OFFICE, NO. 12, PEARL STREET. Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at twenty cents per week.

H. W. TILTON, Manager. TELEPHONE: 13. BUSINESS OFFICE, NO. 24. NIGHT EDITOR, NO. 25.

MINOR MENTION.

N. Y. Plumbing Co. New spring goods at Retter's, tailor. The bridge is to be no longer one of sights, but of size. The high school commencement takes place to-night in the arena here.

The preparatory are being made for the grand celebration on the Fourth ever held in this city. In the superior court yesterday the case of Spetman vs O'Brien was being tried before a jury of six.

The Omaha Elks are arranging for a picnic and banquet at Hotel Manawa three weeks from to-morrow. The remains of Minnie Dix, the child who died of cholera infantum, were yesterday interred in Fairview cemetery.

The infant child of Henry Hoff, No. 313 North Eighth street, who died of cholera infantum, has been buried in Red Oak. F. W. Spetman & Bro. have a fac simile of the proposed wagon bridge between this city and Omaha in their window.

The tabernacle tent has arrived, after being thoroughly overhauled, and will be erected on Fourth street. The meetings will probably begin Sunday. The Knights of Labor will give a ball on the night of the Fourth, and will have a display of fireworks in front of Masonic hall at 8:30 o'clock the same evening.

The old man Mitchell, who has been making a living by taking photographic views, is said to be in a deplorable condition, as the result of the recent accident. He is confined to his house, and is without any money. A woman, wheeling a baby wagon, was yesterday soliciting from stores to store in his behalf.

The new bridge over railroad slough will be completed this morning. Road Supervisor Wright, of Lewis township, will then put in the approaches and widen the roadway. He will have good substantial side rails on the approaches and do all in his power to lessen the chances of accident. Either the club or the board of trade or both should immediately make arrangements to entertain the Southwestern Iowa editorial association, which convenes next week in this city.

A VALUABLE LAND FIND. The Catholics Discover That They Own $10,000 Worth More Than They Supposed.

A MOST WORTHY BENEFIT. Removal of a Land-Mark-The Salvationists Threatening to Prosecute the Prohibitionists-The Motor Line-The Commencement.

It looks now as if there had been $10,000 picked up in the streets for the benefit of the Catholic church. A long time ago four lots were deeded to the Catholic church, the property being well known as that on which the old Catholic church stands. The four lots were from Willow avenue south to an alleyway, which has never been fenced or improved.

The property runs from Willow avenue east and west from Main to Pearl streets. For some reason it has been taken for granted that the lots were fifty feet front on Main street and fifty feet deep. Mr. Merriam has always considered that the property runs back from Willow avenue 200 feet in all. He recently sold this 200 feet to Mr. Merriam, of Omaha, for $125 a front foot. The property is so centrally located that it was a bargain at that price, and cannot probably be purchased of its present owner for $200 a front foot.

In looking over some old papers and plans it is now discovered that besides the 200 feet sold to Mr. Merriam the Catholic church has a claim to the 40 feet south of the church. The property bought, centrally located that it was a bargain at that price, and cannot probably be purchased of its present owner for $200 a front foot. In looking over some old papers and plans it is now discovered that besides the 200 feet sold to Mr. Merriam the Catholic church has a claim to the 40 feet south of the church.

Other agents may talk as hard as they please about the motor line. It gets away with them for the time. They are hard to beat. The Mueller Motor Co. sell all such things. St. Francis Academy. The art studio and embroidery department of St. Francis academy will be opened to the public Monday, June 27, and Tuesday, June 28. The display of work for this year is an unusually large and excellent one, and will amply repay all those who will call to examine it.

The motor line. J. K. Graves, of the Manawa motor line builder, expects the motors to arrive in this city to-day or to-morrow and the cars to follow them immediately. He says the motor track is as pretty a one as is ever laid, and it is so pronounced by other competent judges. Mr. Graves is satisfied that another week will see the motor railway in full operation.

Threatened Prosecutions. It is whispered on pretty good authority that the saloon men, and others who have been annoyed by the injunction suits, are planning on an attempt to turn the tables. There are very few citizens who strictly obey every law and ordinance, and it is claimed that some of the prohibitionists, who have been so zealous prosecuting offenders of the liquor law, have themselves been, technically at least, violating other laws. It is said that attorneys have been secured, and the work of gathering of evidence has begun, with the intention of at least annoying some of those who are in the prohibition camp. It is claimed that cases will be started, based on charges of having hired men to swear to false affidavits, of having been guilty of usury, of having violated the Sunday law, of having thrown ashes in the streets, and of having cracked other city ordinances and state laws.

