

THE DAILY BEE. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily (Morning Edition) including Sunday, One Year, $10.00; Six Months, $6.00; Three Months, $3.50.

ADVERTISING. All communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed to the Editor of the Bee.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietors. E. ROSEWATER, Editor.

THE DAILY BEE.

Sworn Statement of Circulation. State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, J. S. S.

Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 8th day of October, A. D. 1887. N. P. FEIL, Notary Public.

A CORONER'S jury in the Kouts disaster has mildly censured the railroad company, as usual, and laid the chief blame on overworked and underpaid employes.

A GRAND ISLAND paper remarks that the Public Fountain has again begun to flow regularly. It should not be expected that the Fountain could supply a baby and the public at the same time.

How insignificant the magician who swallows swords and other iron implements must feel when he sees Knight of "Black Friday" storing a whole railroad or telegraph system in his maw without wincing.

AND now settlers in the Texas Panhandle region are undergoing a process of evictions at the hands of a "company." Perhaps it would be well for this country to stop declaiming about the evictions in Ireland until our own are stopped.

ANOTHER political party was born at Springfield, Ill., last Friday. This makes the ninth now in the field. It was named the "Industrial Reform" party, and Mrs. Lockwood, late presidential candidate, is its guardian angel.

THE price of coal is raised in many parts of the country this week. In Chicago the people are discussing the question whether gas could not be used as a fuel. It has been demonstrated that gas can be manufactured in that city for about fifty cents per 1,000 feet, and would consequently be a cheaper fuel than coal at its present prices.

THE late holocaust at Kouts station has revived the assaults on the car stove, which stubbornly holds its place in spite of all denunciation and all the horrible consequences that have proceeded from its use.

THE first open session of the board to-day should be fully attended by the members, and all should feel it to be an important part of their daily duty to be present at these sessions.

THE price of coal is raised in many parts of the country this week. In Chicago the people are discussing the question whether gas could not be used as a fuel.

THERE seems likely to be a serious hitch at the outset of the negotiations which Mr. Bayard is soon to enter upon regarding the dispute over the Canadian fisheries. The advice from Canada indicate that the temper there is not altogether such as promises a calm and thoroughly judicial discussion of the controversy, but rather denotes a disposition to insist in advance on certain concessions.

Mercer and Shields. Omaha Herald: The Bee intimates that there are "several thousand workmen in Omaha who will vote against Mr. George Shields and for Mr. David Mercer, solely because Mr. C. J. Smyth did not receive the democratic nomination."

What is politics with the Bee spitwork of the kind which would advise the defeat of an honest, deserving young man who has been self-made in Omaha before the eyes of his people, and for the sake of a man who was a paid lobbyist of the Union Pacific railroad?

Mr. Shields may not be responsible for the character and conduct of his backers, but the BEE will not stultify itself by giving even an indirect endorsement to any man who owes his nomination to venal wretches and black-legs who prowl around conventions, city councils and legislatures like wolves and hyenas in search of prey among carrion on a battlefield.

There will be two registration days this week, Wednesday and Friday. The results of the first day of registration showed a general lack of interest in this most important and necessary duty of the voter which was hardly to be expected.

Open Sessions. To-day the Omaha board of trade will inaugurate open sessions for the transaction of commercial business, and it is to be hoped the occasion will be signalized by a general attendance.

THE experienced and intelligent business men of Omaha who are members of the board of trade, and many of whom doubtless have been connected with other similar organizations, do not require any advice or suggestions as to what should be done or how they should conduct themselves in a matter of this kind.

THE democratic county ticket is a dead cock in the pit from the start. If the candidates had all been what they should be, they never could have commanded their full party support after the send-off that was given them by Burckhard Angel, and the threats of McShane's bull-dozing editor that he would support no man who had voted for Van Wyck last year.

COMMISSIONER TIMME has been the hardest-worked official in Douglas county. He has labored both day and night for his constituents and drawn pay for Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years. He has drawn mileage enough in six months to have traveled around the world.

WHEN any citizen of Omaha has enterprise enough to undertake the election of a three hundred thousand dollar fire prooflock, it is very becoming in councilmen and city officials to vent their personal spleen by throwing obstructions in the way of improvement.

Vilas for Second Place. There can be very little doubt that Postmaster General Vilas desires the democratic nomination for the vice presidency next year, and there is some reason to believe that Mr. Cleveland has a preference for him.

THE price of coal is raised in many parts of the country this week. In Chicago the people are discussing the question whether gas could not be used as a fuel. It has been demonstrated that gas can be manufactured in that city for about fifty cents per 1,000 feet, and would consequently be a cheaper fuel than coal at its present prices.

of the president's tour, it may not have been prearranged, but it is not easy to dismiss the idea that it has a purpose intended to affect the choice of the national democratic convention.

