

THE FIELD FOR EVANGELISTS.

According to Dr. Helwig It Covers the World.

CHRISTIAN CHURCHES WANTED.

They Are the Only Means of Solving the Momentous Problems of Intemperance, Socialism and Anarchy.

Church Extension Meeting.
The church extension anniversary occurred in the evening. Rev. A. W. Lilly, D. D., of York, Pa., presided. Rev. E. F. Bartholomew, of Carthage, Ill., and Rev. P. A. Heilmann, of Denver, Col., assisted in the opening religious services. The first speaker was Rev. J. B. Helwig, D. D., of Springfield, O., who spoke substantially as follows:

In the anniversary exercises of this evening my remarks, in the first place, will refer to the extent of the field for the operations of the board of church extension; and in the second place they will refer to the cultivation of that field.

A congregation—few in number and feeble in material ability—and then also without a house of worship—and that congregation must necessarily have a precarious existence. But, on the other hand, a congregation, though few and feeble, but possessing a house of worship, and that congregation can hardly be disbanded or destroyed.

Our first inquiry is, "What is the extent of the field?" and the significance of the field which has been given to the Lutheran church, of the general synod, and which our board of church extension is expected to cultivate? And what, also, are the facilities for the rapid dissemination of the truths of the gospel in this country, such as are not found in the other nations of the earth?"

Notice for a moment, in the first place, the physical conformation—the form of the country in which God has given us our work to do. In Europe, for instance, the mountains occupy the central portion of the country, forming on either side rivers which flow in opposite directions. In Asia, there, too, the mountains divide the continent, filling from either side the rivers which pour themselves into widely separated oceans. There trade and commerce and the sympathies of the people also flow apart. But not so here.

On our North American continent the mountains rise up on either coast, and from these the land slopes into one great central valley, through which flow two great rivers, the Mississippi and the Missouri. These two great rivers, running into each other, make up a vast middle continent, more than a million square miles in extent. A country as large as sixteen German empires; as large as sixteen French republics; as large as sixteen kingdoms of Sweden; as large as twenty-four times Great Britain and Ireland; as large as twenty-five Norway; as large as twenty-seven Italy; fifty times England and Wales; ninety-eight times the land of John Knox, and almost equal to the whole of Europe, and all the Netherlands would scarcely make more country than Nebraska.

The field, then, for the operation of the board of church extension comprises every community where the people are destitute of the gospel, all over this land of ours. And in its moral and spiritual material or elements of people it includes all nationalities.

The establishment of christian churches with all that pertains to them, is the only way to solve the threatening problems of socialism and anarchy, intemperance, Sabbath desecration, and so on.

If we are to preserve what we now have, the various denominations of Christianity must be maintained, and the civilization of our cities than they have yet done heretofore. And we should never fail to remember that not individuals only, but cities and nations are saved or they are lost. It is the duty of every Christian to do his best to save the world, and hence also the duty to know and to supply the moral and spiritual necessities of the times has never been so great in the history of this country as that duty is at the present time.

It is so often said: How noble it is for the missionary and his family, and his little band of christians, to contend with the discouragements which come from worshipping in sheds and barns and shops, and in show rooms and dance halls, and so on, as the necessity of the case so often is, there is to be any public worship at all, it may be more noble on the part of the missionary and his little band of christians, but it is noble on the part of a great church to compel them to do so, it is within the ability of that church to enable them to do otherwise.

In such a cause our benevolence should abound. Our general synod Lutheran church may arise in effort, but as yet, it is as before God's judgment throne, she will wish she had done.

Dr. Helwig is an eloquent and impressive speaker. He was followed by Rev. W. M. Bannerman, of Philadelphia, who in his usual happy manner showed that the continued existence of the church extension society and its component board of church extension, growing out of the ever expanding work of the Lutheran church work. It was mainly inaugurated by the laymen of the church, and is justly interpreted as in harmony with the mission of the church in all the past history of our church. It adapts itself most advantageously to all the other activities of the church, and by past successes and usefulness justifies the prevailing opinion that, except the operations and expand its capabilities. This plea for combined effort should not, however, be regarded as necessitating or even suggesting the diminution of individual influence or effort, but adapting it as it is, with all its requirements, individual and concerted action can be combined for the happiest results through the established agency of this society.

Rev. J. C. Zimmerman, the secretary of the board of church extensions, in a five-minute speech, gave a few instances of the great material value to the church of the cause represented by the board. Mr. Zimmerman is the right man in the right place, and with his energy and ability to present the claims of his cause, the interests of the board of church extension should be rapidly advanced in the Lutheran church.

