Grocers Begin Their Test Case Against the Union Pacific For Overcharges.

A SELF-GLORIFYING OFFICER.

How Lincoln's Mayor Had the Journal Put Him Up—The State Fair and County Premiums—Lincoln News.

[FROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.]

Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Fowler turned over to Raymond Bros. and H. P. Law, wholesale grocers, the cargoes of sugar replevined by them from the Union Pacific company, which refused to accept the rate of transportation tendered by the firms. Each of these firms had 875 barrels of sugar that they replevined and it took a bond in the neat sum of $27,000 to get the goods. This is the test case, as predicted by the BEE to come, and it is now fairly in the courts where it will be closely watched by more than local interests.

STARTLING TESTIMONY.

Under this heading the State Journal yesterday gave a column space for the hypocritical mayor of the city to air himself and his spleen through a back office speech made by the mayor in the gambling case. The city attorney was trying the case for the city, the replevin case covering the gambling fixtures, and the case was being tried before a jury. The mayor, after the prosecution had made a speech, addressed the jury himself, although he was not an attorney in the case and had not heard the evidence. Among attorneys a smile goes round at the anxiety of the mayor to show himself to the public. Colonel Philpot, who was the opposing counsel, offered no objection, and the mayor made his speech, which he revised until late in the night and had published in his own individual glory in the State Journal, which took great care not to publish any part of the testimony on the other side, or the reply that Colonel Philpot made to the bashful mayor. This reply, from those present who heard it, is described as simply terrific. When Colonel Philpot has as vulnerable a subject as a man of the calibre of the mayor, he dissects right and left like a professor in a medical college. He completely depicted the policy of the mayor in his acts of self-glorification. He reviewed the mayor's double act on the Sunday ordinances, when he proclaimed and left the city to the tender mercies of the council helped him out with revised ordinances. The colonel called the mayor a hypocrite and even harder names, and cited proof to sustain his assertions. All this part of the speech was completely eliminated in the report published in the alleged newspaper in the city. It is a damning and growing suspicion among a good many people that this entire exhibition is but a mere show, and that the mayor to advertise himself as a reformer, and a great many people who know the man and his record know that a course would be very natural. One of those who were present at the trial of the mayor was searching for glory was that the raid over which the present suits in replevin grew was made on the night of June 30, just prior one day to the time when the mayor was making a felony come into effect, and which is a law that will enforce itself. Under the old law a long fight in public courts was certain to follow and all gave the mayor a chance to show his ability in the results of the case may be yet unknown. The jury in this case disagreed, standing three yesterday morning when discharged, and the afternoon another case over the same matter was up in county court. The law and the evidence in the cases obtainable will be doubtless sufficient to reach a verdict one way or the other, and it is just as well to give the news and facts on both sides.

COUNTY PREMIUMS.

Secretary Furnas, of the state board of agriculture, has a special circular calling attention to the numerous offers by the state board to counties for county displays at the coming state fair. This in years past has been one of the most successful competitions and many counties have participated. Secretary Furnas is of the opinion that the number of counties competing this year will be much larger than heretofore. The premiums are for best exhibits of agricultural products in the name of counties, and are: First premium, $300; second premium, $200; third premium, $150; fourth premium, $100; fifth premium, $50.

AUCTION SALE JULY 14.

The reason for Kearney's recent advancement becomes apparent to anyone who visits Kearney and witnesses the grand water power there which has recently been developed. Over one thousand cubic feet of water per second flowing over the waste away at lake Kearney. The public sale at auction of Riverview addition which takes place there on the 14th inst. is a case of the kind there; the property is inside the city limits and on the street car line; from every lot can be seen the beautiful city and from fifteen to thirty miles of the wonderful Platte valley with the river, like a ribbon of silver in the distance, making a picturesque view from every point of the entire plat of Riverside. That many people lost fortunes by not investing in this city is a fact which is well known and that Kearney has a water power almost if not equal to that of Minneapolis can not be denied that the opportunity to invest in this city will continue any great length of time, judging from the rapid rise and transfer of property in this growing city as every one who has visited Kearney appreciates the water power and its other natural advantages. Riverview lies on the bluffs in the north part of the city within three minutes drive from the post-office, with fine homes, residences, and adjoining, and will be sold in blocks or single lots to suit purchasers. All residents of the state purchasing $100 worth of lots in this addition will be refunded their railroad fare to be deducted from their first payment.

On Wednesday evening, July 13, carriages will convey all who desire to go to Lake Kearney, where the steam yacht and other boats will be ready to start on the ride around the lakes, all without any charge to the participant. On the following morning carriages will take the crowd to Riverview, the sale beginning at 10 o'clock. The boats will be provided on the grounds so that none need go thirsty or hungry.

Terms of sale, one-fourth cash, balance one, two and three years. Come prepared to make a choice of location in the coming manufacturing center of the state. For further particulars inquire of or address Franklin & Hiddleston, Capitol Hotel rotunda, Lincoln.

Judge Chapman completed the term work of the district court yesterday and departed in the afternoon for Plattsmouth. Captain Hill, private secretary, will spend Sunday with his family at Beatrice.

John Jenkins, of Omaha, the newly appointed commissioner of the labor bureau, was at the state house yesterday forming acquaintances with the state officers at arranging for his bond preparatory to entering upon the duties of his office.

The city water question is a constant source of discussion, and on several occasions an engineer of the water works has demonstrated that the supply can be easily exhausted, whether any steps will be taken the present year to increase the supply seems to remain a mystery.

