BURINERS OFFICE, No. 43. MIGHT EDITON No. 23.

N. Y.Plumbing Co. Reiter, tailor. Summer goods cheap. J. J. Stewart is improving his house in Mynster street.

Chris Bosen is building a fine residence for W. H. Ware.

The house sewer is being laid along Bancroft street.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Hayne was buried yesterday.

Captain Messimer last night took charge of company A, the Dodge light guards.

An elegant free lunch will be served this evening by Jim and Bill in their rooms, No. 503 Broadway, up stairs.

One of the motors has been satisfactorily overhauled and yesterday moved over the rails, the experiment proving success-ful.

Louis H. Gell, of Omaha, and Lena Goetz, of Council Bluffs, were married Thursday by Rev. John J. Aschambeamer.

The Chicago & Rock Island evening train stops regularly at Weston and Un-derwood, thus accommodating the public better than under the old arrangement. A shooting match is being arranged to take place in a day or two between the Shea brothers on one side and Hardin and Stubbs on the other. It will be live birds, thirty yards rise.

The case in which Robert Long asks for a receiver to be appointed to take charge of Hotel Manawa was set for yes-terday, but for some reason was post-poned until Tuesday, when it will be heard by Judge Carson.

The Industrial American is the name of a new paper of the union labor party policy started at Harian by A. F. & A. M. Cox. Its initial number is very readable, and the amount of advertising patronage indicates that it is to have a good financial foundation.

A Harlan paper claims that Robert Long borrowed at Shelby the $600 which he invested with Frank Clark in the hotel business. If this is the case Long is in the uncomfortable position of being punched for the amount between bills payable and bills receivable.

Howard Hamon, James Green and Howard Hamon, James Green and Willie Dugan, three Omaha boys, were in custody here yesterday. They had run away from their homes and had no money with which to get back across the bridge, and could not swim. They are bridge, and could not swim. They are held until their friends can send for them. Spirit Lake regatta tickets on sale July 24, 25 and 26, good to return on the 30th. To members of the Council Bluffs rowing association a rate of 1 cent a mile has been made, making the round trip $4.45. To all others the round trip rate is $6.35. Special Spirit Lake sleeper will leave Sunday night at 7 o'clock. All wishing berths and tickets call on J. C. Mitchell, ticket agent, No. 421 Broadway.

The wreck of the old Coy house, on Broadway, is being torn down. The own-ers, who are non-residents, recently de-termined to patch it up and let it stand, but the authorities stopped the repairs. The sentiment of the community sustained the authorities, and the owners of the property have wisely concluded to tear down the old building. A brick block will soon occupy the site, which is one of the most desirable on Broadway.

For female diseases and chronic dis-cases of all kinds, call on Dr. Rice, No. 11 Pearl street, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

THE DOINGS IN THE BLUFFS. Preparing For an Interesting Session of Court On Monday. A RATHER SUSPICIOUS DUDE.

Around Items.

Court on Monday. Next Monday Judge Carson is to hold court mainly to consider the saloon cases which have so long been in contest. There are some injunctions asked for, and some contempt proceedings. New evidence has been gained and there is no little curlosity to see the new faces on the witness stand, and hear these informers cross-examined. The decision of the court will be watched for eagerly, for in the contempt proceedings the penalty is heavy, consisting of $500 fine and six months imprisonment, and there seems no way for dodging the penalty, if the cases are made to stick.

Snatched On Suspicion.

The police have been watching for two or three days two colored men who were looked upon as suspicious fellows. They were prowling about at all hours of the night looking into buildings, banks and stores, and acting as if bent on a break. Officer Thomas, of the merchants' police, and Officer Stevens, of the city force, fol-lowed them about Thursday night until satisfied that it was best to take them in. when the arrest was attempted they made an effort to run. One took in one direction, the other in the opposite. The officers fired at them, but only suc-ceeded in capturing one. He is recog-nized as "Dude" Henderson, who has had quite a career at Des Moines, and who is not altogether a stranger here. He was yesterday sentenced to thirty days in jail on the general charge of vagranev

Happy Children.

