Yesterday a number of the members of the Omaha Wheel club made the run to Plattsmouth on their wheels. They left in twos and threes and the distance, twenty-four and threes and the distance, twenty-four miles, was made in the average time of three hours. The first trio to arrive were Badollet, Miller and Clarke. The riders were T. N. Clarke, H. H. Rhodes, H. B. Mulford, H. C. Miller, Myern Wheeler, Herbert Wheeler, Perry Badollet, A. E. Schneider, J. F. Allard, Guy E. Mead, O. W. Cook. They were warmly entertained at Stademan's by the members of the Plattsmouth Bievele club, consisting of T. M. Patterson, Dr. T. P. Livingston, J. K. Pollock, C. C. Parmelee, Sam'l Patterson, F. Carruth and T. H. Pollock. After refreshments both clubs rode to the Omaha Turners' pienic. Messrs, Miller and Mulford returned home by way of Glenwood.

The Penrose and Hardin rifle club starts out with a charter membership of twenty, composed of the solidest and best business and professional men of the city, and judg-ing from the score made at their preliminary shoot last Friday, it will not be long before they will rank up among the best clubs in the country. Telegraphic matches will be shot with the teams of foreign cities all through the late summer and fall months, the local team in these events is to be determined by those making the best averages up to the times of said matches.

A number of the Penrose & Hardin Rifle club went down on the range to-day for the purpose of sighting their rifles for Friday's shoot. In a trial match the following scores were made, 200 yards off hand, American standard target:

The Omaha Gun club regular weekly shoot takes place this afternoon upon the club's grounds back of Shaw & Fields warehouse, grounds back of Shaw & Fields warehouse, and the prospects are for a large attendance and good scores. Frank Parmelee and his "pumper" are in fine form, and it will require shooting to keep him from sporting the badge this week.

Gunners, it is to be regretted are out every day, and young chickens are being killed and smuggled into the city by the wholesale. It will rewardens such as exists in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and the other eastern states. It will require but precious few more years to exterminate the chicken in this state at the indiscriminate at which they are shot at this day. And ducks and geese, without and protective legislation, will follow, too. Already the geese are less certainly found each fall and spring at their accustomed haunts along the far-famed Platte, and in a few more years goose shooting, even here, will be a years goose shooting, even here, will be a thing of the past.

The Omahas are wreaking vengeance upon Wichita, the new member in the Western league, but it is pleasing to note that they have found somebody they can beat.

Chicago Times, July 25: J. E. Gould and T. W. Fleming, of the Pennsylvania Bicycle club, passed through here this week on their wheels, having came from Philadelphia and being bound for Omaha. They left home May 16, and have averaged sixty-one miles a day while traveling.

The Omahas will be home Friday evening.

The Omahas will be home Friday evening, and Saturday afternoon play the St. Joes. Many of the public are not aware how great are the profits made from directing the game of base ball as a business in some of the cities of the country. For the amount of capital invested there is probably nothing like it in any form of amusement. The expenses of base ball are, first, in hiring and fitting up of the grounds unon which it is played; next, in the salaries paid the players; third, in the traveling expenses of the clubs. None of these require much preliminary outlay. There must be a guaranty as regards some of them, but the game generally more than pays its way after the senson opens. It will be singular if some enterprising manager outside of those who have at present a monopoly of the cream of the business does not before long devise a method of breaking in upon it. For base ball, rightly managed, may be made more renumerative than the drama, the concert hall or the sporting field of any kind.

Boston affords a good example the present year of what may be done in this way. There will be about sixty-three games of base ball played in the National league during the season, of which about twenty have been played. The attendance at them has averaged 4,000 people. This, at fifty cents a licket, yields considerably more than $2,000, 1 game, for there are reserved seats to the Many of the public are not aware how great are the profits made from directing the game amount of 1,200 in number, at 25 and 50 cents each, the most of which are generally sold, and there are perquisites of the grounds which bring in money. It is a low estimate to set down the receipts of the season at $125,000. Out of this are to be taken, perhaps, $35,000 for salaries of players, $2,500 for ground expenses and a considerable sum for the cost of transporting the players from one city to another. It will be liberal to call this altogether $50,000. The profits, therefore, that the season of five months will represent will be $75,000.

