The Grand Opera House. There is a force of nearly one hundred men at work upon the new grand opera house, into which the exposition hall is to be metamorphosed. Mr. J. D. Jones, who, by the way, is an old Omaha newspaper man, is superintending the work and will manage the house after it is completed. This house is to be first-class in every detail, and in perfecting the in every detail, and in perfecting the plans in view over $25,000 will be expended. It is to be ready for occupancy by the last of October, and on Sentember 15 is to be opened by Modjeska. The seating capacity of the grand opera house will be something over 2,000, with 1,400 orchestra chairs upon the ground floor, and the balance in the galleries and boxes. Of the latter there will be sixteen, all dropping as they come toward the stage and being upholstered and finished with an elaborateness and significance with an elaborateness and significance surpassed in no city of the west. A sixteen-inch wall will separate the opera house proper from the exposition hall, but so arranged by a series of enormous arches that, with but little trouble, the whole can be thrown into one vast building. The scenery, which vie in beauty and attractiveness with that of any of the leading houses of Chicago or St. Louis, is to be finished by Graham, the well known scenic artist, while the opera chairs and small furniture are to come from the Grand Rapids, Mich., school furfrom the Grano Rapids, mich., school fur-nishing company, and are to be very fine, richly upholstered and with luxu-riant plush seats and backs. They are of the latest pattern, self-folding on vaca-tion by the occupant, easy, convenient and ornamental. While the scenery is to be of the most artistic finish, the drop curtain will be a marvel of beauty and costliness, of the portier order, hanging in heavy massive folds and parting in the middle a la the Madison Square theatre of New York and Albaugh's opera house of Washington, D. C. There are to be four exits on the ground floor, aggregating forty-five feet of exits, which offers every facility for easy escape in case of fire, panic or other disaster. The main entrance is to be on Fifteenth street, with a gallery exit, while on Capital avenue there will be an eight foot ground floor exit: also five exits from the tier of galleries to the ground floor, and at no time, or in any position, will any portion of the audience be over six-teen feet from the ground. Another nnovation on the plan of construction of Western opera houses will be the aisles in the main auditorium. which widen as they approach the exits. In the circular ventilating openings in the west wall will be a system of huge rotary fans, run by water motor, connected with cold air ducts from the side registers, so the temperature of the house can be admirably regulated at all times. The entire house is to be heated by steam and illuminated temporarily by gas, but later on the incandescent electric light will be put in. Julius Meyer's Musical Union orchestra, fourteen pieces, has been engaged for the season of '87-8, and the assurance of music of a superior ar-tistic merit is assured. The exposition hall will be opened on the evening of the 18th of next month by a grand terpichorian carnival, and it will be readily seen that an enormous lot of work must be accomplished within the interium between the present and that date, but the architect Mr. George A. Masters and Manager Jones declare that it will be done. It is to be a magnificent structure throughout, and the in terior will probably equal, if not surpass in resplendence, beauty and richness, any house west of the Father of Waters. The ceiling and walls are to be frescoed after the most modern and remote styles, while a crescent of heavy damask portieres of richest color and costliest quality are to embellish the vacant area, back of the orchestra chairs, while niches with elegant statuary, grottos and drinking fountains, urns for floral decorations, and all the late novelties in ornamentation and embellishment are to be provided. This house, let it be under-

JOHN CAMPBELL. The funeral of Mr. John Campbell, the well known citizen, who died on Wednesday last, took place from his late residence, corner of Fourteenth and Dodge streets, yesterdaymorning at 10 o'clock. Before the cortege started, Dean Gardener of the Trinity cathedral, read the Episcopal burial service in the presence of a large number of friends and many of the relatives of the deceased, and the choir of the cathedral feelingly rendered a couple of hymns. The following gentlemen acted a pall-bearers: Judge Lake, Messrs. George F. Brown, Joseph Barker, J. H. Lacey, A. J. Simpson, Robert C. Jordan, Major Balcombe and William G. Maul. The remains, which were encased in a metallic casket, covered with flowers, were interred in the Prospect Hill come-

A Midnight Crusade.

A BEE representative was tipped yesterday that a number of prominent retail dealers, in conjunction with three influential wholesale whisky dealers, had a meeting Friday evening in the counting room of one of the Harney street wholesale houses, and a line of action in opposition to the midnight law was drawn up Notwithstanding professed ignorance on the part of a number of liquor dealers visited by the BEE vesterday morning, it is an irrefutable fact that a poel is being formed for the purpose of testing this ordinance, and preliminary action doubtless hinges upon the result of the Higgins case before the police court this afternoon. Just what their modus operandi is to be and what they hope to accomplish is one of those things no fellow can find out.

A Model Driver.

