The Crown Prince Recovering. BERLIN, Sept. 1.—The Heilsa Anzeiger announces that Dr. Wegner, the crown prince's body physician, has just received the opinion regarding the crown prince's malady. The crown prince has lately made good progress toward recovery. His general health is excellent, but he still suffers from hoarseness, as on several parts of the larynx there has existed a small growth, which has a tendency toward congestion. Since the last authorization of the prince's throat no fresh development of the swelling which previously existed has occurred, but its return is not improbable. This would retard the prince's recovery, although not in itself appearing serious.

TRAPPED BY A PERSONAL.

The Exciting and Decidedly Unromantic Adventure of an Iowa Girl.

A DISASTROUS EXPERIMENT.

She Answers a Young Gentleman Who Advertises For a Lady Correspondent and Ends the Romance in Omaha.

She Answered His "Ad."

On or about June 15 a small advertisement appeared in a Des Moines paper, believed to be the Register, to the following effect, if not in the exact words:

WANTED—A young man of means and good appearance desires the acquaintance of a bright young lady as correspondent. Mutual pleasure the object, with no objection to matrimony if the right person is found. Address Leader, care of the business of John Bright & Co., Omaha, Neb.

The events following upon this small publication form one of the most startling revelations of combined wickedness and weakness, with Omaha for the stage of its denouement, that the press has recently been called upon to record. A copy of the newspaper came to the hands of Miss Lizzie Howton, the daughter of a farmer living in Madison county, near Winterset, Ia., and the advertisement presented itself to her fancy as offering an available opportunity for a little romantic pastime. Without doubting the honest motives of the advertiser, and further considering herself secure in her remoteness from the correspondent, she addressed a letter to the self-named Leader, briefly setting forth the fact that she was young and bright and willing to maintain a pleasing correspondence. A regular interchange of communications followed with increasing familiarity of expression and fast-growing disregard for ordinary conventionalities, until the young lady consented to an exchange of photographs.

It was reported last night that the long and bitter fight between the common council and the police commission had ended with the resignation of Christian Hartman as police commissioner. This, then, leaves only one available commissioner in Omaha, Howard B. Smith; Bennett and Gilbert both being hundreds of miles away with the intention of remaining for several months. Whether Governor Thayer will accept his resignation remains yet to be seen.

BARTMAN RESIGNS.

His Reported Withdrawal From the Police Commission.

It was reported last night that the long and bitter fight between the common council and the police commission had ended with the resignation of Christian Hartman as police commissioner. This, then, leaves only one available commissioner in Omaha, Howard B. Smith; Bennett and Gilbert both being hundreds of miles away with the intention of remaining for several months. Whether Governor Thayer will accept his resignation remains yet to be seen.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

Arrest of Several Clothiers for Violating the Sabbath.

The crusade of the Clothing Salesmen's association against the sale of clothing on the Sabbath resulted yesterday in the arrest of Ed Olson, No. 1014 Farnham street; Jacob Harris, No. 1014 Farnham; Meyer Goldsmith, No. 1419 Douglas; David Altman, No. 617 north Sixteenth and Julius Bamberger, No. 621 north Sixteenth, charged with breaking this ancient territorial statute. They were given a preliminary hearing yesterday, and the case was continued until 2 p. m. to-day. One of these clothiers declares excitedly that if the clothing stores are closed on the Sabbath, he will have the running of street cars and publication of daily newspapers stopped on that day.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Stray Leaves Gathered From Reporters' Note Books.

As measured by the wonderful progress of its real estate and industrial advancement, Omaha has kept full pace in its intellectual strides. In seven years it has accomplished wonders in this respect. Examining the books of the board of Education, I find that seven years ago there were but sixty public schools employed and only seven public school buildings. Today the public schools number thirty-five and the teachers 170. The other educational institutions in Omaha springing up within that period, to furnish the demand for the supply are Creighton college, the Catholic colleges, two private convents, Brownell hall, four convents, St. Philomena's parochial school and several day and night private schools. In addition, the city library to-day contains over 20,000 volumes of reading, in all branches of literature, most of which have been purchased during the past three years. Few cities can show a better record.

