Next Monday evening Excelsior lodge, No. 259, A. F. and A. M., will hold their annual election of officers.

C All ladies who failed to visit the millin-ery opening last evening should call this evening, it being the closing night. H.

Governor Larrabee was here yesterday meeting with the trustees of the institution for the deaf and dumb, and examining the condition of affairs, which seem in all respects satisfactory.

The Alphine choir company went to Sloux City yesterday morning. Their entertainment here was a very pleasing one and the company certainly merits larger houses than greeted it here.

A table of Easter novelties and decorations just from New York and Boston will be presided over by several little girls of the Congregational Sunday school at the festival Saturday night.

Last evening an omnibus belonging to Lewis & Arndt lost a burr off the front axle and in front of the Phœnix the wheel came off, shaking up the passen-gers and breaking the tongue of the 'bus.

A change has been made in the arrangements for the funeral of the late Joseph Probstele. The funeral will take Danforth?' place Sunday afternoon at 20'clock at the residence of his nephew Frank Riss, No. 410 north Sixth street.

At the close of the prayer service in the Baptist chapel Wednesday evening there was a quiet little wednesday evening tracting parties being Charles A. Smoth-ers and Mary H. Brooks, both of this city, Rev. Dr. Cooley officiated.

The Catholic choir is preparing some special music for the services at 10:30 Easter morning at that church. Mr. Forrest, who is connected with the People's store, will assist. He has a tenor voice of rare sweetness, and although a comparative stranger, is fast becoming a favorite in musical circles.

During the night some one or ones judge smpathized with her, told her that it was no fit place to keep a lady, for there had been so many drunks locked up there that the air was full of snakes and other frightfuls. He would let her go to a nice boarding house for ten days, and sent an officer with her to show her the way to the Hotel O'Neill.

A BRILLIANT OPENING. Friedman's Spring Display of Millinery and Fancy Goods. The well known establishment of H. Friedman was last evening thronged with cager admirers of the display of new spring goods. One of the large show windows was devoted entirely to a wonderful display of hats, while the other was filled with ladies' underwear. The interior of the store was a blaze of light and beauty. Laces, ribbons, feathers and flowers, bonnets and velvets, orna-ments and novelties, fancy articles, a bewildering variety of goods, charm-ingly arranged made the place almost a ingly arranged made the place almost a fairy bower, save that in magnitude it exceeded the limits generally conceded as belonging to the tiny creatures of en-chanted land. In the spring opening Mr. Friedman has certainly surpassed all former efforts even. The display is one which would he creditable to the leading millinery establishment of a metropolis. The millinery de-partment was especially thronged, there being almost a crush there, the ladies all eager to see the numerous and beautiful bonnets and hats there dis-played. Mrs. Mitchell, who has charge of this department, was justly the reof this department, was justly the re-cipient of many compliments last evening on her taste of selection and arrangement. The evening did not suffice to en-able all who desired an opportunity of inspecting the display, and the opening will continue to-day and this evening.

suggestion is made that these three aldermen should explain to the citizens there gathered why they refuse to vote for the ordinance. Alderman Hammer is not in the city, having gone on busi-ness to Wisconsin. The two others might voice his views, however. For the benefit of the citizens the BEE publishes the following statement, it being the height reached by the Missouri river during the late rise. The statement is from the report of Manager Birkin-bine, of the waterworks company, as taken at 6 o'clock each morning. The figures indicate the height above low water mark. "I don't blame Danforth for opposing the Tenth avenue ordinance. The old man has an idea that it would hurt his Broadway property. He has put up a water mark: block of buildings with a belief that the Broadway dummy depot would always be there to help his property. Now he thinks that this ordinance is the opening wedge for a change by which his prop-..... erty will not be so valuable. It doesn't make any difference whether his fear is well founded or not, so long as he feels that way he ain't to be blamed for voting

Third ward school house. Their purpose is not known but the tracks found in the morning indicated that they were men. The janitor lives in the rear of the build-ing, but strangely enough he heard no noise and there seems to have been nothing taken and no mischief done beyond the breaking of the glass.

Alderman Keller is reported as saying yesterday that if a majority of his constituents would sign a petition asking him to vote for the Tenth avenue ordi-nance he would do so. Such a petition can readily be secured for him, but it seems it ought not to be necessary for an alderman to take a vote of his ward every time a question comes up for him to de-cide upon. He ought to know pretty well the feelings of the public, without such a petition on a matter of this kind.

Among the most prominent in the move for the Tenth avenue project has been Mr. Lucius Wells. This fact was well known, and with the fact fully bewell known, and with the fact fully be-fore the people, and his record as an en-thu siastic supporter of the enterprise, he was nominated for alderman at large by both political parties, was elected unan-imously, and virtually upon this issue. With this expression of the people it is difficult to see how the three hold-back aldermen can claim to be acting for the people. people.

Short-Lived Sensation.

Yesterday morning the police were turned loose upon a sensation and spent several hours hunting it up and running it down. A worthy citizen, whose wife has had much trouble in securing help in the kitchen, made arrangements with a country girl while he was out on a trip. The girl agreed to come to this city and work in the family, and he wrote his wife informing her to that effect and telling other side suffered greatly. her that the girl would arrive on Tuesday morning's train. He posted the girl, who was only fifteen or sixteen, giving her the number of the house and telling her to have a hackman take her at once to the place from the depot. The girl did not appear here as expected, but nothing very strange was thought of this, as such disappointments are com-mon. The girl's trunk was brought up to the house, however, by an ex-pressman who said he knew nothing about the inl, as he had been given the check for the trunk by a hackman. As the girl had not appeared yesterday morning, there began to be some fears that she had been misled, she being a simple country girl, unused to city ways. The police found the expressman who brought the trunk to the house, and from him learned the name of the hackman who had given him the check. It was learned that the hackman had taken the girl into his carriage, but the girl's her to have a hackman take her at once 1014, DIK 2, BAVIISS & Paimer's add

It was at last learned that the girl had an ancle living in this city, and on arriving here she had the hackman take her to her un-cle's house. The uncle had found a place for the girl in one of the laundies, and she preferred that place to work in a pri-vate family. While she was thus set-tling down to the duties of her new position, the hackman was getting on one of his periodicals, and to put the finishing climax to the spree went over to Omaha. The two thus being accounted for, and their disappearance being explained the police wiped off the sweat, and sat down to talk over the uncertainty of appearances. Women Sufferage.
