The scholars in the class of Miss R. Lyon yesterday gave her a pleasant sur-prise, each scholar bringing her a supply of fruit.

An information was yesterday filed against a Mrs. Washington, a colored woman, for disturbing the peace. She will have a hearing before Judge Aylesworth this evening. Much kicking is being done by those who attended the opera house on Wednes-day night. Not that the show was poor, but that the orchestra and drop curtain worked worse than ever. Mr. Norling, who is doing the decorating of the new county court house, has become a permanent resident of this city. He has leased a house on the cor-ner of Main and Fifth avenue. The funeral of Miss Hattie Steffen will be held this morning, the friends gather-ing at the residence, No. 1819 Fourth avenue, at 9 o'clock, and the services at St. Xavier's Catholic church at 10 o'clock. Several of the hangers on about the gambling houses in this city went to St. Joe in the hope of making a stake. When the injunction was obtained against the use of the building for saloon purposes his landlady served notice upon him to quit and he hastened to comply. He made the announcement that he was going into the eigar business, his old trade, and the prohibition organ gave him a cheering send-off. Hardly had the praise been published when he changed his mind and concluded to keep on. He furnished bonds to secure the owner of the property in case of trouble and opened up. He found that a war-cloud was gathering especially for him, and he hurriedly closed again. This time it is said to be

THE ROTHERY DIAMOND.

The City Marshal Kept Waiting For $400 By a Curious Mistake-A Change of Railway Officials -Prisoners Confess.

Rothery and The Diamond.

The whole of yesterday was taken up in the district court in the arguments in the case of Herb Rothery, charged with stealing a diamond from Mrs. Burhorn's jewelry store. Attorney Mynster made the opening argument for the defense. followed by Attorney Baldwin, of Omaha. Colonel Daily closed on behalf of the state. There was a good deal of time and strength spent in pounding at each other, until it seemed that the attorneys considered themselves on trial instead of the prisoner at the bar. It was a hot contest of words, and the jury as well as the attorneys looked pretty well worn out when the end was reached and the case given to the twelve. As soon as the jury had rethe twelve. As soon as the jury had re-tired, Colonel Daily asked that the court order the sheriff to take Rothery in charge, and also take Morse, who was indicted jointly with him, though Roth-ery was tried separately. The county at-torney called the attention of the court to the fact that the two men were non-residents, and that the bond was only $1,000. Judge Deemer accordingly is-sued the order, and the sheriff took charge of the two men.

The jury retired about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and general predictions seemed to be that they would hang or

The jury were still out at a late hour last night, with prospects of staying until last night, with prospects of staying until morning.

During the evening an effort was made to get Rothery and Morse out on bonds of $1,000 to prevent their being locked up all night. Judge Deemer examined into the proffered bond signed by Mr. Her of Omaha, and John Linder, of this city. The former not being a resident of this county that barred him out of being a bondsman under the statute. Mr. Linder appeared and was examined as to his appeared and was examined as to his real estate in this county, but Judge Deemer decided not to approve the bond, and those interested in the release of the two prisoners went after Conrad Geise, it being decided that his signature, with that of Mr. Linder, would be satisfactory. When Rothery and Moss were first arrested for the larceny of the diamond, Ed Rothery is said to have secured the services of W. S. Williams to look after his brothers's interests. Attorney Williams has commenced suit now, claiming $250 for his fee. He got service on Ed Rothery yesterday, and the case is docketed in the superior court. Rothery claims that he got Williams to look after the ease in the police court and paid him the full amount agreed upon, $10, and

The City Marshal's Fee Bills. The county refused to allow the bills of City Marshal Guanella several months ago and Frank became wrathy. He determined he could sue them, but thought he'd wait until the September meeting and see if they'd allow his bills for the previous quarter, if not, he would sue for the whole six months' bills at once.

that ended Williams' connection with the case.

He went to the county auditor and pro-cured the old bills to copy. He then asked the city clerk for the bills for the last quarter which he wanted to copy before they went to the board. After he had copied the six months' bills he took them all to the auditor so he could put the old bills away and file the new ones for the consideration of the board of sup-when the supervisors met the city marshal was in daily attendance, patiently waiting for his bills to come up. He was extremely anxious to be there in person when the board was considering them. He waited and waited in vain, as finally the board adjourned until Decem-ber without considering the bills in which Guanella was interested.

Upon inquiry, no one seemed to know the cause of the absence of the bills, but finally it was discovered that the county auditor, when he was handed the old oills he had allowed Guanella to copy, the new bills being in the same package, put them all away together in the old file, where they were discovered.