Among the curios in Chief Seavey's cabinet, confiscated from thieves and confidence men, is a $1,000 bond. It is a fine piece of engraving with the word "gold" across its face in gilt letters, and with two pictures, one representing Hope in the person of a woman leaning on an anchor, the other Trade and Science, with trains carrying grain and the telegraph overhead. It bears date March 1, 1870, and represents stock in a Colorado silver mine which never existed. The interest coupons are all torn off but four, showing the company's prompt payment of interest to date. The spurrier's bond is the outfit of the confidence man, who ingratiates himself into the artner's favor and then asks for a temporary loan of a hundred dollars, to meet some pressing demand, offering the bond as security, until he can return home and redeem it. The rustic bite at the snap often through curiosity, never intending to return the value of a thousand dollars, is represented in the bond, to the stranger's address as furnished. Chuckling over his good luck, the innocent (?) farmer spends a few days in self-congratulation and wonder over the true character of the stranger, as developed in the stranger, and then finds what lovely woman, "who trusts to folly and finds too late that men betray," realizes that he is a damn fool. Rarely is the confidence man captured, and if taken, the farmer refuses to appear against him, preferring to suffer his loss rather than expose his venality or ignorance. These bonds are manufactured by the thousand and sold as any other traffic. They flood the country and catch the unwary every day, for "a sucker is born every hour."

Some idea may be gathered of the vast sums paid into the United States treasury from the internal revenue receipts by a perusal of the following, representing the monthly returns for August and the sources from which they were collected: Penalties, $197,321; beer, $15,371.19; spirit stamps, $141,251.30; cigars, $5,023.65; tobacco, $154,181; special tax, $2,708.26; total, $496,956.90. The average daily collection is $5,000. The poorest day's work done in the office for months was on last Wednesday, the amount for that day footing only $830.28.

School Manual Training.

A. M. Bumann, the director of the manual training department of the high school, returned yesterday from a ten weeks' absence, which time he has devoted to the study of the systems used in the manual training schools of Chicago, Toledo, and other lead cities. Mr. Bumann is a graduate of the manual training school at St. Louis, and the public are well aware what unprecedented success has crowned the doubtful experiment of two years ago, when it was decided to start a manual training department in the Omaha high school. Mr. James, the superintendent, speaks in the highest terms of the department, and says it has resulted in the raising of an unusual number of boys in school, who are at that age when they are most likely to feel the irksomeness of school work and drop out.

Blue Springs and the Union Pacific.

Messrs. Cumings, Blickensderfer and Bogue, of the Union Pacific, went on a special yesterday to Blue Springs, in this state, to consider the advisability of making a change in the location of the road's headquarters in that place. The depot of the road is now on the side of the river away from the town, and this has long been a source of annoyance to the citizens who desire to reach the depot without crossing the stream. They have, it is thought, offered inducements to the Union Pacific to abandon a part of the line near the city and approach the latter by a route that would be a straight line. Whether or not the change shall be made, depends upon the report of the officials above enumerated.

Mr. Tebbets and His Assistants.

J. S. Tebbets, the new general passenger and ticket agent of the Union Pacific railroad, and E. L. Lomax, his assistant, took charge of that department yesterday.

POPULAR PROTEST.

The Board of Trade to Consider the Present Police Muddle.

There will be a special meeting of the board of trade called for Saturday evening at the chamber of commerce to take action on the present attitude of the city council toward the police system now in force. The city council and any persons in favor of law and order will be invited to be present. It will be an indignation meeting, and it is proposed to give the present condition of affairs a thorough airing. A series of resolutions concerning the parties who are at fault will be drawn up regardless of party ties or clique affiliations.

Bowen, Bowen; Maryanna Danischenska, Omaha.

Coming Home to Die.

At a period of life when budding womanhood requires all her strength to meet the demands nature makes upon it, many a young woman returns home from the severe mental strain of school with a broken down constitution, and her functions disarranged, to go to an early grave. If she had been wisely counseled and given the benefit of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" her bodily development might have kept pace with her mental growth, and health and beauty would not have given way to decline and death.

It Won't Make Bread.

In other words, Hood's Sarsaparilla will not do impossibilities. Its proprietors tell plainly what it has done, submit proofs from sources of unquestioned reliability, and ask you frankly if you are suffering from any of the following ailments caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The experience of others is sufficient assurance that you will not be disappointed in the result.

K. of P. Uniforms.

The new fatigue cap of the Knights of Pythias is a beauty. In shape it is like the regulation army cap. It is of navy-blue cloth with the exception of the top, which is ultramarine. The strap piece is silver braid. On the front of the cap is a silver wreath enclosing the number of the lodge, while on the top is a diamond of red cloth upon which is a lily, the badge of the knights.

APFARIS AT THE FAIR GROUNDS.

Everything is Bustle and Activity.

