Arrest of Two Fishermen Who, In Turn, Arrest the Officers.

Fishing For Fishers.

The sportsmen and others interested in protecting the fishing, recently organized to enforce the laws against the use of seines. Captain Anderson and two of his merchants police, Thomas and Martin, went out to Honey creek to watch for offenders, other men being put on their beats in the city. Yesterday Thomas and Martin arrested two men, J. M. Johnson and Charles Brewer. They captured with them several traps and several hundred fish. They took them across to a place agreed upon, where they were guarded by one of the officers, while the other two went over to look after another camp on the Boyer. At this place, it is said, there were five in the party, and they have a funnel shaped seine, or pocket, which, with the wing seines, takes in the whole of the Boyer, and the pocket runs back thirty feet. This is said to be so arranged that it makes a clean sweep of everything in the form of a fish that attempts to pass from the lake to the river, or from the river to the lake.

After making a fruitless search for these men, the two officers returned to the spot where the other one and the two prisoners were waiting. They found there also a constable from Crescent, who had a warrant for Thompson and Martin for trespass. It appears that these two officers on making the arrest had made the place agreed upon, firing two shots into the air. In taking the prisoners to the place agreed upon, they crossed one of McCune's fields. The warrant charged them with being trespassers. It seems that immediately on the arrest of the fishermen some one hurried to Crescent and secured out the warrant for the arrest of the officers. They did not know of Anderson's presence in the vicinity and hence had no papers for him. Anderson got his two prisoners in a wagon and the constable with the two other officers got in also. The constable supposed that Anderson was going to drive to Crescent direct, and so asked permission to ride with him and sent his own buggy on by the man who had come out with him, there not being as much room in it. Anderson drove around to where he had the captured seines and traps, and after loading them in the wagon, discovered that there was only room for himself and his two prisoners besides. The constable and the two captured officers would have to walk. By this turn Anderson was able to avoid further trouble, for it was expected out to Crescent to have a warrant out for Anderson's arrest and subpoenas for the two fishermen as witnesses, thus keeping the whole party at Crescent. Anderson got through Crescent all right, but at a mile and a half from the city a deputy sheriff and another man overhauled him. He refused to be arrested and said that he was en route to the county jail with two prisoners and must not be interfered with. After some parleying and bluffing, with a little prospect for a shooting match, Anderson went on his way with his prisoners, leaving the deputy sheriff standing in the road with the warrant.

At one point on the road a wagon load of fellows kept up a hot chase after Anderson for a half mile or so, but did not overtake him. It seems there is much feeling against the arrest and prosecution of these fishermen, and the sympathy of the community is with them. Anderson succeeded in bringing his prisoners safely to jail.

Colonel Daily, Marshal Guanella and M. B. Brown went immediately to Crescent to secure the release of the two officers arrested.

It is stated that one of the fishermen brought in Johnson—has boasted that he would never submit to arrest for this offense, and that he actually bluffed off one deputy fish commissioner by a shot gun, at the point of which he made the official march away. Those who are bent on the present prosecution declare they mean business, and that the law is going to be obeyed. Other arrests are to follow and there promises to be a warm time.

Rally of the Veterans.

On the 27th—Wednesday of next week—the entertainment of the old soldiers will occur in this city. This entertainment is to be for the benefit of the Cottage Home hospital, and will doubtless be well patronized by the public. Invitations have been sent out and are being received from all over western Iowa. The G. A. R. posts within a radius of 100 miles will nearly all be present. It is calculated that a tremendous crowd will be at Council Bluffs next Wednesday.

The G. A. R. hall will be a reception room for the visitors. The Masonic temple and the Bloomer building adjoining have been secured for the entertainment. Dinner, supper and lunch will be served in the latter building, to which the public are cordially invited to partake at a small consideration. In Temple hall small sprouting by prominent local and surrounding orators will be made. The whole will end with a grand ball in Temple hall.

As the entertainment is given wholly for charitable purposes, our people will certainly respond liberally and donate the eatables. The soliciting committee will wait on the citizens and take charge of all contributions.

The following are the committees chosen:

ARE LINCOLN POST. First Ward—E. J. Abbott, James Jacoby, Joseph Cromer, M. W. Clark. W. A. Johnson.

Second Ward—John Fox, C. S. Hubbard, William Roper, D. B. Heacock, H. Genheimer.

A. D. Hurlburt, a former merchant of Shenandoah, and later of Eugene City, Oregon, has returned from the far west and is now considering the advisability of settling in this city.

Ernest L. Smith was yesterday happily reminded that it was his birthday, his mother presenting him with an elegant watch, solid gold cases, costing $150.

A Mysterious Cigar Man.

A few days ago there arrived in the city a stranger giving his name as George E. Wallich. His business was selling cigars by the box. He claimed to represent the Red Rock Cigar company of Kansas City. He had quite a quantity of cigars, and started out peddling these, with a wagon. It was rumored about that there was something queer about the cigars, or that he had not the necessary license. The deputy collector of internal revenue began looking him up, and about this time the fellow disappeared. He left an unpaid hotel bill of two days, and this, with his sudden skipping out, confirmed the suspicions that there was a tinge of crookedness to him. It is reported that before coming here he was in Omaha, and was there arrested on some charge arising from a faulty license. The hotel men, at least, will take warning, and be sure to collect of him in advance.

W. C. A. Contributors.

To the Editor of the BEE: Permit me to make an explanation through your paper for the benefit of those persons who receive postals from the W. C. A., as some do not fully understand the plan under which we propose to carry on this feature of our work. We ask of these persons one basket of provisions yearly, or, in other words, should we not have Mrs. A— (one week previous) that the next one will be her week to furnish a basket, and we should be in need of flour. A sack of flour will be considered a basket, but not a ham another, five eggs, coffee and tea another, and so on—always calling for things most needed first. We heartily thank those who have responded and hope to hear from the rest.

The Cracker Factory.

The McClurg Cracker company's property, 90 feet on Pearl street and 113 feet on Sixth avenue, sold yesterday for $14,000, W. R. Stephens, a capitalist of Omaha, being the purchaser. Mr. Stephens says that $20,000 will now purchase the property if any one desires it; that he considers it one of the cheapest pieces of property in either Council Bluffs or Omaha. The sale was made conditional, the McClurg Cracker company to reserve the right to occupy the building for several months longer, until a site can be procured nearer the rail-ways. The company does not include in the sale its ovens and machinery. It appears from the announcement made that the company will be located in the city, and at the old stand until it secures a new location.

The Jurors Named.

The next term of the district court opens here May 9. The following is the jury as drawn:

The Corner Stone.

Next Sunday the corner stone of the new Catholic church is to be laid. The A. O. H. band, of Omaha, and the two divisions of that order in that city will be here, coming over on the 2 o'clock dummy in time for the services at 3 o'clock. Bishop Cosgrove, of Iowa, are both expected to be present besides other distinguished visitors. The various societies will be in the procession, the Sisters of Sodality, Catholic Knights of America, St. Patrick's Benevolent society and Ancient Order of Hibernians. The pupils of both academies will also be in line. The ceremonies will be peculiarly interesting and it will be the event of next Sunday.
