The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy pay car gladdened the boys yesterday. Major Dale, of the Salvation Army, has gone to Atlantic to open a station.

The popular resort is 'The Manhattan,' Mark Stoan had to pay extra yesterday for being taken to the police station in hack. The aldermen meet to-night as a board of equalization, and to-morrow night as Oscar Jones paid $8.80 yesterday for the privilege of disturbing the quiet of Broadway on Sunday.

Edward Haines is making improvements ou his Sixth street residence property, the amount being about $1,500. Justice Biggs quietly tied the knot on Sunday, uniting R. E. Worthing, a grocer of Omaha, with Adda Wetzel, also of John Jones, of York township, son of David T. Jones, died yesterday morning at his home, of heart disease. He was in his twenty-third year. A fine residence property fronting on Bayliss' park will be raffled June 1. Tickets are for sale by Smith Bros., agents, at $5 each. Get a home for $5.

The missionary collections of the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church for the year, as estimated by Rev. E. D. McCreary, will reach about $300. The city improvements, paving, sewering, etc., already ordered for this season will cost from $300,000 to $350,000. This will make the streets pretty lively. The move for a business men's social club is taking form rapidly, nearly 100 names having been secured. The membership fee is $10, and the dues $1 a month. Leave to wed was yesterday granted Robert G. Budatz and Anna Flischer, both of this city; also to C. Kemble and Elizabeth L. Kelley, also of this city.

The Married Ladies' Progressive euchre party will be entertained by Mrs. W. H. Burns and Mrs. C. R. Tyler, Thursday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Burns.

A man named Connors yesterday fell from the first floor of the government building into the cellar. His injuries were slight and he will be able to be at work to day. Hans Christoferson seems to be getting into numerous troubles. Yesterday another of the patrons of his bar complained of him for assault. The case will proba-bly be heard to-day.

Mrs. Mane is still at the city jail, and is getting more violent. Yesterday she smashed down the door of the room where she has been cared for, and was only quieted after a sharp struggle.

only quieted after a sharp struggle. J. Brown is preparing to change his Main street building into suites of offices. A hydraulic passenger elevator will be put in and other conveniences. The location of the building is central, and offices in it will be readily taken.

A peculiarly sad case of insanity was before the commissioners yesterday, it being Mrs. Rebecca Lewis, of Carson. Two months ago her babe died, and since then her mind has been breaking down rapidly, until now treatment and care in the asylum are necessary.

City Engineer Sostevin has been making surveys with a view of having the grade cut down on High School avenue, Willow to Glen avenues. It is thought that much of the present incon-venience can be easily done away with by a judicious cutting down of the

At the meeting of the Council Bluffs branch of the Irish National Land League, the following were chosen as delegates to the state convention: Rev. Father McMenomy, Rev. Father Healey, Owen Wickham, Martin Hughes, P. Sweeney, J. McWilliams, James Matthew and John Short

City Assessor Patton has about completed his books, and will turn them over to the city council to-night. The board of equalization will meet daily until the work is complete. There has been many changes of property and of values, and the task of equalizing will be greater than for years past. There are many protests to be expected.

A special invitation is to be extended to the ladies of Council Bluffs to visit "The Manhattan" billiard and cigar parlors, No. 41 Broadway at any time they may desire. They will receive the most cour-teous attention, and can see the celebrated oil painting that cost $500. They will be given a view of the brilliant parlors from a private room. Rudio & Yenawine.

'Squire Briggs is going to ask the county board, or the town board, or both to supply his office with a constable. Constable Ricketts was supposed to be self-assigned to Briggs' office, but now the gallant Dick is said to be frequently employed in other business, and paying little attention to the office. The 'squire is wearying of having to hunt up some is wearying of having to hunt up some constable every time there is a paper to be served. Ricketts is said to be running a lunch and lemonade stand on lower Broadway just now.

A. J. O'Brien and Charles E. Williams, of Denver, were among yesterday's arrivals at the Pacific.

Captain O'Neil and Major H. C. Barnes left last evening to attend the G. A. R. reunion at Dubuque.

Justice Barnett yesterday returned from a Sunday stay with his daughter in Weeping Water, Neb., where his wife will visit until Friday. She will then return to her home here, having been absent in Colorado since last August.

Mr. Chapman, of Vermont, who has been visiting L. W. Squire for some weeks, left last evening for Boston. Mr. Chapman, during his visit here, has formed numerous happy friendships. He is a fine singer; and in social as well as business circles, speedily becomes a favorite.

H. R. Stewart, the crayon artist, left last evening for Kansas City, where he expects to remain for some time. He is planning on returning here for a permanent residence, and will then open up a studio in Omaha, as well as have head-quarters in this city. He has established a wide reputation for fine work, and now has no difficulty in securing all the orders he can fill.

