C. M. LAWLER'S RESIGNATION

The General Superintendent of the "Elkhorn Route" Going Away.

IMPORTANT RAILROAD NEWS.

An Embezzier Nabbed-Local Political Gossip-Confidence Games-The Remington - McCormick Wedding-General City News.

A Good Man Going.

C. M. Lawler, general superintendent of the Fremont, Eighorn & Missouri Valley railroad system, has tendered his resignation, to take effect May 15. He will accept the division superintendency of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad from Williamsport to Reading. He will reside in the latter city. Mr. Lawier's resignation was prompted by the continued ill health of his wife, which residence near the sea shore alleviates. For several years Mrs. Lawler has been obliged to visit the Atlantic or the Pacific coast and remain during most of the summer sea-

While in Mr. Lawler's departure the west, and especially Nebraska, loses one of the best of railroad officials, both the east and he will be the gainer. The division of the great trunk line over which he will assume direction is a most important one and carries more freight to seaboard from the middle states than any other single line. Therefore while resigning a general superintendency for that of a division he is in reality assuming greater responsibilities, and, doubtless with larger compensation.

Mr. Lawler has been a railroad man in the west since 1862, when he was trainmaster on the Quincy division of the Chicago & Northwestern. He remained in this position seven years and then became general agent of the same road at Milwaukce. After two the same road at Milwaukee. After two years in that capacify he was appointed division superintendent of the Chicago & West Michigan road, which office he held for nine years. He then became agent of the Wabash in Chicago, but at the expiration of a year returned to his first love, the Chicago & Northwestern, as general superintendent of the Sioux City & Pacific. When the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley corporation came into & Missouri Valley corporation came into existence and absorbed the Sioux City & Pacific west of the Missouri, Mr. Lawler assumed the general superintendency of Personally, Mr. Lawler is a gentleman; as a railroad superintendent he has few, if any, superiors. All who know him will be sorry to see him go.

The successor to the position made vacant by Mr. Lawler's departure is not yet decided upon. Temporarily Mr. C. E. Fitch, the general manager, will per-

Bell and George Guy, a board of appraisers yesterday morning passed upon the value of a piece of property about a half acre in extent, just west of the new bridge, which belongs to Lininger & Metcalf. This is to be bought by the U. P., so as to allow the road to build two straight lines of track between the new bridge and depot, where it now has but one curved line.

GENERAL MANAGER CUMMINGS. General Manager Cummings, of the Union Pacific, returned yesterday morning from the ea His business in Boston, he declared to a reporter was largely of a private nature and had nothing to do with the new depot or other local schemes of the Union Pacific. Aside from the fact that it will be speedily built as soon as the co-operation of the other roads can be secured, there is noth-ing to be said about the proposed union

REDUCING BAGGAGE RATES.

The ticket department of the Union Pacific took a step yesterday which will be of great interest to commercial drummers and the travelling public generally. This was to reduce the excess baggage rates from 15 to 12 per cent of the local ticket fare. That is to say, while hitherto it has been the custom of the road to charge a man who had more than 150 pounds of baggage an extra rate of 15 per cent of the local ticket fare for every extra 100 pounds, the rate will hereafter be but

THE LUMBERMEN'S MEETING.

As first announced in the BEE last week the lumber dealers of this city will to-day hold a joint meeting with the representatives of the Nebraska roads, as well as those which reach the Missouri river from the east. The object of the meeting is to secure a revision of the tariffs which now so discriminate against the lumber traffic of Omaha as to threaten to destroy it altogether. Speak-ing of the matter Gederal Freight Agent onroe, of the Union Pacific, said tojust these tariffs so as to help the lumber dealers without referring the matter to the inter-state commission. They will probably make the revision, pro-vided the Northwestern can adjust the the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley road, so that the two will not conflict. The Missouri Pacific may cut some figure in the case, but I don't think it will."

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

A Review of the Different Candidates and Their Chances.

The city campaign is now becoming an absorbing topic of interest in Omaha. The extension of the city limits and the redistricting of the city into nine wards have brought into the arena of local polities a large number of people who have her etofore been simply tookers on in the political Venice. While there is more than ordinary interest manifested in the old city in the 3d of May election, the residents of the new wards are showing a great deal of activity.

The relative strength of the parties in the new city is a mere matter of conjec-ture. In view of the rapid growth of the city and changes of voting population no reliable estimate can be formed. It is safe to say that upon square party issues the republicans would have 500 majority, but in a city campaign, where party lines are loose, it is safer to expect a close fight as between candidates who are evenly matched in popularity.

The republicans have called their primary elections for next Friday and the nominating convention on Saturday. The democratic primaries and conventions will be held the latter part of next week. There has been a great deal of canvassing done by republican candidates and their friends within the past few days, The skirmish lines have been thrown out in every direction and the ward workers are out in full force drumming up recruits for the coming fray at the primaries. The new primary election law with its very stringent pro-visions against repeating, ballot-box stuffing and fraud, has very seriously in-terfered with the plans and plots hatched by certain parties who were organizing a raid on the republican primaries, Never-theless, the contest promises to be very warm all along the line.

