

THE DAILY BEE.

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

BEE, One Year.....	$10.00
For Six Months.....	5.00
For Three Months.....	2.50
The Omaha Sunday Bee, mailed to any address, One Year.....	2.00

OMAHA OFFICE, NO. 54 AND 55 FIFTH STREET; NEW YORK OFFICE, ROOM 65, THIRTY-EIGHT BUILDING; WASHINGTON OFFICE, NO. 50 FOURTH STREET.

CORRESPONDENCE:
All communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed to the Editor.BUSINESS LETTERS:
All business letters and remittances should be addressed to THE BEE PUBLISHING COMPANY, OMAHA. Drafts, checks and postoffice orders to be made payable to the order of the company.

THE BEE PUBLISHING COMPANY, PROPRIETORS.

E. ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

THE DAILY BEE.

Sworn Statement of Circulation.

State of Nebraska, ss.
County of Douglas, ss.
I, the undersigned, publisher of the Bee Publishing company, do solemnly swear that the actual circulation of the Daily Bee for the week ending Sept. 2, 1887, was as follows:Saturday, August 27.....14,150
Sunday, August 28.....14,200
Monday, August 29.....14,025
Tuesday, August 30.....14,015
Wednesday, August 31.....14,010
Thursday, Sept. 1.....14,000
Friday, Sept. 2.....14,000

Average.....14,142

Geo. B. Tzschuck.

Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 3d day of September, A. D. 1887.

N. F. FEHL.

[SEAL.] Notary Public.

State of Nebraska, ss.

Geo. B. Tzschuck, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that he is secretary of The Bee Publishing Company, and that the average daily circulation of the Daily Bee for the month of August, 1886, 12,464 copies; for October, 1886, 13,000 copies; for November, 1886, 13,000 copies; for December, 1886, 13,227 copies; for January, 1887, 13,000 copies; for February, 1887, 14,198 copies; for March, 1887, 14,400 copies; for April, 1887, 14,516 copies; for May, 1887, 14,227 copies; for June, 1887, 14,137 copies; for July, 1887, 14,020 copies.

Geo. B. Tzschuck.

Subscribed and sworn to me this 11th day of August, A. D. 1887.

[SEAL.] N. F. FEHL. Notary Public.

Contents of the Sunday Bee.

Page 1. Local and Special Cablegrams.

Page 2. General Telegraphic News.

Page 3. Special Advertisements and Telegraph.

Page 4. Editorial—Current Comments, etc.

Page 5. Lincoln Letter and Locals.

Page 6. Council Bluffs News.

Page 7. Special Telegraphic Markets, Finances and Home Markets.—Advertisements.

Page 8. Local Advertising.

Page 9. Society Events in Omaha—Advertisements.

Page 10. In the Electric Field—Advertisements.

Page 11. Two Hearts, by Malcolm Thackeray Ross—Impieties—Horrible Cancelism—Advertisements.

Page 12. A Sort of Halfway House, by S. H. Religious—Singularities—Peppermint Drops—Honey for the Ladies—Advertisements.

Page 13. Shall the Women Vote, by John James—Mysteries—Warning of Robbery—Advert.

Page 14.—Echoes from the Anti-Room—Church Notices—Advertisements.

Page 15. Some Things About Women—Advert.

Educational—Educational—Advertisement, by Hon. George W. Frost—Musical and Dramatic—Educational—Sight-Seeing in London, by Franz Sepeh—Curiosities—Advertis-

ments.

Now "hang out your banners on the outside walls."

The Bee's only caution to veterans and visitors is, Beware of the unloaded gun and the loaded dice.

The sham battles and naval engagements of the coming days will give the younger generation a faint idea of the stern realities of war.

MERCHANTS of this city should not fail to recognize the importance of liberal displays of their wares at the fair and exposition. Such advertising brings handsome returns.

FARE FOR THE BOYS IN BLUE WILL FALL

from many lips during the coming week, but let the welcome which Omaha gives them be shown by deeds as well as words.

"Let banners flout the sky."

OMAHA's proud name is at stake. Political machinations should not interfere with a hearty welcome to the surviving heroes of the "late unpleasantness."

Send the sutlers to the rear.

BIRDS OF PASSAGE who come to Omaha in quest of plunder have often attempted to prostitute the press and sell its support to public thieves and political hacks. But this class of adventurers does not generally take root in this community.

EX-GOVERNOR PATTISON is announced as Cleveland's choice to succeed Secretary Lamar when that official is elevated to the supreme bench. One or two more men in the cabinet of the sturdy governor's stamp would be a godsend to the administration.

POLICE and militia to the number of 500 have gathered at Ennis, Ireland, with orders to prevent the nationalists meeting advertised for to-day at any cost. The Irish leaders, however, will not be bulldozed by the simple presence of soldiers, and the meeting will go on until broken up by force. Fears are entertained of serious trouble.

