HOW SELDEN WAS MURDERED.

The Story From D. J. Selden-Railway Matters-South Omaha Notes -A Nervy Brakeman-Preparing For the Vets-Locals.

Took Morphine.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morning the motley crowd living in the rickety two frame building in "Dago alley," was attracted by moans of pain, to the room which a woman named Cora Bassett was occupying. The room being entered it was discovered that the woman was apparently in a dying condition. Dr. R. S. Lucke was immediately summoned and he at once pronounced it a case of poisoning. Proper restoratives were applied and thedoctor remained with the woman until early this afternoon when itwas thought her life might be saved. She was unconscious all the time. From outside parties it was ascertained that the woman came to the house last evening and requested permission to remain over night. This was granted, and about midnight she called a little girl named Laura Wendell, who was in the house, and they started out together to find a drug store. Laura was sent in, and procured the morphine which the White girl afterwards took. At what drug store the drug was obtained cannot be ascertained, as the little girl became so frightened that she ran away and hid herself. Clark of the Humane society forced to give up a little fourteen months old child whom she was abusing, the facts of which case have been given in the BEE.
The child was taken by Mrs. Mary Hickson, mother of Cora, who resides in Estabrook block. Cora then went to Dug Johnson's notorious den in South Omaha. The other day she returned and has been living with a man named Brown on Eighteenth street. She is but eighteen years of age, but one of the most deprayed women in the city. The house where she took poison is kept by an Amazonian woman named Adelina Maguire and is the headquarters of the lowest classes of all sexes, nationalities and ages. It is at the eastern end of "Dago" alley, which delectable by-way runs from Thirteetnth to Fourteenth streets between Jones and Leavenworth street. The scene in the dirty room where the unfortunate girl was lying this morning was sad and disgusting. There were brazen women of all shades of color and crime. Italians, negroes, mulattoes, whites, etc. Men of such like nationalities crowded around the doorways.

It was thought that the girl might rally sufficiently to give some reason for the rash act, but she began to grow worse after mid-day and at 2:50 o'clock she expired. The corrner's jury returned a

THE LATE O. B. SELDEN. Arrival of the Brother of the Deceased

-Particulars of the Murder. D. J. Selden, brother of the late O. B. Selden, returned from the scene of the mysterious murder last evening. The place where his late brother was living is Manville, a small side track stopping place on the Wyoming Central railroad, about eight miles west of Lusk. There are only about twelve houses, a postoffice and a section house. O. B. Seldon, the murdered man, was owner of the town site, deputy postmaster and also had some mining claims. He went to Manville from this city for the benefit of his wife's health. On Sunday, August 14, about 9:30 o'clock at night, he and his wife were sitting at a table in a small room back of the postoflice, very close to a window. Mrs. Selden remarked that they would have to get the house sided up before the cold weather came. The deceased concurred and remarked that he would figure up the cost marked that he would figure up the cost turning at the sametime to the table with his face towards the window. Scarcely he done so when two were fired simultaneously, shots were fired simultaneously, breaking two lights of the window and extinguishing the lamp. Mr. Selden fell on his face and never spoke. His wife at first thought the lamp had exploded, and placing her hand on her husband asked.

'Are you hurt?' Are you hurt?"