And now the city marshal and the witnesses who were on the bills will have to wait until the December meeting of the supervisors before they can draw their oay.
It is a little joke that will cost the city marshal the trouble of waiting three months longer for about $400, besides inconveniencing the witnesses, provided, however, the supervisors allow them when they see them.

It wouldn't do to mention it to Guanella though, as he keeps it quiet.

A MISSOURI FUGITIVE.

He Proves to Be Badly Wanted For Safe Blowing and Other Crimes. H. C. Miller, or Millard Harmon, as his name turns out to be, was taken back to Gallatin, Mo., yesterday afternoon on the Wabash train by the sheriff of Davis

Gabe W. Cox, sheriff of Davis county, Mo., arrived in the city yesterday noon on the Wabash, and after consulting City Marshal Guanella, proceeded to the county jail for his prisoner. Upon the opening of the jail door the marshal said, "There he is," at the same time pointing to the prisoner.
"Hello, Gabe!" shouted Harmon, "How are you? I didn't expect to see you are you? I didn't expect to see you again very soon."

The sheriff says Harmon is a very dangerous crook, as well as a slick safe blower. He was wanted for the robbery of the postoffice, which was located in a general merchandise store, and had broken jail after his arrest. He hasn't been seen nor has there been any track of him since July 8.

City Marshal Guanella says he recognizes the fugitive from justice as being a man whom he has seen on the streets of Council Bluffs, on and off, for three weeks or so and to corroborate this Harmon said he had seen Guanella so often weeks or so and to corroborate this Harmon said he had seen Guanetla so often he had got over being afraid of him. As he put it: "When I first saw you I expected to be seized, but I'd gotten over that, seeing you so often. I have been here, on and off, for a month or more and was in this city every night during the Omaha fair."

Had it not been for the accidental meeting on the train of an old neighbor of Harmon's, no arrest would have been of Harmon's, no arrest would have been made, as when the train arrived at the transfer the man carefully and quickly told officer McMillian, on Wednesday that "that man is a fugitive from justice and is wanted in Davis county, Mo. Arrest him." McMillian was in doubts as to the advisability but obeyed the command and a dangerous man was placed in custody.

Marshall Guanella was handed $25 by Sheriff Cox as a reward, before he started home.

Why so Many Tres? Carload after carload of railroad ties are arriving in the yards of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. There are now 80,000 piled up there, and the anxious query is, what for? No one seems to know. Even the railway officials are as silent as tombstones, and act almost as if they thought the ties were not there at all. They simply don't know, or at least that is what they say, and like newspapers they always tell the truth. There are numerous theories, and the most reasonable one is the company is planning on building the talked of branch to Fontanelle, Ia., at once. If the work is to begin on this end, the presence of the ties here can easily be accounted for. There has been some running of lines and some grading done, and it seems now that the road from Fontanelle would be pushed to a specify completion, thus be pushed to a speedy completion, thus making an air line into this city. The advantage of this line can easily be seen by a glance at the map and a compari-son between the present main line of the Q. and the prospective route.

J. W. and E. L. Squire lend money.

Admitted New Guilt. Yesterday afternoon, just before the adjournment of the district court, two prisoners were brought up from the county fail to plead guilty. One was the tramp, giving his name as Reeder, who was arrested in the country for making an indecent exposure of himself in a farm house, where he had begged the privilege of sitting down and resting. The indictment was for assault with intent to commit rape, but he concluded to plead guilty to exposure of person. At least that was his wish as expressed by his attorney, W. S. Williams, but when the fellow was asked by the judge, he de-clared he was not guilty. His attorney whispered to him hurriedly and he concluded that he was guilty. He got off with a two months' jail sentence, the fact being taken into consideration that he had already been locked up for six weeks.

A colored man, Winters, pleaded guilty to burglary. He was caught in the act of going through a saloon on Main street. He was remanded to the county jail to await his sentence, which will be pro-

A Change of Agents. Yesterday morning Charlie Keith, the general agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Qaincy at this point, transferred the office to M. M. Marshall, who is selected as the successor. Mr. Keith has been appointed to look after the company's interests in East St. Louis. As he describes it, the change is "an Irishman's hoist, one peg down," but it is understood that the change is not so downward a one as the gentleman jokingly and modestly suggests. The position to which he is now called is an important one, and he will doubtless be found filling it well and faithfully. He has made many friends here among the business circles, and the interests of the road have been zealously cared for.

Mr. Marshall has been the agent at Pacitic Junction. He is succeeded at that piace by J. T. Pugh, an old Council Bluffs boy, who has been Marshall's assistant for four years, and who was formerly in the office here.
