L. B. Crafts yesterday sold to W. W. Bilger, a half interest in Rodefer building on Pearl street, making on the sale a handsome profit, and yet furnishing an excellent chance for investment.

The park commissioners spent yester-day forenoon talking over contemplated improvements of the parks of the city. This is the first time for months when all three commissioners have been together.

It will be seen by a notice in another column the well known firm of Wirt & Duquette has dissolved. Mr. Duquette will continue the business. Mr. Wirt will give his attention to the Masonic Insur-ance association, which is being built up so rapidly.

Charles Nicholson, a son of the wellknown fireman, was playing in Mott's lumber yard, when a pile of plank fell onto him, bruising him badly. His foot was most seriously injured and he may be crippled for life. Dr. F. W. Houghton dressed the wound and the boy was taken to his home on North First street. The new line of the St. Paul from Manilla to Sioux City will be in operation by the first of June, so that trains will be running from here to that city by this route. It is a significant fact in connection with this line, running as it does in a prohibition state, that the depots, buildings, etc., are being painted red.

The plans for having electric lights placed on the county court house, Methodist church, Masonic temple and the government building, seem to be going along well, except so far as the government building is concerned, For some reason Uncle Sam has made a rule that there shall be nothing of the sort on top of any of his houses, except the light

Articles of incorporation were yesterday filed by the Durango Fuel company, which consists of Joseph Knotts, John T. which consists of Joseph Knotts, John I., Baldwin and George F. Wright. The company proposes to establish a branch office in Durango, Mexico, and to deal in coal, coke and other fuel there. It starts in with $25,000 capital stock, which may be increased to $100,000.

A fellow giving his name as Moriarity was yesterday as a vagrant, he having been hanging around swarthy houses of still swarthier reputation and sleeping nights in chairs in hotel offices and in saloons. He had got to be such a nuisance that he was placed behind the bars. Some friends from Red Oak agreed to take him away with them on last evening's train, and on this condition he was allowed to

The board of equalization has at last got through its A. B. C.'s. They will now commence on D, and work down the alphabet. The aldermen find the work slow and tedious. A meeting was to have been held to be the first of the standard of the standard for the stand to have been held yesterday afternoon, but there was no quorum. Adjournment was taken until to-night. It is proposed to facilitate matters by having a committee chosen to work right through the day, and report in the evening such changes as are needed, and the board can act on this report, thus lessening the work of the board as a whole, and en-abling an earlier completion of the work than can be had by the present mode of working. This suggestion will be acted on, probably, at the meeting this even-

GOOD WRAPPER, BAD FILLER

A Slick Cigar Salesman Who Seems to Be Bad Inside.

DANFORTH'S NEW

Old Citizens Tell of the Wages Earned in Years Gone By-The Christian Young Men-More Library Books-City Council.

A Peculiar Cigar Man.

A month ago a man named Wallack was here selling eigars. He had quite a quantity and went about the town with a wagon selling by the box at such prices as to awaken suspicion. There was some inquiry being made by the government officials, and about the time they got ready to investigate him he disappeared. He jumped out of town so quickly that he forgot to settle his hotel bill. It was also reported that he got into some trouble in Omaha and that he gave bonds to appear there on the 1st of June. The landford of the hotel, learning the name of the house which Wallack pretended to represent, wrote the firm, but they replied that they were not responsible for him and that he simply bought eigars of them and sold on his own account. The firm promised to call his attention to the unpaid hotel bill and see if he would not pay it. A few days later a let-ter was received from Wallack, stating that he had to leave Council Biuffs in a great hurry, and in order to catch the train drove right to the depot, there not being time for him to come back to the hotel to settle. He had given the money to the fellow who drove the wagon and supposed that he had settled the bill. If he had not he would see to it when he came out to Omaha, which would be The teamster denies having received any money for the hotel bill and declares that he did not take Wallack to the depot at all, but left him near the corner of Main and Broadway, and that was the last he saw of him.

This man Wallack seems to get into a good deal of trouble and to cause a good good deal of frouble and to cause a good deal of trouble to others by his peculiar ways of doing business. About two years ago he was here. He had some cigars at the depot of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. The cigars had been shipped here in care of one of the banks, and it was evident that the firm selling him the cigars had arranged for the bank to take the pay for them before the goods should be released. Wallack is said to have arranged in some way by which he got an order for one of the two cases at the depot. He presented this, and got the case. By an oversight the order was not taken up by the railway man delivering the case to him. In a few days he presented the same order and got the sented the same order and got the other case. Soon after he had disappeared from the city the eastern firm sending the cigars wrote to the bank to have the cigars shipped back if Wallack did not pay the money. On inquiring at the depot it was found that the eigars had already been delivered to Wallack, and his sharp trick was discovered. The company set its special officers after him. They traced him into Nebraska, then to Michigan, and finally back to Milwau-One of the special agents of the company, having a description of Wal-lack, and knowing that he was in Milwankee, saw a man passing the company's offices whom he thought was Wallack. He called out, "Hello, Wal-lack." Wallack, for it proved to be he, turned about and returned the salutation. After exchanging salutations the special officer asked him to step up stairs a minute, as there was some one who wanted to see him. Wallack unsuspectingly climbed the stairs, and was somewhat taken aback when he found himself in the presence of the partment. He begged hard, and agreed to pay the company for the cigars and square everything up. It was all a mistake, but he would right it. He did so, paying for the cigars and for the expenses which the company has been to in hunting for him. It cost him over $200 to square himself for this little bit of peculiar business.

