A STRUGGLE WITH A MANIAC

John Sherlock Makes a Daring Attempt to Burn a House.

SPICER'S BRUTAL CONDUCT.

A Sad Case-Railway News-Belle Sanford in Jail-Marching to Bellevue-The New Bridge -Other Local.

A Maniac's Deed.

Rudolph Svoboda reported to the po fice yesterday afternoon a daring attempt which was made to burn down the house of his widowed mother, on Warren street, near Hanscom park.

It seems that this lady keeps a board ing house. Among her boarders is a man named John Shertock, who is employed in a gang of railroad graders. About 1 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Svoboda heard a suspicious noise up stairs, and going up stairs found that the house was on fire, the conflagration having started in Sherlock's room. She started to put out the blaze, when Sherlock turned on her and with the strength of a maniac, hurled her back, threatening to throw her down stairs. Her screams for help brought in some neighbors, who seized Sherlock and released his hold from the thoroughly frightened woman. The fire was quickly extinguished, though had it been dis-covered a moment later the house would have been wrapped in flames. It was found that Sherlock had thrown coal oil all over his room and on the windows. The most charitable construction to put on Sherlock's act is that it was the deed of an insane man. He is a man about fifty-five years of age. Some days ago he lost his wife. This, it is believed, has so preyed on his mind that he is almost if not quite insane.

NAT. SPICER'S BETRAYAL

A Crime Committed in 1885 Brought to Light by a Quarrel.

Before Judge Anderson yesterday Nat. Spicer was on trial for stealing a watch from Jacob Meyers. The theft is alleged to have occurred two years ago. During all the intervening time but little trace has been found of the watch. It is supposed to have been pawned in Iowa at the time and later in a shop in this city on Farnam street. It has, however, not been recovered, and but for a fortunate or unfortunate, as the case may be, lover's qarrel, the accused would not now be held for trial. Spicer and a woman named Annie Quick for some lived together as man and wife, and were so living at the time the watch was stolen. Some time ago they quarrelled and Spicer left her yowing never to return. About three weeks ago the woman went to Jacob Meyers and denounced Spicer as the man who had stolen the watch from beneath Meyer's pillow. Meyers swore out a warrant against Spicer, but not before the latter had time to seek and obtain revenge on his mistress. Learning of his exposure the enraged man went to the rooms of the Quick woman and assaulted her in a most brutal manner, beating and kicking her until she was unable to stand. To secure her evidence against her brutal consort it was necessary to carry the unfortunate woman into the court room, and the sight of his bruised and helpless victim brought out a little of the milk of human kindness in the heart of Spicer, and he cried like a child. Spicer will also be charged with assault with intent to kill.

THE NEW BRIDGE.

One More Span to be Erected-How

Through the kindness of Geo. A. Lederle, resident engineer of the Union Pacific company, a reporter of the BEE was given an opportunity to inspect the river bridge yesterday. There are fiftyfour men at work, under the direction of Foreman James Saguin. The last span will be commenced in a few days. The work of erecting it will necessarily be slow, but still it will be completed in time to allow the whole structure to be planked and finished by September. There will be two railroad tracks and two roadways for vehicles.

The services of two dummy hoisting en-gines on the bridge and one at the west end is constantly required to raise and lower the massive pieces of iron. The bolts which bind the plates of the girders are heated red hot in portable furnaces and then riveted while still glowing. Four men at work at this yesterday moved like machines.

The constant wind does not seem to interfere with the workmen at all, they having become accustomed to it. "It always blows up here," said one who had his hat tied on and was hanging by one hand on the bar while he wielded a hammer with the other. They also have grown so used to the trains that they mechanically step out of the way as the en-gine approaches and immediately resume their work as the last car glides by. Considering the constant liability of accident it is strange that more injuries are

A SAD CASE.

A Young Tinner Goes Insane Over

Politics. Dave Norris, a young man about twenty-eight years of age, who has been employed as a tinner in various shops of this city, is in the county jail insane. Several days ago he disappeared from his home. Signs of mental dissolution had been neticed by his friends of late, and when he disappeared it was generally feared that he had wandered away while in an insane fit. Search was made for him yesterday, and he was found about ten miles northwest of Omaha, talking on politics to a crowd of Omaha, taking on politics to a crowd of farmers, using a woodpile as a platform. His speech was wild and disconnected, and it was very evident that his mind was a total wreck. He was taken in charge and brought to Omaha, where he was ledged in the county jail. He was almost dead from hunger when found, having had but little to eat since he left his home. In his pocket was found a hard, dry crust of bread which had afforded some sort of sustenance.