Meyers Accidentally Killed By His Brother-Annual Meeting of Congregational Churches--Fruit From Missouri.

The Neola Fire.

About 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning fire was discovered in the northwest end of the Farrell & Foley frame building in Neola. The discovery was made by a freight crew on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road on their arrival. The shrill blasts of the engine's whistle awoke the inhabitants, who turned out of bed, but all efforts to save the building were without avail. A telephone message was sent to this city for help and Chief Templeton, of the fire department, with five men, the steam engine and 800 feet of hose started for the hicago, Rock Island & Pacific depot at 3:15. On their arrival they discovered that no one had asked for transportation from the Rock Island folks and a long delay necessarily tollowed while instrucwere being waited for from the train dispatcher at Atlantic. Orders were finally received to take a switch engine and flat car, but while the switch engine was being fired up additional orders came with instructions to take a passenger engine as, the trip from Coun-cil Bluffs to Neola could thereby be made in better time, the distance being twentyone miles. To fire up the passenger en-gine the firemen were informed would take about thirty minutes. This, with what had already transpired, provoked the firemen, as the entire town would be hable to burn down in that time. When the engine was about ready, the chief, at 1:30 o'clock, received a message stating that the fire was under control and that the presence of the department was un-

Yesterday morning Chief Temple-ton, and a representative of the BEE took the 9:25 train for Neola J. Q. Anderson, secretary of the Council Bluffs insurance company, and Captain L. Kirscht, were also passengers on the same train. The former went to look after the losses, while the latter was interested in a building that was con-

There were four buildings entirely destroyed, and nothing remains but their charred ruins. The buildings burned were on the west side of Third street, north of Front street, and directly opposite where the fire of July 26 last occurred. The corner brick building of D. J. Farrell, occupied by McDonald Bros., was not damaged, except the wall, which the not damaged, except the wall, which the heat threw out a half inch or so. All north of that to Dr. I. T. VanNess' residence were destroyed. The origin of the fire is not known, but supposed to be incendiary. It caught near where Dr. Van Ness had a barrel of gasoline stored, just outside of Farrell & Foley's building, and continued to work its way south until it reached the brick building occupied by McDonald Bros.

In the Farrell & Foley building there were two families named Rodgers and Were two families named Rodgers and Homan. They lost all their effects, and some of them barely escaped with their lives. Peter Kilkenny occupied one of the stores below them as a saloon, the entire contents being destroyed. The building of L. Kirscht, of Council Bluffs, occupied by Minturn & Pogpe as a hardware store, D. D. Watson's photograph gallery and John Mueller's bakery were the balance consumed. palance consumed.

The insurance was light.

D. D. Watson loss, 400. No insurance.
J. Mueller loss, $600. No insurance.
Minturn & Bugg loss small, as most of the stock was removed. Insured for $600 in State, of Des Moines.
M. L. Rodgers loss, $300. No insurance.

M. L. Rodgers loss, $300. No insur-

Homan loss, $300. No insurance The entire loss will not exceed $5,000, although reported in this city to be a $15,000 fire. The insurance so far as ascertained does not exceed $1,500.

The residence of Dr. Van Ness, forty-three-feet north of Farrell & Foley's building, was considerably scorched while the grass on his lawn was set after by the heat. His home is insured in the Council Bluffs for $3,500. A few coats of paint being all that will be required in the way

All day yesterday the ruins were allowed to smoulder when ten or twelve buckets full of water would have destroyed all chances of an outbreak. PREVIOUS FIRES.

In 1882 a destructive fire occurred at Neola, which started in the same place as this one. It spread farther through, the loss being about $15,000. The volunteer fire department of this city went to the rescue and made the run on a flat car in twenty-one minutes.

On July 26, 1886, about the same time at night as this, another fire directly op-posite this one, occurred. Loss $10,000. The Council Bluffs fire department made the run in twenty-six minutes.

NEW WATERWORKS.

At a special election held last fall bonds were voted for waterworks, bat nothing had been done toward securing the same, as there was much opposition under the old political regime. On Saturday night at the council meeting a committee was appointed to look after the issue of the bonds and they had appointed to-day on which to come to this city and see about having the same printed.

The Grand Opening.

Last evening there was a crush of eager gazers and enthusiastic admirers at the People's Store of Henry Eiseman & Co. The mammoth establishment was a blaze of light and bedecked with beauty. The semi-annual displays have become already events of such interest as to draw many visitors from the surrounding towns, as well as throngs from the city itself. This time, however, all previous events were ecliused. The extended front on Broadway presented a wonderfully beautiful sight, all the stories being lighted brilliantly. The crowds were surging in and out of the doors of the main floor, and gazing at the displays in the great show windows of the various departments. at the displays in the great show windows of the various departments. The corner windows were fitted up like parlors with a bewildering display of elegant goods. One window was filled with elegant fans, another with Japanese fans, of the most novel designs. Shirts occupied still another, hosiery fitted another, straw hats another, boots and shoes another, and the last was filled with hats and caps.

