LOST BY AN EXPERIMENT.

A New Pitcher Results In the Omaha Club Losing a Came.

HASTINGS WINS BY ONE SCORE

The Gladiators Start on Their Tour-Other Western League Games-The National League Season Opens-Sporting News.

The Home Club Defeated. The Omaha team was defeated in the third of the series of games with the Hastings team yesterday by a score of 10 to 9. The defeat was the result of an experiment, needless and costly, made by Manager Bandle in placing Goodenough in the pitcher's box. The visitors caught him for five base hits in the first inning, but were shut off with three scores by the excellent field work of the home team. Goodenough should have been moved at the end of the inning, but was allowed to remain. He pitches a wickedly speedy ball but has no mastery over the curves and loses his head without the slightest

The Omaha team left for Denverlast night. They will play at Denver to-morrow, Sunday and Monday, and also at Hastings and Lincoln before they return home.

Denver Suffers Its First Defeat. DENVER, April 28 .- | Special Telegram to the BEE. |-The weather was exceedingly warm to-day, but notwithst anding this about 1,000 people assembled at the ball park to witness the third Denver-Lincoln game, which resulted in the first defeat Denver has sustained this season. It was an overwhelming victory for the visitors, who won the game by a score of 18 to 8 amidst the heartiest applause from the spectators. The Denvers were simply outplayed. They were especially weak at third and were unable to hit Lawrence's delivery. Voss, who stched for the home club, was hit freely, Robinson making a home run and Rowe two two-base hits off his balls. In the first inning Mussey, while running to third base, came in collision with Tebeau and spra ined his ankle. His place was taken by Schneider. The Lincolns did not play the ninth mning, as they considered the score large enough for them. They left on the evening train for Hastings. Alfred Hazelett, loss on furniture and clothing, $500; insured in German American. H. L. Wetherald, lumber in shed, $600; no insurance. A. W. Parker, sheds, $400; insured. Losing & Phelps also had a horse and buggy burned. Sparks from an adjoining blacksmith shop are supposed to be the cause of the fire. The total loss is about $12,000, with an insurance of about $9,000. The Pacific house is gutted. Though the frame still stands it is most too far gone to be rebuilt. Powell had bought the building from the Kansas and Nebraska stage company.

Welcomed the Train. COLUMBUS, Neb., April 28.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The Grand Island local train was the first to pull up to the new depot to-night. A large concourse of citizens was on the platform to welcome the passengers that got off the train, and when the Norfolk branch train backed down to pick up the passengers, a loud hurrah went up from a thousand, among whom were several of the old settlers that welcomed the first passenger train at the old depot in 1866, when George Francis Train, Durant, Duff, Dye, Snyder and many others were on the train, that have passed over to the great majority.

A Complicated Legal Question. DES MOINES, Ia., April 28.-[Special Telegram to the BEE. |- A novel question of jurisdiction, involving the legality of the new judicial system of the state, is reported from Uskaloosa. Charles E. Emmons, a native born boy of Mahaska county, was indicted by the grand jury of this county last January, for the crime of burglary. He was tried by Judge Ryan at the last term of the tried by Judge Ryan at the last term of the district court, convicted and sentenced to ifteen months imprisonment at Fort Madison. His counsel sued out a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Severs for his release upon the ground that Judge Ryan was not holding a court of competent jurisdiction to try and determine the question; that it was not the district court; that the constitution provides that the district court shall consist of a single judge, while in fact three judges of the district were holding court at the same time in this county. It is understood that Judge Severs will not take the responsibility of determining the issue tendered, but will refer it to the full bench. In the meanwhile Emmons is in jail in that city.

A Lawyer on Spiritualists. New York Mail and Express: A law-yer of the city was by accident associated with spiritualists recently. He has attended a number of seances and told a reporter that the public would be surprised if they knew how many leading professionsl men attend seances and consult mediums. He told of a well known lawyer who goes to medtums to consult about cases, and when the reporter's informant asked the lawyer if he really believed in such things, the reply was that one must believe what one sees. During his investigations the reporter's informant met several clergymen at the seances. He had been told that one of the mediums here had sheltered a murderer several weeks, for whose detection $10,000 had been offered.

"I'll tell you what I did at one of the seances," he added. "It was where they produced what they claimed was the spirit of an Indian. I interrupted the proceedings by asking if I might say a word. The request was reluctantly granted. Then I told them that I had $100 in my pocket which I would make the medium a present of, on condition that I should be allowed to put my hands on the Indian spirit or any other of their spirits. My proposition was declined on the ground that it would hurt the medium if I placed my hands on him when he appeared as the spirit of another. When I allowed them to attempt to call up a spirit for me I had to pay the medum $5, and it is astonishing how many people are led to hand in their money. But when the spirit began to tell me about what happened 'before I was married,' that settled it, for I was not a married man. Before this they told me they had a communication from the spirit of Alice Cary, warning them against me, and once they got off some verses which they said were sent by the spirit of Longfellow. At the house where I was boarding there was a young man so thoroughly converted to the faith that he said he believed a medium could make a big book go straight through a table or desk without leaving a hole or a break. He told me that in the day time, at a scance, he had been lifted up, together with the chair in which he had been sitting, and carried to another part of the room by invisible

