THEY'RE ALL DOWN BUT NINE

The Members of the Board of Education Chosen Yesterday.

The Lucky Candidates-A Boy Drown ed-O. F. Davis' Funeral-Court News-Two Exciting Runaways-Local Notes.

THE LADIES HAD THEIR SAY.

The Board Election.

The election for nine members of the board of education commenced yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, and continued with but little excitement up to the hour of 6 o'clock last night. The vote polled was light throughout the city. The polls were held at the principal schools in all the wards, school having been adjourned for that purpose.

The excitement incidental to elections was wanting in all the precincts. The notable feature of the contest was the interest displayed in the matter by ladies, the number of whom, however who deposited ballots being fewer than it was expected it would be. it was expected it would be.

There was considerable activity at these polls, especially toward noon, when a strong effort was made in behalf of Conoyer. He received a number of republican votes The teachers had a carriage labled to denote that it was intended for their use, although but one of them made her appearance at the polls up to noon.

SECOND WARD.

These polls were held at the Hartman school on Sixteenth street. There was little activity desplayed about them, the republican ticket being worked with a great deal of success, by S. J. Broderick, secretary of the Second ward club, and several others. The only noticeable scratching done was in favor of Conoyer There were no ladies present as workers, although twenty-one of them voted during the day.

THE THIRD WARD.

There was an apparent lack of interest in the Third ward at least during the morning and the early afternoon. The number of ward workers was much smaller than usual and those present found but few voters with whom they could labor. The ladies' interests were guarded by two teachers who worked with a will and contract their shore of THE THIRD WARD, with a will and captured their share of

THE FOURTH WARD.

The ladies were out in full force in the Fourth ward. The polling place, at the high school was surrounded by carriages and cabs which had been used to convey the ladies to and from the place of voting. Two of the city teachers were on hand, and pluckily made an effort to have something to do with the making up of every ballot that was cast. The ladies exercised their right of franchise, almost without an exception, with a show of intelligent action that many of the stronger sex could have well emulated. In many instances the ladies came with their votes already prepared. When this precaution had not been taken most of them made up their ballots before leaving their carriages, aided in almost them made up their ballots before leaving their carriages, aided in almost every instance by the vivacious school ma'ms who were at work in this ward. There was a marked opposition in this ward to Secretary Conoyer, on the part of the ladies. "You can say," said one young lady as she scratched the Secretary's name for an elderly lady, "that if the devil was on the ticket I would vote for him in preference to Conover. All for him in preference to Conoyer. All the teachers are after him." Fully one of the votes were cast by the ladies.

FIFTH WARD.

The Fifth ward voting place was at the Lake school, near the new base ball park. Here, as elsewhere, the ladies took an interest in the proceedings and accosted the approaching male elector with all the assurance of an old-time political worker. Of the roles cast ten tor with all the assurance of an old-time political worker. Of the votes cast ten were ladies. The fair partisans drove about in a back gathering up votes, and went about with a handful of tickets, scratched and pasted according to the way they would like to see the election carried. The ladies were much more active than their co-workers of the male persuasion, and earnestly besought the ladies to vote their tickets.

SIXTH WARD.

of the male persuasion, and earnestly besought the ladies to vote their tickets.

SINTH WARD.

At noon fifty-nine votes had been cast at the sixth ward voting place, in the Long school building on King and Francklyn streets. About twenty of these votes were cast by ladies. The principal of the Long school took an active part in the canvass and electionered against Conoyer with considerable effect. A carriage was provided by the ladies marked "Teachers' carriage," and the ladies were driven to and fro in the conveyance. There was little interest shown beyond that evinced by the female voters, who pleaded with veteran partisans to put aside ancient traditions and vote independent of party. Whether it was due to the persuasive powers of the opposite sex or whether the veterans had come previously prepared to ignore party, certain it is that there was considerable scratching of the three tickets which were in the field.