Used. NEW YORK, July 25,-|Special Telegram to the BEE. |-A Saratoga dispatch to the Tribune says: District Attorney Martine appeared to feel prefoundly disturbed about the possible Issue of Lawyer Stickney's motion for a stay of sentence upon Jacob Sharp, which will be argued before Judge Potter to-day. He said the appearance of Bourk Cochrane in the case introduced the dangerous element of politics. Cochrane was re-tained directly after the jury brought in an adverse verdict, and it is said the sum of $100,000 was placed in his hands. Martine said he could not conceive how such a corruption fund could be advantageously used at this stage of the case. Why Coch-rane should be brought into the case anyhow rane should be brought into the case anyhow is a mystery. He is not known as an acute lawyer, deeply versed in the statutes and familiar with precedents for the purposes of argument before the court, the object of which is to convince the judge that a legal error has been committed upon trial. He was the last man in New York who would have ordinarily been selected.

The convention of Charities and Conventions met last year at St. Paul, with thirty-seven of the United States repre-sented by about 500 delegates, including many ladies. These delegates, or many of them, were philanthropic, charitable people, deeply engrossed in the work, and many of them wealthy, who would not allow any of their personal expenses to be paid, and would not accept any salary. The money to be raised by the committees appointed last night is to be paid out for the rental of the opera house, the printing of a book, quite a volume, which is to contain the proceedings of the convention; the speeches and essays to be prepared to be read an the occasion; stenographers, clerks, messengers and a proposed drive about the city.

THE MOTOR VICTORIOUS. The South Omaha Election Favors the Motor Line.

The contest between the Omaha Motor Railway Company and the South Omaha Railway Company, as to who should win the franchise for the right of way was ended yesterday, the election resulting in favor of the Motor company. The fight was a spirited one, but the motor line seemed to be the favorite from the start. Out of 275 votes, the motor won by a vote of 254 aves to 21 navs. The South Omaha company lost by a vote of 157 to 136. The following is the vote in full as cast in the three wards: FIRST VARD.

COUNTY SCHOOL MATTERS. Several Districts Xet to be Heard

From in Reports.

Prof. Bruner, county superintendent of education, says that he has not received the annual report of the directors of districts twenty-one, thirty-six, fortythree and tifty-three. This failure on the part of these officials delays him in the preparation [of his annual reports, especially so in the matter of the apportionment of the state and county school funds. He has decided, he says, to withhold until these reports are furnished, the apportionment aforesaid. The amount of the latter from the state is $14,409.27, and of the county $1,128.65. The professor also states that he is unable to do the work, which is necessary in the matter of closing up the affairs of those districts which have lately been cation and the school directors shall ap-praise the school property of the abol-ished districts, so that the expense may be equitably adjusted between all. Mr. Clark, the president of the board thus far, the professor claims, has not been able to attend to the business. Especially Mr Bruner, is anxious to get the report of Director Taylor, of Dis-trict No. 53, part of which was taken into the city under the new charter, and the officers of which have been legislated out of power.

Out on a Strike. There is an absence of carpenters from the street yesterday occasioned by the fulfillment of the BEE's announcement on Friday last that the Carpenters' union did not intend to strike. The announcement had been made on Saturday last the carpenters would not go back today because of the agreement which had been entered into by a number of the contractors to insist upon nine hours work instead of eight on Saturday. This announcement was an erroneous one and has so been demonstrated by the fact above referred to. Several of the contractors, however, did insist upon carrying out their later agreeement, and three of them, it is claimed, discharged all of the hands who were unwilling to work nine hours on Saturday. Among these was the firm of Norling & Reynolds who employ about sitty men. Some of the latter who were seen by a BEE re-porter, said they felt the matter would be satisfactorily adjusted and that be-fore long all the men would be at work again. The carpenters claim their desire is not to regulate the wages. They con-cede the right of the contractors to grade their employes; all the latter desire be-ing a settlement of the number of hours on Saturday.

Highcard Henney Gets There. Staff Captain Aspinall, with his left eye lying like a little liquid lake in the mellow shadow of his nose, appeared before Judge Berka yesterday morning as complainant against Bill Lindley, Sam Bang and Highcard Henney for disturbing the services of the Salvation army at the old city hall building Sunday night. He said that their invocations to heaven were answered by a chorus of "rats" and "chestnuts" from the illustrious trium-virate facing his honor, and when re-monstrated with they spat upon their hands and evidenced an uncontrollable desire to clean out the army of the Lord. He lay his hand on Higheard Henney shoulder in a way calculated to persuade him to vacate the premises, when Highcard cross-countered with his left and eaught Captain Aspinall up along the proboscis with such emphasis and force as to cause the slight discoloration surrounding his right glim, which, by close attention, the court might observe. The court did, and with a thunder cloud mantling his brow, he declared the stern decree:

"Henney, you can go up for ten days, and Bang and Lindley, you can accom-pany him for five each!" And Whalen drove them out.

