Fine coupons for ladies calling. Wm. Lewis, telephone 128. Office 419 Broadway.

Work on the Harrison street sewer has been commenced. Paving is next in order.

In the finishing of Grahl's new building, C. Blumer has done a fine job of painting.

Permit to wed was yesterday given to August Hansen and Annie C. Jacobs, both of Walnut.

Dan Griffin was arrested last night on the charge of rape preferred against him by the Wyckoff girl.

The new water system seems to be working fairly well. Out of fifteen police calls only two came in twisted.

Benton street folks are indulging in picnics this week. One was held at the lake yesterday. The other will be tomorrow.

John Sonitval was found asleep in Sayliss park, and when aroused by Officer Dean the fellow was very abusive. His nap cost him ten dollars.

G. S. Lawson, while doing some work on the premises of J. Jellifer, had his right arm bitten by a watch dog, who was too keen on the watch.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Peterson died yesterday morning at their home, on Nineteenth avenue, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets.

Frank Stelling of Omaha, conducted the services at Harmon mission Wednesday night. He gave an interesting address on the old theme "The Prodigal Son."

The city council meets in regular session next Monday night. Those who have bills against the city must file them with the auditor before to-morrow evening.

Four of the advance corps of Andrew novelty show are at the Creston house, arranging for the appearance of the show itself for four days, commencing August 3.

There was no session of the district court yesterday. The adjournment for the day was on account of the death and funeral of Mrs. Reed, wife of Judge Reed, of the supreme court.

It is expected that Judge Carson will this morning declare his opinion in regard to the application for a receiver for the Hotel Manawa. The saloon cases will be taken up again Monday.

J. D. Doty and Miss Moore were yesterday afternoon married in the parlors of the Creston house, Justice Schurz officiating. The happy man is from Glenwood and the bride from this city.

A meeting of citizens was held last night at F. J. Day's office, and a very encouraging start made toward securing a large manufacturing enterprise, the owners of which are planning on removing from their present location.

The move for establishing a Chautauqua assembly is going along all right. The prospects are good for raising the necessary amount to secure a good location. Those interested are working nobly to get it started on a sound basis, and so arranged as to insure its permanent success.

There is still a demand for Langert tickets. There have been three additional rows put into the balcony and last evening there were only nine seats left in the whole house. The opera house will have its capacity fully tested Friday night.

The second alarm of fire turned in yesterday afternoon was caused by the starting up afresh of the fire in the stove in the laundry where the earlier blaze had been put out. The alarm coming from the stove alarmed those near by, but there was found to be no further need of work on the part of the fire lads.

One fellow who was before Judge Aylesworth yesterday morning on a charge of vagrancy, when asked what his business was, said that it was mainly having fits. The unfortunate wanted to work his way back to the poor house at Des Moines and was given a chance to try it.

The old gasoline street lamps were being taken out and stored yesterday, to make room for the new ones, under the contract recently made by the city. The new lamps are said to be far superior to those now being cast aside, and if they must be excellent, for the old ones were more brilliant than the gas.

The board of trade is lying very dormant at present. There should be new life infused in this organization in some way. When wide-awake, and vigorously trying this organization did much for the city, and secured several valuable enterprises. There should be a fresh hold taken, even if the heated term is enervating.

The new round house of the Union Pacific is to be a fine one. It will be of brick and with stone trimmings. It will be large, and arranged so as to easily double the capacity when necessary. The location is fixed between the elevator and freight houses. It is to be built at once. The stone and other material is being placed on the ground, and arrangements were being made yesterday for more brick.

The public is getting very impatient about the motor line. The season is rapidly passing and there is little being done apparently towards completing the line. The frequent promises to complete it within a few days, or at the most, two, have grown chummy and there is little use to publish more of them. There remains but little to be done, but that little is quite essential. There is a rush for the lake daily, and with the motor line in running order better accommodations would be afforded.

Notices were served on the Pacific house and the Ogden yesterday requiring the running of their sewerage into the Broadway sewer, instead of running into private sewers direct into the creek. The change can be readily made at the Ogden house, as the sewer now in use runs right across the line of the Broadway sewer. The change cannot be made at the Pacific house without considerable trouble and expense. The sewer now in use runs from the rear of the hotel, and to change as required will compel the running of the new sewer from the rear right through the property into Broadway.

