as fine as any in the west.

The cleaning of Main street makes a marked improvement in that thoroughfare. While Des Moines is groaning under its burden of mud, Council Bluffs is getting cleaned up nicely.

Leave to wed was yesterday granted to J. M. Phillips, of Neola, and Mary E. Johnson; also to Sidney Armstrong of Bonoma county, California, and Alice C. Brownell, of Kirksville, Mo.

Chicago Bill, with his complete outfit for cleaning chimneys, is again in town. Many a dollar of loss by fire could be saved by patronizing him. Orders can be left at DeVoi's or at the postoffice.

Arrangements are being made to let the contract for the Broadway wagon bridge by the 30th of April, and the first will commence flying by the 1st of May. This will be a quick start for so large an enterprise.

The stock of the Manawa railway is being rapidly taken and there seems no doubt now but that the enterprise will soon commence, and be pushed to a speedy completion.

The old lady yesterday acknowledged the receipt of a bottle of mineral water and was so exalted by it that she managed yesterday to get up all the columns of telegraphic news. The old lady is getting frisky.

Robert Huntington now wears one of the handsomest gold headed canes in the city. It is the gift of his wife, who is joined in by many friends, that the cane may wear for years, and that he may live to wear it out.

There is a move on foot to secure the appointment of a gas inspector. Council Bluffs submits more gas than any city in the country. It seems that some sort of a move should be made to secure better light at less cost.

City Poll Tax Collector Beckman will soon begin his routine work. He has gathered in more than any previous collector, and this year he promises to beat even that record. Those liable might as well come down gracefully and at once.

The council having decided on a grade for lower Broadway, the permanent improvements of filling, parking, curbing and paving will proceed as rapidly as possible. With Broadway paved clear to the new wagon bridge, and the river, this will be a great thoroughfare.

Judge Thornell is expected to be here Saturday, but he will probably take no steps in the saloon injunction cases. The decision of questions already submitted to the supreme court will probably be waited for, as a guide to his rulings in similar questions arising here.

The Stuart dramatic company is drawing light houses. With a change of programme every evening and with popular prices, it seems that the company should have large audiences. The company is of light weight, but of much more merit than most of the companies who play for the low prices.

"Who said Council Bluffs was dull?" asked the council yesterday. "Talk about Council Bluffs not having sidewalks. I've just got back from Quincy—there isn't a foot of paving in the whole city—couldn't see anything going on. It was the same way at Burlington. Tell you I came back pretty well satisfied with the way Council Bluffs is going along."

The city council is taking the initiatory steps for a large amount of street improvements. Fifth street will get its sidewalks this season. Myrster street from Main to Eighth street will be paved and parked, together with the cross streets to Broadway. Glen avenue will be paved from Broadway to the reservoir, and Washington avenue from First to Second street. Fourth street is also preparing for paving this season. The city is wide awake this year sure.

The city marshal has been instructed to have the property owners clear up the alleys without delay. In case of a failure so to do he is to get the alleys cleaned and the costs taxed up. There should be no delay in this matter. The city should also inaugurate a system of garbage and ash collections, so that property owners could arrange places of deposit for such matter and have them cleaned out at stated intervals by teams employed constantly for that purpose.

COUPLING FREIGHT CARS. A Practical Test to Be Made Between Council Bluffs and Burlington. POLICE COURT DOINGS. Several Worthy Young Democrats Get a Job Weighing Mails—Numerous Building Improvements—Just a Scorch.

Testing Freight Car Couplers. An important and interesting test of freight car couplers is to be made on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road next Monday. One of the intricate problems of railway service is that of the slack on freight car couplers.

It is a subject about which there has been much speculation and many of the prominent railway men of the country have reached the conclusion that the necessity for the slack or looseness is all imaginary. Present Adams of the Union Pacific, a few years ago announced it as his opinion that a freight engine can pull out as heavy a train without a slack as with it. Now the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy company is to make a practical test upon the matter.

Next Monday a freight train will start from Burlington with as many cars as the engine can pull, the cars being furnished with couplers that fit tight like those on passenger trains and do not allow the variation in distance between cars as heavy a train without a slack as with it. Now the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy company is to make a practical test upon the matter.

The Police Pickings. "What is your business, Mr. Shepherd?" "I'm a farmer, your honor, and no va-grant—not a bit of it."

"Where is your farm?" "Oh, I've got no farm of my own, I just work for other folks."

"Where do you work, then?" "Well, your honor, I'm not to work anywhere just now."

"Well, where did you work last?" "For a man named Jones, in western New York."

"When did you quit Mr. Jones' employ?" "In December, just before Christmas."