Miss Hatcher's Benefit. Last evening there was a large and enthusiastic audience at the benefit given by Miss Nellie Hatcher at the opera house. The public was glad of an opportunity to express their appreciation of this gifted young lady, and of her kindly services in helping other entertainments given for public enterprises. The opportunity was also gladly improved from the more selfish motive of securing an enjoyable entertainment; and such it surely was.

Two drug stores in central Nebraska. Good thriving towns. Will invoice from $1,500 to $2,500. Apply to HANLEY, HAAS & Co., Council Bluffs, Iowa. with one of their choicest selections. Mr. Brooks on the violin and Miss Clara Babington on the piano, gave a well executed duet. The portion of the programme given by Miss Hatcher was the treat of the evening. Her selections were varied, displaying both a versatility of talent and of training. She has a musical voice and in her impersonations enters feelingly into her characters. Her readings and recitations are enjoyable, because of their naturalness, there being none of that strained, affected manner which has caused the very word "elocution" to be so distasteful. With charming appearance, graceful manners and winsome ways, she has the rare power to make herself speedily a favorite with a strange audience. Here among her friends and in the district of her acquaintance, she awakens great enthusiasm.

Mr. Fred Loomis assisted Miss Hatcher in the presentation of the second scene in the so-called "Manawa" production, and acquitted himself well as Angelo. Miss Hatcher was the recipient of a large and elegant basket of flowers from the Fifth Regiment band yesterday, for her entertainment of the band serenaded her at her home.

Parting with a Landmark. What is known as the old Harris house on Madison street, near the Methodist church, is being torn down. It is one of the old landmarks, and those who have any tinge of sentiment cannot see the old building razed without a feeling of sadness. To the young blood and to the progressive part of the community, the old house has been a sort of eyesore, but still the old settlers have looked kindly upon it.

There are still many who have a respect for the old associations, and while they do not object to seeing the old house go down, still they cannot part with it without feeling some regret that it must go. This old log house was built in 1838. It is just forty odd years old, and has seen a full generation of the old boys left over from those early years in the history of the city. The Harris family had occupied it for twenty-five years, and had built up a fine and modern house adjoining it, the old house being torn down. It was planned to have the house moved into Fairmount park to be there kept as a historic treasure, but the examination showed that the foundations were too rotten to permit of this. The Harris family thought of having it moved further back on the lot and preserved there, but this did not seem to be practical. Mrs. Harris, who is now dead, is now dead, naturally fell kindly to the log house in which she has spent so many happy hours, but it must go. The boys, who were born in the old house, are the most loyal of the city. The boys are in a pretty good state of preservation. Before Mr. Harris bought the property it was owned by his father, and was occupied as a grocery store. For several years, it was used as a store room.

Other agents may talk as hard as they please about the motor line. It gets away with them for the time. They are hard to beat. The Mueller Motor Co. sell all such things. St. Francis Academy. The art studio and embroidery department of St. Francis academy will be opened to the public Monday, June 27, and Tuesday, June 28. The display of work for this year is an unusually large and excellent one, and will amply repay all those who will call to examine it. A cordial invitation is extended to all. The academy takes place Tuesday evening, 7 p. m., June 28. Admission 50 cents.

Dr. Cross' Trial. At Red Oak yesterday Judge Loofbourrow finished his business about 11 o'clock, and stepped off the bench to give place to Judge Deemer, who is to preside during the trial of Dr. Cross, charged with the murder of Dr. McKane in this city. The first work in the trial was a motion on the part of the state for a continuance. The reason assigned was the absence of Miss Berger, a material witness, who is now in California. After some arguments Judge Deemer expressed his readiness to grant the continuance. The defense then agreed to admit that Miss Berger, if present, would testify to the facts claimed for her by the state, provided the trial could proceed. This arrangement was made and the case will go on. The securing of a jury will probably take most of to-day.

