OPENS WITH A RUSH.

Thousands of People Attracted by L. O. Jones & Co.'s Fall Opening.

Everybody Delighted and Hundreds of Callers Carry Away Substantial Souvenirs of the Occasion.

During August the American Clothiers were "busy as beavers" enlarging and decorating their famous clothing house at 1309 Farnam. Yesterday, with its profuse decorations of bunting, newly decorated walls and ceilings, and its myriad of substantial tables fairly groaning with their feast for the outer man, it presented a most inviting appearance which was clearly evidenced by the throng of Omaha's best citizens that crowded its aisles almost continually from early morning until late in the evening. Its windows too, were gazed into by thousands of persons and many were the complimentary remarks made about the attractive showings.

L. O. Jones & Co., open the fall season with their clerical force doubled in size and still customers were compelled frequently to await their turn so great was the crowd of eager buyers. This week will be a great week for Omaha and equally so for L. O. Jones & Co., and no stranger should leave the city until they have visited this wonderful establishment for the clothing of male mankind.

John L. Miles at the Head of a New Omaha Savings Bank—E. A. Benson a Director.
 Davenport Democrat: Davenport business talent is making itself felt in the financial circles of Omaha in an energetic manner. Last Monday the Nebraska Savings bank went into permanent organization. Honest John Miles, as he was called when he ran away ahead of his ticket while running for mayor, has in his short residence in Omaha where he went for the summer only, become the president of one of the biggest financial institutions in the state of Nebraska. He will make a president whom his associates will respect, and a citizen as public-spirited and worthy as any on earth. E. A. Benson, also of this city, is one of his associates in the directory of the bank.

The G. A. R. Reunion

at Omaha next week is an assured success. The preparations are on a magnificent scale—in keeping with the city and its live population. But when you talk of rushes and jams you should call at the Chicago Bargain Shoe Store, 1318 Douglas street. The place is literally overrun with customers. The genial proprietor has just returned from the east where he has been assisting their regular buyer, who is constantly in the east scouring bargains. The immense stock purchased is now being unpacked. The outside of this store is not as imposing as that of some others, but in amount and variety of stock the Chicago Bargain Shoe Store is the equal of any store in the city. They have a fine line especially suited to school children. Do not fail to see them.

They have boots, shoes and slippers, from medium to the finest quality, and the ladies and gentlemen of Omaha can rest assured that they need not go farther than 1318 Douglas street to get any kind of footwear they may desire. Their motto is, "Honest goods and square dealing," and they mark every article in plain figures and have one price for every customer. They will not allow of any misrepresentation whatever, and when they tell you a shoe is calfskin, you can rely on it being just as represented. The immense volume of trade done by them, coupled with their unexcelled facilities for buying, make it possible for them to offer the low prices which they are making. Among the different first class manufacturers' goods always in this stock are the following: George W. Ludlow, Chicago; P. Cox Shoe company, Rochester, N. Y.; Reynolds Bros., Utica, N. Y.; Zeigler Bros., Philadelphia; Robert Conner Co., N. H.; Dodge, George E. Keith, Wallace Elliott & Co., William Dorsch & Co., Newark, N. J.; A. F. Smith, Lynn, Mass.; Bay State Shoe Co., New York City. Their street sign is a mammoth gilded shoe on wheels, which, if you inspect closely, is numbered 1318 Douglas street, its busy home.

THE DORRIS & COLVIN CIRCUS.

Wild West and Hippodrome—A Great Show Yesterday.

Kansas City had yesterday afternoon and evening the very best and biggest show that ever exhibited here, including all the circuses—Barnum's, Forpaugh's and the rest. It is a wonderful show. The circus proper is entirely complete, with more actors than three ordinary shows. The menagerie is also wonderfully complete and includes a great variety of wild beasts. The hippodrome has many exciting races. It is without an equal. The races are run on their own merits. The Wild West is replete with wonders, the Custer massacre, the stage coach robbery and Leon riding thirty-one horses at one time being the leading acts. The Custer battle is indeed great. The whole show stands unequalled. Twenty-five thousand persons attended here.—[Kansas City Times, August 2, 1887.]

The above named show, in all its greatness, will positively exhibit at Omaha Thursday, September 22. We advise all to see it.

In Twenty Minutes.

The motor line had for passengers yesterday several of the stockholders of the new "Military Avenue Building and Savings association." Their trip was for two purposes—to examine their property and to see at what speed the motor line made. They were more than pleased with both the property and the quick time made in getting there. The trip each way was made in just five minutes and when the connection is made with the city line, parties owning houses in this association can be landed at the exposition building in twenty minutes. Shares are being rapidly taken, and W. E. Gratton, the secretary, is more than pleased with the success he is meeting with. Call on him at 1421 Douglas street.

The Home Fire.

It may be of interest to the people of this city and state to know that among the most successfully conducted and prosperous institutions in Nebraska is the Home Fire Insurance company of Omaha.

The company's premium receipts amount to $175,000, and its business is increasing. Its assets now are about $200,000.00.

Over 200 losses have been paid by the "Home Fire," to people of Nebraska, and the company has a receipt in full for satisfactory settlement, and a complimentary letter for prompt and honorable dealing in every case. The company has never been sued.

