Reiter, tailor. Summer goods cheap. One of Geise's brewery teams took a run yesterday and smashed the wagon badiy.

Permit to wed was yesterday given to Martin Sorneson and Carrie Thompson, son, both of this county.

S. D. Frum has bought of William Ma-loney a half interest in the Pacific house sample rooms and billiard hall. Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed.

Delsay, died Tuesday night at 1 o'clock, and was buried yesterday at 3 o'clock. A wedding at the Salvation army hall was the drawing card last evening. The house was a well paying one for a dime show.

Attend the anniversary social at the Methodist church to night. Methodist toasts, ice cream and other refreshments will be served.

There will be a meeting of the A. O. H. Friday evening, July 15, at 8 o'clock, All members are requested to attend. By order of the president.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Heft yesterday received the sad news of the death of their daughter, Mrs. John W. Hurd, at her home in Carson. She had been ill eight months. She leaves, besides her hus-band, two little children. Although the week day services in the Fourth street tabernacle have been discontinued, the Sunday night services will continue to be held through the heated term. These Sunday night services will be union ones, several churches uniting. William Lewis has added to his line of street vehicles two elegant coupes, one of which has already been put into daily gervice. The other is to be here by the service. The other is to be here by the first of the month. They will prove very convenient to the public, and the old rates will be maintained.

The cases against the water works company for contempt of court come up he-fore Judge Aylesworth to-day. The trouble grew out of turning off County Clerk Shea's water when the court had issued an injunction restraining the company from interfering with it.

Mr. Allen reports that the new city maps, showing both Omaha and Council Bluffs, will be ready for delivery this month. They will be in great demand, and the past work in this line done by Mr. Allen is sufficient assurance that they will be securate and extistion. they will be accurate and artistic.

Few shows have brought to this city so many crooks and loafers as the last one. There are a good many hanging around the city, who came here during the races, also, and some who have been driven out of Omaha. The police should gather in these fellows and prevent them from getting any work here.

Arrangements are being made for a grand concert by the Fifth regiment band at the opera house on the evening of the 21st. There will be in connection with it an exhibition drill of the Dodge Light Guards. These two organizations are becoming very popular, and the pub-lic will doubtless give the boys a hearty and practical support.

It is understood that the council committee on gas are invited to meet the officials of the gas company Friday night for a quiet conference. The gas company is probably paving the way for some new ordinance or proposition. It is safe to predict that there will have to be a big reduction in price and a big advance in quality before the public will any more privileges to the gas company.

Since the experiment of the electric light tower is made the gas company seems to be making a special effort to have its street lights show up as well as possible. It is a little late to begin to give more light, when so much better light is found practicable. The public cannot be fooled at this late day, and no improvement in gas can be so brilliant as to blind the eyes of the people to the fact that the streets of this city have not been sufficiently lighted for years past.

Fatally Shot.

Another victim of accidental shooting. It occurred at the residence of M. S Cook, about a mile north of Foster's green house. Mr. Cook's two grandsons, Frank and Harold Westlake, aged eleven and nine years respectively, and who live with their grand-parents, were who live with their grand-parents, were left alone in the house. Walter Cook had a pair of pants hanging up in the house, and in the pocket was an old revolver, loaded. The boys got out this revolver and were fooling with it, when Frank, the eldest boy, snapped the hammer and it was discharged. The ball, thirty-two calibre, passed into the abdomen of his younger brother, inflicting a wound which will probably prove fatal. The father of the boy is in Indianapolis and the mother is dead.

The Police Gathering in Crooks and Vagrants-Crumbs of Church Work-The Methodist Anniversary-Personal.

Cramping Crooks.

There was a full docket in the police court yesterday and Judge Aylesworth rushed through the cases as quickly as possible consistent with justice. There were a large number arrested as vagrants, that charge covering a multitude of sins. In the gang were three wellknown codfidence men, against whom there was no other specific charge than that of being crooked. The chief gave his name as Michael Murray, a gaay haired man who claimed to be fifty-three years of age and a harness maker by years of age and a harness maker by trade. He hailed from Atchison, Kan., Springfield, Ill., and other places. He was sent to jail for ten days. His fellow workers were younger. One of them gave his name as James Burns, and claimed to be a horseman. He said he had been one of the rubbers for Elmwood Chief, and he wanted to be let free as he was on his way to accept another job in somebody else's stables. He was a great taker, but had much trouble in making up a but had much trouble in making up a straight story under the judge's sharp examination. After he had patched one up, showing himself to be a hard work-ing, honest fellow, an Omaha officer, who chanced to be present, was called to the front. "Do you know nim?" was asked of the officer. "Yes, he's a crook, and an all around man." That settled it. Ten days. He stepped back with a wink at the officer, and a smile, as if re-lieved at getting off so easy. The other of the trio claimed to be a railway man named Spencer. He hailed from Georgia, but will be found for ten days at Jailer but will be found for ten days at Jailer O'Neill's.

