A SENSATIONAL STORY.

Mrs. Brooks Reveals Her Tale of Imprisonment.
CANTON, Mich., July 4.—A Special Telegram to the Bee.—Mrs. Brooks, whose peculiar disappearance from her home at Junata, near here, and whose sensational letter from her place of imprisonment in Colorado was given wide publicity, has returned home. She repeats the story that she inherited $300,000 from Marcus Vandoren, a former lover, which was held for her by Anna Vandoren for many years; that in St. Louis Lawyer Shoeman, of Indiana, who drew Vandoren's will, gave her a draft for $20,000 and $30,000 in cash; that at Pueblo, Col., Lawyer Shoeman informed her that M. Vandoren was dying; that she (Mrs. Brooks) fainted, and that when she revived she found herself in a cell, that a baby was born to her while imprisoned, and that she never saw her eyes; that her captors took her money from her, and that in three weeks she was released. After her release, Mrs. Brooks says she went to San Francisco, where she met Anna Vandoren, her cousin and the woman who had been east together; that, fearing that Miss Vandoren was plotting against her, she (Mrs. Brooks) deserted her company one night, taking Miss Vandoren's hat, dress, pocket book and ticket. Mrs. Brooks exhibits marks on her wrists and hands to substantiate the statement that during her imprisonment she was brutally tied up and that an attempt was made with pinchers to pull off her finger nails.

A Student Killed.
One of the most promising students of Creighton college was Eddie Hawley, of Binghamton, N. Y. He distinguished himself at the late commencement, and was admired by all those who witnessed the brilliant manner in which he took his assigned part in the programme. While in this city he made his home with Patrick Duffy, the well known Sixteenth street grocer. Another uncle is Professor W. R. O'Shaughnessy, one of the teachers at Creighton college. On Thursday last young Hawley started for home to spend his summer vacation. Yesterday the sad news was received here that he was killed by the cars of Preston, Ohio. The particulars are not yet definitely known but it is supposed that the young lad fell from the train or was killed while attempting to "board" it at the station aforesaid. Mr. Duffy has sent several telegrams to Preston, but as yet has received no satisfactory answer. As the deceased was well known here and appreciated for his noticeable brightness of intellect, this sad accident has cast a gloom over a large circle of friends.

ANOTHER COMMISSIONER.

Arrival of Judge Anderson—Work That Has Been Done.
Hon. E. Barry Anderson, one of New York's leading lawyers and a member of the Pacific commission investigating railroads in which the government has interest, arrived at the Millard hotel yesterday. He was accompanied by his family who left last night for Manitou, Colorado, while he went to Concordia, Kan., to join his colleagues there. Mr. Anderson has not been present at any of the examinations in the west being detained in New York by the commission work there. With him is Mr. C. P. Young who holds the double and extremely onerous position of secretary and stenographer of the commission. Mr. Young's family is with him at the Millard and will accompany Mrs. Anderson and daughters to Colorado while he goes to the examination at Cheyenne. A Republican, has held most important stenographic positions under prominent democrats and in leading democratic places. The last political convention that the late Samuel J. Tilden attended had its proceedings taken down by Mr. Young and in fact all important work of that kind was given to his charge. The commission commenced its labors April 27, 1887, when C. P. Huntington was the first witness. In all probability its public session will not close until December 1. The work on Mr. Young and his assistant, Mr. Davis, is extremely hard and so pressing that the notes taken in short hand at the different places where testimony is taken are sent to New York City every evening for transcription into long hand. Messrs. Anderson and Young left for Concordia, Kan., at 9:15 last night via the Missouri Pacific. The balance of the commission has just finished taking testimony at Atchison.

RAPID CITY, DAK.