There is a driver on car No. 7 of the Thirteenth street line, to whom the patrons of that road desire to direct the attention of the company. Recently about 11 o'clock two gentlemen ran to catch the car in question as it was cross-ing Farnam street. A passenger said about the commissioners when they saw them and rang the bell, were considering the plans for the pro-

The driver saw the runners, and instead of stopping the car for a moment shouted, "Let them run; it 'll do them good," at the same time whipping his horses into a more rapid gait. The his horses into a more rapid gait. The ear, however, was overtaken, and the in-dignation of both runners and passen-gers was of a most ardent nature. When the car reached the railroad crossing it ran off the track, and then the driver addressed himself to the horses in the foulest and most disgusting language, notwithstanding that there were several ladies in the car.

The Carpenters.

Since the beginning of the differences between the contractors and their employes, the carpenters have evinced a strong inclination to have their disputes settled without a strike. It is in the same spirit that they have resolved not to shut off work to-day, as was incorrectly ramored, unless compelled by the masters to do so. Under the contractors' agreement of June 13, they claim that they have the right to leave work on Saturday at 4 o'clock, receiving nine hours pay. They will accordingly adopt this course to-day, as usual, since the dating of the agreement, will also return again to work on Monday unless dismissed by their respective employers. In this way they would throw the responsibility for the strike upon the contractors. It may not be inopportune at the present juncture to reprint the full text of the contractors' agreement:

THE AGREEMENT.

OMAHA, June 13, 1887.—A special meeting called for the carpenter contracters of Omaha, resolve, that the 5th day of July, 1887, to the 1st day of January, 1883, that nine hours do constitute a days work for all journeymen carpenters in the city of Omaha, and eight hours on Saturday do constitute the same with additional pay and half for all over time. Said contractors reserve the right to grade their men as they deem proper, and that thirty cents per hour be baid to all competent carpenters and joiners. John McGuinn, T. H. Smith, William Everson, J., B. Farrell, J. A. Hazell, O. N. Bennett, S. MacLeod, James Griffith, Hamilton & Wooley, Simmonds, Reeves & Co., Shaw & Field, A. W. Phelps & Son, Naring & Reynolds, B. M. Nicolson, James Richards & Co., Moyer & Hicks, Davis & Hedding, L. McGreer, R. Stevens & Son, G. W. Buck, Charles Jerrold, E. J. Corby, John H. Haute, George Waddell, J. G. Salisbury, A. Moyer, James Haynes, George C. Allen, Latey & Benson, Peter Sperlin, J Weeda, M. T. Murphy, B. Job 8f, Finlazson & Noble, Charles A. Nelson and H. B. Brown.

It has been stated, however, that the parties to the above, agreement, do not

It has been stated, however, that the parties to the above agreement do not consider it binding, inasmuch as the men undertook to procure the signatures of the contractors who were still working ten hours per day, and failed to do so. A contractor said to a BEE reporter yester-day morning, "What fools we would be to continue working only nine hours whilst numerous other contractors have their morning of the property of the contractors of the contractors have their men engaged ten hours per day." It is generally understood that quite a number of the master carpenters will grant the men the concession asked for, while on the other hand a number express themselves as opposed to allowing nine hours' pay for eight hours' work on Saturday.

Yesterday morning a reporter for the BEE was told by E. L. Collins, member of the grievance committee appointed by the two carpenters' divisions in the city, that the above expressed the sentiment of the members of those bodies.

"It is not," he said, "as asserted in Tuesday's BEE, that the carpenters are going to strike. They propose to abide by their agreement, which is to work for the contractors at terms, which, by their own agreement they obligated themselves to pay. If they violate that agreement, it will be them, not us, who will be responsible for the strike. The announcement made by the contractors a short time ago of a different agreement between themselves is not binding upon us. It is not a contract. It is signed by only one

"What will you do if the contractors adhere to their idea of rescinding their former agreement?" "That is in the future. I can not tell you what we may do. But I want to tell you that our union has not contemplated

County Hospital Bids.

The county commissioners yesterday afternoon opened the bids for the construction of the new hospital, upon which a number of contractors have been making estimates for some time. Architect Meyers, of Detroit, whose plans for the building have been adopted, was present.

for the BEE met one of the commissioners and asked him when the contract would be awarded. The latter replied that he did not think he could tell. The board certainly would not make undue haste in the award, because the business involved was of too great moment to receive other than the most careful attention. "There is more in this," said the official than the mere canvass of the totals offered by the contractors. We must see that these bidders have in every way complied with the requirements which we printed in connection with the plans. One of these requirements was that not alone the cost of the structure but also the kind and quantity of every material which entered into its construction was to be accurately specified, even elmost to the amount of nails which would be required. When we were build-ing the present court house we received and excellent suggestion as to the neces-sity of this close observance of details. The contractor put up an iron stairway leading from the second story to the court rooms. In his schedule he did not mention the weight of the stars per foot but when he came to put them up they were so light as not to be able to bear half of the weight which we knew would be imwe were compelled to order the light ones out and these now in place to be put in, which, as you see, are not too heavy for the uses to which they are being put. This fact and others make i necessary for us not only to insist upon a perfect schedule, but also to examine minute details with a great deal of care. This can not be done in a moment nor in an hour, and so far as I am concerned, I propose to take time enough to make all the examination necessary to enable me conscientiously to perform my duty. I think the other members of the board feel the same as I do."