The Prohibitionists. Last evening there was a gathering of about sixty prohibitionists at the Buckingham. It was called for the purpose of ratifying a prohibitory ticket, which. it was thought, would be nominated by a committee appointed at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on last Monday evening. That committee, however, did not report till late. When the question organizing a prohibitory club was raised, long discussion ensued, without practical results. The meeting was unable to agree upon a man for president of the proposed club, but at length succeeded in selecting Dr. Allen as vice president. No other officers were elected. The nominations made were as follows: Mayor, J. S. Richardson; treasurer, J. F. Helin; comptroller, H. E. Grimm; police judge, Colonel Bohmans son; ward councilmen, Charles Watts and James Ellis; councilmen-at-large, T. D. Wilson, E. E. Wormsley, John E. Gustin, J. L. Richards, Rev. Mr. Savidge, John French and T. B. Baines.

Another meeting will be held on next Monday night, when committees will be appointed to attend the working for the ticket at the polls on election day.

Soirce Musicale.

The soirce musicale last night at Cortlandt, the residence of the Hon. and Mrs. J. M. Woolworth, must have netted a neat sum for All Saints' church. There was an overwhelming crush of the elite of every denomination; in fact, if a few hundred had absented themselves, there would have been breathing space for the singers and more satisfactory results might have been achieved all around except in a financial sense. It is a question who are the greatest martyrs, the audience or the musicians at a musicale held in a private house where the acoustics are necessarily faulty and the crowd unpleasantly dense. The singers are compelled to submit themselves to critical inspection with a depressing consciousness of being unequal to the ordeal and the audience expected "to smile and smile" their appreciativeness no matter what inner convictions may Last night the programme was un-usually fine, introducing as it did the soprano Miss Sherwin, and the violinist Johann Rhodes, assisted by leading local talent. Miss Sherwin was out of voice and sang to the greatest disadvantage in the smothering atmosphere, but she has been heard here before, when she did her-self justice. In spite of drawbacks she made a fine impression and universally pleased with her sweet and highly cultivated voice. She not only displayed great flexibility but saig with much feeling. Her numbers, 'facluding encores, were "The Swiss Echo Song,' by Eckert; "Aimee Moi," Mazurika Chopin; "Truhlings Bluman," by Belnecke, with violin obligato. Johann Rhodes proved to be an artist of rare excellence and carried off much of the honors of the evening. He is one of the most sympathetic players in his profession. He gave several selections, but the gem of them all was Chopin's "Nocturne" (in E flat). He was assisted greatly by the musicianly ac-companiments of Martin Cahn. HOW SEA CAPTAINS GET RICH. They Have Other Sources of Income Besides Their Salaries.

Boston Advertiser: It is often a source of wonder how so many ship captains amass large fortunes, build palatial resi-dences, and settle down, after a life of hardship and exposure, as the seers and prophets of their native villages. To be sure, since the days of high freights and vast profits of the East Indian trade, when a vessel frequently paid for her self in one voyage, fewer opportunities are afforded to owners and captains to accumulate fortunes with the rapidity of former daps.

Still there are methods by which the crafty commander of the ship is enabled to pick up a few stray dollars. The law provides that the captain of every ship shall provide a "slop chest," containing boots, oilskins, socks, under clothing, etc., to be sold to the satiors, including a goodly supply of tobacco. The law also provides that the profits of the captain from the sales shall be limited to 10 per cent. This, however, is rarely enforced and the captain disposes of tobacco that costs 30 cents per pound for 75 cents $1, and often $1.50. The other contents of the slop chest are also doled out to the sailors, with whom it is a case of Hobson's choice, at enormous profits to the captain's pocket. Captains, also, have a peculiar fondness for commissions, and when lying at a port the butcher, she ship chandler, and the bum-boatman all willingly agree to pay over a certain percentage of the money received from the ship for the sake of obtaining the trade. Money has to be hired to meet the bills; and here, too, the inevitable commission jingles in the pockets of the master of the ship, at sen an autocrat, on shore an object of adulation. Vessels in distress are often obliged to hire large sums of money to meet the expenses of repairing, and part of the interest paid and the large bonuses of the advances find their way into the ever-open pocket of the crafty mariner. As an illustration, the writer was on board a ship, the second mate of which was to be discharged at a foreign port. The captain, in making up the accounts ready to be submitted to the consul, found that he had been charging the mate 70 cents per pound for tobacco. "Those fellows on shore will get all his money, anyhow," said he, "and I reckon I might as well have part of it." Accordingly tobacco, was entered in the hill $1 ingly tobacco was entered in the bill $1 per pound, and other items of the account were increased in like proportion.

From this short account it will be seen that captains still have opportunities to make a little money "on the outside." The amounts made by some by smuggling soon enable them to retire from the sea and live a life of ease. Listen to Your Wife.
