One of Council Bluffs' favorite lady vocalists is to be united in marriage to a Broadway merchant on the 11th proximo. There is a fine sorrel mare in the pound that has been there for a week. It is thought that it was stolen by some one, who after riding it to the city, abandoned it.

Yesterday was the first Sunday for the Club. The rooms were visited by many of the members who enjoyed the luxuriously furnished apartments hugely as a quiet resting place.

Rev. E. D. McCreary preached last night at the Broadway Methodist church, it being his last sermon previous to his going to his new charge in California the latter part of this week.

Saturday night just before the time of shutting down the electric light works for the night the connecting rod of the engine broke, in consequence of which the electric lights were not lighted last night. It is expected that the damage will be repaired by to-night in time to light up again.

The work of grading Tenth avenue for the Union Pacific railway begins this morning under the contract of John C. Lee, provided the weather is favorable. Work will be pushed rapidly by Mr. Lee, and he expects to have his entire force put upon it, and to take the work away from his other work, some of which is about completed.

The Berkeley & Gay furniture is sold only by C. A. Beebe & Co. List your property with Cooper & Judson, No. 120 Main st.

Personal Paragraphs. Charles L. Hass is home from Chicago. Mrs. J. C. Mitchell has returned from her visit at Pacific Junction.

Miss May Hazard left Saturday for Taber, where she will attend school. Walter Beebe has returned from a trip in Nebraska for the house of C. A. Beebe & Co.

Dave Stubbs is the father of a boy, and says he weighs just eighteen pounds and a half. James Sagnin is among the proud fathers now, as he possesses a brand new girl.

Bert Evans, Oscar Keeline, Bert Sargent and George Brown are camped on Honey creek. J. D. Warren, of St. Louis, owner of the Warren flats on Fifth avenue, is at the Dechtele hotel.

L. Harris received a present at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in the shape of a bouncing girl baby. L. Simmons, Singer sewing machine agent, returned from a trip on the road Saturday night.

Mrs. Chris Rudio and children have arrived from Buffalo, N. Y., and will make this city their future home, as Mr. Rudio has located here. C. L. Hammel, late of the Marcellis manufacturing company, has gone in with the Haworth check mower, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Dick Haworth.

D. O. Finch, United States district attorney, of Des Moines, arrived last night and is at the Ogden with W. T. Rankin, his assistant. They are the first United States court officials to arrive.

Lester and Daisy, children of E. E. Harkness, returned home yesterday, accompanied by their grandmother, Mrs. Lester, with whom they have been spending the summer at Binghamton, N. Y.

E. B. Sullivan, an employe of the Union Pacific railroad, and a prominent citizen of Omaha, spent Saturday on this side. After transacting some business with the county auditor, John Clansur, he drove about the city and took in Council Bluffs. After having visited the most prominent places and seeing the many improvements, he came to the conclusion that Council Bluffs was booming, and so made up his mind to build a fine residence on this side in the spring.

Billy Lewis' Elephant. Doris & Colvin's circus left one of their large elephants with William Lewis to keep and take care of for Forepaugh when he arrives Thursday. Lewis has it in his stables, and yesterday morning, when Matt Harle arrived, Lewis sent him to see his new thoroughbred. Harle opened the door, and as he did so the elephant stuck his trunk into his face. The fright was so great that it took him most of the day to recover from the shock.

The elegant furniture for the Business Men's club was furnished by C. A. Beebe & Co.

A PAIR OF QUAILS PARTED. The Inate Husband Hunts Up the Aggrieved Wife and Has Her Arrested.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES. Interesting Harvest Home Services—The New Methodist Pastor—The Silver City Merchants Trying to Pacify Creditors.

She Didn't Quail. Sam Quail, of Plum Creek, Neb., arrived in this city yesterday at 12:30 o'clock in search of his wife, whom he claimed, had refused to live with him. As he was walking up Broadway, directly after his arrival in this city, he met the object of his search just entering a restaurant at No. 303 Broadway. Quail went to police headquarters and there informed the marshal that he had just discovered his wife placed under immediate arrest; that she was a fugitive from justice; that an officer in Omaha held a warrant for her arrest and she was wanted for numerous other causes.

The deputy marshal and a representative of the BEK proceeded to the restaurant in company with Quail. On the expedition it was learned that Quail wanted to obtain possession of his five-year-old son more than he wanted possession of his wife.

After locating the restaurant, Quail retired into seclusion, while the deputy marshal and the BEK man introduced themselves to Mrs. Quail, who had been going under the name of Francis J. Gilbert.

When made aware of the fact that her husband requested her arrest, Mrs. Quail said she would commit no offense and saw no reason for being placed under arrest. The deputy marshal informed her that Quail was about to swear out a warrant provided, she would not acquiesce in his custody of the police until his warrant from the other side of the river arrived. Also that he had no authority to place her under arrest, but if she wished, she could go to the station and remain there until the warrant arrived. She concluded she would go as she had no fear of any warrant he might have issued.