Two others, charged with vagrancy, had an interesting history. They gave their names as Daly and Devine. It appears that they were wanted in Omaha for robbery. They had been in company with a third fellow, drinking, and taking in the city, and the third fellow got tired and went to sleep in a box car. The two others took advantage of his condition to rob hum. As they were going through rob him. As they were going through his pockets he woke, and they then took by force what they could not get by the sneak act. They used the victim roughly, choking and beating him, got his watch and some money, and then left him in and some money, and then left him in the car, locking the door so that he could not get out. They then skipped to this side of the river, and when he got out of the car he came over here to look them up. He pointed them out to the officers, who had quite a chase in capturing them. Nothing was sald about this robbery when they were brought in. They were booked simply as vagrants, and they were given a chance to get out of town were given a chance to get out of town or serve a term in jail. They naturally preferred to leave the city. Marshal Guanella was anxious to satisfy himself that they really went beyond the limits, so he accompanied them to the dummy train and saw that they got over to Omaha. As soon as they crossed the state line an officer from Omaha took them in charge, and thus they were got into Nebraska without the trouble of a

There was trouble over a game in one of the gambling houses, which led to W. Andrews being brought up for disturbing the peace. It seems that thefellow who lost on the game claimed to have been swindled, and that he roared so that Andrews blacked his eyes. Andrews pleaded guilty to the simple charge, rather than have the matter aired up and paid his have the matter aired up, and paid his

C. H. Curley was in for being drunk. He had taken off his coat and vest at the circus, it being so warm, and when he woke up in the station in the morning, he realized that much of his wardrobe had gone, and gone forever. There were several others who claimed to have been with the show, but who quit here and were left behind without money, having spent their earnings fooishly as they went along. Most of these were allowed to go with the advice to hurry on and catch up with the show.

The man Mayfield, arrested on sus-picion of being concerned in the robbing of Dickey's store, was held for further inquiry, although little could be learned to fasten the charge upon him. He claims to be a farm hand, and admits having bought a nickel's worth of crackers at the store, which caused suspicion to be di-rected towards him as possibly the one who had sneaked the pocketbook out of Dickey's safe. He was hanging around the show grounds until late in the evening, when arrested.

Robbed a Preacher.

Rev. Henry DeLong was last Monday avictim. He missed from his drawer about $83 in money and some sand tickets. Suspicion was directed to a boy named S. Huff, aged about fifteen years, and he was watched closely. Yesterday morning the boy hired a livery rig and was giving some of his companions a ride, and treating them liberally to lemonade and cigarettes. Enough evidence by this time had been secured, and so the police nabbed the youngster. He weakened at once, and told where they would find some of the money and where the tickets and other stuff were buried. Out of the $83 there was only about $31 left. The rest the boy had spent. He had bought a revolver, a pair of shoes, a hat, a dirk knife, and sundry smaller articles. The rest of the money missing had been spent in foolishness. Young Huif was arrested once before on the charge of stealing a revolver, and it was urged at the time that he should be sent to the reform school. Friends inter-ceded and saved him, but now it seems that he will have to be cared for perma-Twenty Years Ago

Last evening was given over to the listening to reminiscenses from some of those who went through the struggle to get this building up, which was, twenty years ago, the finest in the city, and yet now is deemed ancient.

Rev. Henry De Long, who started the first subscription for this church, gave an interesting address. In referring to the struggle to get this church built, he said that it would be easier now to start in to build a $100,000 church than it was then to build this. He paid a high tribute to Rev. Joseph paid a high tribute to Rev. Joseph Knots, one of the earliest pasters, and who is still a resident of this city. The speaker told about the old cottonwood church, which was occupied before this Captain D. B. Clark, another old settler and methodis' also gave an address. Re spoke of the great assistance given by the women in building this church. The membership of the church when Rev. Mr. Knotts took the pastocate was sixty-five. vinced.

J. W. & E. L. Squire make beautiful abstracts of title and deserve the success they are enjoying.

Knotts took the pastorate was 214. In Should Have Informed the Bull. San Francisco Chronicle: There was a very important state official in California was less than 8,00. The membership was now 425. Captain Clark gave the largest cash subscription ought to know him. He was one day

mrs. Tostevin gave an account of the work done by the ladies. The first festival held by them was in what was then known as Paimer's hall, the building now occupied by the Nonpareil. After the church was enclosed a fair was held in that. The first money raised by the ladies was paid for the lot on which the church stands.

The ladies raised the money for plastering and frescoing. While the church was building the ladies raised in all over $2,000. Mr. Gallup, another of the early workers in the church, spoke of the sacrifices and the toil necessary to get this church, but yet she was glad it had been built. It had done great good.

Elder Shinn, who had been connected with Methodism in Iowa for thirty years, also spoke briefly of its growth in the state. Council Bluffs had kept full pace. It was no small thing to tear away a saloon and rear such a church upon its ruins. In this good work the women had done grandly. The speaker had succeeded Rev. Mr. Knotts and he never knew of such a band of sacrificing women as were here. The noblest work was, however, the number of souls saved and helped.

