Lincoln's City Election.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 4.-|Special relegram to the BEE. | - The election to-morrow promises be the most exciting which has ever take place in Lincoln. There will be three tickets in the field-the democratic and citizens' the republican and the prohibition. Each party seems confident of success. This afternoon an attempt was made by the republican disaffected ones to induce Colby, the prohibitionist candidate for mayor, to retire and enable a coalition between his supporters and those of Sawyer, the citizens' and democratic nominee. If the attempt had been successful it would have been attended possibly with disastrous consequences to Roggen. As it is the chances of the latter's success are rather assuring. To-night the prohibition people are printing three circulars, addressed to some of the clergymen, the women and the law and order people of Lincoln. They are Inspired with various sentiments and will be scattered in thousands at the polls to morrow. They will aid in satisfying the prohibitionists and result possibly in the polling of about 700 votes. The citizens and democrats promise excellent support to Mr. Sawyer, while the meetings of the republican managers, which are being held to-night, guarantir, Roggen a heavy vote.

Cattlemen in Convention. CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 4 .- [Special Telegram to the BEE !- The attendance at the annual meeting of the Wyoming Stock Growers' association, which convened in this city to-day, while somewhat smaller in point of numbers than previous meetings, is a fair representation of the stock growers of Wyoming, Dakota and Nebraska. The secreretary's reports show the receipts of the past vent to be $52.431; the expenditures $51.089; leaving a balance on hand of $1,300, against a dencit of $10,000 at the close of the the preceding year. In the future no assess-ments will be levied against members, the sales of mavericks and strays being sufficient to provide for all expenses. The unusually fine weather which has prevailed during the past two months, together with the favorable reports brought in by ranch foremen, indicate lighter losses of stock than heretofore counted on. Prices of beef are counted on British Grain Trade Review. LONDON, April 4.- The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade during the past week, says: English wheat is tending lower in London, and in a number of provincial markets there has been a 6d@ls decline. The feeling of the trade is one of extreme depression. Sales of English wheat during the week were 53,687 quarters at 83s Sd, against 61,940 quarters at 30s 5d during the corresponding period last year. The market for foreign wheat is quiet and demor alized. The available supplies are already more than ample for the remainder of the cereal year, while the stocks at port are constantly increasing. The week's receipts of flour at London are the largest on record for a week, amounting to 88,082 sacks of American and 15,968 sacks of English. Four cargoes of wheat arrived, three were withdrawn, and one was sold. To-day the wheat trade was at a standstill. Quotations were nominal. Any dealings that were made were at a 6d docline. Flour was depressed, and quotations were irregularly lower. Corn and quotations were irregularly lower. Corn was quiet. Russian oats rose 6d. Linseed was 5d higher.

The commissioner therefore rec-ommends that patents be issued to the com-pany for the lands along so much of the road is less between a point near Duluth, in Min-ceots, and the Missouri river in Dakota, but states his opinion that no lands should be patented to said company for lands on any other portion of the road.

Chattanooga's Boom Difficulty. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 4.- [Special Telegram to the BEE. J-A singular difficulty has arisen here as a result of the real estate boom which has prevailed here for three months. Some time since a syndicate of capitalists purchased a large tract of land almosed in the center of the city, called Stone Fort, which, on account of its rock and uneven condition, has been allowed to be occupied by negroes, at least 200 small houses having been put up for their occupancy. These 200 families since the new purchase have been notified to vacate this property at once, and they will have to leave. There is once, and they will have to leave. There is not a vacant house in the city that they can get, and Chattanooga is now confronted with the problem of what to do with 200 families who are turned out of house and home. The poor people will have to get off during the coming week, and what to do with them no-

Ornaments on Pottery. It is thought by some that ornamental patterns on pottery are handed down by savages from one generation to another. This is not true of our Indian, who, after making a pot, ornaments it with improvised designs. He has no pattern-books to guide him. Indians of New Mexico accustomed to pottery-making have, since their contacts with whites, given attention to more elaborate ornamentation; just as those of Mexico meet a demand and find their way into public and private collections. The most noticeable change in technique is the use of animal and human forms, which, though not unknown on older pieces are rare. Toy forms of pottery and those animal and human designs which met the readlest sale have been most improved by a kind of natural selection.