Just now the principal interest centers on the mayoralty. Captain Broatch has his forces well in hand. He has made a very thorough canvass of the republican clubs and his force of ward workers are beating the bushes vigorously and leaving no stone unturned. The only drawback to Captain Broatch's campaign is the fear entertained by campaign is the fear entertained by many republicans that his election could only be secured by a superhuman effort. Mr. A. L. Strang, who is the leading opponent of Captain Broatch, has not been entirely an idle spectator and his supporters are working very hard to secure a majority of the city convention and they feel confident of success. There is a quiet effort being made for Mr. C. A. Fried, who has many warm friends among our leading business men and comes into the race as an available

Other candidates have been spoken of as possible dark horses in case of a deadlock. Among these are Henry Pundt, Dr. S. D. Mercer, Fred Gray, W. V. Morse and Lewis S. Reed.

For treasurer three candidates are talked of: John Rush, John Groves and

Mr. Gelatte.

The candidates for comptroller are: E. The candidates for comptroller are: E.
K. Long, J. K. (Colter and Mr. Gelatte.
The most prominent candidate mentioned for police judge is Judge Helsley. There has been some talk of D. B.
Houck, and while Judge Stenberg has declared himself to be out of the received. declared himself to be out of the race there are some who state that he is in the hands of his friends.

The contest for the council is, if anything, more diversified and exciting than the fight over the nominations for city

The first six wards are each expecting to secure one out of the nine councilmenat-large. In the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth wards one ward councilman is to be nominated at the primaries besides the quota which they are to receive from the nine councilmen-at-large.

In the First ward Councilman Good man, whose term is about to expire, is a candidate for re-election. His competit. ors are Isaac S. Hascall and Mr. Hanley In the Second ward E. Stryker and Dan O'Keefe propose to contest for the nomination.

In the Third ward Dr. Hertzmann and Christ Wille are candidates.
In the Fourth ward Messrs, Welshans

and Mumagh are spoken of.

In the Fifth ward Mr. J. Counsman and Mr. A. V. Trott are the candidates. The Sixth ward will doubtiess present the name of Councilman Bailey for re-

In the Seventh ward Councilman Lee, who now represents the Second ward, is candidate for re-election at large. He is being bitterly opposed by Paul Vander-voort and parties who were opposed to public improvements in general and the Leavenworth street grade in particular. No choice is yet designated for ward councilman.

In the Eighth ward Captain West, of West & Fritchie, Andy Keer, and Post-master C. K. Coutant are all formally mentioned.
In the Ninth ward William Kierstead has already been nominated for ward councilman, and Charles Unitt is endorsed as the nominee for councilman at The democratic candidates have not sufficiently blossomed forth as yet to perses even as to who they will be.

BADLY SWINDLED.

Two Silck Confidence Schemes Reported to the Police.

Lewis Morgan, a man about forty years of age, who has, up to about ten days ago, been employed as a chemist and assayer at the Omaha and Grant smelting works, reported at police headquarters yesterday that he had been made victim of a rather novel species of confidence

The man who had victimized him was Nat Cattrel, a man about forty-five years of age, who represented himself as travelling for the Union Drug company, of New York.

On the 16th of last month Morgan was sent from Denver to Omaha, by ex-Governor Grant, to take a position as assayer and chemist at the local smelting works. On the day that he left with his wife and On the day that he left with his wife and children for Omaha Morgan was intro-duced to Cattrel. Cattrel appeared to be a pleasant, honest sort of a fellow, and the first impression he made on Morgan was a good one. Shortly afterwards Cattrell landed in Omaha, a few days after Morgan arrived here. He at once began to ingratiate himself in Morgan's confidence, and speedily became the trusted friend of the latter. He then proposed to Morgan that they go to New York together and estabthey go to New York together and estab-lish an office for the purchase and assay of gold and silver ores. Cattrel repre-sented to Morgan that there was no doubt but that they would make money in this enterprese, and the latter agreed with him. Cattrel represented himself as a man of wealth. He agreed to fur-nish the money for the enterprise, if Morgan would furnish the experience. The latter readily assented to this, and resigned a position at the smelting works. resigned a position at the smelting works, which was paying him $200 a month, to make arrangements to go to New York City with Cattrel.

About this time, Cattrel pretended to have been robbed of a big check, which he had received from New York. On the strength of his intimacy with Morgan he borrowed from that gentleman sums amounting to between $125 and $150. amounting to between $125 and $150. The last thing he did, was to induce Morgan to cash a draft on New York for $30. Yesterday morning the draft was returned dishonored—Cattrel was missing and Morgan realized that he had been duped. Marshal Cummings, who took the case in hand, has telegraphed Cattrel's description over the country and hopes to head him off.

