Miss Maddern To-Night. This evening Miss Minnie Maddern appears at the opera house in "Caprice."

The Boston Journal pictures her thus: "The artless art displayed by the charming young actress as Mercy Baxter, the untutored but captivating daughter of the rough country farmer, captured the audience in the opening scene, and she retained her hold upon their sympathics until the curtain fell upon the reunion of the husband wife. the husband and wife after a separation of eight years. We have rarely had a finer evidence of great natural ability rising superior to the conditions of art interpreting by means of the simple graces of womanhood, phases of senti-ment, of passion, of conflicting emotions that a more studious art might have portrayed with more finish; but with less charm, less delightful simplicity, less symathetic tenderness, less impressive truth than her acting in the third act of the play. Miss Maddern is still young: she is vivacious and winsome, and is destined to achieve a high position upon the stage. Not the least of Miss Mad-dern's accomplishments is her singing."

The Hambletonian stallion, Arbitrator, can be seen at my stable on Fourth or Bancroft streets, three doors south of Hattenhaur's carriage repository. He is a grandson of Rysdyke's Hambletonian on the sire side, and a grandson of Mem-brino chief on the dam side, the ac-knowledged principal products of speed and general purpose horses in America, and general purpose horses in America, and Arbitrator is no exception to the rule. He is a horse of great individual merit and speed, and for the purpose of convincing the breeders of high bred horses that he is all that is claimed of him, I will speed him a ten or twenty-mile dash on the road to 600 pounds' weight with any stallion owned in the country. Breeders of high bred horses will make a note of this and carry it in their hats, as the owner of these it in their hats, as the owner of these horses puts all the money he has or can borrow into straight horses, and not into books, pamphlets and wind, talking about their forty-second cousins' performances.

THE CHIVALROUS KNIGHTS.

They Observe Ascension Day With Pilgrimages and Refreshments.

STREET ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Success of a Local Invention-Miss Maddern To-Night-A Young Man Saved By His Sister's Tenderness-The Stolen Saddle.

Ascension Day. Ascension day was observed here by the Knights Templar in accordance with the programme and arrangements announced before. There was a large attendance of Knights and the mounted pilgrimages were viewed by the lookerson with great interest. It was certainly as pleasing a parade as ever passed along the streets of Council Bluffs. There was a goodly number of visitors from other cities. The services at St. Paul's church were very interesting and impressive. Rev. T. J. Mackey, who is also a Sir Knight, officiated. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers. On the pulpit was a large Maltese cross of cut flowers, and another noticeable decoration was that of the stained window which was donated to the church by Ivanhoe commandery. The front pews were filled with uniformed Knights, and the rest were taken eagerly by ladies and gentlemen anxious to see and hear. A most excellent choir rendered the musical portion of the service in a highly pleasing manner. The choir consisted of Mrs. Dillon as soprano, Mrs. Ward as alto, Mr. I. M. Treynor as tenor and Mr. Ed. Spooner as bass, with Prof. Lipfert as organist. Mrs. Dillon has a grand voice, and its clear, full notes could be heard in all parts of the church, and in the "Te Deum Laudamus" she did some most ex-cellent solo work. The other parts were well sustainted also, and the music was especially enjoyable. One of the most pleasing features of the service was when the knights arose, and, drawing their swords, raised them and joined in repeating the apostle's creed. Rev. Mr. Mackay's sermon was an earnest, clear and eloquent one. He chose as his text the words found in Acts 1:6—"Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the king-dom to Israel?"

He dwelt upon the fitness of observ-ing Ascension day. It was the diadem of all the christian festivals. The resurrection of Christ was rightfully com-memorated by the Easter day, but if Christ had simply risen from the dead to live again a life of sorrow and struggle, it would have availed but little. It was His ascension which showed that the vic-tory over death was real. It presented the great fact that there was not only a resurrection, but that there was a life beyond, an ascension into auother and better realm. The preacher drew a very interesting comparison between templarism and the church, showing that templarism and the church, showing that they were both based on the same truths, the same faith, the same traditions. It was very fitting, therefore, that they should join in the observance of this christian festival. The ancestorial templarism was accompanied by war in its dire reality. While the sword was not used now for the drawing of blood, yet the morals and the manhood had been bequeathed to these succeeding generations, and the same virtues were to be tions, and the same virtues were to be followed for higher and nobler purposes. Christ came to establish a kingdom, but it was a spiritual one. The church and this order of christian knighthood had a common foe to fight, and were striving to reach a like victory. They were organ-izations to be used not as an end, but as a means of helping build up that king-dom of righteousness which Christ came on earth to establish. The sermon throughout was strong, thoughts were closely linked, but clearly given, and the rhetorical clothing was too fine to be sub-jected to the crowding process of a summarized report.