The thirst for antiquities has also stimalated the native artists to imitate them. In the City of Mexico an Italian made a good living for three years making stone sculptures in imitation of antiquities. The writer saw some of his works, but they were easily detected. The children all had European faces, and the delicate parts of the body were too well worked out. Near the City of Mexico live a settlement of Indians who have the credit of manufacturing elever imitations of ancient pottery. The noble custom of exciting in children the leve of the beautiful through toys and dells was not neglected by the ancient Mexicans. Even in our day a striking example is the manufacture of toys in great pro-fusion at Guadalajara, which are sold not only throughout the republic, but

They are taken on the backs of men and animals packed in baskets and crates. These toys are very truthful rep-resentatives of the manners and customs of the people. For the rude apparatus employed they are truly remarkable. The most interesting fact about this ware is the way in which the artist holds on to as the way in which the artist holds on to ancient forms, and in the decorations yields himself absolutely to the whims and demands of the market. He even borrows from the Spaniard the art of silvering and gilding. This almost total hiding of the old thing which they are unwilling to give up, with paint and forms to which their old art was a stranger is also seen in their gourd vessels. ger, is also seen in their gourd vessels.

Richard Tizzard Suspicions His Wife and Deserts His Family.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETING.

Imprisoned in a Car-Saved From the Pen-Stewart's Troublesome Telephone-The Boston Ideals -Other Local News.

A Mixed Pickle Family Affair. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a neatly clad little girl appeared in the BEE reportorial rooms and timidly presented the following note:

DESERTION.

A man living not over two blocks west of the high school has shamefully deserted his family. His pretended reason for so doing seems to be that "his wife was the cause of course to be that "his wife was the cause of the cause o is daughter's death a few months back. This, with other charges too yulgar to men-tion, which he is circulating around town, he gives as reasons for his conduct. For the sake of the two little children the matter ought to be investigated. A NEIGHBOR.

In response to inquiries the fittle girl stated that sie was Lily Tizzard, the daughter of Richard Tizzard, Twentythird and Davenport streets, and that her mother had written the note; that her father hadn't been home for a month, although in the city. He had paid the grocery and meat market bills for the which had been sent to him, but had refused to come home. Her sister who died, she said, was only her half siser, and was not her mother's daughter. She was sixteen years old and named Addie Tizzard. She died about six months ago; and "nobody knew what was the matter with her," added the child art-lessly.

"Didn't you hear anybody say what was the matter with her?" was asked. "She had poison in her stomach." said. The little girl further said that Dr. Lanyon had attended her sister when the latter was sick.

Dr. Liesinring's office was visited and the record of death certificates examined. No name like that of Addie Tizzard was

Mrs. Tizzard was called upon. She said that her husband had absented himself from home for the best part of the time during the past nine months; and that for over a month he had not been at the house but once. That was when she was absent. He took the lock off the door and effected an entrance, after which he gathered up his clothing and took it and all others of his personal effects away. She had taken this as conclusive evidence that he intended to remain away permanently. Since then she understood that ne was sleeping at the Truth office, but knew nothing further about his actions. "Do you know why Mr. Tizzard absents himself so determinedly?" was asked. Mrs. Tizzard hesitated and said: "Of course, he says it is because I mistreated his daughter and that she died because she did not have proper attention. I can prove differently by the neighbors, and by those who were in the house when Addie was sick. She died from blood-poisoning, as a result of diphtheria. She was only sick in bed three days. He also charges other things against me, but don't care to say anything about that, He never could go away from the house two hours without thinking there was a man in here. I've lived here four years and during that time the neighbors who have seen me every day ought to know whether he has any reason for such a suspicion. He is crazy on that subject."