Preparations for the great festive week are fairly humming along. Exhibitors are pouring in from all quarters, and every department will be filled as they never have been filled before in the history of the association. In the department of agricultural products the display will be one of an extraordinary character. The secretary, to facilitate matters urges exhibitors to get their displays upon the grounds by Saturday. There will be a big detail of watchmen and no risk is run by leaving goods here over Sunday. The main entrance and buildings are to be attractively decorated, and an effort is being made to have the different nations represented by the flags of each country. Ready for the banner of England, Germany, France, Sweden, Spain, Prussia, Russia and Italy have been secured and the sight will be a picturesque and beautiful one.

The Trotting Stables of J. C. McNaughten and C. C. Lyford, of Minneapolis, and J. A. Saunders, of Detroit, Mich., arrived for the races next week. These stables contain the well known William C., William S., Mable H., Nettie and Chipnucan, and go in the 23, 25, 27 and 40 classes.

There was also a consignment of trotters from Mapleton, Ia., yesterday. The Mapleton races which end this week are the last of the Missouri Valley circuit previous to the meet here. Several good horses also arrived from Creston. The last of the 23 class, and belonging to Dr. Avery, of Minneapolis, will be here to-day.

HOSE CARS FOR THE FAIR.

Facilities for reaching the fair grounds by horse cars will be greatly increased by the following day. A considerable large force is hard at work extending the red and green lines on Twentieth and Eighteenth streets, and by switching from Thirteenth and Saunders streets, all of which will be in running order by Saturday night.

No Police for the Fair.

The following information was sent to J. H. McShain, secretary of the Omaha fair, and to Major Clarkson, quartermaster of the G. A. R., in response to their request for police aid: OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF POLICE, OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 1, 1887. J. H. McShain, Esq., Secretary Omaha Fair, Dear Sir: Inasmuch as the city council has made no appropriations, nor provided for the payment of special policemen to serve next week, I regret to inform you that I cannot furnish you with any of my regular force at the fair grounds.

To Nebraska Ex-Soldiers.

To all ex-soldiers of Nebraska: We hope that each and every one will try and meet at the coming re-union at Omaha, and will try and be in camp on Tuesday, 6th. Comrades, let us try and get as many in line as possible. We wish to make arrangements for a grand old reunion of all Nebraska men, at as early a day as possible. Comrades, you all want a few days rest and recreation, and now is the time to take it. Farmers, turn your horses into the pasture. Merchants and business men, close your shops, lawyers and agents, give your clients a few days rest, leave all cares at home and come up to the reunion and talk over old times and compare notes with the "old boys" and save the time. You will be a time ever to be remembered by you. Bring your wives and families with you and let us have a camp meeting of our own. T. J. O'S, Majors, President.

Cure of Typhoid Fever. Charles Hartford of New Castle, New York, testifies that he was cured of typhoid fever by BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Read his letter:

For about a year ago I was attacked with typhoid fever. My physician treated me for some days, and I was so weak I thought I must die. Although at times delirious and suffering intense pain in the head and back, and parched up with fever, I still had sense enough to remember my box of Brandreth's Pills. I managed to get them and swallowed six, and then took a bowl of hot tea. My doctor was then afraid to give me a purge. I was so weak that I could not get up, but Brandreth's pills made me stronger. As soon as they acted freely, my head cleared, fever abated, and I slept for ten hours. I continued taking three or four pills every alternate hour, and in a week I was fully recovered, although my doctor had given me up. Undoubtedly Brandreth's Pills saved my life.

A New Sauerbark Organized in the State. The members of the Missouri Valley saengerbund have been displeased with the manner in which the affairs have been managed this year, by means of which they have been deprived of one of their bi-annual saengerfests. Two years ago the last fest was held in Lincoln with great success, and great rivalry was engendered between the cities represented at the next fest would be held. Kansas City was finally accorded the privilege of holding the succeeding gathering, but the time for the holding has passed and no saengerfest has been held. Several months ago the Kansas City saengerbund accepted the meeting, they notified the local singing societies as also those of the other cities composing the saengerbund, that Kansas City would not be able to make arrangements for the fest, and suggested that it be deferred till next year. This incensed the other societies, some of whom, in small cities with not half the wealth of Kansas City people, had always been able to properly receive the singers and manage a saengerfest on no longer notice than Kansas City enjoyed. However, there was no alternative but to submit to the irregularity occasioned by the Kansas City action. Nebraska saengerfests, however, were especially displeased, and for the purpose of obtaining another hitch of the kind, have established what is known as the Nebraska saengerbund. The new organization will hold annual fests, and the first of these will be held in Plattsmouth, commencing on the fourth of next month and closing on the sixth. The committee of that place is now making elaborate preparations for the undertaking, and the first of these will be held in Plattsmouth, commencing on the fourth of next month and closing on the sixth.
