COING FOR THE DRUGGISTS

Papers Issued For Four Dealers For Selling Liquor On Sunday.

THE ELEVENIH'S NEW JUDGE.

A Woman's Anxiety For a Lost Hushand-A Circular to Pharmacists - Happenings About the Capital City.

IPROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.!

It was understood yesterday that papers would be issued before night for the arrest of four of the druggists of this city, charging them with selling liquor on Sunday. The druggists in question had not the papers served on them at noon, but they looked somewhat as though expeeting something would drop. It was stated that stowed safely away at police headquarters were four flasks of whisky and one bottle of beer that was obtained as evidence for Sunday selting, and one who appeared to be informed thought the city had sure cases against the four. APPOINTED JUDGE.

Governor Thayer yesterday appointed James E. Cochran, of McCook, district judge for the Eleventh judicial district under the legislative measure creating new districts. This Eleventh district lies at the west of Judge Gaslin's district, in the southwest corner of the state, and comprises the counties of Furnas, Frontier, Hayes, Hitchcock, Chase and Dundy: Under the law increasing the judges there yet remains one vacancy to fillthat of the second judge in the First judicial district, for which position a small army of applicants are awaiting the decision of the governor.

On account of an unexpected large number of druggists asking for immedi-ate examination, an order has been issued for a special meeting of the board of examiners to be held in Grand Island Tuesday, May 3, 1887, to examine applicants appearing at the meeting. Notice is hereby given that in consequence of this special meeting no examination will be held in Omaha at the meeting of the pharmaceutical association next month. All the time of the board will be taken up in issuing certificates to druggists who were in business at the time the pharmacy law took effect.

A LOST MAN.

A lady residing at 1019 T street was a caller at the sheriff's office yesterday and was in a greatly agitated state of mind over the inexplicable disappearance of her husband, whose name is Hiram A. Woodward. The family have been keeping a boarding house, and Sunday morn-ing, after breakfast, the man wended his way down town for the purpose of selling a fiddle. The non-appearance of Woodward through the entire day and the night following caused his wife to be greatly alarmed, and as all has always been peace and harmony in the family the mystery becomes the greater. Officers were inquiring into the disappearance

The sale of the Capital hotel and the multiplicity of other sales during the past week has revived the boom with increased favor, and a large number of new and important transactions were recorded for yesterday as nearing consummation. One evidence of the stability of affairs is noticeable in the great number of new residences already in course of construction the present year. These, in addition to the new business blocks, give real es-tate agents substantial evidence to point to with the customary pride.

Sunday afternoon the police headquarters were telephoned that three men had been held up and robbed on the B. & M. tracks, west of the city. Two officers of the force went immediately to the scene and found the man they wanted in the person of a colored man named George When they attempted to make the arrest, the highwayman showed light and drew a murderous looking revolver upon the officers. He was arrested, how ever, without an exchange of shots and the purpose of the officers is to send him

The other half was quickly raised, and the suburb of West Lincoln now has a church of its

A New Telephone. Paris Correspondence London Times: I was invited to be present to day at some Brussels with a new apparatus known as the "micro-telephone push-button."
These experiments, which were made on behalf of the two telegraphic administrative departments of France and Belgium, produced a very lively impression on those present, and I believe the new apparatus to be the most perfect yet proof an ordinary electric push-button. When the button has been pushed in, and has made a sound at the other extremity, it is taken out and found to be attached to a long electric wire. There is thus exposed the telephone plate, which is extremely sensitive, so that where it is necessary to speak at short distances it is not necessary to come close to the instrument. For communication in the same street, or the same house, the operator places the upper part near him-self, and without changing his position ser, and without changing ins position he can speak with the correspondent at the opposite extremity. He is not obliged to put his ear to the part which contains the button and brings back the reply. Thus for short distances those who make use of this apparatus, the state of th speak in their ordinary tone without changing their customary attitudes. They may sit or walk about, and speak just as if those they were addressing were present. When great distances intervene, as in the experiment performed today, in which the speakers and hearers were separated by 200 miles in the experiment. arated by 200 miles, it is necessary to come nearer to the apparatus, but without being obliged to speak quite close

But what makes this apparatus the most successful of telephonic instruments is, that it can be made for half a crown, that is to say, for not more than the price of the ordinary push button. Now, as it can be fitted to the wire of the ordinary ring ing apparatus, it follows that it intro duces a complete change in our ordinary mode of intercourse. At front doors, in the interior rooms of houses, everywhere, in short, where the ordinary electric buttons are used, the telephonic button may be introduced. It will by this means be possible to give or receive instructions, to know who is knocking at the door, to communicate in short, by speaking as well as by ringing. On the advantage of this in every day life it is unnecessary to dwell. The railway companies are making experiments with this apparatus as a means of com-munication between compartments of carriages. It is being fitted up on trial in hotels. I have seen it at work at the door of a private house, where I was replied to by those within without their having stirred from their places, and without the door being opened. Between Paris and Brussels, this instrument, cost-

A Woman's Luck.

