Charity-One Man Objects-News From the State House.

[PROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.] If prohibition Iowa desires, it can get some valuable pointers from the reform city administration of Lincoln as to the best methods of handling drug stores. It has been remarked heretofore that there is more reform floating around Lincoln the present year than enough to supply two or three cities the size of the state capital, and the cumulative evidence is never ending in this regard. The state law requires druggists to furnish liquors on prescription, and the city council has gone farther and passed an ordinance regulating druggists in the sale of spirits for mechanical and scientific purposes. This ordinance premises that all druggists are violators, and that every man who wants alcohol for mechanical purposes, or the good house wife who wants to manufacture her own spirits of camphor, are suspicious characters who must obtain a character from the city clerk through an affidavit, or visit the saloons for such spirits. It has just dawned upon many that such a law has been put in force, and a howl from both druggists and purchasers in these lines is almost invariably to follow. A lady who wanted her camphor bottle replenished discovered this new law yesterday and was obliged to find the city clerk and swear to her honesty of purpose before the druggist to whom she applied dared to furnish her supplies. The druggists have cause to be wary in this regard, for the city is well into the detective as well as police business, and these detectives are very anxious to mollify the little tin god mayor by mak-ing a record. For the benefit of reform mayors elsewhere who want to be very good, the form of affidavit and order required in procuring these necessities are characteries one to sign, and the usual jurat of the city clerk is attached. It looks as if an oversight had been made in allowing the city clerk alone to establish the good record of lish the good record of the applicant, and the blanks evidently should have been printed so that the affidavit could be passed upon afterward and approved by the lord mayor himself and his entire kitchen cabinet. The applicant, how-ever, after having established his character with the municipality and filed outh that he or she, as the case may be will not become intoxicated lingers with the city clerk, who issues to the appli-cant a character, which if not lost on the way to the druggists, confronts that func-tionary in the following form:

order of things departs homeward im-pressed with the magnitude of modern

The possibilities of reform under this new order of things is great, and intem-perance, department and crime will undoubtedly greatly decrease. We shall soon hear no more of camphor bottle orgies, and the light in the spirit lamp will no more go out at the bench because the workman is now un-der oath not to use the con-tents as a beverage. The newspapers will have no more horrible recitals of deaths of barbers from bay rum delerium tremens, and the public, at least so far as Lincoln is concerned, will be march-ing on in the most intense sobriety in the wake of the only truly great reformer of the age who can see a hair crossways on the body politic a distance of forty yards and legislate it into shape.

It is understood that these special findings in a reformatory way will be copyrighted and turned into the city treasury as a portion of the municipal assets.

THE STATE LOT SALE.

The sale of state lots continued yesterday, and during the early part of the day developed into a sort of a gift scheme to some of the squatters on the lots that spoke very poorly for Lincoln, and some of the bidders who seemed desirous to care for some of the alleged poor on the charity of the state. At one time this business was running fairly wild and all that was necessary to arise and say that a poor woman had built a home on the lot and ought to have get a lot was for a scheming attorney it without competition. The woman would always be conveniently at hand with as many children as the wife of the martyr, John Rodgers. The lot would be let go at one-fourth its value and the man who would object would be scorned at as an oppressor of women, and bidders held REFORMS OF THE REFORMER, back for the time. It became evident, however, that it was being worked that way too extensively, and a gentleman from Omaha protested against the state further caring for Lincoln poor in that way. He was reviled somewhat, but he faced the music, bid up what the lots were worth, and silenced the three or four howlers for poor women by calmity walking up and giving his check for $50 cach to three different poor women. It is needless to add that the advocates for the Hostery and Underwear at.

They were not built that way.

It is very evident that a number of ablebodied men, and men with property, who had squatted on these state lots and had escaped taxation for years, were shoving women to the front and having them get the property at one-third value while they remained discreetly in the rear. T. P. Kennard recognized the fact that Lincoln was being made a by-word in the character of proceedings, and he protested against its continuance with good effect. The sale during the day was fully equal in prices reached to the day before and competition was lively.

HE SETTLED. An Omaha Man's Mistake Discovered

-Inclined to Be Honest. Gregerson was arrested at his home on Dorcas street by Detective Dingman yesterday on charge of embezzlement which was committed six months ago. Gregerson was taken to the city jail, but was subsequently released on making such settlement and reparation as he was able to. About eight months ago he entered the employ of a New York manufacturing company and traveled through Michigan selling stump pullers. He had obtained about $500 for machine when he fell in with a party of convivial friends and with them went to Chicago, where in a few days he spent the money. When he sobered and saw what he had lone he was afraid to notify the firm and done he was afraid to notify the firm and consequently came to Omaha. Since being here he has worked steadily and has accumulated enough to purchase household furniture and care for his family of a wife and five children.

But a few days ago he went to an attorney in this city and teld him the story, placing in his hands a deed for real estate in Michigan which he owns, and instructing him to send it to the New York firm as part compensation for the loss they had sustained. Before they had received the letter, however, the officers in employ of the firm had obtained information that of the firm had obtained information that Gregerson was in this city. When the arrest was made yesterday the scene was pathetic. Gregerson begged hard to be allowed to settle and was released, as stated, upon making a part payment and giving his notes for the rest. He is an industrious man and will undoubtedly be able in a short time to clear himself of all obligation.

ular comedian. Roland Reed, will appear at Boyd's opera house in his successful comedy of "Humbug." The performance will be given for the benefit of the charity fund of the Omaha lodge of Elks, and a rousing house is assured.

NAIAD QUEEN.
After nearly three months' preparation
Arthur C. McKnight and 350 of the 800 pupils of his free vocal and elocutionary classes will present the long-looked-for fairy spectacle of the Naiad Queen. The inaugurai presentation will be to-morrow night, June 6, at Boyd's opera house, and it will be continued throughout the week. The entire corps of performers will not take part nightly, but will appear alternating nights, thus giving many of the little folks a chance to rest.

The entertainment promises to be of exceptional beauty and novelty. The opera was written for Mr. Mc-Knight at the close of his eventful career "Boy Orator," which was brough about through the instrumentality of the murderous bandit, Jesse James, and unwittingly he expended a fortune upon it in preparing it for the public gaze. The eminent artists, Paul Labouyou, of Paris, Fr., Emanuel Salvifredo, of Milan, Italy, and Robert Hopkin, of Edinburgh, Scotland, painted most of its scenery, which is said to be of rare beauty, and the costumes and unique mechanical appliances were largely the handswork of noted

The matter in question was a reward of $100 for the arrest of two fellows for stealing silk in Lincoln. Edgerton claims to have arrested both of them, but Green claims that the apprehension of one was after the fellow had been put in the jail, as a suspicious character, by Officer Green. Both of the parties arcoln. One of them has served his term, the other is still in the penitentiary. Ed-

Stephen Robinson has bought suit in the district court against his former partner, William McHugh for a settlement of the affairs of the partnership business. He says that both of them were engaged in the piling business, and that the amount of that done was about $14,000. The expenses of the same were about $7,000. Since the dissolution of the firm Robinson claims that he has been unable to effect a settlement with McHugh, although he has several times tried to do so and that the greater part of the proceeds were controlled by McHugh and that at least $2,500 are now due the plaintiff. The latter also states that McHugh has hired persons to mutilate the books of hired persons to mutilate the books of the firm so that a proper accounting may not take place. He therefore prays for a settlement and a temporary in-junction to restrain McHugh from interfering with the books, and an order that the same be turned over to the court for safety. Judge Hopewell granted the injunction, though no day was set for a hearing. McHugh and ex-Commissioner Knight went on the bond of $100.
