WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW. No Change of Importance Noted in

Western Financial Affairs. CHICAGO, Oct. 1.-|Special Telegram to the BEE.]-There is no change to note of particular importance in local financial affairs. The demand for money is quite brisk from all sources and bankers report that their surplus funds are readily placed at full rates of interest. There is no stringency in the market, but the feeling is very firm. Borrowers, however, who are able to present undoubted collaterals experience no difficulty in obtaining all the favors asked for. Speculation in grain and provisions is attracting more attention and there is a little more money being furnished to that department of reached its limit. New York was also a trade. Packers are out of the market for the present, but the approach of the winter packing season has a tendency among bankers to regulate their affairs so as to accommodate the packing interest when they require assistance. Some money is needed on short date paper to pay for property which may be delivered on October contracts. Lumber dealers are presenting very little paper at present and manufacturers seek very few favors. Wholesale merchants are some what pressing in their demands and are generally accommodated. More outside paper is being presented -generally of such character as is discounted in eastern markets. and which eas been forced here on account of the stringency in that quarter-but bankers, in view of the claims of local borrowers. are dot disposed to discount much paper of that description. Occassionally small amounts of are accepted on wide margins and at interest rates ranging at 8009 per cent on local paper. Rates of interest are firm at 66664 per cent for call and 668 per cent for time loans, depending on the security tendered and amount of money required. In eastern financial circles the stringency in the money market continues and borrowers experience considerable difficulty in obtainexperience considerable difficulty in obtain ing financial assistance and rates interest are well maintained at 6.68 per cent. Advices from foreign markets indicate a little more steadiness in that quarter and interestrates on the open market are a little higher. The balance of trade is still in favor of this countries of the state of the still in favor of this countries. try, and the amount of gold received from abroad since July 23 is about $17,000,000. New York exchange was in good supply and weak throughout the week. The demand was rathery light, and ponsiderable current was ordered from the east. Sales were made between banks at 60@70e discount for $1,000 and the market closed easy at the range, Foreign exchange was dull and weak owing to quite liberal shipments of stocks, bread-stuffs, provisions and petroleum. Shippers' sixty day documentary bills on London changed hands at $4.7854 cm. 7854 and closed steady. The New York stock market exhibited considerable life during the past week, but trading was not as active as during the week previous. In a general way the mar-ket was somewhat unsettled and prices rather irregular, but fluctuations were confined within a narrow range and averged a trifle higher. Sales on the New York stock exchange for the week aggregated 1,59,515 shares. Undoubtedy inere is more speculative interest being manifested in produce circles and the aggregate trading during the week snowed considerable improvement. While the reports concerning the final outcome of the corn crop are somewhat conflicting, yet operatorn are now well satisfied as to the yield and quality of smaller grain. The result of foreign harvests and the yield of root crops abroad, too, have been obtained with some degree of accuracy, so that operators are not much at sea regarding supplies. Taken altogether, the yield of various crops in consuming countries has been smaller, with the possible exception of wheat and Rye, and the excess of these is very small. Under the circumstances the question of demand, either for future or immediate wants, is being freely discussed and calculations made reparting the outlook and calculations made regarding the outlook for the grin trade. Prices are low for all cereals and the undertone to the markets generally is regarded by many operators in the trade as favorable for improved prices. more especially as foreign markets are amply supplied at the present time with home products and prices are well supported. With reference to speculative trading there ap-pears to be an enlarged business on the part of operators who trade in large quantities and who generally back opinions with abundant capital. trades, too, are apparently indulging their weakness for speculation, though pursuing a weakness for speculation, though pursuing a very conservative course and accepting small losses or profits. Inquiry for grain an shipping account was quite brisk and export orders were larger than during the week previous. The shipping demand for provisions was only fair. The receipts of grain and live stock were acceptable for the st stock were moderately fair at all western markets, indicating that farmers were a little more inclined to sell, possibly to meet cur-rent expenses and to provide for their wants for the winter season. Stocks of grain are not increasing to any extent and the supply of provisions is being rapidly reduced. Pack ing in the west is progressing moderately and the aggregate for the season varies a lit-tic from that of one year ago.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET. CHICAGO, Oct. 1,- | Special Telegram to