It was noticed yesterday, however, that when the bids were open, some of the bidders seemed to have forgotten the requirements above referred to. If the commissioners adhere strictly to the resolution adopted some time ago to not consider bids which did not comply with all the requirements they proposed, they will be compelled to drop the bids of certain of the contract ors for the reasons above enumerated. The competition is going to be an active one, and this of itself will direct many eyes to the acts of the commissioners and eyes to the acts of the commissioners and impel them to exercise not less care than they did when they adopted the plans of Mr. Meyers for the proposed county hospital. As the reporter was leaving the court house he was overtaken by a wealthy citizen who has always taken a great deal of interest in public matters, who remarked. "There was a great deal posed hospital. I believe these men did all for the best, but now, for my own sake I am going to see that they act as they should for the best interests of the county, and that no bid is accepted until it shall have been found to comply with all the specifications laid down by the

"Adam Cole."
"Here."

"So I see. You are charged with being drunk; were you?"
"I cannot till a lie, judge, I was loaded to the gunwales, but it is a rare thing with me." "Do you work?"

Every day. I just run up from Central City, fell in with the boys, and—well here I am."
"If I let you go—"

"I'll flee as a bird to the moun tain, judge, I'll—"
"Cut it off—flee!"

And Ormsby turned him out.

"Mrs. Samantha Clark,"
And Samantha ambied up before the austere bench, and she was so black that the chief ordered the gas lighted. "Samantha," came in stern tones from samanta, came in stern tones from his honor, "you, too, are charged with being full as a goose, and atomizing the peace and quiet of your neighborhood. What about it."

"It's a durned lie, jidge, I'm too poor to git drunk, it's all I kin do to git bread lit alone gittin' drunk."

"Was I? If you could have seen me on the eve of the Fourth you'd never axed that question. That night, jedge, I was loaded for bear, I was!"

"But that was on Birthington's wash-day, and was expected. Now, how long will you stay sober if I let you go?"
"All my life, jedge, all my life!" and she held out both hands imploringly. She was permitted to go. Nellie Moore, Alice Kent, Zoe Coleman, Clara Veme and Libbie Thompson, noc-turnal pedestrians, were mulcted $6 each and again set afloat.

THE ARMY.

Return of General Dandy from a Visit to Fort Duchesne.

General Dandy has returned from a trip recently made with General Crook and another officer to Fort Duchesne. He reports that the camp seems to be in a satisfactory condition. There are four company quarters erected and two more are to be added to these. In these and other improvements $25,000 have already been expended and $10,000 more will be raid out this year. These are the same than the part of the paid out this year. There are six companlocated in the fort, four being infantry and two cavalry. Up to the pres-ent only the back part of the officers' quarters have been erected, the other parts being left for later appropria-tions. The fort is intended as a protection against the possible uprising of the Uintah and Ute Indians, both of which adjoin. The agency of the Uintahs is at White Rock, the agent being Colonel Burns. He is in charge of the agency of the Uncompaghres, at Ouray, but is rep-resented there by a clerk. The means of reaching the fort is by the Denver, Rio Grande and Great Western, to Price, and thence eighty-five miles by wagon, which requires about two days. The latter part of the road is through a desert, though the fort is supplied with water which is brought three miles, and as a conse-quence trees are, being planted and a garrison farm of forty acres is well under

ODDS AND ENDS.

The busy season being over and things not so rushing any more we have now time to look after the stock that is left, and find that we have accumulated during the season quite a few odds and ends. These consist of some single suits, one or two of a kind, and quite a lot of suit pants. Very frequently we sell the coat and vest from a suit and then the pants are left. We have placed them on a counter by themselves, and though the price was formerly very low we have marked them down still further. There are some very fine goods among them. We will sell them only as they are. That is, make no alterations as the price is so extremely low that w cannot afford to have the expense of altering them, but those who will find a fit in this lot will get the goods at about one third their value.

MENS FURNISHINGS.

As unusual bargains in neckwear we offer 100 doz. elegant scarfs at 15c; retailed in all first class houses from 50c npward.