Rev. W. T. Smith, the present presid-ing elder, spoke briefly. He first met Brother Knotts and Brother Fleming in Hilsdale, Mills county, in 1865. Brother Knotts was on his way to take charge of this church and Brother Fleming to take charge of this district. The speaker was just settling in a two room parsonage and he entertained the visitors over Sun-

Church Work.

From the thirty-fourth annual convention report of the Episcopal church in Iowa we glean the following items of interest regarding St. Paul's church in this city. There are 140 families connected with the church and 450 individuals. During the past year there have been thirty-eight baptisms and sixty-one persons have become members of the church by confirmation, eleven have been added by letter, making the total increase for this year seventy-one. This parish leads the state in the number confirmed, and has done so for two years. Also in the number of marriages, the rector having married thirty-eight couples, the largest number reported by any other church in the state being fifteen. It is so also in funerals. The value of church from being among the lowest in the state has increased to second, Dubuque heading the list, Council Bluffs being a good sec-ond, with $58,000 worth of church prop-

A Tramp Shot, Officer Hendrick yesterday afternoon shot a man whom he had arrested for vagrancy. He had the fellow near the Nothwestern depot and was just turning in a call for the patrol wagon when the tellow broke and run. The officer fired at him and the ball struck him in the fleshy part of the thigh. He was taken to the station and there cared for. The wound is not considered dangerous, and the city pursician will endeavor to remove the ball this morning. Officer Hendrick says he did not intend to hit the man, but that he fired at the ground and the ball struck something and

CHANGED HUSBANDS.

A Trade in Lovely Woman That Has No Parattet.

Says the Pittsburgh Commercial-Gazette: About five years ago Joseph Miller was married to Miss Elizabeth Minemarch, the daughter of a respected and well-to-do West-end family. Miss Hinemarch was a highly enlighted young well-to-do West-end family. Miss Hine-march was a highly cultivated young lady, of a pleasing disposition, and made a good wife. Mr. Miller was a puddler, and was employed at Lindsay & Mc-Cutcheon's mill, in Allegheny. The young couple lived happily for nearly a year and they made their home in the Thirty-fifth ward, this city. Mr. Miller was overtaken with adversity. He got out of work and left for another city in search of employment, leaving his wite search of employment, leaving his wite at their home in the West end. Shortly after he went away news of his death reached his wife's ears and she was stricken with grief.

But time healed her sorrows, and in a year she became the wife of R. E. Connor, a former bosom friend of husband No. 1. They had not yet lived together a year until, to their amazement Mr. Miller put in an appearance. He had never been ill, but some evil-minded person had circulated the rumor of his death for some unknown reason. In the face of these circumstances all parties were at a loss to know what to do. Both men had been warm friends in their boyhood days. They had worked and lived together and regarded each other as brothers. A consultation was held and resulted in husband No. 1 verbally agreeing to release all claims to his wife to Mr. Connor, the latter agreeing to support and care for her as his lawfully wedded wife.

In the course of a few months the usual amount of unpleasantries that are to be expected in such cases showed them-selves in Mr. Connor's lite, and things began to go crosswise. Then he was willing to resign his position as husband and gave back to Miller his wife. The release was made, and husband No. 2 returned to the solitary life of a bachelor and took up his abode on Ann street,

Mr. Miller then lived with his wife a few months when he also found that life would be more pleasant if he parted with her, and therefore they separated, Miller went to board on Rebecca street, Allegheny, his wife remaining with her mother in Shalersville. It was not long until O'Connor learned of the separation, and he again presented himself as a can-didate for her supporter and husband and was accepted. But a short time ago a bitter feeling began to spring up in both men that showed signs of serious culmination, and it was deemed best for husband No. 2 to withdraw and give up possession to the rightful owner.

Thomas Hinemarch, the grandfather of Mrs. Miller, (as she now is), came to Alderman Richards' house in the Thirty sixth ward, Monday evening last, July 4th, with his daughter, to have some arrangement for peace made. As a result, the following document was formulated

the following document was formulated before the magistrate:

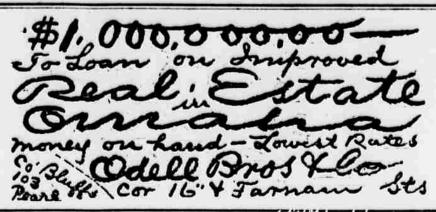

"Articles of agreement made this day between Joseph Miller, Elizabeth Miller and R. E. Connor:

"I, Joseph Miller and Elizabeth Miller, agree to live as man and wite, and R. E. Connor agrees to leave her, her lawful husband, and not go near while they remain together as wife and husband, from this date.

JOSEPH MILLER,
ELIZABETH MILLER,
R. E. CONNOR."

The document was brought back to the office by Mr. Miller himself and agreed to before the 'squire. The parties all left the office in good spirits, Mrs. Miller appearing to be the best satisfied. Mr. Connor will return to his bachelor home on the south side. He is a boiler-maker by trade, and has quite a respectable income. Mr. Miller will live with his wife at her mother's home in Shalersville.