Meanwhile it is interesting to note that Colonel Vilas is not the unanimous choice of the democracy of his own state as a candidate for the vice presidency. It has just developed that there is a very considerable opposition to him there, who charges him with having manipulated appointments in his state in his own interest, and in so doing has wrecked the party.

Mr. J. L. Webster has become a very great man in his own estimation since he was hoisted into a three thousand dollar attorneyship on the city pay roll. He actually threatens to enjoy the erection of a three-foot wall on the BEE Publishing company's own ground adjacent to the lot owned by the city, under the pretence that the wall will endanger the city hall building.

There will be two registration days this week, Wednesday and Friday. The results of the first day of registration showed a general lack of interest in this most important and necessary duty of the voter which was hardly to be expected.

Open Sessions. To-day the Omaha board of trade will inaugurate open sessions for the transaction of commercial business, and it is to be hoped the occasion will be signalized by a general attendance.

THE experienced and intelligent business men of Omaha who are members of the board of trade, and many of whom doubtless have been connected with other similar organizations, do not require any advice or suggestions as to what should be done or how they should conduct themselves in a matter of this kind.

THE democratic county ticket is a dead cock in the pit from the start. If the candidates had all been what they should be, they never could have commanded their full party support after the send-off that was given them by Burckhard Angel, and the threats of McShane's bull-dozing editor that he would support no man who had voted for Van Wyck last year.

COMMISSIONER TIMME has been the hardest-worked official in Douglas county. He has labored both day and night for his constituents and drawn pay for Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years. He has drawn mileage enough in six months to have traveled around the world.

WHEN any citizen of Omaha has enterprise enough to undertake the election of a three hundred thousand dollar fire prooflock, it is very becoming in councilmen and city officials to vent their personal spleen by throwing obstructions in the way of improvement.

the man who had stolen a 10-penny loaf of bread was sent to prison—and why Gould and Vanderbilt and other great public plunderers who have stolen their millions from the pockets of the people are not sent to jail.

Mr. Van Wyck has that happy manner of saying what he thinks, and also possesses the necessary apparatus to think with—and regardless of what people say to him, he makes them hear what he wants to say to them.

Mr. J. L. Webster has become a very great man in his own estimation since he was hoisted into a three thousand dollar attorneyship on the city pay roll. He actually threatens to enjoy the erection of a three-foot wall on the BEE Publishing company's own ground adjacent to the lot owned by the city, under the pretence that the wall will endanger the city hall building.

There will be two registration days this week, Wednesday and Friday. The results of the first day of registration showed a general lack of interest in this most important and necessary duty of the voter which was hardly to be expected.

Open Sessions. To-day the Omaha board of trade will inaugurate open sessions for the transaction of commercial business, and it is to be hoped the occasion will be signalized by a general attendance.

THE experienced and intelligent business men of Omaha who are members of the board of trade, and many of whom doubtless have been connected with other similar organizations, do not require any advice or suggestions as to what should be done or how they should conduct themselves in a matter of this kind.

THE democratic county ticket is a dead cock in the pit from the start. If the candidates had all been what they should be, they never could have commanded their full party support after the send-off that was given them by Burckhard Angel, and the threats of McShane's bull-dozing editor that he would support no man who had voted for Van Wyck last year.

COMMISSIONER TIMME has been the hardest-worked official in Douglas county. He has labored both day and night for his constituents and drawn pay for Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years. He has drawn mileage enough in six months to have traveled around the world.

WHEN any citizen of Omaha has enterprise enough to undertake the election of a three hundred thousand dollar fire prooflock, it is very becoming in councilmen and city officials to vent their personal spleen by throwing obstructions in the way of improvement.

STATE AND TERRITORY.

Nebaska's foating. Aurora's halo is a foating schooner. Earnest Conn, a ten year old, was killed by the cars at Sutton last Thursday.

Frank D. Taggart has purchased the Kerr opera house in Hastings for $75,000. The new station recently located five miles north of Platte Center has been named Burrows.

Seward and Hastings now rejoice in direct connection with Omaha over the Elkhorn Valley road.

The second regiment band, of Nebraska City, captured the first prize in the second-class at Chicago.

The milkmaids of Plattsmouth gave a public pull of five nights ago. The milk consisted of big dollars.

Christian Weinberger, of Hall county, toyed with the fingers of his left hand, and the Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned.

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

In the past nine years there have been killed in this state, while coupling cars and being caught in frogs, over 200 men, maimed and crippled for life; 265 killed by falls from cars, chiefly 265; 4,780 men, or nearly two regiments of soldiers.

The cry of the Yankton press continues for a railroad to Omaha. A big colony of Poles are settling at Crystal Springs, North Dakota.

The incandescent electric light has been tested in Sioux Falls and found to work like a charm. The banks of Yankton report greatly increased business activity since the crop began to move.

The mountain of tin discovered near Custer City is said to be the most extensive body of tin yet found in the Black Hills.