A delegation of Plattsmouth ladies including Mrs. M. Patterson, Mrs. M. B. Murphy, Mrs. J. P. Young, Mrs. R. B. Windham, Mrs. M. F. Hartigan and Mrs. Alexander were guests yesterday of Mrs. R. W. Hyers, at the penitentiary.

One case of sun stroke is the record thus far in Lincoln as a result of the hot weather. If this record is maintained Lincoln will become a popular summer resort.

A HUNGRY PLACE.

An incident of the Attorney-General's Sojourn at Hominy Hill.

While Attorney-General Garland was sitting under a tree in his Hominy Hill retreat, says the Arkansas Traveler, an old fellow followed by six or eight dogs came along, stopped, looked searchingly at Mr. Garland, slumped himself on a log, slumped a brimmed cap and said: "I've been around here several times, but the first time that I've cotched you here."

"Yes, I don't stay here much of the time." "Don't try to raise a crap, it seems?" "Did you ever try?" "No." "Do you reckon this old dirt would sprout a blackeye?"

"If you wuz to take away the crickets do you believe a woodpecker could make his living on 'em?" "Don't believe he could." "I haven't any cow here till you get hungry and then go 'way." "Yes." "Is that yore cow that's down and kain't get up yonder?"

"No." "What yer sheep starvin' down yonder in the bottom?" "No." "What yer yonder your dog that's trying to jump over the fence?"

"No." "Look a here, what in the deuce have you got anyhow?" "I'm expectin' my friend with a loaf of bread 'fore long."

"What business air you in?" "I'm the attorney-general of the United States."

"What? Is this Mr. Garland?" "Yes." "Wall, Gus, you come over to my house. I've got a hunk of corn bread and some sorghum molasses over there, and I'll digger it for you."

"What air you a-turkey general; I'll treat you like a white man." "Death of a Steeple Climber. Cincinnati Enquirer: One of the most noted characters of Cincinnati, the "steeple climber," died Thursday night at his home, 79 Bank street. His name was Joseph Rodriguez Weston, and for nearly thirty years he has been climbing steeples in this city. No point was too high or dizzy for him to reach and maintain his steady foothold. Of late months he has been undertaking only the difficult feats that appalled others. It was his pardonable boast that he could go as high or higher than any other man.

There are many stories of his hazardous work in this city. One day he was climbing a steeple in the neighborhood of the cathedral spire on the night following Archbishop Purcell's death. On the ground below were 3,000 or 4,000 people eagerly watching his ascent at the cathedral spire as the lightning flashes revealed him on the dizzy height.

Weston, when only 13 years of age, had placed the tip on the same steeple. Another feat that was greatly talked about at the time was on the night of July 3, 1876. Weston climbed the spire of the Presbyterian church on Fourth street, the tallest in the city, and nailed into it a cross of copper, 28 feet from the ground. It was on this occasion that he had a narrow escape. Weston had obtained from Michle, the jeweler, a heavy gold chain, the link of which were 1 1/2 inches in diameter. The spire had been held him for a brief moment, during which the climber succeeded in regaining his hold. Another time, when Weston was removing the timbers from the steeple of St. Xavier, which had been burned, he was struck by a falling rock on the head and slightly hurt. Weston had a horror of going beneath the surface of the earth, and would never descend into a cellar or catacomb.

Weston's father was named Rodriguez, a Spaniard, who died soon after his son's birth. His widow afterward married a man named Weston, which name the boy assumed. His father was a carpenter, and taught him to climb at an early age, and as he advanced in years his many difficult performances gave him a wide-spread reputation. He was 40 years of age when he died. His son, now only 12 years old, already bids fair to equal his father in aerial exploits.

Buffalo Bill's Wife.

Washington Special to the New York World: While Buffalo Bill has been associated with crowned heads in London, a few friends of this city, who knew the private life of the cowboy, had been married to a young widow by his death, and was married to Mr. Cody, has recalled this episode in the dashing frontiersman's career. After the death of Colonel Whiteley, his handsome widow got employment in the treasury department. Cody became acquainted with her in Washington and the marriage was celebrated with considerable pomp in London. She was supposed to be living happily until rumors reached here of a suit for divorce. Since the divorce no one in Washington who knew Mrs. Cody has ever heard from her.

Chasing a Bear.

Albany (Ga.) News: There was considerable excitement about our county last Friday, caused by the chase and capture of a large grizzly bear. He was first seen in this county on Flint river. He made his way across the Baker county side of the river where he was chased until sunset on Friday and lost. He was again seen in this county, and chased from plantation to plantation by excited white folks, negroes and dogs until that place, where he was captured by killing him, of course. Guns, pistols, axes, hoes, pine-knives, etc., were brought to bear in the plantation of D. K. Butler, near his place. He was about seven feet long, and weighed from 800 to 900 pounds. Whence he came, whether he escaped from some menagerie, or merely lost or strayed from his usual roving haunts, is not at all known. He was a stranger here, at least.

REMARKABLE SURGERY.

Intricate Operation For Preventing Lockjaw. Chicago Inter-Ocean: John Kelleher, a foreman in the employ of Crane Bros., ran a rusty nail into his foot about an inch back from his big toe, on May 29. He washed the wound out with cold water, and the nail was pulled out in a day; the nail was comparatively well again, the nail having just punctured the skin. Yesterday morning he complained of a sore throat. When the physician whom he had called upon to consult asked him to open his mouth it was discovered that his jaws refused to perform their functions. Dr. J. Murphy was called in and at once pronounced the making of a tracheotomy a traumatic lockjaw. The man was removed to his home, No. 54 Wright street. An hour later the tetanic grin set in, and the patient was so rigid that the physicians had to be assisted to get him into a day of the foot was comparatively well again, the nail having just punctured the skin.