"Christmas last year?" "No; it was in December, 1884."

"Haven't you been at work anywhere since?" "No; I haven't been able to find any work."

"I feel sorry for you, and will give you a dollar to work for a while."

"Thank you, your honor."

"Yes; you can work on the streets for ten days; and you can have all the bread and water you want three times a day."

The beam of gratitude vanished. The two young men, Roper and Peterson, who travel as a pair, causing the police much trouble, have just been released from jail, where they were held for having been catching some giddy girls away from their homes. The boys seem to be still in trouble, however. Roper was arrested for being drunk, for disturbing the peace, and for using profane language in public places. He insisted that he could prove that the police had made a mistake, and the case was laid over until to-day.

A short time ago Judge Aylesworth sent to one of the reformatory institutions of the state a girl of only sixteen, whose parents could not keep her under control. Now comes a letter from the girl urging Peterson to make some provision for her, and to share with her the trouble into which she has herself plunged from associating with him. He denies that he is responsible for her condition, but he has been making such a reputation for himself that charges stick easily.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. White are neighbors. Mrs. White has scratching poultry and Mrs. Jones has rose bushes. The rose bushes have been getting the worst of it. Mrs. Jones also dislikes the odor of the hens, and Mrs. White's hen, Judge Aylesworth had a forenoon of hens, rose bushes and hogs. He finally dismissed the complaints and counter-plaints, but Mrs. White, who is a little deaf, and did not hear the ruling of the court, kept up her talk until the judge's dinner hour had passed by an hour. It was a great single handed game of talk, and the judge was so weary that he concluded to take rest at Coles. He went while away a few days there drinking mineral water and codifying the city ordinances. City Attorney Holmes will join him there Sunday.

I hereby give notice to all concerned not to trust my wife on my account after this date, as I will pay no bills of her contracting. FRANK BOLWELL, Council Bluffs, March 21st, 1887.

Contractors and builders will find it to their interest to get prices on lime, cement, plaster, brick and tile, from Council Bluffs Fuel company, 530 Broadway, Telephone 136.

Given a Month's Job. On Wednesday next week the post-office department begins a systematic weighing of all the mails on each of the railway lines of the country, as a basis of new contracts with the railroad companies for the next four years. The weighing is to continue five weeks, and every pound of mail received and delivered at each station is accurately weighed and recorded. This service requires a large number of extra men, fifty being required in Iowa. The following are the appointments to weigh the mails here: A. Hammer for the Union Pacific, John Jay Frayne, B. L. Clark and George Hunter for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, William Burns and W. A. Tucker on the Chicago & Rock Island, Albert Noack and Matthew McNemony on the Cleo, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and Leo B. Cramer on the Carson branch of the Rock Island.

E. L. Cook, of Mondamin, is at the Ogden house. A. W. Jones, of Shenandoah, is a guest at the Ogden.

Alderman Hammer is wrestling with malarial fever. J. M. Cox and S. K. Gallaher, of Sloan, are at the Ogden.

Mrs. R. J. Hancock, living on Fourth street, is quite ill. Mrs. Miller, of Missouri Valley, was in the city yesterday.

Judge Reed, of the supreme court, is spending a brief vacation at home. Frank Bandy and Thomas McVitie, of Omaha, were in the city yesterday.

E. H. Hill, of the Empire hardware company, has returned from a Nebraska trip. Mrs. S. C. Clark and daughter are visiting Mrs. Clark's sister at Janesville, Wis.

E. E. Harkness has returned from a purchasing trip to Chicago and New York. Mr. and Mrs. Tanner and Miss Mollie Fagan, of Omaha, are visiting Miss Carrie Reed.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Glyter is brightened by the presence of a little daughter. William Harecourt, of Avenue C, is rejoicing over the papash of a bright little daughter.

"Dick" Ryan returned yesterday morning from New York and last evening left for Chicago. Wm. Blair and family, of Waukesha, Wis., are here visiting friends. Mr. Blair was formerly with Foster Bros.

James Barrett, of the Chicago & North-western clerical force, is slowly recovering from congestion of the lungs. L. B. Cousins is now connected with Bebbington's lumber yard. With his wide acquaintance and extended experience, he is a valuable acquisition.

Chief Johnson and Assistant Chief Derch of the Des Moines fire department were here yesterday examining the workings of the new fire alarm. S. B. Wadsworth, of Oregon, Ill., brother of S. D. Wadsworth and Mrs. Lucius Wells, is in the city on a short visit. He is accompanied by M. Farrell, of the same place.