The extension of the Elkhorn Valley road north from Rapid City is going on at a lively rate. The track layers reached Rapid City Saturday.

Four Yankton manufacturing establishments are run by motors supplied from the city artesian well and one Yankton manufacturing establishment is run by its own artesian well through a turbine wheel.

Charles W. Meloy, a slick swindler only fifteen years of age, is resting in the Yankton jail on the charge of using the mails for unlawful purposes. He organized wildcat banks in different parts of the territory and had drafts, checks and bills of exchange printed.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

The Nebraska City board of trade is dying. The president and secretary have resigned. "A solid growth beats a boom."

J. A. Ernest, of Columbus, tumbled down an elevator shaft in his store and seriously bruised his head and internal machinery.

The seven-year-old son of J. D. Purinton, of Seward, lost an arm in the rollers of a cane mill. Amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

The Norfolk Journal sums up briefly: "President Cleveland has gazed upon the metropolis of Nebraska and now returns to Washington satisfied."

Strange Indian Dance. Cosmopolitan for October: The night of my arrival at Fort Reno was bright and clear. The garrison was strong; the Indians were held well in check. I not troubled with fears for personal safety. A noise of voices and drums floated through the still night from the tepees several miles away.

Other squaws came forward, selected partners, and joined in the strange dance. I congratulated myself on being a wall-flower but my self-gratulations were premature, for when the row of braves was pretty well thinned out, a kind-hearted maid took pity on my loneliness and tapped me on the head.

The amount of money received at the United States land office in Evanston for the quarter ending September 30, 1887, is $48,162.01.

The Standard Gas company, capital $100,000, has been incorporated in Wyoming. One of the incorporators is the noted Bob Ingersoll, of New York.

Buffalo, Wyo., is nothing if not enterprising. Her latest move is in the direction of securing electric light, and the town will accordingly be lighted by electricity within ninety days.

McCoy, the escaped murderer, manages to keep out of reach of his pursuers, and is now in the wilds of central Wyoming. The last report of him was in the neighborhood of Lusk, where he held up a man for $40. A large number of men are on his trail.

Col. Rhodes, one of the Nebraska excursionists to Cheyenne, paralyzed the residents with a series of astounding predictions in public speaking, and a single swipe of his tongue he declared that the Northwestern road would be in Cheyenne inside of eighteen months.

The Columbus Democrat says of the reception: "The welcome extended to President Cleveland and wife by the citizens of Omaha and Nebraska, was cordial and hearty. Everybody was enthusiastic and jubilant, the guests were snuggled and happy, Omaha was at her best, and the weather contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion."

One hundred men are at work opening the Quarrier quarries at La Platte. It is said that the B. & M. railroad has an interest in the deal and will put in a crusher to furnish crushed rock for its road between Omaha and Plattsmouth.

The Blue Springs Sentinel, during a spasm of dry rot, perpetrated a funeral oration on the Quaker party. The oration was so long and so full of platitudes that it did not penetrate the decayed caloric of its lungs, copies of the paper with blue pencil exclamations have been sent out.

The Freeman Herald is not disposed to embrace every democratic candidate without question, and quotes approvingly the following from President Cleveland: "It behoves us all to guard against a blind, selfish and prosering party feeling, regardless of the interests of the country's welfare, and which leads us away from good citizenship as well as true democracy."

The Lazyman's club, of York, has thrown its combined weight and adipose tissue on woman's rights, and thus decried its position. "Resolved, That this august club is decidedly in favor of woman's rights, and are therefore opposed to the heathen Chinese coming to York, and doing the washing that rightly belongs to our dear wives, and promptly divorcing them of that much of their natural rigidity, and us men of the income thereof."

The new Jewish temple at Des Moines will be dedicated next Friday. The new Catholic church at Osage will be dedicated next Sunday by Bishop Heenan.

The total cost of the Kennedy murder case at Dubuque will amount to fully $2,000, and the end is not yet. The work on the new Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern depot at Cedar Falls is progressing rapidly.

The will of the late Ebenezer Sherman, of Davenport, has been admitted to probate. The estate is valued at $80,000.

The Gloucester works at Davenport are busy filling orders that come in from all parts of the United States and Europe. The capacity is 3,500 bushels of corn per day. Most of the corn coming in now is from western Iowa.

The matrimonial misfit record in Sac county is sixteen desertions of wives in ten months. In nearly every instance the abandoned wives are young, good looking, good natured, industrious and economical.

The Creston Independent American disputes the assertion of Governor Laramie, that the farmers of the state are prospering, and declares that "he knows that 85 per cent of our farms are mortgaged and that our people are sinking deeper and deeper into debt each year."

Railroad Commissioner Coffin, in a recent lecture at Dubuque, stated that Graders on the Burlington extension are at work within the city limits of Cheyenne.