WHEAT AGAIN RUSHED UP.

Rumors of a Deal in July Corn Equal to the Corner in Wheat-Oats Moderately Active-Quotations.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 4.- [Special Telegram to the BEE.]-The boycott against representasives of the clique was not enforced to-day. On the contrary the crowd appeared to be glad of a chance to do business with them and on terms that would have been considpred painful yesterday. There was a rushing trade in June wheat to-day and a large business in July, the latter future being more or less neglected. The initial trades in June were on a basis of 90%c, which was the lowest point of the day. The shorts had been pumped fall of tips and pointers to the effect that June wheat would not sell again as low as 90c, and they were nervous in conse guence. The score on the subject of storage room did not allay the apprehensions of the bears, and they were again heard to lift their voices against a possible corner in elevator capacity. The nearest any of them came to devising a plan for making two bushels of wheat go into the space usually occupied by one bushel was to propose the shipping out of corn to make room for wheat, and this scheme is seriously contemplated by some should the blockade become a fact instead of should the blockade become a fact instead of an anticipation. The market began moving up from the very start, gradually at first and then faster and faster. Neither Irwin, Green & Co. nor Kershaw & Co. appeared as active factors in establishing values, but Rosenfeld & Co. were in the pit. They were sellers, however, and not buyers. It was the other parties who wanted wheat to-day. On every ½c advance they let 'em have anywhere from 150,000 to 250,000 bushels, and their overtures were gratefully, not to say eagerly, met. From 90½c June advanced to Dic, settled back 1-16c, and went to 91½c. Here there was a brief halt, followed by an aupward movement at a swinging gait to $2½c. Again the market fell back a notch, only to advance sharply to 92½c. The close at 1 o'clock was 9½c. It is estimated that during the morning Rosenfeld & Co. sold the shorts 3,000,000 bushels. July opened at 85½c, fluctuated between 85½c and 87½c, and plosed at 85½c. The more deferred deliveries moved within ½@%c limits and plosed at 85½c. The more deferred deliveries moved within ½@%c limits and plosed at shade higher than yesterday.

Corn opened quiet in the speculative market, but fair activity was developed later and the bussines transacted, including that of changing over near-by to more deferred deliveries, footed up a liberal aggregate. The principal feature of trade was the extraornimary strength opened in cash and June property, While July closed at the same price as last night, and more deferred futures ¼c lower, the seller month was ½c higher. There was considerable covering of July for the account of country operators and selling of August and September outsiders being now largely short, it is said, on fine crop prospects. The buoyancy in the cash market was attributed to heavy buying by a brominent local operator in wheat who is shipping out corn in large quantities in order to make storage room here for wheat held putside. In some quarters it is even hinted that there is a deal on in July corn that when an anticipation. The market began moving to make storage room here for wheat held outside. In some quarters it is even hinted that there is a deal on in July corn that when that there is a deal on in July corn that when fully developed will cause as many hearts to ache as the wheat deal. The July option opened at 39½c, or yesterday's closing price, and after touching 39½c sold up to 40c, but all the selling orders at this figure could not be executed. The market reacted to 39½c closed at that, with June quoted at 38½c. August at 40½ 40½c, and September at 41½c. Oats were only moderately active and the market averaged firmer, the July and August options closing a shade better than yesterday. July opened steady at 20½c, sold to 20½c, and closed at 20½c, with both August and September quoted at 20½c. The provision trade has apparently left its clow rut for the present. In pork the continued manipulation prevents a revival of speculation, but in the active line—lard and short ribs—trading has assumed a good deal of its old activity. In to-day's market the animation exhibited developed more lively interest, and yesterday's improvement was

Interest, and yesterday's improvement was in some respects more than sustained. Short ribs at the close showed a decline of 2½c but for the session of the board prices averaged 7½co higher. Lard ruled 5c higher and closed at an actual advance of 2½c. For each and June delivery pork remained at 123.00. The active deliveries in lard and short ribs were July, August and September, and for months subsequent to July the monthly carrying charges in both were 10c. terest, and vesterday's improvement was

FINANCIAL NEW YORK, June 4 .- (Special Telegram to the Ben. |-Stocks-The stock market was unusually active to-day for Saturday. At the opening the feeling was rather mixed and for a while it looked as if the bears and be able to precipitate another break. The fourth week's earnings of the railroads havever, showed such large gains that the shorts were frightened into covering, and a sharp rally ensued. It was reported that the earnings of the Lake Shore for the month of May increased $280,000. Chicago again bought the Grangers and quite a raily was secured in Northwestern, although St. Paul was in-clined to be rather weak. Richmond Terminal moved up on the announcement that the preferred stock would get a dividend next week. The coal stocks were all very strong, and the reorganization scheme for Jersey Central was regarded as very favorable. The principal bear factor brought out during the day was the bank statement, which showed decrease of $1,450,000 in the reserve. Immediately on this announcement traders began to sell the stock, but as only half an hour of the session remained a decline of only 4 to 4 per cent was secured. Except for the bank statement it was generally conceded that the market would have closed with a boom. The latest London prices were all a shade better and the feeling abroad was represented to be moderately bullish. The total sales were 135,335 shares.

The Kaiser and His Guards.
Berlin Letter to London Times: This morning, in spite of the continued inclemency of the weather, the emperor again went to Potsdam to inspect several regiments of the guards garrisoned there. The most interesting feature of the review was a cavairy charge delivered by the Guard Hussars, under Prince William, against the three battalions of the First Foot Guards. This splendid regiment is now armed, like most of the army, with the new repeating rifle, and army, with the new repeating rifle, and the blank cartridge volleys which it poured into Prince William's attacking squadrons to-day were something quite terrific. No body of cavalry, not to speak of infantry, can possibly live within the close range of such an incessant and cousuming repeating rule fire. That was the moral of to-day's sham fight at Pots-day.
