The old cess pool and vault in the rear of the new county court house is a ter-rible nuisance, and the surrounding neighborhood protests against it being allowed to poison the air longer. It seems that the county authorities might find means to suppress the stench.

There is such a thing as a man want-ing many trials in this life. Jonathan Jones is such a one. He has had three trials for killing David Roberts and wants a fourth. He is going to have it. A man who wants so many trials must be insane, as is claimed by his attorneys.

What About the Bridge?

Yesterday was the date fixed for a further hearing in Washington concerning the bridge questions. Throughout the day Mr. Evans and others interested were kept busy answering the old query, "What have you heard?" The answer was not very satisfactory. There was nothing to tell. Mr. Evans said that he had notified their attorney in Washington that if there was any good news to send it by telegraph, but if it was not good news to send it by freight. During the day neither telegraph nor freight brought anything. The supposition was that the arguments were being made, and that the arguments were being made and that the new showing was presented, and the matter taken under advisement again. If a definite decision is reached before the end of the week, it will come as soon as the more patient waiters ex-

Last evening a telegram was received from Washington stating that a partial hearing was held yesterday by the secre-tary of war, and on request of the Ne-braska Central the decision was deferred. The secretary announces that his decision will be announced between now and the first of July. It is now conti-dently asserted that the matter will not be held open further than the first of July at the latest.

Death of an Old Resident. The death of John Johnson, which occurred Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, takes from the ranks of the old settlers one of the most highly esteemed. He was eighty-two years and three months of age, and had enjoyed a reasonable degree of health until in February, when he fell and broke his hip. His faithful wife, also advanced in years, attended him so closely as to enfeeble her own health, and she rapidly failed, her death occurring about two months ago. Mr. Johnson had lived here since 1855. His old home was in Ohio, but Vermont was his native state. He had always lived a christian life, and his many worthy qual-ities had endeared him greatly to his large circle of friends. He had acquired considerable property, and was indus-trious and frugal in his habits. He had no children of his own, but has been a father to several, having adopted and reared them as though they were of his own flesh and blood. He leaves but one brother living, Mr. J. J. Johnson, whose home is about four miles east of the city. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence at the head of Frank street.

A Fourth Trial For Jones. Yesterday Judge Carson finished some of the cases pending before him, and cleared up his table, preparatory to adjourning to the 25th of July, at which date he will take up the liquor cases.

The most important matter passed upon yesterday was the motion for a new trial in the case of Jonathan Jones, who was found guilty of manslaughter, this having been his third trial and third conviction. Judge Carson granted the new trial, and manfully did so on the ground of an error in his charge to the jury. It is no easy matter for a man, if he is not a judge, to admit that he has made a mis-take, but for a judge on the bench, with plenty of other excuses laying around him, to take the responsibility himself, and to decide that error had crept into gan. his instructions to the jury, requires a good deal of honesty and backbone. It is easier to let the matter go to the supreme court, and let that body take the respon-sibility. The squareness and fairness with which Judge Carson has met this question cannot but raise him in the opinion of all. It seems, however that there ought to be some end to this case. Jones has been tried now three times, and the case has been hanging along in and the case has been hanging along in the courts for many years. It seems that enough time and money have been spent upon it, and that his guilt or innocence ought by this time to be established. Colonel Scott, who has been his attorney through these years, has made a gallant and victorious series of battles for his client, and though the verdict of the jury has been against him, he is still in the field. Judge Carson fixed the bail for Jones at $10,000, and Jones will hardly be able to furnish this. He will probably have to remain in jail, where he now is, until the August term.

until the August term. The arguments in the Joseph divorce case were heard yesterday morning. The filthy testimony was gone over in detail, each side claiming that it had proved that the other had been guilty of adul-tery. Mrs. Joseph had brought into court a girl of rather unsavory reputation to establish her claim that Joseph had been untrue, and Joseph had brought in a comparative stranger in the city to prove that Mrs. Joseph acted in a very unwifely that Mrs. Joseph acted in a very unwifely way. Judge Carson did not give his de-cision yesterday, there being two ques-tions involved, one as to whether the wife should be given a divorce, the other whether she should be allowed to be the custodian of the little child.

The motion for a new trial in the case of Wilson vs. the city is not to be taken up until the reopening of court on July 25th.

Judge Not Harshly.

Rev. Mr. Mackay in his sermon at St. Paul's church Sunday night charply scored those who are so ready to judge others. He had no sympathy with those who were so ready to cry out against the public spirited citizens who were trying to get the bridge enterprise started here. It was easy enough to shout about "selling out" and all such nonsense. He also referred, as an illustration, to the many referred, as an illustration, to the many bitter things said about President Cleve-land. He thought that there should not be an angry or hasty judgment in such matters. President Cleveland was the chief magistrate of the nation, and his position, if nothing else, entitled him to respectful treatment. For one, he could not join in the prayer for the president of these United States, and then be so m-consistent as to try to do everything pos-sible to keep the prayer from being an-twered.

Police Points.

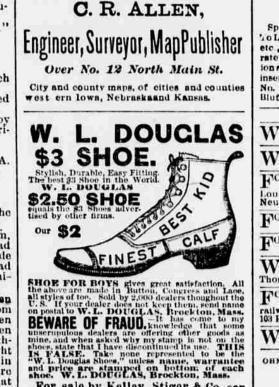

Judge Aylesworth had a busy day, the police having gathered in quite a gang. H. K. Anthony's name didn't save him and he went to jail for ten days on bread and water. The judge would have made it longer, but the water part of the bread and water diet is expensive, since prohi-bitionists came into power

Two lads, Lee Hummell and Owen Two lads, Lee Hummell and Owen Swift were brought in as runaways from their Des Moines home. They had been doing Sioux City and Omaha, and when they reached the Bluffs they were with-out money or reputation. The first night they slept in a lumber yard, the next in the city jail, and last night somewhere on the road. The judge gaye orders that a lunch be given them and that their faces he set eastward. He thought by the time they reached home by foot the time they reached home by foot passage, they would have had sufficient experience to keep them there.

J. Roderick was arrested on suspicion of having tried to rob a drunken man named George Starr. The two were going about town together, and Starr's money was rapidly disappearing. Starr was too drunk to know much about how he had been served by Roderick, but know that he had less money than when knew that he had less money than when he started out on his red paint trip. The evidence being difficult to get at Roderick was discharged.

Joseph has not sense enough to let the women have her own way, but in-sists on disturbing the peace of the couple whose only marital tie seems to be affin-ity. Joseph Cole has been over in Omaha lately, serving as janitor for the Salva-tion army there, but he makes frequent trips here to see how Andrews and Mrs. Cole are getting along. His Sunday night visit resulted in a row, and the trio were arrested. They were each fined yester-day for disturbing the peace, and then Mrs. Cole and Andrews were arrested for adultery. The three are now in jail awaiting further adjustment of the chow-chow family affairs. In the meantime the fort is being held by two little boys, one the son of Mrs. Cole by a previous husband, the other a son of Andrews by a previous wife. It is hoped that this time a final disposition may be made of the disorderly and dirty outfit. Pat Hanifan, D. M. Maxwell and Tom Hopkins, were given the usual fine as plain drunks.