'Are you hurt? Are you hurt?" Are you hurt? Are you hurt?"
Receiving no answer she lighted a lantern, and then saw the blood flowing from the wound. She immediately ran to the door and called for help. This was responded to by Mr. Schaeffer, a partner of the deceased, and others. Search was immediately made for the murderers but to no avail. It was found that the fatal messenger was a for the murderers but to no avail. It was found that the fatal messenger was a 52-calibre slug and that it had entered the body of the deceased near the breast bone and lodged in the muscles of the back. A hole was discovered in two plaster partitions, which showed that another shot had been fired. On tracing this up it was discovered after passing through the two partitions the slug has passed through the panel of a door, struck the ceiling of a small summer kitchea and fell to the floor, where an indention was plainly visible. Strange to say no slug, shot or bullet could be found. It is supposed that some of those who were first in the search took up the bullet because of some interest in the murder. Owing to the fact that the up the bullet because of some interest in the murder. Owing to the fact that the coroner had to be procured from Cheyenne, 175 miles away, the inquest was not held until Wednesday, August 17, when coroner John T. Chaffin arrived. Mr. L. J. Selden says that the jury was composed of unusually intelligent men and the investigation thorough in every respect. Not the slightest clue to the perdetrators of the dastardly deed could be found. After two days and two nights later the jury brought in a verdict that the deceased came to his death from the effects of a shot fired by parties to the jury unknown. shot fired by parties to the jury unknown. It was supposed from tracks and other marks outside the window that the murderer knelt while firing and the sim-ultaneous explosion would seem to Indicate that the intention was to fire the shots at once. The only opinion as to the cause for the crime was spite work, but on whom to charge it, not a person can imagine. The deceased was temporarily buried on the prairie near his late residence, the funeral being extremely sad in every particular. Not a minister could be obtained to make Not a minister could be obtained to make a prayer, and this was by Mr. Brooks, an old friend of the deceased, formerly of Papiliion, Sarpy county. D. J. Selden went to Republican Valley immediately the funeral and brought Mrs. W. A. Brown, a daughter of the deceased, to Manville to keep company with Mrs. Selden who is reported to have borne up remarkably considering his illness and the trying ordeal through which he passed. The deceasee came to Omaha in 1854, and in addition to facts already published in which Fred Whitney was yesterday appointed. Mr. Whitney is one of the best known, most unassuming and most promising young freight managers in the northwest. He has been identified with railroads in this section for a number of years past, having risen from some of the lowest rungs in the ladder to that which he now holds with the support and confidence of one of the greatest railroad men now holds with the support and connidence of one of the greatest railroad men of the times. Two years ago, Mr. Whitney acted as agent of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha in this city, whence he was transferred to St. Paul, as the assistant general freight agent of the same road. He has held that position same road. He has held that position since, and only relinquishes it to accept with greater honor and salary a similar one on the Union Pacific, with headquarters in Kansas City. He enters upon the duties of his new position on September 1, and will pass through this city on his new position.

way to his new position. OMAHA AND THE MISSOURI PACIFIC. There was a meeting yesterday between representatives of the Omaha board of trade and General Traffic Manager Murray, of the Missoui Pacific, the object being to arrive at some understanding with respect to rates to this city and conwith respect to rates to this city and con-tiguous points on that road. The meeting was private one, being attended by Mr. Griffitts, commissioner of the board of trade freight bureau, W. A. L. Gibbon of Edney & Gibbon, Robert Easson of Paxton, Gallagher & Co, Secretary Nattinger of the board of trade and Mr. Wilson, local representative of the Missouri Pacific. The question at issue was discussed with much thoroughness with the result that it produced a most favorable impression upon Mr. Murray and it is thought that when action is taken in the matter, it will be satisfactory to our people.

CATTLE RATES, ETC.

At the meeting of representatives of the Nebraska and contiguous railroad lines in the Union Pacific headquarters Thursday, to settle rates at junction points, as also to determine whether or not cattle should hereafter be shipped by not cattle should hereafter be shipped by the pound or car load, a committee con-sisting of Mr. Kimball, of the Union Pacific, Mr. Murray, of the Missouri Pacific, Mr. Fitch, of the Fremont, Elk-horn & Missouri Valley, and Mr. Hol-drege, of the B. & M., were duly ap-pointed to confer with the railway com-missioners with a view to aiding in a set-tlement of the matter, as also to adjust differences existing between certain rail-roads in the states. When a conclusion is arrived at, which will be in probably in a few days, a general schedule com-prehending Nebraska and Kansas points as well will be issued. With regard to the shipment of cattle westward, from Omaha, it was decided that the rates would be based upon the same methods of consideration as are those on eastbound cattle, the agreement to go into force on the fifth of next month. question of the delay of cars by shippers before employing the same, the proba-bility is that an agreement increasing the demurrage will be arrived at even-THE NEW BRIDGE TOLLS.