Edwin Harkness, Frank W. Reed and John Mettner, of Elmwood, Ill., were in the city yesterday, the guests of E. A. Benson. These gentlemen are large investors and they have decided to purchase some of the many bargains offered here.

Special communication of Bluff City, A. F. and A. M. No. 71, this evening for the second degree. SHARP WIRE TAPPERS. How They Manipulated the Markets in Three Southern Cities.

Mr. Sid Phelan of the Gate City cotton exchange has returned from Birmingham where he has just concluded a tussle with the wire-tappers, says an Atlanta, Ga., dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"It was the sharpest trick in wire-tapping ever perpetrated, I suppose," said Mr. Phelan to-day. As his experience with the market manipulators cost him about $10,000, Mr. Phelan may be considered an authority on the subject.

Mr. Phelan has an exchange in Montgomery and another in Birmingham, besides his exchange in Atlanta, and the market quotations are sent from Atlanta via Montgomery to Birmingham, each exchange receiving the news at the same time. Now if the wire-tapper, who has the news to an exchange is passing by tapped the quotations can be manipulated and trades can be made in the exchange to suit the wire-tapper. Being in possession of the line, the wire-tapper can send the market either up or down.

"About two months ago," said Mr. Phelan, "the wire leading to the Birmingham exchange was tapped somewhere inside the limits of Birmingham with marvelous success, and the manipulators very soon struck us for $18,000, though I had to pay only $8,000 of that amount. When the manipulators got possession of the wire over which we were receiving the quotations, they were in a position to run prices either up or down by simply mutilating the quotations. For instance, when Louisville and Nashville were really 67, the fellow in Birmingham, who would send it in at 64, and their representatives on the floor of the exchange would buy at that figure. Then they would quote the stock at 67—a decided rise—and closing the exchange for the difference. Why, they had a deal sure thing, as they were fixing their buying and selling price, and we were dancing to the music."

When the manager of the Birmingham exchange had his suspicions aroused he did what we called asking for a verification. The request had to go to New York, and the quotation had to come back signed by the manager of the Gold and Stock Telegraph company. Well, the request for a verification was sent, and in about twenty minutes the able manipulator called up the exchange and very kindly told us on what was 90 K, and signed their mutilating selves "Dealy," which was just the way the verification would have been signed had it really come from New York. They had such complete possession of the line that we could not get the correct figures from our other exchanges except by mail. As soon as the quotations for Atlanta were compared with the quotations in Birmingham, the gold was shown beyond the possibility of a doubt, and in setting I refused to pay $10,000 of the ill-gotten profits.

"Dealy" says he did not send the verification, which was paid for on us by the manager of the Birmingham exchange, but he got us for about $4,000, which was settled by arbitration to-day on the payment of about $1,000.

"Was the thing ordered the same as before?" "No, the quotations were not mutilated but they were taken off and held back until trades could be made on the figures in possession of the wire tappers. The tapping was done with an invisible wire, and when on the morning of the 1st we asked Montgomery the time of day the question was taken off by the wire tappers, who replied, 'Instead of giving us the true time, they made us set our clock twelve minutes slow.' As the quotations came in then the wire tappers took them off. In that way they got the quotations twelve minutes before they were received in the exchange, and could trade with an absolute knowledge of which way the markets was going. Well, we sold 4,000 barrels of pork at $17.50 per barrel, and it rose to $18.10 in about ten minutes. That was a very lively market, but the only thing wrong was the delay in receiving it. At 10:17 somebody signing himself Montgomery asked Birmingham what time it was and our operator replied: 'Why, man, you just gave the time a few minutes ago,' to which the reply came: 'Oh, this is a close made on the figures.' 'The tapping of the wire was evident to us then. The pork buyers held on and closed at $18.50. We charged that the wires were tapped, and a board of arbitration to-day decided the matter by requiring us to pay only the profit on the pork in the rise from $18.10 to $18.50, which was 40 cents a barrel. It cost us about $1,000. We lost by the tappings $10,000. The vast stretch of wire over which the news comes to us requires a hundred cells in Birmingham for its supply of electricity. If, when the wire was tapped, they had done nothing to offset their lack of wire, the flood of electricity would have sent a streak of fire into the exchange and the instrument would have worked like a sledge hammer. We will tap again, with tapping in future by putting in a set of quadruple instruments, which will supply too much electricity for wire tappers to manipulate."

Maggie Quinn, a reputable young woman of Pittsburg, fell on the street in a fit, was carried to the police station, charged with drunkenness, put in a cell with other female prisoners, who, when she became conscious, taunted her with being drunk, and the result of all this was that the girl lost her reason.
