Omaha Citizens Indignant Over President Cleveland's Confederate Flag Order.

OFFICER WHITE VINDICATED.

Editor Morrissey's Foe - Mortuary Matters-Carpenters and Contractors-County Bonds-Typographical Delegates-Local News.

Cleveland Sat Upon.

Yesterday morning a Bee reporter sought and obtained the following interview with citizens of Omaha touching the action of President Cleveland in ordering the return to the southern states of the confederate flags captured in battle by federal troops during the late war.

Max Meyer-All memorials of victory in battle, all war trophies, should be kept by the country capturing them; that is, taking into consideration the usages of all nations in such matters. I think the president's action is calculated, in a measure, to revive the old sectional strife which has been so happily expiring during late years.

Mr. W. V. Morse-Am of the opinion that if these confederate flags were to be returned to congress to have empowered the Grand Army to take this step if the Grand Army felt so inclined.

Sheriff Colburn-I do not hesitate to denounce the whole business an unqualified outrage. Those flags were not taken by an act of congress and it should take the same power to remove them.

City Treasurer John Rush-I am not given to profanity, but if I were, would use some very tropical language to express my indignation. These flags are souvenirs which, in future generations, would be a most potent factor in procuring patriotism. I also believe in forgiving and forgetting, but think that every citizen in the north, whether democrat or republican, should feel a very decided indignation over this arbitrary act of Cleveland. It is an outrage.

General C. H. Frederick-Don't think Cleveland has any right to return these flags. They belong to the archives of the government, in which the whole people are interested. It will make one of the blindest rows the country has ever experienced if he persists in carrying out this infamous order.

Charles L. Thomas-The restoration of these war memorials to their original owners would be a most flagrant outrage. It cannot help but meet with a sweeping protest throughout the whole north.

Major Herbert Williams-I don't believe Cleveland has or ever will issue such an order. If he does, that will settle him with me. He couldn't get my vote.

Postmaster Gallagher-If it is a fact that the president has issued such an order, I very thoroughly dissent from his views on the subject. Those flags should remain in the hands of the general government, in memory of the victory of union over disunion.

Captain J. S. France-It is a blamed outrage, and strikes me as an usurpation on the part of the president, as if he was straining his powers as chief executive to intentionally insult the union soldiers.

Charles E. Burnester-Think Cleveland should inform himself. Don't think he has any power to return those flags, and I venture to say further that if the Grand Army was called upon to take these flags over again they'd jump into the ranks and do it too quick. I'm ready to go.

Frank E. Moore-It is a ——— outrage, and I want you to put it in just as I say it.

Major William Chambers-Ditto, only I don't want such flowery language to show up in the paper.

John A. Creighton-Won't express an opinion until I know just exactly whether I have one to express or not. I'll wait and see just what is done.

James Casey-Account of the fact that there are 38,000 words in the English language, but that number is totally insufficient to express the length and breadth and depth of my indignation.

J. H. Manchester-It seems that a great many of the old soldiers have lived to the day when they must through their chief executive truckle and apologize to traitors, but we little thought in 1865 that the country would ever place a coward and opportunist in the executive chair. If some one could have foreseen this last act of humiliation, while Mead and Sherman's men were encamped around Washington, there would have been no rebel flags or banners left for distribution. Won't some democratic organ please relieve my feelings by yelling a bloody shirt.

M. A. Radon-I believe it to be a studied insult to the Grand Army of the Republic, because it was announced that body would not receive him at St. Louis. It is also an attempt to bolster up confederate bonds, which, as you know, have appreciated in Europe from one hundred and forty to two hundred.

THE COURTS.

The Business Transactions Before All Our Tribunals.

In the United States circuit court the case of Calvin Manning et. al. vs. Ely Sheriff et. al. is being argued.

Judge Brewer yesterday morning rendered a decree in the case of Baird vs. Day in favor of plaintiff, and the prosecution dropped. The present suit is the result.