A Roaring Town at the Gateway to the Black Hills.
San Francisco Examiner: The first man who has struck California from the unique frontier town of Rapid City, in the last six months is S. J. Parsons, a lawyer of that place. He arrived yesterday, and is at the Pacific hotel. "It is all a lie," said he to a reporter, "about our turning out en masse not long since and celebrating the occasion with a first hearse. The mayor did not head the procession, and the occasion was not made a gala time in view of the fact that we were blossoming out as a city. Parsons, the place is a rattling live town, the 'Gateway to the Black Hills,' and is coming along at a very good jog. The town has 3500 inhabitants, a board of trade, electric lights, street cars and water-works. The buildings are pretty near all brick, and the biggest one is three stories high, 80 feet wide and 150 feet long. Rapid City is the terminus of the Elkhorn Valley railroad, a branch of the Chicago & North-western, and heavy bull teams freight goods from the town northward to Deadwood and other places. Deadwood is forty-five miles away. "Our railroad will be extended there eventually, and it will get as far as Sturgis, which is thirty miles off, this summer. The surveying is all done, too, for the Rapid City, Wyoming & Western Narrow-gauge road, and the force of men began construction July 1. It will run from Rapid City west and south to the tin mines of Hill City, thence to Greenwood, where the Smokey-gold mines are. These mines are owned by an English company just organized on a $10,000,000 basis, with $2,000,000 cash to develop them with. There is a big lot of tin there, but it is not being mined yet. "The Narrow Gauge will eventually go on, I think, to Lead City, four miles west of Deadwood, where the famous Homestake mines are, owned largely by Senator Hearst. The Valley railroad pays out $200,000 a month there, and get out 11,000 tons of ore per day, so the superintendent told me not long since. The ore runs from five to seven dollars per ton, and is free milling. "As soon as we get the Sioux Indians' reservation opened we'll get five or six railroads right off. The reservation lies out east of us, and is as big as a couple of states like Pennsylvania. It extends from the Nebraska line to the Northern Pacific railroad, and from the Cheyenne river to the Missouri. The railroads, you know, are not allowed to cross it. "Rapid City used to be a pretty rough, rousing town. It was, and is yet, the head center for the cowboys, and they gather in there from the ranges to spend their money. We have had a good deal of shooting; the cowboys would ride into the saloons and shoot out the lights and all that. It was considerable of a place for this recently we lost one of our town officers, Marshal Wilson. He got into a difficulty with some of the boys. There were four of them, including the marshal, and they all pulled revolvers at the same time. The marshal shot one of the boys through and through, and the wounded boy killed him. Both fired at the same time. The other boys did not fire. The boys were all acquitted on the grounds of self-defense. Mr. Parsons is in California for the first time. He goes from here to Santa Barbara, and will spend some time in the Golden State, whose green fields and pretty vineyards he finds quite in contrast to the country and towns out on the ragged edge of the 'rowdy west."

A Coin Sale Stopped.

New York Tribune: The sale of Dr. Linderman's collection of coins, advertised to take place at Bang's yesterday, came to a sudden end. Dr. Linderman was formerly inspector of the mint at Philadelphia, and his collection of coins is a remarkably fine one. Among the especially valuable specimens are a complete set of the issue of 1868, from the one cent to the 20-cent, struck in aluminum; a set of 1877, with the Goddess of Liberty wearing a jeweled coronet; a medal of Cyrus Field, struck in aluminum; and a fine specimen of the silver dollar of 1804, struck from the original dies, which were destroyed in 1867. Only twelve other specimens of this dollar are known, and inferior ones have sold for $1,000 and $1,200. The collection includes many "pattern" pieces, or experimental casts, made during Dr. Linderman's connection with the mint, and from these arose all the trouble. It has been the custom of previous directors of the mint to sell or give away these patterns, as they chose, but on Monday, J. Lynn H. Low, agent for the Linderman estate, received a letter from Dr. Kimball, stating that he regarded the patterns and experimental pieces as the property of the government. Similar letters were received by United States District Attorney Walker, and by Bangs & Co. At 2 p. m. yesterday, the hour of the sale, Inspector Drummond, of the secret service, called at the office of Bangs & Co. with authority to seize the coins, but as Mr. Low had anticipated some such action the coins were not on hand. United States District Attorney Walker allowed Mr. Low to keep the collection till the matter should be settled. The sale was postponed till September. A decision that the coins belong to the government will be of great importance to collectors, it is said, as there is no reason why the rule should not extend to all such specimens in private collections.
