The advent of hunter, trapper, hermit and gold-finder is always an event at the fort, for he is sure to bring money worth with him, and is a never failing object of curiosity to civilized man. Stockholders Hold a Meeting in New York and Elect Directors.
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The stockholders of the Northern Pacitic railroad met to-day and voted for a new board of directors for the ensuing year. The meeting adjourned after a vote until to-morrow to give the tellers a chance to count the vote. Following is the only ticket in the field and which is doubtedly elected: August Belmont, is the only ticket in the field and which is undoubtedly elected: August Belmont, Frederick Billings, John V. Brookman, Benjamin P. Cheney, Robert Harris, Brayton Ives, Thomas F. Oakes, Charles B. Wright, Henry Villard, Edwin H. Abbott, Charles L. Colby, Colgate Hoyt, and John B. Trevor. Many heavy stockholders were present. Prominent among them was Henry Villard, who voted on 380,000 shares of stock. The vote cast is believed to be the heaviest in the history of the company. The reports of President Haines early retirement are confirmed but it is said that he will retain his position until the Cascade division through Stampede Pass tunnel is completed, and will be succeeded by Vice President Oakes.

The entire vote cast was 735,000 shares. The Villard parties secured so many revocations of proxies already given that it became necessary to adjourn the meeting until tomorrow to enable the inspectors to count the votes and make up a report. What the policy of the new board will be if Villard's ideas are carried out, is indicated in a letter of his made public to-night. He declares that the beat plan to secure harmony between the Northern and Union Pacific lines is the joint lease of the Oreyon Railway and Navigation company. He said this would be one of the first acts of the new board. He thought the present officers would all be re-elected, but the retention of the presidency by Robert Harris would be only for a little while, as it had been promised to Vice President Oakes.

Blaine Was the Favorite.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—There was considerable inside talk at the republican state con-vention about the contest for president in 1838. There was a general agreement of opinion that Cleveland would be the democratic nominee. A canvass to determine who should be the republican, made by several delegates among their fellows, showed that Blaine was the favorite candidate. So far ahead was Blaine that for a time it seemed to the canvasers as if they would not be able to discover any rivals. Senators Evarts and Hiscock, ex-Senators Miller and Platt and ex-Governor Cornell preferred not to disclose their choice. Other delegates hide their secret choice behind the phrasa, "I am for the nominee of the convention."

CLARION, Pa., Sept. 15.—[Special Tele-gram to the BEE.]—Miss Carrie Myers,daughter of Nathan Myers, eashier of the Second National bank and one of the wealthlest men in this place, has eloped with Adolphus Farland, manager of the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Peddling company, that camped in a vacant lot here six weeks ago. Miss Carrie was a petite and dainty brunette for whose hand there has been a struggle between a young merchant from Edinburgh and the son of a county official. Nothing was known of her infatuation with the Kickapoo Indian man until after last Saturday night, when she left her home and was next heard from on Monday through a telegram signed by him saying that they were married and had gone to join his company.

Clingstone Beats Patron. CLEVELAND, Sept. 15 .- Two noted trotters were booked to go at the driving park this afternoon, and a great crowd was in attendance. The horses were Patron (2:14%), the sensation of the year, and Clingstone. Both horses looked in fit condition when they came out. In the first heat Clingstone had the best send off, but Patron passed him at the half and went under the wire at 2:17. Clingstone got the start in the second heat, but was soon lapped by Patron. The latter broke badly, however, and when brought down could not make up the lost ground. Clingstone took the heat in 2:19. Patron was still a favorite in the pools. In the third heat Patron passed Clingstone at the half in the lead by two lengths and three-quarters. but here Clingstone was given the whip and came under the wire seven lengths in the lead in 2:19. The pools now sold in favor of Clingstone. It was late and darkness comon, and to the surprise of all Emery, Patron's owner, refused to bring the horse out, claiming that Patron was sick and that it was too dark to trot. Clingstone walked over and won the purse. Clingstone got the start in the second heat, won the purse.

The first meeting was held in Dr. Babcock's office, where the Millard hotel now stands. In 1867 they Dr. O. S. Hoffman has returned from a five weeks' trip to Buffalo, the White Mountains, the St. Lawrence, and Hon. John C. Cowin returned from Chicago byesterday where he has been engaged for some days in important railerected a building that they were de-lighted to call their own. It was through the efforts of the Omaha Y. M. C. A. that Mrs. A. W. Saxe and daughter have returned from a several months' visit to Michigan, and is now at home at 211 South Twenty-fifth avenue. an international association was estab-lished, the first session being held in this city. The present efforts of the associa-tion were deserving the appreciation of the young men of Omaha and the hearty support of the community. He predicted Mrs. Dr. Benson has returned from a visit of three months to her family in Arkansas. She was met at Little Rock by the Rabbi, and escorted to this city. great things for the Omaha Y. M. C. A. Frst Massachusetts infantry, and now a permanent resident of Rising City, Neb., in the future.

The next speaker was Hon. John M. Thurston. He said: Since he crossed the Missouri river eighteen years ago he the Missouri river eighteen years ago he has seen the city increase from 15,000 to 100,000 souls. Shantles have given way to magnificent palaces of brick and stone. Manufactures have commenced and prospered. Business has marvelously progressed. Wonderful school edifices have sprung up on every side; while an almost countless number of church spires pierce the eager sky. The city has grown from a rough pioneer town to a metropolis that for enterprise and morality is not surpassed by is the home of the young men of this country. Young men have built it up, have civilized it and made it the land of promise. Through this gateway is pouring a constant stream of the boys of the land. They have left home, friends and associates to carve out their futures and their own prosperities. No paths are so productive as those of industry, morality and religion. These lead up to prosperity. I believe in the divine doctrines of the lonely Nazarene who trod the shores of Galilee. I believe in an over-ruling, all-wise God, I cannot be-lieve that the incomprehensible wonders of the universe came by chance. There must be an almighty power that rules the destinies of nations and of men. I believe that this continent was saved up for the establishment of a nation blessed with liberty and equality. I most heartily believe in the guidance and dictation of a supreme God. The pilgrims loved the principles of liberty. They maintained and dignified labor. They were sternly moral and religious, and believed devoutly in an all-wise Providence. It is this faith and this love of liberty that leads us onward and upward to-day. I have noticed that boys who have grown up in Omaha are good, industrious, law-abiding and God-fearing young men. How many of them could credit this association with ennobling their lives none could tell. This new building as long as it stands, will say to all governments and civilizations that there is equal liberty and and privine viatue. J. E. Ensign, the financial secretary. made a report setting forth the following figures: The building will cost $75,000; pledged, $56,000, of which $30,880 was collected, while $20,000 more is needed. In the recess of the stone were placed where they are suppositiously sealed for-ever, or for a mighty long time at best, drafts of the constitution of the association, photographs of their first president, Watson B. Smith, and the present executive, P. C. Himebaugh, and copies of all the daily papers pub-lished in Omaha.

Rawlins Count (Kan.) Democrat: We had a bee at Mr. Nute Nickols' on last Tuesday and about twenty-five men were on hand and half as many women. The object was to build a sod house 13 by 20 for Mrs. C. Young. Everything went well until about 2 p. m., when Mr. Jona Nickols hit upon the idea of laying out a railroad and all hands agreed and fell to work. The grade stakes were struck and depot located. The name of the station is Dean's Hollow. is Dean's Hollow.