After the services at the church the knights mounted their horses. The first pilgrimage was to the residence of Sir Knight L. B. Crafts, where refreshments were served. Then the pilgrimage was made to Fairview cemetery. As the long line of mounted knights proceeded along Broadway they presented a beautiful sight, and the sidewalks were lined with eager watchers. At the cemetery there were simple services at the graves of the fallen knights, Weirich and Ficara. Sir Knight Joseph Lyman gave the address at the grave of the first, and Sir Knight C. M. Harl at that of Ficara. Both addresses were brief, but the tributes were tender and belitting. The pilgrimage was resumed, the knights riding to Fairmount park, and after observing its marvelous beauty, they proceeded to the residence of Sir Knight W. C. James, where refreshments were served. This was the closing scene of the day, and all participants seemed to enjoy themselves participants seemed to enjoy themselves Lighting the City. There seems to be a good deal of dissatisfaction about the present manner and expense of lighting the streets, as well as the exhorbitant price of gas for private consumption. The council is entertaining proposals for street lighting, and some very low estimates are being made. The electric light company is arranging to submit a proposition at an early date, and it is not unlikely that arrangements will be made by which the business portion of the city will be lighted by electric lights, and the residence por-tion by oil devices. The council expects to have to take up the question at its next meeting, there being one provosal on which the company making it wants action at an early date.

A Local Invention.

C. J. Beckman is meeting with wonderful success with his patent fence and rail sockets. The patent was issued only last February, but its merits are so apparent that it has jumped into public favor. It only needs to be seen to convince anyone that it is just what is needed. It is very simple and inexpensive, and its advantages and variety of uses are too numerous to mention. Among the great advantages in fence building is that while the fence is as solid as the everlasting hills, yet any panel can be removed in two minutes. For repairing, where there is a broken picket or rail, or for gaining an entrance into a yard, this easy removal of a panel is very convenient. Another great advantage is that no matter how much wood may shrink or rot, the end of the rail is held firm, is protected from rain and weather, and made durable. Any kind of fencing can be put up with these sockets or locks. In gas-pipe feneing there is no need for couplings, and hence the rails in panels are perfectly smooth. The locks are made of maleable iron, on account of durability, and give a fine finish to a fence. In fact there are many such advantages which are to be seen at a glance. Mr. Beckman is energetically calling public attention to the merits of is patent, and it is pleasing to note that he is meeting with such succes as the val-iant, empty sleeved veteran merits. Although his patent is young, he has put up a large amount of fencing with it al-ready. Among the fences are: Six hun-dred feet at the residence of A. J. Crittenden, on upper Broadway, and 100 feet in front of his property on Lincoln avenue; 306 feet in front of the South Third street school house; 300 feet at the cemetery in Quick, Hardin township; 300 feet at A. B. Walker's residence on Sixth avenue;350 feet at S. Førnsworth's residence on South Eighth street; 50 feet at C. Haldene's residence; 285 feet for George Kerline, East Pierce street. There are other orders in, and all seem delighted who have the patent in use. Those contemplating fence building should look at hese fences, or communicate with Mr.

His Sister Softened. George R. White, who was arrested here for larceny in Chicago, was yesterday released. It seems that he had been living too fast there, and in order to raise some money had relieved his sister of considerable jewelry. The young man was repentant, and yesterday gave the needed information as to where the needed information as to where the jewelry was. On this being telegraphed to Chicago the reply was received that the sister would not prosecute, and that the young man should therefore be turned loose. It seems that the most the sister desired was to have her brother pinched and made to reveal what he had done with her jawels. done with her jewels.

ELECTRICITY!

DR. RICHARDS' Electric Bath Rooms and Office

Treatment and Baths Given Ladies by Mrs. Dr

Richards on Tuesday, Thursday & Saturday.

Electricity is a remarkable natural agent which has long been known and utilized as a remedy for disease and continued experience has enlarged its sphere of u sefulness and improved its appliances by which it is employed until its utility and virtue has become second to no other known remedy, in the treatment of certain forms of disease. This agent is employed here in all its most serviceable forms by the aid of large batteries, static machines, electric cabinet baths, electric water baths, the electric chair and electrodes for treating all parts of the body. We are prepared to do all that can be done with these great remedies. In cases of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Spinal Irritation, Rectal Diseases, Nervous Diseases in females arising from Uterine disorders and many other chronic and subacute troubles, it stands at the head of all known remedies or methods cure. A thorough study of it for years and the successful treatment of hundreds of cases, after all other remedies had failand the successful treatment of hundreds of cases, after all other remedies had infected, is sufficient evidence of its great worth and perfectly satisfies us with its good effects on the diseased body. In the great hospitals and sanitarians of America and Europe, electricity is leading all other methods of treatment. In all leading colleges the professors are teaching electricity as one of the potent remedies and a special chair is appointed in many of them. Many of the ablest physicians of all schools are making a specialty of electricity to the exclusion of almost everything else. This great remedy has often fallen into disrepute by being recommended and used by persons, and physicians, perfectly ignorant of its properties and powers, who would as often advise and use the wrong current as the right one or depend upon it in diseases for which it is not adopted. We are sure that when the people become educated in the use of electricity for many diseases with which the body is afflicted and find the great good therein, the medicines and patent righted nos trums upon which they now rely will grow old and dusty on the shelves. Electricity is nature's great remedy and to fully understand and skilfully apply it is our effort