"No, I don't know as I should want to live with him again if he would come back. He never made himself very pleas-ant around and he wouln't be liable to be any more so if he should come back again. What I want him to do is to commence proceedings in the court. Then I can tell what I know and prove He has property and I am entitled to half of it. I have lived with him and been a faithful wife to him over twelve years always treated his daughter just the same as I did my own. She was only 4 years old when we were married.'

Mrs. Tizzard talked in an indifferent tone and yawned frequently as if the topic of conversation was of little interest to her, The neighbors who were seen professed to know nothing much about the Tizzard's family affairs and indicated their opinion that Mrs. Tizzard was a woman of correct character.

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS. Dr. Langon, who attended the girl Addie Tizzard during her fatal sickness, was called upon by a reporter of the BEE last night.

Doctor, what do you know about the death of a girl named Addie Tizzard, who lives with her parents at the corner of Twenty-third and Davenport streets, about six mouths ago?" was asked of him. "I don't know anything about it. I guess you've struck the wrong man.' "Certain about that?"

The doctor pondered a moment, and said, "Oh, yes, I remember now the case you refer to. I attended that girl." He was then told by the reporter the version of the death accidentally related to the BEE man by the young stepsister of the deceased, Lily Tizzard. "You can set that down as false," he answered excitedly. "The girl was not poisoned, at least, with any mechanical

What was the trouble, then? "It was a clear case of diptheria-a very violent case I may say. The girl died within three days after she was taken

Then there was no poisoning? "No, except blood poisoning. The case was aggravated by the fact that the girl refused to take the medicine at first, because it was offered her by her stepmother. Later, on when it was given her by her father or myself she took it readily enough. But it was then too late, as the disease had become firmly rooted. There was some trouble between the father and mother, and they never lived happily together. What the believe for one thing that the mother claimed Tizzard paid too much attention to Addie- the one that died-and neglected his other children.

As already intimated, the certificate of the death of the girl was never filed with Dr. Lanyon. This of itself was a strange circumstance. It would be much more satisfactory all around if the certificate of her death had been filed.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION. An Important Meeting of the Educational Guardians.

All of the members of the board of education except Mr. Blackburn, were present at the regular meeting last night. It has been announced that Mr. Davis would not attend the meeting as he considered the board legislated out of office by the amended school law. He came in a little late however and took part in the transaction of the following business:

The report of Treasurer Buck showing a balance of $10,279.73 was received and placed on file. The petition of Miss Evans asking an increase of salary was referred to the committee on teachers and tevt books. H. M. Judson was chosen junitor of the addition to the Long school.

A notice that the board had been sued by Charles O'Connor tor $151.97 for work,

The committee on claims reported favorably upon bills amounting to $7,963.15 which were ordered paid.

Miss Julia E. Rennis and Miss Myra Laktue were elected assistant teachers.

The secretary was instructed to secure a tree for each member of the graduating class of the high school to plant on the high school ground on Arbor day,

April 22. A number of proposals of real estate for school sites were received and re-ferred to a special committee, consisting of Mesers. Points, Blackburn and Clark. Superintendent James was authorized to make the necessary arrangements to allow the teachers of the primary grades to attend a series of lectures on a new method of teaching reading to be given by Mrs. Poliard, of Chicago.

Owing to the prevalence of measles in the family of the janitor at the Castellar school the committee on supplies and the superintendent were instructed to make the necessary arrangements to protect the pupils of the school from danger of the contagion.

IMPRISONED IN A CAR.

The Administrator of Mrs. Watson Sucs For Damages.

Edward Allen, as the administrator of Eliza Watson, commenced a suit in the federal court for $6,000 damages against the B. & M. railroad. The petition sets forth that in January, 1886, Mrs. Watson was riding on the B. & M. railroad from Hastings to Juniata. She wished to get off at Juniata and so notithe trainmen, but they had locked the doors of the coach and refused, as she alleges, to let her out. She found herself imprisoned, and was obliged to wait until she had ridden two miles past Juniata before she could prevail upon the conductor to stop the train and let her off. When she did get off she found herself in a drift of snow. The night was cold, dark and stormy, and on her two miles walk back to Juniata, she contracted a cold which resulted in her sickness and led to her death. She left a family of three or four orphan children Her administrator sues for $5,000 damages on account of her death, and $1,000 additional, the amount of her doctor's

THE NEW POSTMASTER.

