The salvation army fellow who made himself so much of a reputation by try-ing to get Miss Hastie's trunk, has ap-parently concluded to "go happy on his way," rather than wait for a warrant to be served upon him. He was not to be found in the city yesterday. The four electric lights were started for the first time last evening at the top of the new court house tower. They proved very satisfactory and considering the fact that the four now hung there are of ordinary power, it seems evident that with the use of the larger lamps, as pro-posed, the effect will be brilliant. With the closing of gambling in Omaha, and the opening of races here, a gang of roughs, crooks, tin-horns, nutshell fakirs etc. have come to the city. They have been allowed to hang around long enough to see the city, and tis now getting time for the police to wake up, and tell them

The fellow arrested on suspicion, having some silver spoons marked "E. A. C.," was yesterday sentenced to thirty days as a vagrant. No owner for the spoons has yet appeared, but the officers are confident the fellow stole them somewhere. He says he bought them of a stranger at Missouri Valley. The stranger was out of money and was so poorly dressed that he did not dare to try to sell the spoons lest he should be arrested as a thief. He offered them cheap and so the fellow took them. The old Union Avenue hotel is not improving its reputation in any way. The old structure is below grade, and needs to be built all over, or something of the sort. It has long been below grade in reputation. Here it was that the confi-dence man, "The Major" shot and killed Hughes. Since then the house has been moccupied most of the time. Now a unoccupied most of the time. Now a doggerel has been started in the basement, and since the keg has been opened trouble seems to break forth afresh. The other night a fresh young man from Le Mars fell into the company of sharpers there, and was soon contidenced at the dummy depot. Two nights ago a fellow who had been drinking there, and who had got drunk, was robbed while sleeping in the yard in the rear. The fellow who is charged with robbing him was a chance acquaintance picked up in this same saloon. It seems that the reputasame saloon. Bagged a Burglar. Yesterday morning about 2 o'clock Officer Thomas, of the merchants' police force, was going through the alley south of Broadway and east of Main street, when he saw a colored man coming up out of a cellar way of a saloon, No. 101 Main street. On seeing the officer the fellow broke and run. The officer gave chase and fired two shots at the fellow, but he would not stop until the officer was close upon him. He then turned and showed fight. The officer at close range ordered him to throw up his hands, but the fellow's nerves were apparently of iron, and he looked down the barrel of the revolver and refused to throw up his hands, saying: "d--n you, you daersn't shoot." The officer snapped the gun but it failed to go off, and he tried it again, with like result. The fellow, seeing that business was meant, low, seeing that business was meant, started to get out of the way by another run, but the officer grabbed him and took him in. They found in his possession two boxes partially filled with cigars, and in his pockets were some loose cigars and a dollar's worth of nickles and dimes. It was afterwards learned that the cigars and change had been taken from a saloon. Entrance had been gained by the cellarway, and the been gained by the cellarway, and the fellow was just coming out when discov-ered. The prisoner gave his name as William Winters. He has a wounded finger, which looks as if he had been shot there, and he himself accounts for the wound by saying he got shot accidentally. The supposition is that he has been in some similar scrape before, and thus received the wound. He had a pre-liminary hearing before Justice Biggs yesterday, and was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $500, in default of which he will remain in jail until August. It seems that the merchants' police have made an important capture. The force is becoming an essential feature in the protection of property from fires and burglars, and already have captured several such fellows.

Officer Thomas has for some time realized that his revolver was not such a one as he ought to carry, and his experience in trying to shoot the black burgular has caused him not to delay longer in pro-yiding himself with one which will not miss fire. Had the fellow had any weapon he would have made it very interest-ing for Thomas, and had Thomas' weapon not missed, there would have been a case for the coroner.

