To-night the "Lancashire Lass" is to be given by local talent at the opera house as a benefit to Rev. Father Healy. It should draw a full house.

Mrs. E. D. Hal who died at Crescent City on Monday, will be buried this morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will take place at Crescent cemetery.

The city continues quiet so far as stirring police news is concerned. There are a few drunks and disorderlies run in daily, but serious offenders are few.

The ladies of the Baptist church will give a strawberry and ice cream enter-tainment at the church. All are invited, and a pleasant evening is assured those who go. Sadler and Livingstone are daily practicing in their shell boat on Lake Manawa. They can be seen any evening just before sundown. Sadler pulls stroke and Livingstone bow oar.

tem, and an excellent chance was being given to test it. If it was formally tested The Pilcher electric light company yesterday filed for record amendments to the original articles of incorporation. The chief change is the adding of the word "poer" so as to enable the com-pany to furnish electric power as well as electric light.

In the district court the Wilson case still has the time, and it will probably obcupy the larger portion of to-day. The defense is now having its say, and the witnesses are being hurried along somewhat speedier than before.

The articles of incorporation of the Council Bluffs club were filed yesterday. The organization being completed, the menbers are now paying in their dues, and the work of furnishing and fitting the rooms will go right along.

Permit to wed was yesterday given Charles A. Baer, of Omaha, and Mary E. Jackson, of Mount Ayr, Ia.; Henry Fack-ler and Annie Rattermann, both of this sity; George W. Shoemaker and Anna M. Troup, both of Council Bluffs.

It is reported that two young men, Ed Kessel and Harry King, who have for some time past been pedding rugs about the city have skipped town leaving sev-eral creditors. Fred Stockman says he saw some boys building up these young trees last Satur-day, and he made them plant them again. The case of Kirscht & Co. vs Gray has been dragging along in the courts for months. The plaintiff filed a pe-tition in Justice Barnett's court for an attachment to secure a claim of $14. The writ was issued, and a number of horses and other property were attached. It is claimed that about $350 worth of stock was seized to secure this claim of $14, and since then the case has come up in the courts sevthe case has come up in the courts sev-eral times to get portions of the property released. Now the case comes before Judge Aylesworth on a writ of error, the chief point in which is the claim that Gray is not a resident of this county, but lives in Harrison. The case has been submitted, but no decision rendered. The costs which have accumulated now amount to considerable more than the amount of the original claim. amount of the original claim.

'Squire Biggs has been having an in-teresting civil case in his court. The in terest was maintained more by the ill-feeling as shown between some of those participating in the trial than the ques-tions involved. The case was that of Sheafe vs. Fat McNeill, a brakeman on the Union Pacific. The original claim was for house rent, and Sheafe garnisheed. There were counter claims, bu a judgment was rendered against the de-fendant. McNeill became so abusive in his talk to one of the attorneys that the latter appealed to the court for protection. By the aid of the constable, who threateningly waved his cane, order was restored and the case went on, but there were frequent outbreaks after-wards. The feeling exhibited made the trial an interesting one to lookers-on.

A "Catching" Display.

Funny men don't always have good times. Their fun is the death of them. Yesterday afternoon one of these jokers stood looking at the wonderful display of fishing tackle at Brackett's, No. 238 Broadway. He remarked, "Well, Brackett, that's quite a catching display." No one seemed to hook onto the the point of the pun, and the poor fellow looked heartbroken as he sauntered away. The display is indeed a catching one, without any joking. Brackett un-derstands making displays which will catch the eyes of passers by, but this time he has fairly outdone himself. He has an endless variety of fishing tackle, but the most novel attraction is the arrangement of fish poles, there being a hundred or more in the combination, and hardly two alike. It looks like a stock of itself, but Brackett calls them only samples of his stock. The BEE man's insamples of his stock. The BEE man's in-quisitiveness led him to ask prices, and he found they ranged from 25 cents to $20. The Burning of Chambersburg.

Emma C. Cooke, in The American Magazine: It would be impossible for me to relate all of the remarkable incidents which occurred among our friends and neighbors. A feeble old lady, living opposite our house, was seated in her arm-chair when a soldier entered and set fire to a work-basket near her. It was extinguished by her grandson and again kindled. She must have perished in the lames but for the timely arrival of her son, whose own beautiful home was burn-ing. He carried her out, and, placing her in a carriage, got into the shafts and drew it out of town. Another aged couple were detained by the soldiers in their house until too late to escape by the street, and they were forced to sit in the rear yard until the surrounding buildings were consumed. A minister, intent on saving his barrel of sermons, hearing of an invalid lady next door, who was alone, abandoned his precious load to the flames and just had time to rescue her. I've always considered that little act of selfdenial as good a sermon as any lost in the barrel.

Puzzling Creatures, Ain't They. Chicago Tribune: Girls all have a kind of secret code. You know how it is. You are introduced to a girl. She in-vites you to call. You call. She invites you to to a party. You go. She intro-duces you to a whole circle. That whole circle discusses you, calmly apportions you to three or four; they gradually re-duce themselves to one. Then you're lost. She wearies of you, and you get kicked out of the circle. Well, all of those girls have discussed every one of those girls have discussed every one of your young men friends the same way. This is what a cynical girl told me. I don't know of my own knowledge. But talk of trades unions and Knights of Labor! Their organizations dwindle into absolute crudeness when compared with the united order of marriageable girls.