There has been quite a sentiment worked up in Red Oak in favor of Dr. Cross, and his predictions are already numerous that he will not be convicted. There has been some curiosity as to what new witnesses were to appear on the part of the defense. It has been reported that some startling evidence has been discovered on Dr. Cross' behalf, to be used on this trial in his favor. A short time ago Dr. Cross advertised in the papers in order to secure the address of a lady who had called upon his wife some time before, and who had imparted important information. This advertisement, together with the appearance at Red Oak of a new witness, and the fact of a lady corroborating the report that new and important testimony had been gained for the defendant. The lady is Mrs. Van Ness, of Mt. Pleasant, whose was recently tried here, but acquitted on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. It is reported that this lady was in a buggy near the scene of the tragedy, and that she saw more of the origin of the tragedy than any other witness. Her testimony will be watched for anxiously. Besides the counsel already secured for the defendant, Major Anderson has been called into the case. He is fresh from another murder trial, in which he succeeded in getting his client acquitted.

How He Was Received into the Confederate Lines. One day in May, 1863, as Private S. F. Nunnelee, of the Fifty-first Alabama regiment was on picket duty about five miles from Murfreesboro, Tenn., a federal officer, entirely unattended and carrying a flag of truce, rode up and inquired for the officer in command, and through him ascertained the location of the regiment. Colonel J. D. Webb, was on the line, a couple of miles to the rear, and Private Nunnelee was sent to inform him that the federal was desirous of passing the night with the regiment, and to ask within the confederate lines, as per order of the secretary of war. This move had been anticipated, as Vallandigham's sentence had been promulgated, but the confederate government had no desire to accept him. Had he come as a recruit for the ranks he would have been welcomed, but as a banished politician he was a guest whom no one cared to entertain. Colonel Webb took his time about riding to the front, and as he got there Nunnelee was sent down the highway to investigate a second white flag. This was raised above a rebel soldier by one horse and occupied by a federal lieutenant and Vallandigham. The officers were driving and the banished politician was sitting very still and erect. But few words were spoken as the officer drew rein. He said to Nunnelee: "Here is Vallandigham, sentenced to banishment."

And to the great politician he said: "Belongs to me, no time to spare to entertain." "I protest against this outrage—solemnly protest," answered Vallandigham. "Yes, but hurry up now. I'll take your trunk off. Jump down, now—good day!" And the officer sprang into the vehicle, turned the horse around and went off at a fast trot, leaving Vallandigham and the confederate soldier on the highway. Previous to the war Mr. Nunnelee was editor of a paper at Euwata, and Vallandigham was one of its readers. As they stood there the private soldier introduced himself and the politician gave him a hearty shake of the hand, and said: "What are you doing here?" "I am marching with you as you are fighting in the ranks of the confederate army?" "Thousands of us." "Then that settles it—the north can never count on me as an enemy." After some further talk, the soldier carried the politician's trunk into a deserted negro cabin a quarter of a mile away and then went for his colonel. Webb came at a slow pace, and is mounted at the but the banished northerner said: "Colonel Webb, I am Clement L. Vallandigham, a citizen of Ohio and of the United States, and I am here to be banished from my country for my love of liberty and free speech."

The colonel stiffly answered: "Mr. Vallandigham, as a citizen of Ohio and of the United States, you are my enemy. As one banished for his love of liberty, for which the south is fighting to-day, I bid you welcome to the southern confederacy." They then entered into a general conversation lasting about half an hour, at the end of which time Private Nunnelee secured a conveyance, and Vallandigham had his baggage ready to receive the confederate lines. The incident made quite a stir at the picket post, and could the men have had their way they would have headed the man for the federal states, and obliged him to return, as they counted far more on muskets than speeches to win their cause. Mr. Nunnelee is now and has for many years past been the editor of the Tusculooza Gazette, and the incident of that narrative, never before published, were taken from his own lips.

Dyspepsia and Constipation. Henry B. Archer, receiver of taxes of the city of Yonkers, N. Y., says of Brander's Pills: "For the past ten years I have been using Brander's Pills for self and family. We find them a sovereign remedy for indigestion and constipation, taking one or two every night for ten days. They are also admirable blood purifiers, perfectly harmless and exceedingly efficacious as a cathartic. I first used them myself, particularly for biliousness and dyspepsia. They relieved me in two weeks. I cheerfully recommend them." Love's Labor Lost. Denver Republican: The Mormons have called a convention to meet on the 30th of this month, the object of which is to frigate the constitution of Utah so that Utah be admitted into the union. Utah will not be let in. Until Mormonism learns to dispense with polygamy the sentiments of the American people will demand that Utah be kept under the immediate control of congress.