J. W. & E. L. Squire's abstract books are a number of systems of accuracy. Have you seen their new book; it is a monster and contains 900 pages.

A LAUNDRY BADLY DAMAGED

Fire, Smoke and Water Do Heavy Damage to Washable Clothing.

A WOMAN JUMPS FROM A WINDOW

The Complicated Machinery For Abating Nuisances—Funeral of Mrs. Judge Reed—Sentiments of Cross Case.

A Laundry on Fire.

About 7 o'clock yesterday morning the fire department was called out to work on a fire which had broken out in the Council Bluffs steam laundry, No. 734 P. roadway. The origin of the blaze is unknown. When first discovered it was in the drying room, and as the fire in the stove had been started but a short time before the reasonable supposition is that this was in some way the cause. The wood work of the room was dry as could be, and the flames spread rapidly. The fire department did good work, and speedily drenched the place, and saved further damage by fire beyond the charring of the wood work. The building is owned by Mr. A. C. Larson, whose loss is probably $1,000, on which there is insurance to cover. The machinery in the laundry was very little damaged, the chief loss being the clothing, most of which will require re-washing, and some of it will be damaged more or less. The loss to Messrs. Fisher & Burg, the proprietors of the laundry, will probably not exceed $300. Their loss is difficult of determination, as it depends somewhat on the ease of settlement with patrons whose clothing was in the fire. As they have been using every endeavor to please the public, are both hard workers and doing their best to build up the business, those who have any claims for damaged linen will doubtless be generous in settling. The laundry will be in readiness to proceed with business as usual in a few days.

J. H. D'Emery and family resided up stairs over the laundry. They were awakened by finding their room filled with smoke and they made a hasty exit. Mrs. D'Emery jumped from the upper window and fell upon the awning, from which she fell to the sidewalk, striking in her fall one of the men employed in the laundry. She was uninjured by her sensational leap. The damage to the furniture up stairs was about $200. No insurance.

The German Insurance company had a policy of $1,000 on the building, $135 on household goods and $125 on machinery belonging to Larson. The London Assurance company had $1,250 on the building.

How Not to Abate Nuisances.

The city marshal is being kept busy responding to demands for his official attention to be paid to numerous nuisances which exist in various parts of the city. Under the present complicated arrangement of laws and ordinances, it is difficult for him to act very promptly or satisfactorily. Any citizen complaining of a nuisance must first call the attention of the alderman of his ward to the existing nuisance. That alderman must inspect the place in company with the mayor, or with some other alderman, and after the two have got through smelling, they report. The board of health then instructs the city marshal to serve a notice to have the nuisance abated. If no attention is paid to this, then the board of health can instruct the marshal to file a complaint. Then a suit is begun, with the usual contingencies for delays and contests. Such is the routine of the complicated machinery. The city marshal really has very little power in these cases, and yet he is naturally the first one to whom an indignant citizen applies. There are many causes of complaint which individuals do not feel like taking action upon. Many shrink from complaining of their neighbors and wait for the city marshal to act. It seems that there should be a health officer in fact, as well as in name, who would be paid for looking after these cases, and who would be held responsible. There are many alleys where alarming nuisances are allowed to remain week after week. The streets, too, are often used in a manner which would be an insult to a decent alley.

Funeral of Mrs. Reed.

The funeral of Mrs. Judge R. Reed was held yesterday afternoon, and was very largely attended. The courts of the city adjourned, and most of the members of the bar were present. The services were very appropriate to the burial of one of her character and life, they being simple, but very impressive. Rev. Dr. Phillips, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which she has been so long a member, officiated. The remains were in a richly draped cloth casket, and the floral arrangements were simple, but gracefully arranged. A plain gold plate, with the simple inscription of her name and age, was upon the casket. A large number of carriages filled with sympathizing and sorrowing ones followed the remains to their last resting place.

Trying the Wrong Man.

The Red Oak Sun has been devoting much space to the details of the Dr. Cross murder trial, and it expresses the sentiments of many in saying: "Attacking the character and maligning the memory of a dead man should be regarded as unmanly in a court room as it would be anywhere else. The Sun has previously expressed itself regarding the treatment of several of the women in the Cross trial, while under cross-examination, and the cruel and unfeeling attack upon the memory of a dead man in the presence of his widow. A stranger in the court room could have thought Dr. McKine was on trial for getting killed and that the witnesses in the stand were accomplices with him in the crime of being shot to death."