Shortly after the polls opened in the Eighth ward a bevy of fadies stormed the voting place, corner of Izard and Thirtieth streets, and waited to deposit their ballots. They were made to wait until the judge could procure a copy of the new school law. Up went a protest from the glaxy of beauty. The ladies were indignant at this, as they termed it, outrageous endeavor to deprive them of the right of suffrage. However, a printed copy of the section was found, digested and pasted at the window. When it came to voting it was found that a number of the ladies be-longed in the Fourth and other wards. This occasioned another complaint, the fair voters saying they didn't see why they could not vote in one place as well as another since they voted every where for the same men. Accustomed as the sex is to having its own way, the members thereof at the Eighth polls had to go away to their own princincts. As elsewhere, the school teachers took aland in the election ering. But for the presence of the women the election would have been so stupid that the judges would have been tempted

There were few people at this precinct.
The majority of these were republican, but a few being for the democratic ticket. A considerable number was deposited for the nonpartisan ticket Mr. Feltons name being substituted for that of Mrs. Dinsmoor. The most active workers at the polls most active workers at the polls which were held in the Farnam street school were several of the teachers of that school, among whom Miss Stillwell and Miss Allen. Several other ladies and Miss Allen. Several other ladies were working among the residences in the neighborhood, endeavoring to secure the votes of the mothers they found there. An instance of the work done by these was exemplified by the achievement of Miss Stillwell, who saw a woman on the north side of the street. She started for her and brought her to the polls accompanied as she was by about six children. A man who was with her and who subsequently turned out to be the stranger's brother also deposited a ballot with the brother also deposited a ballot with the little woman. As the latter was about to deposit her vote, one of the bystanders asked:
"Are you a lady of family?"

Miss Stillwell responded that such a question was superfluous, and this became the sentiment of those present came the sentiment of those present when the heads of the little ones were counted. One of the workers remarked that the woman did not seem more than twenty-one years of age, and to be the mother of such a family was something remarkable. It reminded him of scenes in Utah, where young women with smaller sisters of theirs in their arms, accompanied their parents to the polls and used their brothers and sisters polls and used their brothers and sisters as evidence of motherhood, which entitled them to vote. As the reporter left the school an aged lady dressed in mourning drove up to the polls, and without allowing interference from anybody, deposited a non-partisan ballot.

The RESULT.

The total vote was an exceedingly light one. The polls closed at 6 o'clock, and in most of the wards the vote had been counted at 8 o'clock. The total vote for each candidate was as follows:

F. W. Gray 2,197, J. H. McClure 1,936, H. T. Clarke 1,872, Edward Parmalee 1,855, Morris Morrison 1,830, W. A. Kelley 1,783, D. V. Sholes 1,758, S. K. Felton 1,766, Dr. Saville 1,745, Chas. Conoyer 1,107, J. J. Points 1,035, J. L. Lovett 1,006, John Wignian 997 J. H. Peabody 929, Jerry Whalen. 926, E. G. Ryley 853, William Sievers 747, James Stephenson 520, Truman Buck 552, A. P. Tukey 485, Augustus Pratt 458, V. L. Vodica 458, Mrs. Dinsmoor 442, Thomas Creigh 387, J. S. Gibson, 361. Of these, the nine first named, Messrs. Gray, McClure, Clarke, Parmalee, Morrison, Kelley, Sholes, Felton and Saville are duly elected members of the new school board.

RUNAWAY CARS.

A Brace of Flights Which Narrowly Escaped Fatalities.

Yesterday morning there was a series of runaways on Farnam street, such as never took place in this city before. When a short distance east of the brow of the hill coming east, the brake on the Park avenue car, No. 21, failed of effect upon the wheels because of the slippery condition of the track. The car was full of passengers and increased in velocity as it proceeded toward the base of the hill until its speed became remarkable. The people at the intersection of Fifteenth street shouted at the drivers of vehicles as they neared the corners and thus warned them of the wild car. At the time the runaway was discovered, a car from the Twentieth street line stood facing east on Farnam street. The driver was told of the danger of the car behind crashing into him, and whipped up his horses into a run for more than a block to get out of the way. This car was crowded and as it flew past the Paxton three people jumped off and all were thrown violently to the ground. One of these was a lady employed in the Union Pacific headquarters, who was carried into the office of the Chicago & Northwestern road by James Preston where restoratives were administered and Dr. Lee was summoned. The other two could not be found later. This car in its rapid rate of speed frightened the horses of one of Benzon's ice wagons and started them teenth street shouted at the drivers of

Two Rosebud Agency Depredators in Jail-United States Court Notes. John Ray and James Standish were brought to Omaha last evening by Deputy United States Marshal Showalter, uty United States Marshal Showalter, who recently arrested them on charge of stealing cattle from the Indian herds on Rosebud Agency. They have stolen, it is alleged, several herd during the spring and have been hard men to catch. The prisoners are in the city jail.