DISTRICT COURT. Before Judge Hopewell the case of James Stephenson vs. John H. Noyles was commenced. Plaintiff sues for $5,000 damages suffered by reason of false imprisonment. The facts as claimed are that last August, Noyles, who resides in Iowa, in which latter place he resides, and demanded of Stephenson a team of mules, which he claimed were stolen from him. Noyles, Stephenson declared that he had purchased them in good faith from a young man and paid for them, and refused to surrender them. A suit in replevin was commenced but when the papers were sought to be executed, it was discovered that the mules had been shipped from the city. Noyles then swore out a warrant in Judge Stenberg's court and had Stephenson arrested, and proceeded to take possession of the property. On the examination Stephenson was discharged.

THE WHITE TRIAL. The trial of Officer White for manslaughter was continued yesterday morning. The first witness put under cross-examination was Mr. D. A. Russel, the cab driver. He remembered the night of the 20th of February last. He was driving north, taking a person to Twentieth and Burd streets; was driving north on Sixteenth. He was between California and Webster, on the west side of the street car track, when the shooting occurred. He saw a flash; the man who fired was on the corner of Sixteenth and Webster; he heard two shots in quick succession; thought the shots were going in an upward direction; it was a very dark night; did not see the party that did the shooting; there was no light on the corner; when going up Cuming street he saw a man lying about fifty feet west of Sixteenth street. After leaving the man he heard in charge at Twentieth and Burd, he returned on the same road and saw at the same place he had noticed before a man lying on the street, but did not stop. He returned home on Sixteenth and Webster he saw two men going north. He could not say who the men were; could not even describe the men, as he drove by rapidly. Then he drove directly home. About twenty minutes elapsed between the time he heard the shooting and saw the two men. J. L. Thompson was sworn. He saw the defendant on the 20th of February last, at the time of the shooting, near Sixteenth and Webster streets. Witness went to where the sound of the pistol came from; found White and several other men there. White told him he had tried to arrest some fellows; they had knocked him down and then he shot. White said he thought he had hit one; witness did not hear any men running away; was at the freight depot at Fourteenth and Webster when the shooting occurred.

Cross-examination: White did not tell him that he shot in order to attract the attention of the police. White said he had been hurt on the neck, but witness did not see any blood on his hands.

Charles Hollo sworn: Saw White's right after the firing; the second shot was fired in a northerly direction; White told witness he had shot because somebody had knocked him down, whom he wanted to arrest.

Cross-examination: witness was going south when the first shot was fired; turned around and saw the flash of the second shot from the building that White said he fired in order to attract the attention of the police.

C. A. Baldwin, for the defense, made a motion before the adjournment of the forenoon session, to dismiss the case for the reason that the evidence for the state showed a case of justifiable homicide.

In the reassembling of the court at 2 p. m. Judge Groff instructed the jury to find a verdict of not guilty. The verdict was so returned.

TYPGRAPHICAL DELEGATES.

Representative Gunzulus Tells of the Convention at Buffalo.

Wednesday evening W. H. Gunzulus and Jason Lewis, the Omaha delegates to the International Typographical union whose annual session has just closed at Buffalo, N. Y., returned home. Said Delegate Gunzulus yesterday morning: "Of course we had an excellent time. We were royally treated at Buffalo. There were 102 delegates from subordinate unions in attendance upon the convention, and the thirty-third annual gathering is said to have been the most representative body which has ever convened. It was also one of the most impartial. The west secured full representation this time in the selection of western men for the offices of vice-president, secretary-treasurer, two delegates to the federation of trades assembly. Furthermore, C. C. City was named as the meeting place of the next convention. I succeeded in securing the appointment of James Dermody, of this city, as organizer for the state of Nebraska. The convention had many important matters before it which are of more interest to the craft than to the public at large." The Omaha delegates were recognized by being placed upon several of the most important committees.

COUNTY BONDS SOLD.

The Commissioners Float New 20-Year Bonds.