Robbed His Partner. P. McGee came to the city a few days ago from Ft. Dodge, to get work on the railways. He got a memoranda from J. C. Lee, the contractor, giving information as to a new road to be built, where he could get work. While in the city he fell into the company of Pat Maloney, and the two drank freely together. McGee had about fifteen dollars in his pocket when he got so full that he went out on the grass back of the Union avenue hotel to sleep it off. While there his pockets were turned wrong side out and his money taken. Suspicion was directed to Maloney, and he was arrested, On his person was found about the same amount and kind of money as was taken from McGee, and the memoranda given by Mr. Lee to McGee. A pouch of tobacco belonging to McGee was also found in Maloney's pocket. The case looked black for Ma-loney, and the examination before Justice loney, and the examination before Justice Biggs was about to result yesterday afternoon in binding Maloney over to the grand jury, when Col. Daily, for the State, concluded that it would be a hardship to keep the prosecuting witness in jail to have him here to testity before the grand jury in August, and if let loose there would be no certainty of his being here at that time. He preferred to have Maloney found guilty of simple larceny, and sentenced to a term in the jail. The case was held open until Monday morning.

Cheap Homes,

The fear has been expressed that the long felt desire to have the bottoms built up with homes might be thwarted by real estate owners putting up the prices of lots to too high a figure. To encourage the building of homes a move is on foot which will doubtless result in a favorable building boom. The scheme is for property owners to agree to sell lots at a low price and on easy terms to those who will build themselves homes upon these lots. The plan is to enter into an agreement, naming the lots which the owner will sell on these conditions at $200 each, the purchaser to pay $20 down and $10 a month until paid for. The person sell-ing agrees to forfeit $500 for refusing to such lots as he names in the agree sell such lots as he names in the agree-ment for the sum named, and the condi-tion of the sale is that the pur-chaser must at once begin the erection of a home. It is believed that a large amount of property will be brought into this syndicate, and thus secure for the workingmen and others who want cheap homes all the advantages which they can desire or expect. With a chance to get a lot at $200, so near to Omaha, and also to lot at $200, so near to Omaha, and also to this city, with a wagon bridge and a rail-way bridge connecting the two cities, there should be no difficulty in any man securing for himself a home of his own. Council Bluffs will gladly encourage the building of such homes, and whatever prices may be for those who desire simply to speculate in these cheap lots, the arrangements now being made will secure for those actually wanting to build, the advantage of a lot for a mere song. These lots are worth more than the sum named now, and will rise greatly in the future, but it is well to thus encourage the actual settler and give him an inside figure.

Boston Girls' Ugly Walk. Boston Letter: It was my good for-tune to be seated one pleasant afternoon recently on a beautiful lawn overlooking a most exquisite sweep of country. My chair was placed near that of the mistress of the country seat where I was calling and on the lawn were her two grown-up daughters. They are both lovely girls, well educated, accomplished, faultlessly dressed, and thoroughly accustomed to the best society both in this country and abroad; yet the mother sighed as she asked:

"Did you ever see anything so ugly as the way those girls walk?"
I was able to say truthfully that I had seen a good many uglies things.
"They walk like camels," she declared, ignoring my disclaimer.

I should certainly not have thought of owning it, but one could not but be struck by the force and truthfulness of her comparison. They did walk like camels. They could swing divinely; they play the plano extremely well; one sketches very prettily while the other is no mean performer on the violin; French, German and Italian they read easily and speak at least well enough to make themselves intelligible to persons who know the single tongae to which they were born: and literature they have an interest which has led them to read with very considerable appreciation the masterpieces of two or three countries. But with all these accomplishments the fact remains that they cannot walk well. They hold their elbows by their sides and wiggle themselves forward in a fashion which would be most painful to see were it not that we are so accustom-ed to this method of locomotion that we have almost come to regard it as the nor-

"I do wish," my hostess continued, "that somebody would establish a walking school. It is a popular fallacy that if a girl can dance she must know how to walk, but it is nonsense. Elsie dances like a sylph, but as I said, she walks like a camel. She has been taught to dance, but hasn't been taught to walk."

