The Last of the Militia Companies Pack Their Tents and Leaves Lincoln-Preparing For the Fair-Capital Notes.

FROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUBEAU.] The blows that the B. & M. in particular and the railroads in general received between wind and weather in the Lancaster county convention Saturday has left the chief fuglemen of the corporation in a dazed and dizzy condition. They were not prepared to receive such a scorching as the citizens of Lincoln and farmers of Lancaster county gave them, and if they had comprehended that a storm of half the force was to break upon them they would have had every gravel train on the road running into Lincoln on the days that the primaries were held. When the storm cloud arose the morning of the convention that was to envelop them it was fairly amusing to see the B. & M. attorneys, the head man of the State Journal and their Blanches and Trays of high and low degree trying to avert the uprising. After the cyclone struck and in their schemes to capture the organization by putting up H. D. Hathaway for chairman they had mustered eleven votes out of 200 they disappeared in the vicinity of Manager Holdrege's private car that, with the manager, was in the city. It has been since ascertained that a portion of the eleven votes cast for Hathaway were cast by mistake and that his following in the convention was even smaller than that, so that the head of the State Journal would have been fairly comfortable sitting at the feet of his pet democratic mayor compared with the frigidity that surrounded him in the re-publican convention, where he was so much out of place. Some one was cruci cnough to suggest that the only reason the republicans in his ward let him into the convention was to give him a chance to see how much he was appreciated. Notwithstanding the fact that the action of the convention was worth more to the city and state than any convention ever held in the history of the city, the Jour-nal of yesterday has not a comment of any character to make upon the work ac-complished. Upon every hand, how-ever, are congratulations, and there was a great majority of the convention who shook hands with themselves until far into the night over the results attained. There is no city in the west that has done more for failroads than Lincoln, and no city in the west that has been more sys-tematically robbed. The roads have owned it and bullied it and voted it on every occasion, and the city has tasted for the first time freedom from domination. The following is the platform adopted too late for publication in yesterday's report:

The city of Lincoln will not let state fair visitors go thirsty. The contract for sinking additional wells for city water is well near complete, and the contractor, Joseph Burns, announces that he has al-ready added a million gallons daily to the capacity. The new wells will be connected at once with the pumps and with all working well the cry for more water will be answered.

THE YELLOWSTONE PARK. A Baltimorean's Visit to That Beautiful Section.

SOME WONDERFUL FOUNTAINS. "Old Faithful"-A Mountain Support -A Section Which Numbers Its Hot Springs at 440 -A Long Ride.

Writing from Yellowstone park, a correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says: We have come into the park by the Union Pacific route, intending to go out by the Northern Pacific. These two are the only roads over which the tourist can enter the park, the former bringing you in from the north through Montana, the latter from the west through Idaho. In coming by the Northern Pacific a six mile ride from the railroad station leads from into the park to the Mammoth Hot Springs, while the Union Paoific leaves you where a stage ride of ninety-nine miles is necessary. As a consequence fifty persons come in from the north to one from the west. - But with the desire to know the me rits of both route, we left Ogden last Monday morning at 11, o'clock for a ride of 272 miles over the Utae Northern branch of the Union Pacific to Beaver Canon, where the stage ride begins. Beaver Canon is a little Idaho village of 300 inhabitants and we did not much like leaving the train there at the wretched hour of Io'clock at night. There was but one train a day, however, and no help for it; but when the proprie-tor of the only public house in the place told us that all his beds were occupied, and that we would have to write out of and that we would have to wait until 3 o'clock for the southern bound train to carry off these occupants, we about came to the conclusion that the life of the Union Pacific traveler was not a happy one. The next morning at nine o'clock saw us off for our two-days stage ride to the park. The vehicle, a canvas-covered spring wagon, drawn by four horses, con-