The completion of the new Union Pa-cific bridge has brought up a question which has not yet been determined upon, or which, if settled, both Mr. Kimball and or which, it settled, both Mr. Rymball and Mr. Potter decline to shed any light. It is that of increasing the tolls of cars on the Union Pacific bridge. When the bridge was constructed, and for many years later, the rate per car was $10. This was considered extortionate, and it of course eventually came out of the parof course eventually came out of the parties to whom the car was consigned. But there was no competition. Later the Plattsmouth and Blair bridges were conristracted and used respectively by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Northwestern. As a consequence the toils were reduced on the Union Pacific structure to $4. The cost of the new bridge, with the double track to Council Bluffs, has impressed the packet with the distraction of the large set the idea. Mr. Potter with the justness of the idea that the toll ought to be raised to $5 per car, and he communicated his belief to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. Those roads, however, have objected to the raise and steadfastly refuse to pay the same. But as before stated, neither Mr. Potter or Mr. Kimball will speak upon

RAILWAY MATTERS.

FRED WHITNEY'S APPOINTMENT.

Mr. Potter is gradually filling the positions of assistant general freight agents.

The latest being that at Kansas city, to the facts of the young man's death, and whether or not their action is required to secure respectable burial.

A BRAKEMAN INJURED.

He is Brought to Omaha to Have an Amputation Performed, Early yesterday morning, while W. F. Mallisor, a head brakeman on the Missouri Pacific railroad, was flagging his train at Louisville, his foot became fixed in the tracks and before he could extricate it engine No. 940 ran over it and crushed it. Dr. Hasemeier, of Louisville, was soon in attendance and applied the best remedies under the circumstances. The doctor and his patient came to Omaha on the early morning train and Mailisor was carried to the of fice of Dr. Ayres, on Farnam street, where the foot was amputated this fore-noon. The patient is doing well. The injured man is single, aged twenty-eight years, and says his home is in Fredonia, Colonel G. C. Graves. The telegraph of Thursday brought the news of the killing by lightning of G. C. Graves at Topeka, Kan. Graves resided in this city about eight years ago and practiced as a lawyer. He had pre-viously been married, it is alleged, and forsaken his wife and two children. Here, however, he formed a matrimonal alli-ance with a handsome young woman, who went with when he left this city, and whose whereabouts are now un-known. When the news of his death reached Des Moines, it went to the ears of his first wife, who, with her two sons are living at that place. Until the receipt of the news, the abandoned family did not know where its head was, not having heard from him for a number of years.

Iron Ore at South Omaha. Yesterday the workmen drilling for water at the stockyards brought up a piece of iron ore which attracted quite an amount of attention. It was several inches in thickness and weighed about four times as much as any piece of rock of its size in the pile. It was found in a hard flint rock, but was so ground as to render it impossible to determine whether it was part of a layer or an isolated lump. It had all the requisites of a rich-paying ore.

Caught a Tartar. Horse traders usually get the best of a bargain, but such was not the case for once with Ed Hilliker, of this city. The other day a stranger came along and traded a span of mules for Ed's team. The next day a man arrived and took the mules away from Ed, claiming they were stolen. The latter then started after his horses, but he found that the team had been traded again for a mare and a shotgun. Ed has telegraphed from the northern part of the state that he is on the track of his man and the mare and shotgun.

Burglaries. Burglars effected an entrance through a back window of Nathan Elliott's residence yesterday morning between 3 and o'clock, and stole his pocket book containing $85 in greenbacks. The empty pocket book was picked up this morning in the front yard.

About 2 o'clock burglars were discovered in the residence of George E. Pritchett, 208 South Eighteenth street, but were frightened away by Pritchett who got up to investigate the suspicious sound.

Bohemian Gymnasts.

The Bohemian Gymnastic society pic nic excursion to Schuyler, Neb., next Sunday, promises to be one of the leading excursions of the season. Besides the society proper, there will be four other Bohemian societies from this city. The party will leave the Union Pacific depot at 8:30 a. m. sharp. Gymnastic exercises and innocent amusements of all kinds will be the order of the day.

ates College. Rev. W. A. Shorey, president of Gates college, af Neligh, Neb., was in the city yesterday for the purpose of purchasing furniture for the new boarding hall of that institution. There were over one hundred pupils in the college last year, and there will be a greater number during the coming year. The college, which is under Congregational auspices, is in a flourishing condition. It was established six years ago.