ARTEMUS WARD once said: "A leopard cannot change his spots, but you change them for him with a paint brush." When Hascal was running for the council last spring we were assured by many prominent citizens that he had grown wise and changed his ways. But the sequel shows that Hascal's name must still be spelled with an "R."

THE ST. LOUIS REUNION is threatened with a new complication. The employees of the gas works are dissatisfied on the question of wages, and it is stated that they will strike just when the city will be most in need of light—during the national encampment. Omaha will have no such difficulty, and the old soldiers can view the sights at night by brilliant floods of light. Poor old St. Louis!

THE MEMBERS of the recent convention of charities and correction emphasized very particularly the fact that charity does not consist in indiscriminate giving. They denounced it as an unmitigated evil. Coming from men and women who have made pauperism a life study, their dictum ought to be conclusive. They also emphasized the value of personal contact with those who are to be assisted. This is one of the principal factors in successfully inducing a spirit of self-help among the poor.

Does McShane Approve?

Does Congressman McShane approve the policy of the Omaha Herald, which is his property, and for the conduct of which the public holds him responsible? The owner of the powder magazine has no right to place it in the charge of boys who are liable to play with matches. The owner of a paper cannot always control reporters, and he may be unable at times to prevent serious blunders by his editorial writers. But no man who owns a controlling interest in a daily paper can justify himself in allowing his editor to commit the paper to a policy which incites boding and lawlessness. Mr. McShane is president of the stock yards and holds other prominent positions in financial and commercial establishments. In common with other heavy tax payers, he is interested in the public safety which can only be maintained by an efficient police.Is Mr. McShane aware that his paper has given aid, support and countenance to a conspiracy to paralyze the police commission and overthrow the police? Is he aware that the man whom he keeps at the helm of his paper has for months labored with habitual law-breakers to break down the police authorities in the exercise of their rightful functions? Is he aware of the fact that this man has had the audacity to make overtures to the mayor of Omaha on behalf of certain gamblers, and pledged the Herald to silence if the mayor would consent to let them keep open during the fair and G. A. R. reunion? In other words, a proposition was made to the mayor to join hands with the gamblers in violation of law and allow them to fleece and rob our soldiers and other strangers who may be Omaha's guests during the present week.

Does Mr. McShane sanction such conduct? Can a man who wants to involve public officers into criminal conspiracies with outlaws be trusted or respected as a leader of public opinion?

It seems to us that Mr. McShane can no longer afford to let such a man have full sway in moulding the policy of his paper. We say this much from no selfish motives. The Bee has profited and prospered by the blunders and mismanagement of its local contemporaries, and it is not interested in instructing them how to popularize a newspaper. But the Bee is interested in good government.

Manual Training in the Schools. Nothing could better illustrate the impression that has been made by the discussion of the question of manual training in the public schools than the fact that two papers favorable to the introduction of such training in the schools were read at the late meeting of the American association for the advancement of science. One of these papers was submitted by Prof. James of the University of Pennsylvania, an educator who has ranged himself on the side of progress, and who especially as a student of economics, from which point of view he treated this question, discerns the growing necessity for giving a practical character to the system of public education. He regarded the general introduction into the public schools of systematic training in the underlying principles of the handierarts as the next great step in the development of our educational system—a step for which we are now ready, and which should be taken immediately. He argued that the furnishing of facilities in connection with the public schools for training in the fundamental operations of manual work will tend to give symmetry to a system which at present is notoriously one-sided and defective. The schools are chiefly, if not altogether, devoted to training one side of the child to the detriment of the other side. The pupil who graduates from them is not fitted to enter any avocation except those which are already overcrowded, and nearly all of which are simply an existence of genteel poverty. This lopsidedness can be remedied only by introducing into the public schools a system of training which will open up to those who go through it the possibility of entering handicrafts as well as clerkship.

WHILE Omaha is waiting Micawber-like for something to turn up that will give her better railway facilities in the territory naturally tributary to her in the north and northwest, the greatest anxiety that traverses Iowa and Illinois is seeking an entrance into Omaha by way of Decatur, in Burt county. This, of course, will not solve the problem of competition with the Northwestern system on this side of the Missouri, but it shows that Omaha's great packing houses and stock yards are attracting competing lines all the way from Washington to Bloomington and go about in an armor with points projecting toward every cloud in the heavens, if he wants to make what he longs for at all sure.—Chicago Tribune.

Ho was There All the Time.

Rochester Post-Express.

And yet the war department has not received Colvour's letter accepting the nomination to run for home.

Is Not a Judge of That Article.

San Francisco Alta.

Mr. Pullman's brandy costs $50 a quart.

We wish he would drink poorer liquor and put better soap in his sleeping cars.

Another Instance of Hard Times.

Detroit Free Press.

Times are awfully dull in Cincinnati. A prisoner at the police court told the judge that he had set for eight days in a jail without being able to strike a job.

A Misprint no Doubt.

Boston Globe.

No wonder they say the Yankees exaggerate. We know one who complained to his butcher that the last piece of steak sent him was so tough that his mother could not chew the gravy.