Morgan describes Cattral as a man

Morgan describes Cattrel as a man about forty-five years of age, short and thick-set, not over five feet seven inches in height, with blue eyes and black hair. He is well dressed and a smooth talker.

Another confidence game, not so far out of the beaten routine of such tricks, out of the beaten routine of such tricks, was reported police headquarters yesterday by Sherman Gould, who lives at Thirteenth and Cass streets. He was met by a sharper who offered him a job as a brakeman on the Union Pacific, and sold him a key and a cap number for $6, and then sent him to caboose No. 96 on the Union Pacific tracks. Of course the young man failed to find such a caboose, and after consulting with some of the men in the yards discovered that he had been duped. He cannot give a description of the man who swindled him.

OMAHA'S MARDI GRAS,

Merchants Taking an Interest to Make It a Memorable Success. A very important meeting will be held tematic and reliable arrangements for a grand street carnival in this city, together with a series of other out-door entertainments, during the week of the Omaha fair and exposition.

This move originated last fall, and at its close it was determined to organize early this year to place the enterprise on a level with those of the larger cities where they are carried out on a grand scale. To this end, it will be necessary that the leading merchants take a prominent part and work for the success of the undertaking. A number of them, this morning, assured a BEE reporter that they would enter heartly into the plans proposed but they wanted the leadership to be in the hands of men who had both knowtedge and means to carry them to success. They would not encourage a cheap-john, rag-tag affair. They wanted the scheme to assume an air of respectability and importance such as the veiled prophets of St. Louis, which would attract thousands to the city. They also said that some of them had been to St. Louis and New Orleans and purchased a number of the floats there used, and they will be prepared to as-tonish their friends, with the display which these grand symbols would make on the streets of Omaha.

THE CIRCUS BUSINESS. How It is Affected by the New

Law. Charles Sivalls, advance agent of Cole's circus, was in the city yesterday conferring with the passenger officials of the Union Pacific concerning the transportation over the company's line of the train bearing Cole's show.

Mr. Sivalls was asked how the interstate law affected the circus business. He

"So far the new law has not affected our business to speak of. I have had dealings with all the roads, except the Grand Trunk lines and the Union Pacific, and so far I have not found the roads to treat us any differently from what they have before."

"Then your business will not be affected as seriously as the theatrical pro-fession?"

"No, we travel on a different basis from that of the theatrical profession. We have our own trains, and all we sewe have our own trains, and all we se-cure from the railroad company is the locomotive and the right to use its track. If by any chance the railroads should charge us as they charge theatrical companies, we should cer-tainly be forced out of business. We could not make money. The law is cer-tainly wrecking the theatrical profession. All over the large companies are cancel-All over, the large companies are cancel ing their engagements, because the ex-pense of traveling is so great. And yet, don't think this thing will st. I'm willing to bet a new suit that before sixty days the roads will be fighting among themselves over the new law and that by next fall theatrical men will have regained all their old privileges.'

A New Combination Planter. J. A. Cummings, of Crawford, Neb., as invented and applied for a patent for a combination planter that is destined to revolutionize, the work of the farmer. The Paxton-Vierling iron works of this city are now getting out castings for this planter and a large number of them will be placed on the market within a few weeks. This planter can be attached to the beam of any breaking or stirring plow and can be used for planting any thing from beet seed up to potatoes, and will plant in drills or in hills from twenty inches to three feet eight inches apart. The depth of the planting is regulated by a wheel placed at the point of the beam, and it makes the plow work easier with the machine attached than otherwise. The machine will be ready for exhibition at the various agricultural stores of the city in a few days, when Mr. Cumming will be pleased to give all information in regard to it. No farmer should be without this wonderful invention and should not fail to see it. The machine recommends itself when it is seen. Address J. A. Cummings, Craw-ford, Neb.

Brisk Opening of the Sale Yesterday Morning-The Prices Paid.

The auction of tickets for the Edwin Booth engagement opened yesterday morning in Boyd's opera house. D. M. Fretwell, assisted by Ed Allen, ducted the sale. At first the bidding was slow and cautious, but afterwards the purchasers grew less timid and the sate became more spirited. The two upper boxes sold for $25, while Guy Barton bought the proseculum left hand box for the first night for $40, while John T. Clark secured it for the remaining two nights at the rate of $35 for each night. This includes both the premium paid and the regular price of the box.

The highest premium paid for seats was that of George Canfield, who bid $4.50 on each of two seats. From this the bids ranges all the way down to $1 J. D. Riley, Real Estate Broker, Hast ings, Neb. References: City Nat'l bank and Adams County bank.

Pacific Express Advancing.

The Pacific Express company has so increased its business lately, that it has been compelled to rent the second floor of the building adjoining its present office. This will be connected with the present up-stairs office, 1215 Farnam street, by means of an arched door cut at the board of trade rooms on next Friday night. It will be for the purpose of organizing an association to make sys-