Norris was a well known character about town. He has been of late very much interested in politics, and a friend of his remarked, yesterday, that in his opinion politics had turned his brain.

These companies constitute what is known as the right wing of the Second regiment, and are under command of Captain Mills. They will spend six weeks at the Bellevue rifle range, preparing for the August competition. The soldiers reached the range about 11 o'clock, having marched the distance at the rate of about four miles an hour. about four miles an hour.

DRESSING SHOW WINDOWS.

Something About a Branch of the Dry Goods Business. "There's a man," said a local dry goods merchant the other day, pointing to an individual walking down the street,

'who earns $2,000 a year at dressing windows." "Dressing windows?" inquired a reporter who overheard the remark, "Yes," repeated the dry goods man, dressing windows. He is a professional window dresser and understands his business thoroughly. He does nothing else but prepare the show windows and arrange designs in the interior of my store. His taste is such that he can take an assortment of silken, velvet and satin textures and arrange them into combinations which are at once striking and pleasing to the eye-somestriking and pleasing to the eye—something which will make people stop and stare. A well-arranged show window is a good advertisement. We can afford to pay well for a man whose talents lie in this direction. Their salaries? Oh, they receive all the way from $1,200 to $3,000 a year. Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s head window dresser in New York receives $3,000, I believe. In the smaller establishments however the work is not done by ments, however, the work is not done by professional window dressers, but by clerks who are detailed to do this in addition to their regular work. How long does it take to dress a window? Oh, from one to two days, according to the ornate degree of the design. The designs are generally changed once or even twice a week, so that it keeps the dresser busy all the time to keep the windows in attractive shape."

The Cable Franchise. To the Editor of the BEE: The city council has passed and the mayor has approved the ordinance granting to the Omaha Horse Railway Cable company, a cable railway franchise in some of the streets of the city of Omaha. This franchise is to be approved or disapproved by the electors of the city on Tuesday next. The only objection raised by any one to the same seems to be that the ordinance contains no conditions requiring the company to commence the construc-tion of its railways or to complete the same within any limited time. By reference to the ordinance it will be seen that this is erroneous, and that by the terms of the ordinance the company is required among other things to file with the city clerk its written acceptance of its terms and conditions, and within ninety days from the canvassing of the vote commence active operations in the construction of its roads.

The company asks this franchise in good faith, and if the same is granted will comply with all the terms and conditions of the ordinance, and it desires hereby through the medium of your paper to declare to the electors of the city and to assure them that if the franchise is ap-proved it will accept the same and the terms and conditions thereof, and wil within sixty days of such approval commence active operations in the construc-tion of its roads, and within two years from such approval complete and operate double track cable street railways in the city of Omaha aggregating at least six miles in length.

The ordinance grants no exclusive right or privileges. No franchise is granted by its terms but what may at any time be again given to another company, and which has already been given to the old cable company. The company simply asks the electors to approve a grant to it with conditions, which has already been granted to another company with-out any conditions or restrictions whatever, and believes that the electors will approve the same unless they are labor-ing under a misapprehension as to the terms and conditions of the ordinance, or the desires and intentions of the company. Guy C. Barton, President Omaha Horse Railway Cable Company.

The Pullman Vestibuled Train, That magnificent wonder in modern railway train building, which is to run daily between New York and the West as the new "Limited Express" over the Pennsylvania Lines, will be on exhibiting the property of the Pennsylvania Lines, will be on exhibiting the property of th tion at Omaha Union Depot from 9:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, May 3rd. The ladies, newspaper men, railway men, business men and the trayeling public generally are invited to take a look at it -- a series of new and meomparable Pullman palaces on wheels, connected by ingeniously constructed vesti-bules of steel, mahogany and glass, thereby forming an absolutely solid train, without an open platform from the front end of the smoking, bathing and shaving parlors to the rear end of the

It Will Cost $75,000, and be Erected on Fifteenth and Douglas Streets. Before a week shall have passed six of the oldest, most tattered and homely structures in Omaha will have been razed to the ground, thrown into heaps, and eventually consigned to the flames. Yesterday morning they stood on the north-east corner of Fifteenth and Douglas streets. At noon one of them had disappeared.

