Tormenting an Italian.

Last evening Mart Klemar attempted to amuse himself by badgering Francesco Danzi, the proprietor of a fruit stand on the corner of Thirteenth and Howard streets. The Italian took the gibes of his tormentor good naturedly for awhile, but soon tiring of the sport, turned his back to Klemar. The latter thereupon struck the Italian upon the top of the head, knocking his hat down over his eyes, and answered the Italian's expostu lations with a blow upon the back of the head. The police were immediately summoned and Danzi seized a hatchet to defend himself from further assault. Upon the appearance of the police, Kle mar took to his neets, but after a lively chase of several blocks he was captured.

The Italian was also arrested, but was released on giving $25 bail. Insulting Street Car Drivers.

Car No. 7 going south on the Thirteenth street line, about 11:39 yesterday morning, had nearly reached Farnam street when a lady rang the bell to stop the car. As the car had not quite reached the crossing, the driver made no attempt to stop it and the lady, being a stranger in the city, and not understanding why the car was not stopped, rang a second time. The driver stopped the car and at the same time thrust his frowsy head into the car and shouted in a most insulting manner, "Ring 'er ag'in." The lady looked surprised and left the car in confusion, without saying a word.

A few days ago a driver on the same line stepped back into the car and said to a lady, "Why don't you pay your fare?" The lady answered that she had passed her fare to the gen-tleman standing by the money box. The driver then turned his attention to him and asked, "Why don't you put that fare in the box?" The gentleman answered that he did put the fare in the box, when the driver retorted in plain English, "You are a liar." The passengers here interposed and declared that the gentlemad did drop the money in the box, but that owing to a defect in the box the nickle had gone down into the lower part instead of stopping on the glass slide.

A Midsummer Night's Dream.

The summer evening concert at Metz's Tenth street garden last evening was a musical treat and heartily enjoyed by a fair sized and very appreciative audience. Among the numbers on the programme was Schubert's serenade; South ern songs of America, with violin solo by Nahan Franko; Strauss' waltz, Morning; overture, from Semiramide, Rossini selections from Rigolletto, Verdi; Span-ish dances, Morzkowski, and selections from the beautiful opera of Carmen Bizet. It was a pleasure to hear Nahan Franko's finished violin performance. His rendering of the Spanish dances, al though brilliant in some of the higher strains, was in a degree preliminary to the delicacy and feeling and remarkable purity of tone which characterized the overture from Semiramide. The most difficult compositions he renders with ease, and such melifluous notes as roll from his instrument are seldom heard from a violin. Indeed, his whole orches tra, the Philharmonic, is of a high artistic quality, and well worth any trouble al-

THE FIRE RECORD.

Ten Thousand Barrels of Oil Destroyed at Constable Hook.

NEW YORK, July 90,-By 6 o'clock this morning the great fire at the Standard Oil works at Constable Hook N. J., was under control. Two large warehouses three immense tanks, four big docks, and over 10,000 barrels of oll were destroyed. At one time it looked as if the office, several warehouses, the dozen or more tanks in the neighborhood, a large brick store house, docks along the river front, and the factories of the Bayonne Chemical Works, Oxford Copper and Sulphur company, and Standard Match company, and the large lumber yard ot A. W. Booth and the large lumber yard of A. W. Booth & Brother, would be destroyed. At the docky there had been a large num-ber of vessels. They were, however, towed out into the stream, but none too soon. First one pier took fire, then another and another, until four large piers were in fiames. By this time the fire tugs had arrived and they fought the fire from the water. Each of them threw several streams upon the burning piers and it was only the efforts of the men on the tugs that checked the spread of the fiames, and saved the fac-tories and lumber yards along the water tories and lumber yards along the water noon. The buggy was wrecked and the horse bruised, but the doctor was unhurt. On the land side the fire had also been got-ten under control, and the office, storehouse and neighboring tanks were saved. The Standard people estimate their loss at about $1,000,000. The Clothing Salesmen's association held an enthusiastic meeting last night, at the Business college on Farnam street the main subject discussed being that of closing the clothing stores on Sunday. The report of the committees manipulat ing the business showed that two-thirds of the clothing merchants of Omaha had agreed to close up their stores on Sun day, and the mayor had promised to use his influence to close the remainder. Another Metropolitan Feature-The City Auditor Talks.

Omaha is showing its metropolitan character in some new way every day. The latest is the establishment of saloons in alleys, which is a feature of the big cities of the world. One of these saloons has been opened in the alley near the postoffice, and another is about to start in the alley back of the court house.

"I think this is a good idea," said City Auditor Goodrich yesterday morning. "If we are to have saloons, it seems to me that the more secluded places they are in the less complaint the police will have of any nuisance arising from their presence. I is also a great benefit to denominational drinking. In all the large cities I have visited, the very best saloons have alley locations." "Rather bad for fat men," remarked s waggish bystander. "Our alleys are too narrow for the comfortable navigation of some people I know."

"There's where you're wrong," replied the genial auditor. "It would be a decided benefit-no danger of staggering, you see.'

'Speaking of saloons," said the deputy city clerk, "reminds me that six saloons have given up the ghost and closed their doors. We have 244 left, however."

Beautiful Windows.

There is now a large force of carpenters engaged in putting the new chamber of commerce into condition for opening. The wainscotting, which is about nine feet high, is of hard polished and paneled wood, and is the most beautiful thing of the kind in the city. The stained glass windows have arrived and will be placed in position in a few days. Three of these will be inserted in the windows on the south end of the chamber, and represent hogs, cattle and sheep, while in the two square openings in the ceiling under the skylight will be placed beautifully colored emblems of the grain and other producing business.

The wonderful efficacy of Swift's Specific as a remody and cure for rheumatism and all blood discases, has never had a more conspicuous illustration than this case affords. The candid, unsolicited and emphatic testimony given by the venerable gentleman must be accepted as convincing and conclusive. The writer is a prominent citizen of Mississippi.