When she was ushered into the policeman's parlor she freely gave a full account of her unhappy union with Quail eight years ago and the treatment she had received at his hands since then.

She is a blonde of rather small stature and above the average intellectually. She acknowledged having left her husband in May last, and claimed he not alone drank excessively, but gambled away even her hard earned money. That the child was in an institution in Omaha and she had no way of knowing his whereabouts, she had no disposition to deceive him.

Quail offered the BEK man a five dollar bill and requested it be handed to his wife, which she refused to accept, although she only had 50 cents in her pocket and her two days' pay coming from her employer. She said he couldn't make it appear that he was supporting her by thus offering her money. She said he was well able to support her and their son, would he let dissipation alone, as although he had no extensive education, he was naturally smart and a very fair lawyer.

Quail sent to Omaha for the warrant, saying he simply wanted to reclaim his wife and obtain possession of his child. He appeared with a new suit of store clothes, a new pair of shoes and a silk hat, which caused his wife to smile when she saw him out of the window as she remarked, that he was becoming quite gay in his new costume after having been walking upon his uppers for some time past. She disliked the newspaper notoriety which would of necessity be caused, but thought Mr. Quail would rather enjoy it. She chatted with the deputy police and city marshal, and apparently tried to hide her humiliation at being confined in the station, after which she busied herself by writing:

Many men of many minds; Many birds of many kinds; Many fishes in the sea, and Many folks who can't agree.

Besides the above, Quail charges her with lewdness and being intimate with a traveling man at Vinton, Ia. His charges were received with a grain of allowance, as parties who knew him in Sac county considered him rather a worthless man, principally on account of drink.

During the latter hours of the afternoon Sheriff Taylor, of Plum Creek, arrived and Mrs. Quail consented to go across the river without an acquisition upon the warrant in the sheriff's possession charging her with assault with intent to kill. She did not deny having struck her husband upon the forehead just previous to her leaving him.

The Harvest Home. The harvest home services at the First Baptist church yesterday morning were very interesting and well attended. The platform was completely hidden by the profuse display of cereals, fruits, vegetables and flowers, which were very tastefully arranged, and showed to the best advantage. Rev. Dr. Coss, the pastor, entertained his hearers with a very interesting discourse, taking as his text, Deut. 16: 16. He said that the whole Jewish people, pious kings, and also Christ and his apostles observed the three great yearly festivals spoken of in the text. When faithful in their observance, peace and prosperity reigned, while on the other side, the world was in a state of wretchedness, and as a result famine stared them in the face, and they were given into the hands of their enemies.

Now at this season of harvest, God wants us to be especially thankful for his bounty in providing for us. Various articles of beauty greet the eye and supply our wants. The wants of the brute are few, how varied are ours. It has been said that "the more wants a man has, the higher is his civilization." How very much we are above the savages. Various fruits, grains and vegetables add to our joy, who would not thank God for the chemistry of the sun and air in preparing all these things for us? Do you realize that what we eat and drink as well as our clothing, the cotton and the wool, all come, directly or indirectly, from the soil? We could do nothing should God withhold his blessing. Should he send famine for a single season, the loom would be idle and the world in darkness. All is dependent on His goodness. Should we not thank Him for His goodness the past season? God forbid unthankful hearts. We enjoy the united results of the sunshine and the frost. I have no sympathy with the man who in harvest, to-day we come here to return thanks and rejoice for the blessings God has bestowed upon us. No Jew would think of going to the temple without an offering, and the heathen would not appear before his idol, nor the Jew before the altar without an offering. Nothing should make us rejoice so much as when we think of what God has done and is doing for us.

The speaker then gave a brief history of home mission work, following which a collection was taken up.

The new pastor of the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. W. H. W. Rees, preached his first sermon yesterday morning. The church was crowded with a congregation anxious to see and hear the new pastor. Mr. Rees is of middle age and inspires one with confidence as to his integrity of purpose and earnestness in the work he has chosen. He is a very pleasing speaker, articulating very plainly, at the same time speaking rather slowly. He has a fine flow of language with an ability to clothe beautiful thoughts in simple words. He prefaced his remarks by saying that he should pursue the policy so vigorously outlined by his predecessor in the suppression of vice and sin in all its different phases; also that he should not hesitate to rebuke any of the church members should he find them derelict in their church duties. He hoped to be able to comfort you in time of affliction, to advise in business relations and to cheer in time of trouble.

He took as his text Colossians 1:28: "Whom we preach, warning every man and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Jesus Christ."