The interior of the great establishment was made brilliant by numerous electric was made brilliant by numerous electric lights in every department. The Bayarian band discoursed sweet music. Cut plants and flowers were in profusion. Each department is, in fact, a store of itself, and in each a special display is made. The main entrance leads into the one containing dress goods, silks, satins, etc., and spring suitings and novelties in this line. The goods were draped tastefully so as to show them off to the best advantage. The department in the rear, down stairs, had a display of domestics, lawns, table linens, etc. Passing up stairs one finds displays of embroidery, muslins, underwear, embroidered robes, lace curtains, etc.

In the cloak rooms are shown numerous wraps, shawls, tea gowns and pattern dresses. The notion department was full of hosiery, laces; ruchings, ribbons, hand-kerchiefs, gloves, corsets, parasols, etc. The clothing department and gents' furnishing goods were also well displayed.

The store devoted to hats, caps and shoes was made as attractive as stock in this line can be.

Altogether there was enough for a Altogether there was enough for a moderate size, exposition. The only trouble with the event was that there were too many who wanted to see and too much that ought to be seen. The displays will be retained in place to-day and this evening, thus giving further opportunity for the public to gaze and admire.

Sad and Sudden. Yesterday the remains of J. H. Myers were brought here from Cozad, Neb., and buried here. The death was a great shock to his family, relations and friends, as it came without warning. He was out gunning with his brother. The brother in loading his gun found a cartridge to be a little large. It stuck, and in attempting to dislodge it an accidental discharge fol-lowed. Mr. Myers was standing near by and the shot hit him in the back of the head, killing him instantly. He was a son-in-law of J. B. Allen, of this city, and the remains were brought here for interment in accordance with the desire of the family, who formerly lived here. There were no services here except a prayer at the grave offered by Rev. G. W. Crofts.

Slightly Inaccurate. The physician who claims to be referred to in the BEE of yesterday as the "professional gentleman" in the baby case, states that he was attending the mother of the girl to whom the gambler's child was born, and had another doctor in consultation as to the mother's troubles. He states that the article referred to is correct in every particular except with reference to the child which was found in the wash basket in the yard of William Morris on Willow avenue, and the influence of the professional man being brought to bear upon the gambler to marry the unfortunate girl. The doctor, as soon as he read the article in the Ber, went to see if the child of the girl was still in charge of the person with whom it was left and reports that it is, and that the Morris babe is another child, in no way connected with the case he was The Commercial's First Editor. The Magazine of American History: Noah Webster is not so well and widely known as an editor as for his spellingbook and his dictionary, but he did signal service in the former field between 1793 and 1798. As school-teacher, as lecturer, as essayist on the English language and on American polity, he had made himself an intellectual power in the young nation, and thus came to be called from his law office in Hartford to the editorial chair of The Minerva. Such was the name of a new journal established in New York in December, 1793, as a strong administration organ—"Patroness of Peace, Commerce and the Liberal Arts." Mr. Webster announced, at the outset, that his journal would be the "friend of government, of freedom, of virtue, and every species of improvement." He carried out his promise, insomuch that he elevated the character of his fellowjournals by the influence and the example of his own, making it more than a mere mercantile organ, and giving and inviting discussion on topics of national moment. There would seem to have been contentention between the mana-gers and the proprietors of The Minerva about 1797, and it soon after was changed in plan, management and name, and known as the New York Commercial Advertiser; known as such to this day, in its vigorous and youthful old age.

Measuring Bunshine. Manchester Examiner: There was a time, not many years ago, when the sun might shine and shine with all its might and yet leave no scientific record of its presence beyond the effect of mere heat shown by the thermometer. Nowadays all this is changed, and there are scat-tered over various portions of the coun-try instruments which catch every gleam of bright sunlight and write it down in-delibly, so that by looking at the picture presented, we may see at a glance whether such and such a day was really fine or cloudy. The contrivance by which this is effected is exceedingly simple, consist-ing as it does of nothing more than a solid glass ball set on a pedestal, with a sur-rounding frame in which to place at a suitable angle a little strip of blue card-board. The glass ball plays the part of a burning glass, and when the sun shines brightly the rays are focused upon the strip of cardboard, where the effect is seen in scorched patch of more or less distinctness. As the relative position of the sun changes the scorch changes, too, so that at the end of a bright, sunny day the picture on the eard consists of a long the picture on the card consists of a long scorched line. By measuring this line we get a record of the number of hours' sunshine prevalent during the day. The instrument, although commendably simple, has one great drawback. If the brilliancy of the sun's rays be shrouded even to a very small extent by mist or by a thin val of cirrus cloud, the heat proa thin yell of cirrus cloud the heat produced is sufficient to produce a burn on