"But who is there to teach?"
"That is just the question. There ought to be somebody. You know how Miss Blank teaches whist."

"Yes," I said.

Miss Blank is a clever young woman of a fine old Boston family, who finding herself in need of earning a living, had the originality to hit upon the unique method of teaching whist as a means of doing it She has plenty of pupils, it is said, and does her work well enough to deserve them.

"No, why," continued my companion, does not somebody who is nice and a lady and needs to earn a living take to teaching girls to walk? I'm sure she'd make a lot of money and be confering a great benefit on the community as well. I am going to try to find somebody and have the thing started next fall. It is something we really need, and it is time we had it."

The idea is not a bad one, and certainly there is room enough for a walkingschool here.

AN ESSAY ON BOYS.

Bill Nye's Advice to a Father Who Has a Son Who Despises Labor. New York World: The following note addressed to the editor of the World has been passed over to my bureau for elucidation:

To the Editor of the World:
Please inform me the best things to do with a boy that won't work in summer.
M. L. B.

This was doubtless referred to me be-cause I have given more attention to human industry than anything else perhaps. I have also been interested in the haps. I have also been interested in the accumulation of boys.

But to get right at the solution of this question, Mr. M. L. B., without stopping to try and find out what your name is by carefully scrutinizing your initials, I would say at first blush that if I had a boy who would not work in summer I would use him as a winter boy. Nothing interests me more, M. L. B., than the careful study of boys. I would rather put on a base ball mask and watch a boy than to go stealthily into a hole in a negthan to go stealthily into a hole in a neg-lected canyou and pull a grizzly bear out

But I think that industry among the boys is not making such fearful ravages as it did when I was a boy. Boys seem now to be more able to restrain themselves in the matter of forming industrious habits, and do not become the slaves ous habits, and do not become the slaves of manual labor. I can see that I overdid it as a boy, and now that I am abun-dantly able to take life easy and enjoy well-merited rest, my whole being seems to be soaked in a morbid desire to work that even in England where it is looked upon with horror for a gentleman to ex-ert himself, I frequently lost caste by doing chores around the bara.

In the south, where the industry is controlled almost solely by colored people, I can see that I lowered myself by giving way to this wild, uncontrollable yearning for toil.

So that boys should not be allowed to think that industry is the one thing for which we are created. I wish I might say this in an impressive way, so that boys would heed it.

How would it do for the World to send a man down to your house, M. L. B., and see what he can do with your boy in order to make him a summer boy? The World wants to do what is right by its readers, but the trouble is to get its friends to harmonize on a policy. A few weeks ago a subscriber for the paper wrote to this office asking how to preserve watermelon rinds so that they would not work in summer, and here you come with a wild and a Macedonian cry for a recipe that will make your boy work during the same trying season. I am anyous to adjust this matter so that both of you will be pleased, but I have a good many other things to think of, and it is hard to give your matter the time and thought it really merits. would like to dwell at greater length upon the horrors of industry were it not for every large transport of the second for the same transport of the same transport for several far more important questions that are waiting here for a reply.

On my desk there is a pressing inquiry as the best methods for the amelioration as the best methods for the amendration of pimples, which it will not do to ignore. There is also a tear-stained note from Fremont, O., asking what to do to restore animation and induce artificial respira-tion in a hen that has fallen into a swill tion in a hen that has fallen into a swill barrel through no fault of hers. Another subscriber, in a spirit of bandinage, I presume—for surely no one could be so ignorant—asks what he can do to make his hydraulic ram sing while moulting. So you can see, M. L. B., that a man who answers all these questions during the week and then writes the matter for a thirty-two page Sunday paper is what might be termed a busy man.

Some would tell you if your boy will

Some would tell you if your boy will not work in summer to fill him up with New Orleans molasses and set him in a warm place, but that is no way to talk to a parent. I say either use him as a winter boy or swap him with some man who has a boy that won't work in winter. "BILL NYE-"