It was the rotten rookery on the corner of Fifteenth street and the alley north of Douglas street. The others will follow. These buildings, like everything which savors of antiquity, have a history of early life, competition, rivalry, and shames and crimes. The building which has disappeared was originally known as the Western hotel. It was built on the corner of Thirteenth and Capitol avenue, and vers are hearest to Message. and years ago bought by Messrs. Preston and Orchard and moved to the place from which it has now faded away. Like it, the other structures are about a quarter of a century old. All of these, six in number, including the build-ing inwhich Owen McCaffrey kept his saloon and the frame building east of it are being destroyed to make way for Byer's big structure, excavation for the foundation of which will commence on next Monday. This is to be a handsome buildon Douglas and Fifteenth. It will be four stories high, of brick, stone and terra cotta. The first floor will be occupied by the mammoth clothinghouse of Free-land, Loomis & Co., of Boston, Mass. The largest plate glass windows will light this floor, and on Douglas street will be a large entrance 12x15 feet, with a vestibule unlike anything outside of Bos-ton. The second and third floors will consist of offices and the fourth has been laid out with special attention to the suggestions of the Metropolitan club, which intends to locate there. The tower on the corner will be coated with copper, and the summit will be 100 feet from the payement. All the latest modern im-provements will be introduced into the building, among them being an electrical elevator, which will be the first one to be used in Omaha. The building is to be owned by Mr. Byers, of Leavenworth, and has been designed by Cleves brothers, architects, of this city. It will cost

ODDS AND ENDS.

Stray Leaves From Reportorial Note Books. "This building of Paxton's," said a policeman yesterday regarding the massive structure in course of erection on the corner of Sixteenth and Farnam streets, "almost blots out all recollection of the 'old rookery' which stood on that site until a couple of years ago. There was many an incident connected with that old, rotten, rat-eaten, vermin-loaded, malaria-producing court house which the boys' of the force occasionally recall. 1 shall not soon forget how near I came making a jack of myself, and perhaps doing an mjury which I might repent to my dying day. It was about three years ago, and the night was dark and cold. It ago, and the night was dark and cold. It was but a few nights before the expiration of the old year. I was standing at the door of the police station, and looking toward the 'rookery.' I saw through the west windows of the county treasurer's office that that room was more brilliantly illuminated than usual. I wondered at this, and, as I wondered, I thought I noticed somebody moving cautiously inside. I called one moving cautiously inside. I called one of the men and directed his attention to the discovery. He knew no more about it than I did. We concluded, however, that it was a burglar who, to disarm sus-picion, had raised the gas high enough to make belief impossible that any-thing wrong was being done. We walked down the alley to the lot, walked through the slush and cautiously crept up to the west windows, each with a revolver in his right coat pocket, ready to bring down any burglar who might be there, and before he knew it either. Well, we looked in the windows and what do you suppose we saw? The 'burglar' was John Rush, then county treasurer.

He was working over his books like a young clerk in a bank who is anxious for promotion. He looked awfuily tired. Outside the office rail we saw the place was packed with people. We then understood it all. Mr. Rush was keeping his office open toenable backward tax-payers to pay before the close of the year and thus avoid a penalty of 10 per cent. In the last days in the year thousands flock to the treas-urer's office and to accommodate them, Mr. Rush worked sometimes till after midnight, and that work the tax-payers appreciated, I tell you. Both of us crept away from the windows and agreed to never tell the men of the force of our midnight spotting. Cassio dropped a sentence in "Othello" the other night which, it is said. created a sensation among the 600 real estate men, more or less, who werein the audience. Cassio, it may be remembered, makes the declaration "I will go and sell all my land, etc." Some one made the unfeeling remark that when the curtain dropped on that act, twenty or thirty real estate men rushed in to Cassio's dressing room, each trying to secure the agency for the lots he was about to put on the

Which we employ to gain patronage, are low prices for good, honest goods. The people are quick to recognize this fact and our success so far shows it. Our salesmen do not need to use much persuasion to sell goods; our prices speak loud for us and convince the customer every time that WE HAVE NO COMPETITION IN THAT LINE.

Last week we received 200 more of our popular $5.75 Mens' Suits. We have sold over 300 of them already, and every one sold is making for us a dozen new customers. They are strictly all wool cassimere, of a nice, stylish brown plaid color, serge lined and well made. We will sell them at same price, $5.75. They cannot be duplicated by other dealers for less than $8.50.

We still have a fair assortment of Spring Overcoats. Two weeks ago they were marked down very low, but as we are very crowded and need room for our constantly arriving summer goods, we have put the knife still deeper into them. They must go. The weather is not vet so warm that you can safely dispense with a light overcoat. Here is an opportunity to get one at less than half price.