Chicago News: Back in the sixties Celia Burns was a society belle in Washington, D. C. There she was met by John Crann, who fell in love with and married her. After a few years of wedded life in Washington the couple came to Chicago. The husband was seized with a speculative fever, and decided to seek his fortune in the far west. His wife took his departure alone. A year passed, and Crann returned to this city to share the fortune which he had accumulated with his wife. In this, however, he was doomed to disappointment. His fair young wife, disheartened at his long absence, had ceased to care for him. Nearly heartbroken, Crann again left Chicago and became a wanderer. For nearly two yearsnothing was heard of him, but in 1880 he appeared in Washington, and shortly after his arrival there dropped dead upon the street. He his wife property valued at $30,000.

Soon after Crann left Chicago the second time his wife disappeared, and nothing was heard of her until yester-day. For seven years attorneys and de-tectives have been trying to discover her whereabouts in order that the fortune left by her husband might be placed in her hands. Six weeks ago the case was placed in the hands of Robert Bruce, the detective, of this city. He had made every effort to find her, and had about given it up when, as a last chance, he sought the advertising columns of the Daily News. He offered a reward of $100 for any information which would lead to be discours. to her discovery, and received a letter from Mrs. Cora L. Merton, an artist, at 1622 Wabash avenue, in which the lady said she could enlighten him on the mat ter. He called upon her yesterday and was told that Mrs. Celia Crann, the lady he was in search of, is engaged in the dry goods business at Portland, Ore. He will at once take steps to prove the identity of the Portland woman, and if it is found that she is the person wanted what remains of the estate will be trans ferred to the rightful owner.

Oystor Production.

Oyster production, although carried on to a large extent in France, is not yet a profitable investment. The reason is that the rates for transportation from the oyster beds are too high. In Auray, for instance, oysters are worth 9 francs per thousand; in Paris they cost more than 50 francs. An attempt is being made to secure transportation at less cost. C A movement is on foot in the North sea towns of Germany for pro-moting oyster culture along the coast, supported by government grants. At present there are fifty-one banks in the North sea, viz-: twenty-six at Fano, Romo and Sylt, and twenty-five at Fohr, Amrum and Hallingerne. In the Baltic, on the other hand, all attempts at oyster culture have failed.

A London correspondent learns from a private letter received from Vienna that a magnificent dinner service of the Dres-den bright yellow ware, only used for royal presents is being made there by order of the Emperor William for the queen, for presentation on the occasion of her jubilee. Each plate will have five medallions, having on them either allegorical pictures recalling memorable incidents of the Victorian era, or portraits of celebrities of the queen's reign. There are to be in all 288 large and 120 small plates and 72 dishes of all sizes, besides tureens, sauce-boats and fruit dishes. The centrepiece for flowers and fruit will be surmounted by a statuette of the queen and have medallion portraits in relief—white on gold—of the members of the royal family of England.

C. C. Woolworth, of Albany, head of the concern that makes postal cards for the government, says that at the factory in Castleton. Penn., they manufacture between two and three tons a day the year round. The largest order they ever litled for one city was 4,000,000 cards, or about twelve tons of paper, for New York. We use here about 6,000,000 cards a month. Chicago comes next, with about 3,000,000 cards in the same period. There are 150,000,000 postal cards manufactured annually. Two-cent postage did not lessen the use of postal cards, but checked the growth of their use for some little time. The check has been over-come, and the public are using more and more postal cards every day.

Trade Dollars.

No one knows exactly how many trade dollars there are in the country. Many were undoubtedly melted down in other countries, as in this country some prob-ably were when they ceased to pass current except at bullion value. There were coined in all $36,000,000, of which $29,-000,000 are known to have been exported, and only $2,000,000 are known to have been brought back. This would leave about $0,000,000 in this country. But the mints hold that more than $7,000,000 exists here, while the Financial Chronicle urges that the amount is $20,000,000 or more. Exports and imports of silver were not very accurately or reliably re-ported some years ago, but the return of hese coins has never been favored by their free acceptance in large amount. If not more than $10,000,000 are to be redeemed, the step will make little difference in the market.
