Yost, assistant United States appraiser, and formerly private secretary to Governor Stanford, was the first witness. He was examined at great length, out nothing of value was elicited from him, Frank S. Douty, secretary of the Western Development and Pacific Improvement companies, was next placed on the stand. He informed the commission that, acting on the advice of counsel, he must absolutely decline to produce certain books of record, which the commissioners asked for. Any books relating to the Central Pacific solely were opened to inspection but no others. Arguments and questions failed to shake the witness and the proceedings were abruptly terminated. Governor Pattison said the case would have to go to the United States circuit court to determine the powers of the commission.

ASSAULTED BY A TRAMP. Horrible Experience of Mrs. Noble

Near Leon, In. DES MOINES, Ia., August L - Special Telegram to the BEE. |-Last Saturday a tramp entered the dwelling of Mrs. Lewis Noble, a most estimable young married lady living about three miles from Leon, Decatur county, and called for a glass of water. It was given him and he then retired to the woods a short distance from the house, where he removed some of his clothing and returning to the house made a brutal assault upon Mrs. Noble and then escaped. Yesterday morning the sheriff arrested him concealed in an old house near the depot and last night he was completely identified by Mrs. Noble. To-day the news has spread and is being discussed by knots of excited men in Leon, and the probabilities are that the beast will be lynched.

The demo-cratic losses are mainly in local contests. The legislature will be largely democratic.

THE LOTTIMER ESTATE. One of the Executors Rypothecates

$250,000 in Bonds. NEW YORK, August 1.— Special Telegram to the BEE. J—Jerome L. Hill has confessed that he took railroad bonds to the amount of $250,000 belonging to the Lottimer estate of which he is one of the trustees and used them as margins in dealing in stocks. Three stock exchange firms are concerned in the matter as they received the securities, and prolonged litigation for the recovery of the bonds is apparently unavoidable. Hill was a partner formerly with a well known dry goods house, of which William Lottimer was the head. Lottimer died about ten years ago, leaving an estate which was valued at close to $2,000,000. About $1,500,000 was represented by railroad bonds, first-class and other securities of high order. The estate was placed in trust for a long term of years and William A. Lottimer son of the decayed. and William A. Lottimer, son of the deceased merchaut; John Bloodgood, of the well known brokerage house of John Bloodgood known brokerage house of John Bloodgood & Co., who was son-in-law, and Hill were made trustees and executors. The will of the old merchant expressly provided that none of the trustees should be placed under bonds. There was not the slightest suspicion of any irregularity on the part of Hill until Friday last. The day before he sent for an intimate friend of himself and the Lottimer family and told him that he had been unfortunate in stock speculation and had used as margins $250,000 of the securities belonging to the estate. He seemed to be in belonging to the estate. He seemed to be in great distress and was anxious to find some relief in confiding the secret of his misfor-tunes and wrong doing. The Foster & Thompson law firm are counsel of the estate. Thompson said yesterday that his firm had taken no proceedings yet against Hill and had made no attempt to put him under sur-veillance. "We are concerning ourselves at veillance, "We are concerning ourselves at the start," he said, "In seeking to recover lost property. I suppose the stock exchange houses which have bonds will decline to give them up, and we will then sue for their re-

Steps Being Taken Toward its Reorganization for Effective Work.

AN ENGINEER'S EXCURSION. Local Knights of the Throttle Will Take an Odting at Lake Manawa-Other Items About Town. Law and Order League.