After the gathering of offerings for the cause presented during the evening the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Urb, president of the synod.

Rev. M. Valentine, D. D., senior professor in the theological seminary at Gettysburg, will preach the sermon to-day, and Rev. S. A. Orb, D. D., president of Wittenberg college, Springfield, O., will preach in the evening at Kountze memorial church.

An Afternoon Ride.

The usual service preparatory to communion was held at 2 o'clock. Rev. Eli Huber D. D., of Philadelphia, preaching the sermon. At the conclusion of the religious services at 3:30 o'clock the members of the Nebraska Real Estate Exchange provided about 100 carriages, each carrying from four to six persons, for the purpose of showing the city to the members of the convention. All except those who were left standing on the steps for want of room in the carriages enjoyed this diversion very greatly. The line of march was down Harney to Tenth, to Farnam, up Farnam to Sixteenth, to Kountze Place, where the procession broke ranks and scattered in all directions. The reporters were fortunate enough to fall to the share of Major T. S. Clarkson, behind whose noble grays they were rapidly carried over about twelve miles of the streets of Omaha, to various places of interest, returning in due time in the city for years, foot it difficult of what is now a wonderful city, and one that is destined and deserves to take high rank among the metropolitan cities of country.

THE NORRIS HOTEL.
There has long been need of a well-kept and moderate priced hotel near the St. Paul depot. E. F. Norris, the popular restaurant man, appreciating the situation, has secured a lease of the second and third stories of the handsome new brick block recently erected on corner of 10th and Webster streets, comprising over fifty large, well-ventilated and well-lighted rooms. These rooms have been handsomely furnished with new and stylish furniture. The entire house is fitted up with the softest carpets, which cover even the spacious hallways. The entire building is lighted with incandescent lights. A cool, nicely furnished reception parlor has been fitted up on the second floor for the convenience of guests and visitors. The spacious dining room and kitchen department are on the ground floor. The table is supplied with the best market affords, which is prepared in a palatable form, first-class food is employed and everything that can add to the comfort or pleasure of guests is attended to. Although scarcely opened, the guests embrace some of the best families of the city. The Norris hotel is what it is claimed to be, a pleasant home for families and parties wishing good hotel accommodations at moderate prices.

Just Hear Them Howl.
"Forty years ago my cabin stood right here where Mayne's office is, and from my door I could hear the wolves howling every night. Mark my words, you'll hear more howling right here before long."

"What! Wolves here again? Non sense!"
No, not wolves, but howls of rage from those who neglect to take advantage of Mayne's bargains. Just think of it! Acres tracts in Benson for less than good sized cemetery lots bring in less accessible neighborhoods, and splendid residence sites for $250 to $500, one-tenth cash, balance easy terms."

Those Street Signs.
The streets of Omaha are to be designated by signs showing their names and numbers—sometimes—but in the mean time strangers, and even people who have lived in the city for years, find it difficult to locate themselves in many parts of the city and the most prudent course to pursue is to step into the office of C. E. Mayne, 15th and Harney streets, where you will find polite and gentlemanly salesmen who are thoroughly acquainted with all the streets and alleys in Omaha and in the additions, as well as South Omaha and Benson, and while they are showing you the city they can point out to you some of the very choicest investments in the city. In Briggs' Place; in Orchard Hill; in Benson; in South Omaha, and all parts of the city.

He Was Excusable.
Paul Bently, the boy who was arrested the other day for driving off a horse and buggy from in front of the exposition, says he could not resist the temptation to drive to Benson and look at those beautiful residence lots that Mayne is selling for $250 to $500, one-tenth cash, balance in three years.

Omaha's Marvellous Growth.
This fact alone, unchallenged, that Omaha has to-day the greatest ratio of growth of any city in the United States.

It has the greatest ratio of increase in population. It has the largest ratio of increase in business. It has the greatest ratio of increase in value of real estate. It has the largest percentage in bank clearances. It has the largest increase in real estate transfers as shown by the abstract books in the office of the C. E. Mayne Real Estate and Trust Co.

The C. E. Mayne Real Estate and Trust company have in their office complete abstracts of title to all real estate in Omaha, which show that for the first four months of 1887 there was an increase of fully four hundred per cent over the first four months of 1886.

Persons desiring reliable information relative to the growth of the city and its future prospects and the best place to make investments to insure a speedy and satisfactory return, can do better than to call at the office of C. E. Mayne, 15th and Harney streets.