Christ is the remedy for all the errors that we commit. Not only a belief in Christ and the truth of His gospel, but a belief in the personal presence of Christ to-day is necessary to save souls. Christ is the central theme of all life related closely to the life of all Christians, and this belief in the presence of Jesus Christ is necessary to help you to bear the burdens of everyday life, of business, of social relations, of home life, in fact Christ is the great burden-bearer of the human race. Without this faith in the personal presence of Jesus Christ, of labor, faith and work is vain. He is one to help you in the darkest hour.

The pulpit must give no uncertain sound against sin. I intend to warn you against the sin of indifference. Resolve by God's help to guard you against indifference.

Shun idleness, the church is no place for idlers; let your place at church, class meetings, card services, not be interfered with by your business.

Be Methodists; God grant that we may obey the little book as well as the larger one; we live in an age of books, when it is a sin to be ignorant. The pulpit should teach the way to knowledge for the road to knowledge is the way to Christ; the God of nature is the God we worship, and we worship Him more perfectly as we become perfected in knowledge."

The Silver City Sensation. The cases of Brinton & Woodman, the Silver City general merchants, are attracting much attention. They sold their stock to R. M. Wilbur for $3,000 cash, while J. V. Farwell & Co., of Chicago, held a mortgage against the stock for $2,875 that, by agreement of the interested parties when it was given—July 2, 1887—was not to be placed upon file, as Brinton & Woodman feared the recording of the same would virtually end their business career.

Woodman spent Friday night in the county jail, and Saturday he, with his attorney and Chief of Police Mullen, drove to Silver City hoping to close up matters so he could again become a free man. It appears that he made arrangements to settle the firm's indebtedness to Messrs. Groneweg & Schoentgen, of this city, of some $100, and returned in company with R. M. Wilbur, the purchaser. The chief of police spent the evening and night in the company of the prisoner and at midnight, with his attorney, the prisoner appeared at the home of Justice Schurz and asked to be released from arrest as arrangements to settle the case had been made. Mr. Schoentgen had been induced by Attorney Lindt to join the midnight party, but "Squire Schurz said he would give no midnight decisions, and that the chief of police, who had kindly accompanied Woodman all day, should hold the prisoner for appearance Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the justice's office.

Saturday afternoon S. P. Brinton was arrested and taken from Silver City to Glenwood, Mills county, upon information filed by Stone & Sims, attorneys for J. V. Farwell & Co. This part of the proceeding being looked after by J. Y. Stone while Jacob Sims made affidavit before "Squire Schurz Saturday evening that a warrant had been issued for Woodman also; that he wanted him held until he could be taken to Mills county, notwithstanding it appeared that perhaps the first claim made would possibly be satisfied.

While Wilbur, Lindt, Woodman and Chief Mullen were driving to Council Bluffs Saturday night, a writ of replevin was issued in Mills county at the instance of Stone & Sims, and the stock of goods was taken charge of. It is reported that the stock has been materially reduced recently.

Yesterday morning C. P. Brinton, of this city, arranged a bond for his brother who is under arrest in Glenwood and there imprisoned, as the offense was committed in Mills county, while Woodman's case under the Groneweg & Schoentgen case was committed in this county.

Sheriff Dan Farrell, of Mills county, arrived yesterday, procuring Attorney Sims requested that Woodman be delivered to him and Justice Schurz so ordered, the Groneweg & Schoentgen case being continued indefinitely.

Effects of Rattlesnake Poison. New York Sun: On August 29, 1883, a five-year-old son of George Putnam, who lives at Stony Ford, Pa., was returning home from driving the cows to pasture, and stopped by the roadside to pick some berries. He was barefooted, and suddenly felt a sharp sting on the instep of his left foot. He ran crying home and told his mother that he had scratched his foot on a briar. The foot had begun to swell and his mother picked for him the flesh what she at first supposed to be a briar, but as the foot continued to swell and the boy's sufferings were intense, the alarming fact was apparent that he had been bitten by some poisonous snake, and that the supposed briar was one of its fangs that had buried itself in the wound and been pulled from the snake's jaw.

Mrs. Putnam called her husband, who was at work near the house, and alarmed other members of the family. A live chicken was cut in two and the warm flesh applied to the wound. "Why was given to the boy in large quantities, and a messenger was dispatched for a doctor. A member of the family went to the spot where the boy said he had felt the sharp sting, and found a rattlesnake coiled near the roadside. The snake was killed and one of its fangs was found to be missing, which left no doubt of the nature of the boy's injury. The snake was cut open and laid on the ground in the boy's foot, which had swollen to more than double its natural size. The sufferings of the boy were so great that he could scarcely be held down in the bed by two men. The doctor arrived and cuturized the wound, but said it was too late and that the boy would die.

The swelling had extended up the leg to his waist, and the leg became spotted. Antidotes prescribed by the doctor were administered, but the whiskey treatment was also adhered to. The boy's body turned black, but after three days of the