the BEE. |-'The usual hour's delay in the opening on account of its being the first day of the month, together with the fact of no afternoon session on Saturday, made the trading hours unusually brief to-day. Evenithese were not especially crowded with business or interesting features. There were large de-liveries of wheat—said to be about 1,000,000 busisels-of which Hutchinson and Counselman sent out the greater part and most of the receipts lodged in the hands of Fleming son have gone for a two week's pleasure | & Boyden. There were reports of more busitrip among friends and relatives at ness done in wheat in New York before the casey, Ia. there for smonths; before, but there was but a slight fluctuation in prices there. The market here opened steady, with November at 72 c. December 74c and May 79 c. Although there was a fair volume of business, prices fluctuated less that 1/4c during the first hour. Public cables were strong, quoting No. 2 spring 3/c higher and futures all higher. News from abroad, however seemed to have little effect here, the trading was chiefly local and the wheat bought during the first hour was for sale the next. The attempt to realize on long wheat and the usual evening up of a Saturday sent the market down. Added to this was the selling of large quantities of December for New York and the depression buyer of October here, but these purchases were without appreciable strengthening effect. The guesses on the visible supply statement on Monday are for a decrease of 500,000 bushels or thereabouts. The receipts to-day were eighty-one cars, of which fiftyfive were spring and five graded No. 2, showing rather better quality in comparison with the arrivals for the past fortnight. The esti-mated receipts for Monday are ninety-live cars. The low point of the day was reacked about noon and then followed a reaction to the opening figures, the close being at 72 c for November, 74c for December and 79 a

EThe corn market was colorless and feature-less. There was very little business done. Hutchinson was a seller and there was a around in pursuance of a resolution to with-draw from the market altogether—a rumor which was generally received with a smile of incredibility. These sales were chiefly for incredibility. These sales were chiefly for October, and this, coupled with the decided falling-off in the demand for cash corn today, made that month quite weak. The decline in May was but \(\frac{1}{3} c. \) The deliveries of corn to-day were practically nothing. The receipts to-day were but 265 cars-about 60 less than were expected and reports received here now indicates even smaller receipts in the near future because of the very bad condition of country roads caused by the recen-rains. The lifeless market did not seem to rains. The lifeless market did not seem to be particularly affected either by this sort of news or by the unfavorable cables, which gave spot grain in Liverpool 3d lower and all the near futures lower. Vessel room was taken here to-day for 141,000 bushels of corn. The opening this morning was a fraction above yesterday's closing figures at 42 c for November, 42%c for December and 42% of November, 42% for December and 45% of for May. A slight advance was scored early in the day, but this was lost later and the close was at a low point—42% of for No-vember, 42% of December and 45% of for

May.

Oats for future delivery were dull to-day

Oats for future delivery were shown in the deal by room trades, and no outside orders to speak of. Prices were steady and firm at peak of. Prices were steady and firm a esterday's closing range. The latest quota tions stood at 20c for October, 2014c for No vember, and 2014, 200c on the split for May. In provisions the week closed in a quie Plainer. The controlled condition of short ribs and pork confined the deliveries on Oc-tober contracts to lard, which, however, was passed around only to a small extent and in the day's trading there was scarcely enough life to maintain any interest. Trades of all classes were indifferent to branch out and barring the buying of a prominent speculator of January lard, purchases and sales were directed to the evening up of contracts Changes in values were also moderate and a the close pork for year and January showed the limited advance of 5c, lard a decline of 2)/@5c and January short ribs an improve-ment of 2\forallow Cotober short ribs closed un-changed, resting at $7.80 after ranging at $7.80c7.90. For October delivery lard sold at $6.35@6.42% and closed at $6.37%, the best quotation for November being $6.37% and for December $6.37%. For January pork closed at $12.42% lard at $6.42% bid and short ribs at $6.32% old. The cash product was dull,

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK. CHICAGO, Oct. 1 .- [Special Telegram to the BEE. |-CATTLE-There was the customary duli and uninteresting Saturday market. Fully half the best cattle were owned by the dressed beef firms, shipped direct from the west, hence they were out of the market. The shipping demand is always light on a Saturday, so that the unlucky salesman that had a consignment had to hustle to find an outside or a chance buyer, or carry his stock over until Monday, something that all firstclass salesmen dread.