There is no reason why a worthy home insurance company should not receive the patronage and support of the people of this state, and judging from the high standing of the officers and directors of the "Home Fire," and the care it exercises in the selection and management of its business, and the fair and honorable way it has paid its losses, and dealt with the public, this company is worthy of the large patronage it is receiving.

A New Photographer.

Pietz, the proprietor, has had a life experience in his business, and for the last fifteen years has been at Springfield, Ill. He holds several diplomas from the state of Illinois, and one from the World's exposition at New Orleans for the best work from Illinois, Chicago included. His work is extensively used in illustrating artistic work in photographing journals. He will do a good business here.

THE GRAND ARMY REUNION.

The Great Mass Gathering of Veterans Which Begins in the City To-morrow—Vast Preparations.

Scenes at Camp Logan.

Flanked on the north by a dark, green corn field with a fringe of heavy, large willows on the west, on a green plain stands Camp Logan. It is not without good reason that old veterans and participants in reunions say no superior as to location and topography has ever been found in the country. Immediately to the south is the new depot and baggage room of the Union Pacific Railway company, the track comes up to this and a large new platform is for the accommodation of visitors to the camp. Just beyond to the south is Cut-off lake, across which sail boats skim and around which reeds nod.

There are twenty-four streets in the camp, known by letters from A to X. These streets run from east to west, and there are two rows of tents between the streets. There are three thoroughfares running north and south, West avenue, which is the main street, Central avenue and East avenue. On Central avenue is the dining room, also other places of accommodations. The ladies of the Methodist church have a dining hall on headquarters row in which meals will be regularly served during the week. The speaking and musical platforms are on E, M. and N streets.

The pipes which convey the drinking water around the camp are novel and effective. There are 4,000 feet of them, and thirty-five faucets, either of the latter giving a stream as strong as any hydrant in the city. A barrel is stationed at each faucet, to be filled with ice packed away in water. Thus each person attending the encampment will have plenty of ice water. The white "array duck" habitations in their neat trimness and regular rows present a very pleasing appearance, while away to the south and east strains of music are wafted from the camp.

North of the camp and on the north edge of the shimmering lake the workmen are engaged in building the flotilla which will realistically represent the passage of the federal flotilla by Vicksburg April 15, 1862, in that fragrant and terrible grand pilgrimage, the transport Henry Clay with union soldiers on board was blown up. This will be four gunboats on the lake, Benton the flagship, Carondelet, Tusculum, a monitor and General Bragg, the mast ship, and the army transport Henry Clay. Pilots on the boats for the look out, the sleek black sides of the dread water warriors, the smoke stacks with their heavy volumes of gunsmoke, the blinding glare of the guns, the blinding of three batteries of artillery, two Federal and one state, the zipping, incessant wire rockets bursting high in air, the firing of 500 rounds of ammunition, the blaze of red lights and the blazing splashing of hand grenades against the sides of the gunboats as they sail past the Confederate fortifications will make a spectacle never before seen in the west, short of reality.

A pavilion is set about 500 on the water's edge is finished. Just opposite it in the water a ship is being built for the representation of "Pinafore." Chicago artists and artists will help in carrying out the program on board "H. M. S."

The boats in the naval and land encounter will be manned by experienced sailors. With the flags floating and the marines drilling, the grand stands filled with beautiful women gayly arrayed as befits a holiday in honor of the grand old veterans, with the civilians out in force, with the peaceful and prosperous citizens of today, the bankers, the lawyers, the doctors and business men of the country, chugged back to their life when they had but passed their two or three score mile-post on the pilgrimage of life when were warriors ready to be shot down or sabred to death or more will-in-still, reverse conditions, with these animated men re-enacting the scenes calculated to keep alive the fires of patriotism in themselves and furnish the spark to light them in the new generation. All will continue to make a gorgeous pageant, a stirring and admirable spectacle.

First National Bank Furniture.

The contract for furnishing the interior equipment for the First National Bank building has been awarded to A. H. Andrews & Co., of Chicago. The competition for the work was very active and, as each competitor submitted his own sketches, the award hung largely upon the merit of the design submitted. The award was made after very careful consideration, and the banking room will be handsomely equipped. The character of the design selected is in the Romanesque or Anglo-Norman. All of the wood work will be of the choicest mahogany. Marble will be used for the floor. All metal will be of copper, and the contract will be actively pushed in order that the building may be occupied at the earliest possible date. A. H. Andrews & Co. are also executing all of the interior fittings for the United States National bank building. In this case the woodwork will be of antique quarter-sawn oak. All of the metal parts will be of electro-plated iron finish. Marble will be used for the floor. The room will be handsomely decorated, and the equipment thorough and complete in every detail.

Progress of the work will be watched with much interest, and the new building will be certainly exceed anything else of their kind either east or west.

Falconer Decorates.

N. B. Falconer is making extensive preparations for the decoration of his store in honor of the Grand Army boys and will no doubt present a very imposing view. He intends to spare no pains or expense to make this display surpass anything he has yet undertaken. Mr. Falconer is also making great preparations for his opening of fall goods next Tuesday and Wednesday.