Returned With Honors.

The excursionists returned yesterday morning from Spirit Lake, where they went to attend the state regatta which occurred Tuesday and Wednesday. With them returned the Council Bluffs double, Messrs. Sadler and Livingstone. They won the junior race, making the fastest time on record. In the senior they had a "sure thing," barring accidents, but in turning the stake boat they made a miscalculation and sounded it wrong. This mistake caused them to take third place. Mr. Livingstone, however, having concluded their tour after an absence of some six weeks, during which they were very successful and won several races, will now return to their daily labors.

The entire party were all well pleased with their trip and treatment.

E. H. Merriam of the Council Bluffs rowing association having been elected secretary and treasurer of the state association, he, with others interested, will be their influence to have the next state regatta on Lake Manawa.

A Heavily Assaulted.

A warrant was yesterday issued for Justice Schurz's court for the arrest of Dan Griffin on the charge of rape. The complainant is Miss Sarah Wyckoff, a girl aged about sixteen, who lives in the southern part of the city. The statement is made that she went in company with Dan Griffin Wednesday night to "the island," as it is called, and while there he overcame her by brute force, and after abusing her shamefully, left her to get home as best she might. She was found about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, in a deplorable condition, and was brought to her home. Her sister came up town yesterday to secure the arrest of the man reported to be the victim of the outrage was unable to leave her bed, and that up till noon yesterday she was in an almost unconscious condition. Griffin is a railway man and the officers went after him last evening.

Mr. Mattox says the sale of Langry tickets at Lincoln lasted less than two hours and seats then sold at a good premium. He reports the Haverly success as extremely good for this season of the year, and that the renowned minstrel troupe are better than ever having an entirely new company and are now carrying more people with them than on any former tour.

COUNCIL BLUFFS STEAM LAUNDRY.

"PINE TREE" JIM.

The Deep Vermillion Tint That He Gave San Francisco.

San Francisco Examiner. "The queerest character that has come to New Mexico in many years, and the one that has led the strangest career, is a tall, uncouth fellow called 'Pine Tree Jim,' said J. D. Lauder, of Santa Fe.

"Pine Tree" Jim is an old Californian, by the way. I do not know his real name, and I do not know that anybody else does down our way, for he never went by any other name, and he has been in various places in this state, he went to Colorado, and had a series of experiences about the time that Leadville was on the very top notch of its boom. I believe he never got anything there, though, that amounted to anything, and along in the spring of '81 he came to Santa Fe. He was about the hardest looking customer you ever saw—rough in appearance, was not particularly clean, as you may suppose, had a scraggy beard, and was the general picture of the impecunious mountain prospector. He was about six feet two inches in height, and has often reminded me of the picture you see of Uncle Sam, supposed to typify our national character. It was on account of his great height that he took his name.

"An odd life he had around the Santa Fe saloons, until he was so much on the ragged edge that he had to do something. Then he got hold of an old burro, some bacon, and a small outfit, and went twenty-five south, into the Corralos mountains. Below him he had a number of the old placeres, or placer mines, of the early Spaniards. These grounds were so old that work had very many years before ceased upon them, they being, as you supposed, thoroughly worked out. Immense quantities of gold had been realized from them, and Pine Tree Jim conceived the idea that the place whence the gold came was high up in the Corralos.

"The fellow was right, for in three or four months he struck a vein of gold that while not very wide, was astoundingly rich, and in less than a week he sold out for $250,000. The purchasers of it were W. W. Griffin, present of the First National bank of Santa Fe, and T. B. Catron, and H. L. Waldo, wealthy lawyers of the town, the latter the solicitor of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad. Well, this mine, today is the best property in New Mexico.

"And what did Jim do with his clean quarter of a million? Got on the biggest tear you ever heard of. He came to Santa Fe and spent his money lavishly royally. He was not a cultivated fellow, had no taste for books or the arts, but he liked a good time, from the wild western standpoint, and he had it. The whiskey and champagne he drank, and he made other people drink, and the money he threw around was a sight to see. Then, too, Jim staked all his friends, and played everything with a lavish hand.

"It couldn't have been over three months again till the long, lithe miner didn't have a cent. He was plumb broke. Well, he started out on one of his lone jaunts at prospecting again and wound up in Arizona. There for five years or more he has been prospecting about him till just the other day, before I