A meeting was held at Trinity cathedrai last evening for the purpose of reorganizing the Law and Order league, the object of the organization being to help the enforcement of the laws, and particularly the Sunday laws. The attendance was rather small. The main speech of the evening was made by Dr. Atterbury, of New York City, who re-viewed at length the successful operation of the league in that city. The Rev. Mr. Zahner, of All Saints church; the Rev. Mr. Clark, of the Presbyterian church, and Mr. L. P. Pruyn, all delivered short and effective addresses. The constitution of last year's organization was adopted. The election of officers was deferred until the next meeting, the Rev. David R. Kerr acting meanwhile as temporary chairman,

For the German School. The versatility displayed by the ladies of the German-American School association in the expedients to which they resort in their endeavor to sustain the school in the assistance of which they are enlisted, is exemplified by the novel entertainment which they propose to give on next Wednesday evening. It will consist of a dramatic performance by a number of well known German amateurs, who will appear in the piece to be rendered for the first time in this city of "Die Zartlichen Verwandten," piece by Benedix in four acts. This is a highly interesting comedy. It has been produced under the direction of Charles Shaffer, one of Omaha's former and respected actors. In the cast, will also appear his wife, who is still kindly remembered as one of the city's actresses of other days. Besides these people, the cast will be as follows

When No. 4 was organized he was made captain of No. 4, all of which positions he filled with credit to himself and worth to the city. Under the Casino's Trees.

Last evening's concert at the Casino was attended by several hundred people, which tested the capacity of the place. The programme rendered by the Omaha Musical band was carried out most faithfully, and a number of the pieces were warmly encored. To night the band will play again under the leadership of Harry Irvine, whose skill as a cornetist is of it self worthy of note. The band, besides, has been reinforced by several excellent musicians, with a result, as a conse-quence, that they play such as has been played by no only distinctly brass band n this city before.

A Forged Check. Detective Nalentine, of the Union Pacific road, yesterday brought William Wilbur before Judge Berka on a charge of forging a time check for $71.25 in the name of E. E. DISTRICT. The injunction case of the BEB Publishing company against the city council's giving the city printing to the Republican was being argued yesterday before Judge Wakely. Edward W. Simeral appears for the BEE and City Attorney
Webster and Mr. Hall of Thurston & Hall are opposed. Mr. Simeral opened the case in a short argu-ment and was followed by Mr. Webster, who spoke over two hours. Mr. Simeral made his closing argument in the afternoon. It is probable that the hearing of the case will be continued during part of to-day. AN AFFECTING SCENE.
Yesterday morning two little boys were brought before Judge Wakely on an order to their parents to show cause why the boys should not be sent to the reform school. The lads names are John Freeman, white, and Thomas Sheeley, colored, and they had been guilty of some little misdemeanor. The scene in court was very affecting, espec ially when the aged mother of the col-ored youth pleaded for her boy. She is hardworking washerwoman, has a family of seven children to support, and tearfully promised the judge she would keep her boy away from bad company if he would only be left with her. She did not want the stigma of being a "reform school" inmate upon him. On the other hand, the father of the white boy, who is a well-to-do carpenter, took the case of his boy most indifferently, acting as if he would like to have the state relieve him of the lad's support. The contrast was marked and the color line where parental affection comes in was audibly commented on by all present. Jud Wakeley will decide the matter to-day Suits in replevin were filed yesterday by the Independent Refining and National Refining Oil companies against L. A. Stewart for $8,000, and against oil in transit and warehouses, and other similar suits will be filed before evening.

Reductions Feared. will be reductions both on the number of employes and the amount of wages ou the Union Pacific very soon. It is said by those likely to know that men will be laid off in all the mechanical depart-ments and the additional work thrown ments and the additional work thrown upon the old men. In all probability the latter will "kick," to use a phrase of the day, when they will politely be invited to step down and out and their places filled by new men at lower wages. In fact it is said that the cleanury of the arre fact, it is said that the cleaning of the cars fact, it is said that the cleaning of the cars by the Union Pacific and Pullman com-pany given to contractor Fleming is only a mild way of getting the men to work for less money. In fact, they have been notified that at the Transfer clean-ing grounds that they will only get $45 per month, whereas they have been receiving $56 per month heretofore.

The consequence is that the railroad men are a little uneasy. RAILROAD NOTES.

The car cleaning business at the Transfer on the Iowa side commenced yes terday morning.