in full view of the distant Rock moun-tains, and through the fertile Antelope valley, where the ground, at times, for acres around, was covered with the daintiest and most lovely of wild flowers. daintiest and most lovely of wild flowers, representing all the colors and shades of a cultivated flower 'garden, with the added charm of being nature's unasked production. At 6 o'clock in the evening we reached a little log house at Snake River crossing, about half way to the both going and coming. It would have been difficult to select a more picturesque spot for a half-way house. Only a hun-dred feet away, the river-clear and rapid-flows directly in front of the house, while the Continental divide of the Rockies, seemingly only a short way off, is clearly defined against the back-ground of sky, though fully twenty-five miles away. After a supper of mountain trout and venison we were soon abed, for an early start was to be made the next morning. The second day's ride lay through a wilder county through piney woods and valleys, where the mountains rose high and old, with snow in their open guiches. Sage hens were abundant, and once we in full view of a dozen antelope running fleetly across our path not more than three or four hundred yards distant. Only three habitations did we pass in the whole ride of ninety-nime miles, and the whole ride of ninety-nime miles, and at the third of these we stopped for din-ner on this second day, and had the pleasure of paying $1 for a dinner of an-telope and canned oyster soup. Shades of the Chesapeake defend us! Such soup may do for Idaho, but it couldn't pass muster in Maryland. A broken wagon bolt delayed us awhile, and it was 9 o'clock when the lights of the park hotel at the lower geyser basin came in sight. We were pleased with the long ride, and found it very far from dull and uninteresting; yet considering the amount uninteresting; yet considering the amount of riding one must do in the park, it is well to avoid the return journey over the same route. Indeed, the Yellowstone park, in extent of territory, would make a respectable eastern state. It is fiftyfive miles wide from east to west, and sixty-five miles long from north to south. We had some thought at first of making a horseback journey to the various points of interest, but for several reasons have substituted a two-horse conveyance instead, and, with our own driver, can go where we will and at any time. This is much to be preferred to the "regula-tion round" the stages make, where they whisk you around and out in very short order. In the two days since our arrival we have spent most of the time at the Upper Geyser basin, ten miles distant from the Lower basin. The geysers are for the most work ground in basins as OUR MAGIC REMEDY WILL POSITIVELY CURE ALL SYPHILITIO for the most part grouped in basins, so called, which are large irregular deprescalled, which are large irregular depres-sions in the surrounding country, per-haps three or four nules in extent, and hedged about by low ranges of moun-tains or wooded hills. In this upper NO OTHER REMEDY ON KARTH basin are the largest and most famous geysers and hot springs. The official count places their number at 440, of Will in All Cases Cure This Disease. which twenty-six are known to be gey-sers. Seated on the hotel pinzza you Bince the history of medicine a true Specific for Syphilitic Disease has been sught for but never found until the discovery of our MACIC REMEDY. We have every reason to believe that it is abo-nuisy unknown to any physician, specialist or chem-ist living, either that his or the old word. It was discovered by mere accident thirteen years ago by a unan of no fangelai means but a natural chemist, who only used it in a quiet way in cases coming to his notice where andiety way in cases relief, though theroughly trying every known reim-ody and employing it.e-most skillful physicians in the land, who had ultimatery pronounced these cases incurable. may count more than a score of waver-ing steam columns rising into the air, and the whole area looks, in the distance, very much like the seat of a busy manufacturing town, save that the steam is always milky white. Sometimes the geyser opening is flush with the ground; sometimes the mineral deposit has formed a cone of greater or less height and circumference. For instance, "The Giantess" has an irregular, rather oval opening without a raised rim, thirty-four feet long and twenty-four feet at its greatest width, while "The Castle" sends a continual thick column of steam from out a crater twelve or fourteen feet high and of large circumference at its base. In some, when at rest, the water is level with the rim; in others, entirely sunk out of sight, leaving a naked, tortuous hole in the ground. At least a dozen of these geys-ers throw up a column of water from 50 ground. At least a dozen of these geys-ers throw up a column of water from 50 to 200 feet and more, the duration of the eruption being a few minutes in some, a few hours in others. Beside most of the geysers there is a smaller pool of water, whose boiling tells of the approaching eruption of its larger neighbor, and this small pool is called the indicator. There are different geysers. "The Bee Hive" is said to go off every seven to twenty-five hours: "The Castle" once in forty-eight hours: "The Gantess" once is tourteen days, and so on. But the uncertainty of the thing is perplexing. Our first evening at the Upper Basin the report spread that the indicator of "the Grand" was boiling. Everyone hurried through supper and walked over to the geyser, about one-quarter mile away. I counted thirty-three people sitting about on the rocks and hillsides. An hour passed away, and with it the ladies of the party. Another hour, and half the men had drifted back to the hotel. A half hour more, and five of us were gazing at the spluttering in-dicator, or wistfully into the crater of the geyser. Then a shower of rain came.