Yesterday the little folks of the Home of the Friendless were given an enjoyable trip to Lake Manawa. Express and 'bus men generously gave the little ones a free ride, and others contributed to their enjoyment, so that they had a free ride, a free bath, free ice cream and a jolly time. The little ones were as merry as could be, and as they started off for their day's recreation they went singing through the streets. Most of the inmates of the home have few such days of joy, and the occasion was heartily appreciated by them. The children are said to be better cared for than when the investigabetter carea for than when the investiga-tion of the institution showed up such a startling state of affairs. That investiga-tion has resulted in some changes for the better that are known. The policy of refusing to allow good families to adopt children from the home has been aban-doned. The appearance of the children doned. The appearance of the children, at least, indicates that they are getting better food and more of it, and better care than at the time of the investigation.

Brief Blaze. Yesterday noon a gasoline stove blazed up in the home of C. W. Hunt, corner of Pierce and Grace streets. The stove had been leaking a little, and Mrs. Hunt had just filled the gasoline tank. As she lighted the fire it blazed up fiercely. In attempting to put it out one of her hands was badly burned. A fire alarm was turned in, but the blaze was over before the arrival of the department. The damage to the house was light.

Some Advice. One of the best ways to help build up Il Bluffs is to ave employment dismissal. Very few men in the army resign without good cause; as Ben But-ler has expressed it, "Few die and none resign willingly." Hence up to five years ago it was pretty well understood what resigning meant. Now the old ele-ment has been generally weeded out, and young officers can go into the army with-out having to become rakes. With the advance of civilization there is practic-ally no frontier and pone of the reasons ally no frontier and none of the reasons for the old regime.

PUNCH PHOTOGRAPHS. A System to Which Tourists Strongly

Object. San Francisco Chronicle: When the tourist from the east gets as far on his way to California as the Missouri river, his regular round-trip excursion ticket is "taken up" and another ticket, reading "taken up" and another ticket, reading from his original point of departure to this city and return, is given to him in exchange. This is a new method, adopted by all the overland lines except the Atchison, for the laudable purpose of preventing the scalping of tickets in this city. But while it serves this end, it is productive of a greater evil than that which it is intended to overcome. It subjects the traveler to great inconveni-ence, gives rise to disputes between him-self and the ticket agents, and often proves an expensive matter for the pas-senger, resulting in delays as well as an-noying, and what some travelers consider impertinent inquiries, and make the renoying, and what some travelers consider impertinent inquiries, and make the re-turn passage arything but plain sailing. Much complaint has been made in consequence of the introduction of this system. The trouble all arises from the fact that the ticket given at the Missouri river by the overland agents contains what is called a "punch photograph" of the holder. This is supposed to be a complete de-scription of the passenger. Along the margin of the ticket is printed in a straight column the following words, in small, black type:

workingmen, and then when the work is done pay their wages. Those who try to shield and bolster up enterprises at the expense of those who earn their bread by the sweat of the brow, are equally responsible with those who refuse to pay those who have worked for them. It is all easy enough to shout and to scold. One instance is sufficient. A laboring man lives in a house here owned by an Omaha man. The agent of the house is an attorney here. The workingman is honest and industrious. He worked hard and faithfully, and calculated on the $28 due him, to pay the $14 rent, and have some money left with which to buy some necessaries for his family. Now that he has earned the money he cannot get it. The debt is not disputed, but the man who employed him says he cannot pay work- It is no benefit to the working-man to be given employment if he is to be kept out of his pay. Work to build up Council Bluffs, but work to build it up on the sure foundation of prompt pay for honest work.