The car repairing and inspecting force at the depot was reduced by the dis-charge of three men yesterday morning. The first section of the overland train wrich arrives here every morning at 7:40 is generally composed of several cars of California fruit and a car load of Chinese bound for the east. This latter oriental fruit will probably not be considered a relish in eastern wage markets.

A. M. E. Entertainment. The main feature of the entertainment at the A. M. E. church last evening wa the speech of Hon, J. M. Thurston. The burden of his talk was the progress of the colored race during the past twenty-five years. He spoke in his usual forci-ble and interesting manner, and his effort was highly appreciated by the col-ored people. The entertainment closed with a festival.

Military Matters. The practice season for companies B and E, 7th infantry, now at Fort Laramie, Wy., (stationed at Camp Pilot, Butte, Wy., at the commencement of the target practice season, as announced in General Orders No. 2, current series, department of the Platte), is extended sixteen days in the present month, to enable those companies to have the full three months of target practice.

AlCourteous Judge. Judge Berka has placed a large table in the main room of the police court quarters for the use of the night police reporters who have been ordered out of the police station by the chief. The judge has given the reporters the freedom of the room and has done everything possible to make the busy night workers as comfortable as possible.

New County Bonds. The commissioners have now decided to make the new bonds 44 "promises to pay," instead of 5 per cents. A CALIFORNIA ROMANCE. Telals and Vicissitudes of a Female Miser's Daughter. Globe Democrat: The neighborhood of White Rock Springs, El Dorado county, California, is excited over the discovery of a fortune hidden in a chimney by a miserly old woman of that place. The discovery forms the last chapter in a curious tale of the vicissitudes of fortune on this coast.

Mrs. Dart early in the fifties lived in E. Dorado county, and had a pretty daughter named Lou, a girl of sixteen. The mother was well off, and when her daughter fell in love with a saloon-keeper, Austin Keely, she violently ob-jected to the match. The lovers were married, however, and moved to San Francisco, where Keely made a lucky strike in mining stocks, clearing up over He was not satisfie wanted to be a millionaire, and in the effort lost every cent. Then he fell to dainking, liquor made him demented, and he was finally sent to the insane asylum. His wife went to live with her mother in El Dorado home.

After a few months Keeley was discharged cured, and he went to live with his mother-in-law. She detested him, and made it so unpleasant that his in-sanity returned, and one day in a fit of rage he chokee her to death. There was a great popular excitement over the crime, but when the trial came Keely was acquitted on the grounds of insanity. The excitement of the trial, however, reduced Keely almost to imbecility, and it was found he could not even manage the farm which old Mrs. Keely left to her daughter. Though search had been made of the premises for hidden treasure, as it was known the old woman had saved much money, nothing was found. Mrs. Keely then moved to Sacramento and rented the farm, but the tenants so neglected the place that a few weeks ago she determined to move out to it. She borrowed some money to repair the building and make it inhabitable. To do this it was found necessiry to tear down the chimney attached to the house. All hopes of finding the fortune which everybody was sure had been left by the old lady had been abandoned, when the fall of the chimney revealed a strong box containing $28,000 in gold com. Thus for the second time in life Mrs. Keely found herself in comparative luxury. The surprise was the more agreeable since with the welcome acquisition will come relief from the poverty which for years had been her lot. Poor Austin hardly retains sense enough to appreciate this good fortune. Everybody about White Rock Springs rejoices in the good luck of plucky Mrs. Keely.

It is related as a prelude to this strange story that old Mrs. Dart, to whose moneygetting skill and miserly proclivities the Keeleys owe their release from poverty, had a romantic career herself. She married a fine-looking man of apparent means in New Orleans, but her marital happiness was of short duration, for she soon discovered that her husband was a professional gambler, and she abandoned him. She came to California, and placed little Lou in a New Orleans convent, Mrs. Dart located at White Rock Springs, and hved and died there. Her husbond, likewise, followed fortune with the setting sun, but, although he lived in Sacremento for many years, he never again to his wife. His name was Henry Dart.