Still it Was True.

Boston Globe.

We know one who complained to his butcher that the last piece of steak sent him was so tough that his mother could not chew the gravy.

Ballooning in Real Estate.

New York Commercial Advertiser.

As part of a real estate auction in a Wisconsin town, a deed to a lot was thrown out of a balloon. Real estate often goes ballooning in other parts of the world, but rarely in this literal sense.

The treasury redemption of the trade dollar expired yesterday. The estimates of the number of the dishonored dollars in the country when redemption was ordered were slightly exceeded by the amount presented, but it is supposed that some were sent over from China, though doubleless a very small sum. The issue of this coin was to the amount of $5,000,000, so that most of it is still circulating in China. The entire course of the government regarding the trade dollar, up to the time when redemption was provided for, was far from creditable to the country. Having issued the coin, congress practically repudiated it by demonetizing silver, and then for years refused to protect even the people of this country against the effects of the repudiation. Granting that it was a mistake to issue the trade dollar, the subsequent course of the government was wholly without justification.

THE BUSINESS men and taxpayers of Omaha at last gave emphatic expression to their disapproval of the course of the councilmen who, under the lead of Hascall, are trying to starve the police and freeze out the commission. Never was public sentiment more unanimous on any question or issue in the city of Omaha. Out of fully five hundred taxpayers, comprising representatives of men of all classes, less than twenty voted against the resolution endorsing the police commission and requesting the council to give the commission such support as will enable it to maintain an efficient police force. It now remains to see whether the men who are chiefly responsible for good government in this city will respect the wishes of their constituents even when they know that public resentment has reached a climax.

Manual training as a part of the school system has made considerable progress in the last three years, but as yet its adoption has been simply experimental. The Irish leaders, however, will not be bulldozed by the simple presence of soldiers, and the meeting will go on until broken up by force. Fears are entertained of serious trouble.

ARTEMUS WARD once said: "A leopard cannot change his spots, but you change them for him with a paint brush." When Hascal was running for the council last spring we were assured by many prominent citizens that he had grown wise and changed his ways. But the sequel shows that Hascal's name must still be spelled with an "R."

THE ST. LOUIS REUNION is threatened with a new complication. The employees of the gas works are dissatisfied on the question of wages, and it is stated that they will strike just when the city will be most in need of light—during the national encampment.

Omaha will have no such difficulty, and the old soldiers can view the sights at night by brilliant floods of light. Poor old St. Louis!

THE MEMBERS of the recent convention of charities and correction emphasized very particularly the fact that charity does not consist in indiscriminate giving. They denounced it as an unmitigated evil. Coming from men and women who have made pauperism a life study, their dictum ought to be conclusive. They also emphasized the value of personal contact with those who are to be assisted. This is one of the principal factors in successfully inducing a spirit of self-help among the poor.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The revolt of the Baltimore Reform league from the ranks of the democracy has fallen like a dull thud upon the party.

The San Francisco Argonaut (rep.), which used to be strongly for Blaine, thinks that he would be beaten if nominated next year.

Neal Dow, at the age of eighty-four, devotes his time almost entirely to the study of politics. He still finds something to learn in it.

Frank Hurd thinks the next democratic national convention will feel the necessity of adopting the platform of the Ohio Democracy.

In the act of straining at republican grates and gulping down democratic camel's, the Hon. George William Curtis cuts a picturesquely figure.

The "bouf" between Governor Wilson and Governor Foraker at Wheeling, was a sheer waste of wind power on both sides, as says the New York Post.

John F. Andrew seems reasonably certain of the democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts, his most formidable competitor having withdrawn.

Colonel Bradley, who has just made a very creditable race for governor of Kentucky, is mentioned for vice-president on the republican ticket. It is mere mention, however.

Governor Knott, of Kentucky, at the expiration of his term of office, will settle in Louisville, and perhaps become a journalist. He is said to have an eye on the United States senate now.

There is a growing conviction among republicans that whoever may be nominated by the next republican national convention, Robert T. Lincoln will surely be given the second place on the ticket.

Senator Beck's vice-presidential boom, which was alleged to have been recently inaugurated at St. Paul, is irreparably damaged by the fact that the senator was born in Scotland and hence ineligible.

It may be stated as a fact, that Governor Wilson has been sympathetic with any movement that antagonizes the renomination and re-election of President Cleveland.

By the way, what has become of the Glenn co-operation bill pending in the Georgia legislature? When last seen it was running before a sparkling breeze under full sail, but it is now several weeks overdue.

General Beck, the vice-president, has been a great favorite with the wags of the press, and was especially popular with the women of the state.

It may be stated as a fact, that Governor Wilson has been sympathetic with any movement that antagonizes the renomination and re-election of President Cleveland.

It may be stated as a fact, that Governor Wilson has been sympathetic with any movement that antagonizes the renomination and re-election of President Cleveland.

It may be stated as a fact, that Governor Wilson has been sympathetic with any movement that antagonizes