Taking Papers.

Clerk Ijams, of the district court, is experiencing a great deal of annoyance because of the infringement of one of the rules of the office by some of the lawyers who take filed papers to their offices. This practice obtained pretty generally, several years ago, much to the an noyance of both court and clerk, so that a rule was laid down that papers should not be taken from the office. rule worked well for a couple of years, but lately it has been infringed upon so that it has discommoded everybody in-terested. Mr. Ijams spoke of the matter to Judge Wakely, and the matter will receive that gentleman's attention.

Fell to the Basement.

Yesterday afternoon one of the carpenters, Monroe by name, who is working on the new building on the corner of Fifteenth and Howard streets, had the misfortune to miss his footing and fall from the se cond story to the basement. He was picked up for dead, but in the course of time consciousness returned and he was taken to his home. No bones were broken, but he was terribly bruised, and it is possible that he has suffered some internal injury.

Prospective Bliss. A marriage license to Mr. James ROBBED OF $100.

Wm. Grantz, a German, is Robbed By Two Poles. This morning about 3 o'clock two Poles, named Joe Cobus and Lanriozoe Wodentz, were arrested for robbing William Grantz, a German, of $100. Grantz was boarding with Wodentz, and was awakened this morning by the cries of Wodentz, wife who was being cruelly beaten by her husband. Upon looking for his clothes, he found his vest outside the door and rifled of $100 that had been placed in an inside pocket. Upon charging the Poles with the robbery they pounded hum up in good shape. Officer pounded him up in good shape. Officer Pieronett appeared on the scene and after a lively chase, succeeded in captur-

To the Reform School. Sheriff Coburn and and Deputy Sheriff Houck took Nellie Wilcox, Thomas Connelly, Owen Connelly, Henry B. Williams and Herman Albretch to the reform school at Kearney yesterday morning. The latter is the check boy who did such adroit stealing in Morse's store. All the others are disorderly youths. The parents of some of them were at the when the parties were leaving, a few tears were shed, but it being evident the youths were going away for their own benefit and the city's good, the partings were not very heartrending.

City Meat Inspector Hickstein condemned fifteen sacks of peanuts belonging to Moses Bennett, who runs a little grocery store at 1430 South Thirteenth street. Bennett claims that he had bought the gubers of Sloan & Johnson before the fire, but the inspector condemned them on account of rotteness and mouldi ness, caused by having been soaked with water at the conflagration last Decem-ber. The garbage master was instructed to haul them to the dump.

As an evidence that the rush of business is being maintained in the police court throughout July, it is but necessary to state that thus far Judge Berka has disposed of only 748 cases, with the prospect of making it a full thousand by the 31st. If arrests are made at such a tremendous ratio with a fifth of a police force, what would be the result if Omaha had a force commensurate to her size and importance. Sunstroke.

A BOY'S REVENGE.

How He Made Life a Burden to ·Supercilious Bank Teller. Baltimore American: There is in Washington a small boy, not more than ten years of age, whose indulgent mother keeps him well supplied with pocket money. This young man opened an account with the local savings bank some time ago, and on April 1 he had on deposit there about $45. Two or three days later he had a falling out with the teller of the institution. For nearly a week he tried to think up some method for set-tling the score and at last he lit upon a plan. He went to the bank and drew out $3) from his store. Then he went over to the treasury building, which is just across the street, and got his three "tens" converted into thirty "ones." Next he proceeded to make out thirty deposit slips, each for one dollar. These he carried to the bank, one at a compelling the poor teller to make thirty separate entries in his books. The next day this young fiend again drew out $30. Again he visited the treasury, but this time he had his money changed into silver quarters, bright from the mint. hundred and twenty deposit checks were then prepared, and a correspond-ing number of entries had to be made in that unfortunate teller's big books. Then for three days an armistice was declared, but at the end of that time $30 was again drawn out, and this time when the boy visited the treas-ury building it was dimes that he wanted. The regulation deposit slips were pre-pared once more, and the teller gritted his teeth when he saw that he was again to be made the victim of that boy's vindicativeness. At last the 300 dimes were all in the bank, and the young villain prepared to reduce the store of his wealth to ickles, but he was notified that the bank would insist upon the thirty days notice allowed by law, and for a time the teller rests.