Dr. Faron was sentenced in the United States court, yesterday, to pay a fine of $25 and costs and remain in jail one day. He was convicted of selling liquor to Indians.

The man who forged money orders at Elmwood, Cass county, was arraigned yesterday and Kennedy, of Kennedy & Martin, was assigned to defend him.

Judge Dundy will commence calling the civil docket to-day. Cases which are ready for trial will be immediately disposed of.

The Courts.

Yesterday morning Constable Edgerton filed an appeal in the district court from the decision of Judge McCulloch, fining him $50 with costs of $11.70, for contempt of court in refusing to serve a writ upon order of the judge mentioned. The constable's excuse was that, after he had covered contain write the district the served contain write. had served certain writs, he did not think he had further to do with the case. Judge Neville is hearing the case of Melquist vs. J. E. Riley. The judge was to hear the arguments on the injunction suit of the Motor company vs. the Omaha Horse Railway company yesterday morning, but the matter was continued till Thursday, 9th inst., and the Melquist Riley case will be pressed to a conclusion

Riley case will be pressed to a conclusion. In Judge Groff's court yesterday morning a jury was empannelled in the case of Buddenstein vs. Mitiman, to recover $187. Mittman, it will be remembered, is now under information for manslaughter at Millard, and his trial will come up next week. In this suit the plaintiff alleges to have worked for Mittman, while the latter denies the assertion.

Judge Hopewell did not reach town yesterday morning until after 11 o'clock. Judge Dundy was unable to be in court Union Stock Yards Company. The Union Stock Yards company yesterday morning filed the amendments to their by-laws, adopted at their meeting May 16, locating the termini of their railroad in this city, and at a point on the south line of Douglas county next far-ther west of the Missouri river not more than fifteen miles from the same.

The other amendment provided for the recent increase of the capital stock to $2,000,000, and providing for the increase of the same by the vote of a two-thirds majority of the stockholders. A Question of Salary. Comptroller Goodrich says that he has not yet received an opinion from City Attorney Webster as to whether the demand for a month's wages for May by ex-Marshal Cummings shall be allowed, or whether he shall include in the appropriation for the same month the name of Chief Seavey. He says, however, that he will leave both names out of the list, make an individual voucher for each of these men and let the council confirm these if it feels so disposed.

A Nebraska Clambake.

Deputy Marshal Ed. Allen returned yesterday morning from the clambake of the Nebraska Clambake association, which held its meeting at Karten's grove, Crete. There were about seventy-five members present from all parts of the state, each of whom returned from the bake surfeited with clams, oysters, lobster, beef, green corn and a host of other articles which are particularly palatable on such occasions. This is the first time the bake was held at Crete. It formerly took place on Shogo Island, Melford.

A New Line. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road has opened a new line from this point to Sioux City, Yankton and Dakota points, Yesterday trains commenced running. A train leaves Council Bluffs daily at 1:35 p.m., arriving at Sioux City at 7:40 p. m., and Yankton at 10:05. The 1:15 p. m. dummy from this side of the river connects with the new line.

Enforced Quietude.

John Donohue, a saloon keeper, found fault with his customers for making too much noise and ordered them to quit. They didn't mind as promptly as Donohue thought they should, so he pro-ceeded to wade through the entire party.

Wearing National Colors.

The chandeliers in the court house are being draped in mosquito bar, and the decorator seems to try to symbolize the nationality of the occupants of each room by the colors of the decoration. This is particularly noticeable in the rooms of the county commissioners, where Commissioner O'Keefe's emerald green bears a conspicuous place on the chandelier.

The Court House Lot. James H. Standard yesterday filed a bid with the county commissioners to grade and sod the lot of the county court house. The contractor proposes to grade the lot for 40 cents and offers to sod it for