It seems that Wallack is traveling all over the country, and he thus far had shown no disposition to assume any other name, so far as learned. The hotel men and others will do well to keep an eye out for him and to make quick settlements and a long ways in

Days of Labor.

"I'm glad I'm out of the council," remarked ex-Alderman Shugart yesterday. "I guess I'm not strong enough to stand as much work as the aldermen are having now."

"I'm tough enough, I guess," spoke up Alderman Lacy, "say, BEE man, you think I'm tough, don't you?"

There could be but one answer. "I know what it is to work," continued Alderman Lacy, "and I've done my share of it. Now there's 'Squire Stone. He can tell you about my working. The very first money I ever earned in this town was working for him. I made a lot of flower beds, and fixed up all around his yard, and he paid me $2. That was the first money I ever earned

"I remember it well," said 'Sonire Stone. "I remember your telling me at the time about its being the first money you ever earned."

"No, not the first money I ever earned. It was the first here though. When my father and mother died I went to work father and mother died I went to work for a man in Savannah, Georgia, and as a boy I worked for him three years for $3 a month, I was back there four years ago, and the family were living on the same place still. They had lived there thirty-one years. During the war the man had tried to get north, but was never heard from again. Everything looked just as it did when I worked there as a boy, only they had gone more to ruin. They hadn't improved any."

'Squire Stone then added his experiance:

wanted to get him to hire me by the year, but he wouldn't do so, so I worked along several months, and when I got a chance to earn $9 a month I told him I wanted to a work or leave and then, do must have more or leave, and then, do you know, that fellow insisted that I had hired out for the whole year at $6 a

"You remember," resumed Lacy, that you wanted me to stay with you five years, and promised me if I would do it that you would give me a forty acre tract of land which you owned out here. I've felt like kicking myself a good many times since for not taking you up."

"I never worked for $3 a month, nor for $6," remarked ex-Alderman Shugart, "but I have worked for $13 a month. Yes, sir, I've carried the hod at 75 cents a day."

Such reminiscenses from the trio of old citizens, who have so prospered in ma-terial matters, prove healthy topics for thought among the young men, who are impatient and who think the world is not appreciating their worth.

Another Hotel Scheme.

Another hotel scheme, and a very prac ticable one, is reported. It is said that Alderman Danforth, "Uncle Si," as he is familiarly called, is planning on putting up a large hotel on his property, corner of Eighth street and Broadway. The plan is to build a fine four-story brick building running from the corner clear ### to his present block and then raising that block another story, making it three stories high, and using the upper story of the block in connection with the other of the block in connection with the other for hotel purposes. Some one asked him him how much aid he expected from the citizens. "Not one cent," was the reply. "If I build I'll put it up myself, and ask nobody about it, I don't want any help, and I don't want anybody concerned in it but myself." The BEE man asked him vesterday what truth there was in the reyesterday what truth there was in the re-port, and Uncle Si gave one of his pecu-liar laughs and replied: "Well, it's pretty hot to build notels, too hot. Wait till it gets a little cooler." That was as near as he would commit himself, but it is thought there is a good deal back of the report. Mr. Danforth has abundant means, and has large property interests, the value of which would be greatly increased by such an improvement.

Council Bluffs Council. The city council met last night. There was a large audience present. A large amount of routine business was transacted. The Tenth avenue ordinance was formally accepted by the Union Pacific railway as passed April 13, and the bids for building sewers were opened.

Petition for water supply pipe on Sixth treet; referred. Petition to open Avenue H, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets;

Petition for fire protection and exten-sion of Seventh street water main to Ayenue E; referred.
Petition of D. W. Bushneil, assignee, for settlement of contract with J. P.

Goulden; referred. Report of Harry Birkinbine on the condition of the drinking fountains was referred to water committee with power to

A communication from the Union Pa-cilic was received accepting the Tenth avenue ordinance. It was received and placed on the records

A communication from the Knights of Labor requesting the sewer contractors to give preference to the laboring men of ouncil Bluffs in the building of sewers. City Auditor Knnnehan asked, as one of the committee appointed, that the council take immediate action on this petition. A resolution was passed to that effect.

N. M. Pusey asked that the tax lien on 10t 16 block 6 be expunged from the records as judgment has been rendered against the city. The property is on Fifth avenue and the tax is for grading prior to the new law. There are about $20,000 taxes for grading on Fifth and Union avenues and other streets that are delinquent and if this request granted the city will loose at least $20,000; referred.

On the matter of compromise with the Globe for printing the Keatley compilation of the ordinances, the city accepted the same.

The bids for sewer contracts were then opened. The bidders were John Hammer, W. P. Wightman, Reagan Bros. & Co., John Thompson, E. A. Wickham and M. A. Moore. They were referred.