Weeding Out "Black Sheep."

ten years preceding and ten years fol-lowing the war, and the officers who seem to make it a part of their duties to be drunk are very few. Prior to the war the army was located on the frontier, and the man speet their lives in the form for the army was located on the frontier, and the men spent their lives in the forts far away from civilization. To drink, to gamble and debauch were the results of these men's en-deavors to endurs their lonely existence. I knew more than one commanding offi-cer who debauched the character of every young map under him hy methods. I knew more than one commanding offi-cer who debauched the character of every young man under him by making it a sort of matter of reproach to any officer in the fort not to play cards or carouse with him. Habits thus formed were con-tinued and impregnated the service. After the war the army was recruited by men who had only practical experience, having come from volunteer companies. To them came the tradition of anti-bel-lum days, the tradition that to be an offi-cer in the United States army one had to be a jolly dog. The thing became fear-ful and soon at headquarters it was de-termined to stop the demoralization. What was known as the Benzine Court of Inquiry was formed. whose objects were to inquire into the antecedents and character of officers. No man was called before it who had not been known as one of the offenders, and therefore to be summoned meant dismissal. Many resigned rather than appear, but here was little difference between that and Townsend strents, can sometimes make good his claim to being the original holder of the ticket. In any event, there who employed him says he cannot pay him. The workingman has no money with which to go to law, and there are such larger claims that his would be swallowed up. The Omaha landlord demands his money, and urges his agent in Council Bluffs to force the col-lection. The poor fellow knows not what to do. He cannot afford to lose $28 and his landlord does not seem willing to wait until he can earn another $29. These men, with plenty of money in their pockets, strut about and tell the poor fellow to keep still and let it go—it is for the good of the city, and the enterprise must be encouraged. Those who are shouting so hard should go down in lheir pockets and pay off these workingmen. All enterprises giving honest employ-ment to labor should be encourage pro-vided the workingmen are paid for their work. It is no benefit to the workingis delay and annoyance, for no fault of the passenger, but in order that the arbithe passenger, but in order that the arbi-trary rules of the Southern Pacific com-pany may be rigidly enforced. Instances of the injustice of the new system are not wanting, and could be pub-lished by the column. One of recent oc-currence was that of a young enstern lady who was rather slim when her punch photograph was taken, out a brief sojourn in California brought her under the classification of "stout." under the classification of "stout." Being classed as slim on her ticket she could not, without much difficulty, ob-tain return passage. The signature ex-perts squnted at her handwriting through the microscope, and made her stand off to be gazed at by the figure ex-perts. Although greatly annoyed and, in fact, insulted by this treatment, the young lady bore the ordeal patiently and after an hour of dilly-dallying and sub-jecting the ticket and its holder to all sorts of tests, the agents finally con-cluded to grant the application for re-turn passage, paid for two months be-forer. A queer case was that of a gentle-man and his wife whose descriptions had become transposed by the carelessness A captain in the regular army says in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "The army was full of black sheep just after the war, and for ten years there was a constant weeding out of the drunkards and gamblers. The army is a garden of paradise now compared to its condition become transposed by the carelessness of the train agent and who had to dance attendance on the Fourth and Townsend street officials in order to have the mat-ter set right, thereby losing their train and having to remain over another day. Eastern visitors who are not used to this sort of experience do not know exactly what to make of it, and they ask: "what kind of people are these Californis peo-ple, anyway, and where do they get their ideas of the courtesy due to travellers on their lines?" A Great Singer. London Musical World : In one of the many attractive environs of London Mme. Jenny Lind Goldschmidt lives to-Mme. Jenny Lind Goldschmidt lives to-day, passing her old age in a most peace-ful, happy manner. She is in her 66th year, but is still youthful in feeling and intensely interested in every musical event. Among the greatest of the achieve-ments witnessed by the people of Vienna was that accomplished by herself, and it must be a source of great happiness to her to recall her triumoh in the Austrian capital. To-day she passes quietly in and out of her home, unnoticed except by those who know her worth as a friend and neighbor, and greet her with re-spectful deference. Forty years ago every civilized courtry in the world knew of her wonderful powers and was ready to do her homage. She could not pass from her hotel door without encounter-ing crowds, who would stand for hours ing crowds, who would stand for hours to see her. Probably no woman upon the stage ever held precisely her position. There may have been quite as much curi-osity to see other famous singers, and crowds have followed them, but the peo-ple of two worlds respected Jenny Lind, and the old feeling has not died out. She is still the great artist, and no one has dethroned her in the hearts and minds of these who heart her vars ago those who heard her years ago.