Yesterday the county commissioners placed a $308,000 20-year loan, the bids for the bonds being offered in the afternoon. Seven bids were read. Three of them being withdrawn on the grounds of the collapse of the wheat corner and the tears of a panic. The bonds were taken by N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, who offered $4,735 premium. The bonds will be issued July 1, and the amount will take up those of the old bonds due on that date. The old bonds bear 8 per cent interest and the new are floated at 5 per cent, a net saving of 3 per cent.

The Omaha Smelting Works.

The Black Hills Times says: "The railroad committee which visited Omaha last week, paid a visit to the smelting and reduction works where they were accorded a kind reception and escorted through the extensive plant. The company, through its manager, manifested a lively interest in the Hills, and a desire to secure as much ore as possible from this locality. The gentleman confessed that until recently the facilities for handling ores were so limited, but that now they are ready to blow-in, and the company is now prepared to receive ore of any character and in any quantity, and guarantees prompt payment."

Dodge Street Paving.

The eastern members of the Asphalt paving company are in the city to confer with the cable line company in regard to paving Dodge street. The method being pursued of stone tooting the tracks and jointing the work, then filling with other material, it is claimed is not in accordance with the contract. The railroad company has been filling up the spaces in the tooting with cement. This is not the sort of material that the company will place the concrete base and asphaltum in place in the regular manner.

EDITOR MORRISSEY'S TOE.

He Applies It With Force to Mr. Henry Gibson.

For some time there has been a feeling between the business department of the Herald and the editorial staff. This, it is said, has been due to a disposition on the part of the business end to dictate the policy of the sheet and to assume control of the various departments. This feeling culminated yesterday in a personal encounter between Editor Morrissey and Henry Gibson, the latter of the Herald job rooms. Since the sale of the paper to Mr. McShane by Miller & Richardson, the job department has been more than ever divorced from the newspaper. The paper, however, has employed a job room artist to make its portraits. On Friday afternoon Mr. Gibson entered the room of Editor Morrissey and demanded that there be a settlement for the work done for the paper by the job room. Mr. Morrissey said he had nothing to do with the payment of the bills—that belonged to the business department. He could only O. K. such work as he had ordered done. Mr. Gibson said he would be settled right if the thing didn't have to be settled right then and there. The Editor of the Herald booted forthwith and the business end of the paper, Morrissey grasped Mr. Gibson by the neck and as he hustled him to the door he repeatedly applied the toe of his boot to the bosom of Mr. Gibson's trousers. The affair created a sensation about the office. It was said yesterday that Mr. Gibson intended taking out a warrant for Mr. Morrissey's arrest on a charge of assault and battery.

In connection with the internecine war which has so long agitated the vicinity of the Herald it is further stated that J. A. Mathews, for over a year business manager of the paper, has resigned. Yesterday he was presented with a gold-headed cane and a beautiful watch charm by the Herald employees outside the editorial rooms. The latter refused to take a part, it is understood, and also refused to make a mention of the presentation in the columns of the paper. Mr. Mathews will remain in Omaha and look after his real estate interests. His successor has not yet been named.

With regard to the property now claimed by Harrison on the army range at Bellevue, it is now known that another party has a claim to the same and will soon occupy the land.

With respect to other adjacent lots, it is now known that these were purchased under false representation, and the claim to them will be contested in the courts.

Mittman's Miseries.

Mittman, the man who is alleged to have defrauded his bond, it is believed by some friends in town will still return. He knows his case was not to come up till the 20th inst. If he has gone to stay, it is not because of the judgment against him, because he has paid into court sufficient to satisfy that, but rather because of the feeling of hatred which obtains against him in Millard, as also the domestic infelicity which obtains in his household.

Both of these gentlemen first mentioned will preach upon the subject next Sunday. The petition will then be handed to the mayor.

Burning Asphalt.

Yesterday morning at 8 o'clock the fire department was called to the corner of Thirtieth and Dodge where a large kettle of asphalt, which working men, engaged in building the track of the cable line at that point, were using, caught fire. A large barrel of the same material was set ablaze. Two hand grenades and a small chemical engine, procured from the Millard hotel extinguished the fire.