and drove ns back also. This is a fair sample. But there is one noble excep-tion to thus uncertainty. "Old Faithful" never disappoints you. Once every hour he sends up a mighty stream of boiling water from 100 to 150 feet high. The sunlight makes the highest drops of water glisten like so many diamonds as the thick steam is blown away in beavy clouds by the wind. In five minutes all is quiet again. and you may clouds by the wind. In five minutes all is quiet again, and you may walk up and look down into the earth. Look a gaping hole in the earth. Look a gaping hole in the earth. Look a gain. We saw two other important gersers in action—"The Castle" and "The Fountain," in the lower basin, and are ready to call this region a veritable "wonderland." Of the hot springs we liked the "Morning Glory" and the "Black Sand Basin" the best. The exquisite coloring of these springs, and, indeed, of almost all the numerous others, is beyond description, and what seemed only the florid rhetoric of the guide-books proves, after all, very weak language.

of the guide-books proves, after all, very weak language. Here is one of the more sober-toned and accurate description of a very beau-tiful spring, "The Prismatic Spring," which is 250 by 850 feet: "Over the cen-tral bit or bowl the water is deop blue in color, changing into green toward the edge. The water of the shallower suredge. The water of the shallower sur-rounding basin is of a yellow tint, fading into orange. Outside the rim there is a brilliant red de-posit, which shades into purples, brawns and grays. These colors are in vivid bands, which are strickingly marked and distinct. The water, flow ing off in every direction, with constan wave-like pulsations, over the beautifully scolloped and slightly raised rim of the spring, has formed a succession of ter-races a few inches in height down the slopes of the mound. The depth and richness of the colors around this spring cannot be exaggerated. The tempera-ture of the water is about 146 degrees Fahrenheit." Yet with all their beauty there is a most treacherous luring smile in those clear, fathomless pools. With in these clear, fathomless pools. all these wonders around, there are an novances which remind us painfully that we are still in the land of mortals. Chie among the disturbing elements are th mosquitoes. They are countless and hun gry. A land breeze at Cape May is com fort in comparison. Yet by 9 o'clock a night they are gone, for the nights in the park are really cold, and thick blankets are necessary. This is not strange when you know that the average elevation here is something over 7,000 feet above sea level. I shall hope in my next letter to say something of the Yellowstone lake and Grand falls.

For fear of losing a day's work, many persons put off taking physic until Sat-urday. The better plan is not to delay but take it as soon as needed, it may save you a hard spell of sickness. If you want the most benefit from the least amount of physic without causing you any inconvenience, loss of appetite or rest, take St. Patrick's Pills. Their action on the liver and bowels are thorough, they give a freshness, tone and vigor to the whole ystem and act in harmany with nature.

FROM SWORDS TO PLOUGHSHARES.

The last of the state militia has de-parted, and the city of Lincoln is civilian again. The last companies to depart were those in the northwest country that could not leave after breaking camp un-til yesterday. The good behavior of the boys while in the city and in camp has been the subject of especial commenda-tion, and from the entire gathering of citizen soldiers two or three, at the most, were all that lost themselves in liquor so that the city police had to look after them. A large number of the militis are farmer boys, and they will now proceed to turn over the soil of western Nebraska in search of the products of peace.