Giving and Taking a Light. Philadelphia Item: There is a certain variety in the manner of giving and tak-ing a light for a eigar that is interesting to all smokers. The Italians and French successfully copy the Spanish style, which is the most graceful and elegant of all, the only possible objection to it being that it may sometimes carry politeness beyond a reasonable range. But after all, it is simple and friendly enough The Spaniard bows and asks his neigh bor for a light. The latter, returning the bow, immediately presents him with his cigar, holding out the lighted end at a slight angle between the thumb and second finger. The other takes the cigar, and, after procuring the needed fire from it, reverses it skilifully and returns it, the entire operation being accompanied by another graceful bow and each raises his hat as he turns to go away. The Spaniard always smokes through his nose. He considers it ex-travagant to waste any good smoke through his mouth, and inveterate smokers in all countries agree with him. The German is more polite in asking for a light than he is in giving it. Even with the best intentions, in the latter case his efforts have the appearance of reluctance. Sometimes when his eigar is smoked down nearly far enough he will throw it away immediately after granting a request for fire. This among the Latins is considered rude and boorish in the extreme, and is sometimes regarded as positively insulting.

The average Englishman hesitates be-fore he gives a light, and finally acts as if he had accomplished a great feat in con-descension. Instead of lifting his hat, his hand is more likely to go into his pocket. and he is apt to give a parting pull with an air of indignation as he stalks away. Probably this come from the fact that he never asks for a light himself and is al-ways well armed with matches. The American, of late, seems to be somewhat averse to letting anyone take a light from his cigar. He takes it for granted that it must be so much better than his neighbors, and, not wishing to contaminate it, he answers an appeal for fire with a match. Sometimes he politely lights the match, and in such cases he pre sents it with an air good enough for any Spaniard. But this somewhat new custom may possibly be of Irish parentage. The Irish peasants always strikes a match for his fireless friend or fellow-traveler, and even in a gale of wind he will hold a lighted match in the hollow of his hands and humorously issue orders for the prec

In this country it need not be done with that extreme politeness and elegance which may be said to be the exclusive property of the Latins, and which is probably beyond the reach of colder and more sober races; but it should be accompanied by that good-fel lowship which is governed by common sense, the foundation of all politeness.

Enlightening a Barkeeper. Chicago Journal: A friend told m an amusing experience the other day which illustrates the ingenuity which a man when he wants a drink very badly will exercise in order to obtain relief for his inordinate appetite. It appears that a young man approached him on the street, and, telling a piteous tale of privation and woe, solicited sufficient to purchase a meal. My friend, who is peculiarly open to these appeals, much to the detriment of his purse, gave the fellow all he had about him in change, 10 cents, telling him that would at all event keep him from starying. Scizing the money the man started off, and was joined by a companion who had been watching develop ments from a short distance, and the two made off at a round pace in earnest consultation, and were followed out of curiosity by my friend. The two entered a saloon where whisky is retailed at 10c a glass, and the first man, throwing down his dime, called for whiskey straight. Seizing the bottle, he poured out a level tumblerful, much to the secret indignation of the bartender, who muttered something about "taking a bath." Ruising the glass to his lips, the fellow drank half the contents, when, suddenly stop-ping with a look of disgust, he said, "what's the matter with this whisky any-how?" "Nawthin'," replied the knight of the white apron and the Alaska diamond headlight, "you A marriage license to Mr. James other two were leaving the saloon when the bartender, whose anger had changed into admiration, said: "Look here, you two chaps, if you are ever hard up for a drink, come in here and I'll stand treat. I've been in the business for ten years and thought I knew all the ropes, but this takes the cake." My friend was of the same opinion, and said if he had had another dime in his pocket he would have bestowed it on the ingenious rogues. Longman's Magazine says: Mounted infantry suffer in any case under many disadvantages as an effective force; onethird of the number must be left to take care of horses, and the remaining twothirds are hampered by the necessity of. keeping within a certain distance of their naimals; while the horses themselves form a conspicuous mark for the enemy's artillery. Compare mounted infantry under these conditions with a similar number of men mounted upon 'cycles. More inconspicuous and more silent, the

'eyele soldiers could advance with equal rapidity and ease, and the machines, stacked in pairs or thrown down in the grass or under trees or hedges, would be quite invisible at a very short distance, and even if seen much less easily damaged than a similar num-ber of horses. The whole of the men would be available for the ordinary work of infantry, thus adding one-third to the effective strength of the detachment Such bodies of cycle soldiers, drawn from among the marksmen of our army, would, as Lieutenant-Colonel Savile re-cently suggested, possess an especial value to the field. As scouts the cycle soldiers would again have many points in their favor. When compared with infantry, they would be decidedly superior in speed; while, should occasion arise, the cyclists could drop his machine in his tracks and act entirely as an infantry. man. When keeping watch over a wide stretch of country the extra pace attaina-ble by the light-riding scout would be of immense advantage.