He Says That the Reports of the Pres-ident's III Health Are False. Mr. C. V. Gallagher, the recently appointed postmaster, who has just returned from his eastern trip, says that he met President Cleveland while he was in Washington, "I had a delightful cha with Mr. Cleveland," said Mr. Gallagher, "and was much impressed with him. He is looking in splendid health. All these reports about his impending ill health are ridiculous canards. They were invented by a physician who was anxious for a little notoriety. Mr. Cleveland never felt or looked better in his life. The president seemed interested in this city and said he understood Omaha was enjoying a great boom."

"I did not learn of my appointment until I reached Washington," said Mr. Gallagher in answer to another question.

'My little boy took up a paper in the hotel that morning, and the first paragraph his eye lighted upon was thhe one announcing my appointment. He ran gave the paper to me with the exclamation, 'Why, papa, just look here.' I sub-sequently called upon the president. when the news of my appointment was contirmed.

AMUEMENTS.

"THE MUSKETEERS."

The Boston Ideals' engagement opened last night with Varaey's charming opera, "The Musketeers." The audience was rather moderate and not noticeably fashionable, partly owing to the fact of this being Holy week and also because this is the third presentation of the opera here. It would have been a better idea to have held to the original bill, as the old standard operas are rarely given here. "The Musketeers" is one of the most entertaining light operas ever written, brimfull of bright music and fun. The funniest episode of the performance last night, however, was the rapid and undignified exit of a discomfitted scene shifter as the curtain rose on the third act. Even the orchestra was surprised out of its usual apathy and joined with out of its usual aparty and joined with the audience in an audible snicker. Marie Stone, as Simone, sang with all the sweetness and brilliancy of former days. Her waltz song in the last act was particularly taking. She was recalled and received an elaborate flower piece. McDonald was as handsome and clever as ever as the captain of the Musketeers Karl took the part of De Solanges this time and did capably. The part of Marie de Pontcourlay was attempted by Miss Harriet Avery, a girl with a high rasping voice that rattled and ran off the track. She lost connection with the orchestra entirely in her first solo, but that element of the audience that finds an outlet for surplus energy in hand clapping kindly gave her an encore. She with less kind-ness repeated the song. Miss Mena Cleary as Louise sang sweetly and acted with a good deal of chic. J. C. Miron, Hazel Blake, Gertie Colby and Florence Reed were all deserving of mention. To-night the "Daughter of the Regiment" will be given in superb style according to Manager Foster.
ROBSON & CRANE.

Robson at Crane will appear at Boyd's on Friday, Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening, April 15 and 16. Stewart's Telephone Bill. The Nebraska Telephone company commenced suit in the district court yesterday against John T. Stewart and Stewart Brothers, of Council Bluffs for the collection of a bill of $565.40 for telephone service from July 1, 1883, to March 1887. John T. Stewart, the principal defendant is the wealthy Council Bluffs pork packer. The bringing of this suit against him is only, a step in a litigation which has been going on between the parties to this suit for several years. In 1883 the telephone combany removed the telephone from Mr. Stewart's private office, because, as the company alleged, he told the operator at central to migrate to sheel and failed to couch his remark in dislocation language. in diplomatic language. Stewart com-menced an action in damages which has never been finally disposed of and is one of the causes of the present suit.

Five Hundred Lost.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy has an important and weighty contract on its hands in the matter of the fast mail. When it misses connections it loses $500. The Union Pacific train west bound last night, No. 1, did not wait and the "Q" consequently loses the $500 forfeit.

Saved From the Penltentlary. H. E. Day, the embezzling agent of George S. Mack, who was arrested on a charge of embezziing from his employer, and bound over to the district court, was brought before Police Judge Stenberg yesterday afternoon.
