Progress of the Work on the New Omaha and Council Bluffs Bridge.

ALREADY INVOLVED IN LAW.

Flight of a Gay Young Man Drummed Out of the Fort-The President a God-Father -The Fairchild Case.

The Bridge.

At last work upon the Omaha-Coundil Bluffs bridge has been begun, and from this on until the bridge is completed, will be vigorously and expeditiously prosecuted. The Raymond Brothers, with a force of fifteen or twenty workmen, are hard at work driving piles for the viaduct abutments the Omaha side, and will have this work completed by November 1st. They have already established the foundation for twenty-six of these abutments, using six piles thirty feet in length and fourteen feet at the butt, to each abutment. The work is being superintended by F. D. Moore, of Council Bluffs, who says the bridge will be completed within a year. This, however, is hardly probable, or even possible, as there is an immense amount of very difficult labor to be performed. The contract calls for the completion of the bridge in two years, and the likelihood is that it will require all of this time to compass the job.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT.

George A. Hoagland, the lumber dealer, has brought suit against the Omaha and Council Bluffs Bridge company for $60,000 damages, claimed to the blockading of the street in front of his yards and interfering with his hauling and otherwise entailing great ex-pense upon him. Warren Switzler rep-resents Mr. Hoagland in this suit.

J. E. KENT SKIPS.

The Escapade of a Young Man with Creditors Behind Him.

Another young man has gone astray at the expense of employers and friends. In this instance the young man is J. E. Kent, who for about a year past was one of the employes of the well known Wind Engine and Pump company on Farnam street. He acted in a subordinate capacity He had little money when he secured his position here, and had had but little opportunity to lay much money aside. Nothwithstanding the wages at which he worked, Kent was one of the most liberal young men, in the way of ex-penditures, in the city. He treated his lady friends with rare generosity when he accompanied them to parties and the theater, and his attendance upon them at such places was so frequent that his liberality became a byword among his companions. His cigar bills ran up to an extravagant figure, and among his creditors are the Kaufman brothers and a couple of other tobacconists. Getty, restauranteur, the Emmonds e, and half a dozen house, town places in unsettled bills against him. But the worst of all is his treatment of his employers. Latterly he had been doing their collecting in the city, and it was but recently ascertained that he had given receipts for bills which had not been credited on the books. Kent's receipts in this manner will probably reach $200, and as these were collected but a short time ago, there is little prob-Kent claimed to reside in New York but beyond that nobody in Omaha knows anything of his antecedents nor is there anything known of his present where-

Driven Out of the Fort. Yesterday an interesting and amusing episode occurred at Fort Omaha, which was enjoyed by all the spectators and all of the participants with the exception of the soldier who has given rise to it. The latter's name is not known to fame, but he was a member of one of the companies of the Second infantry. He had married a colored woman who resided in the neighborhood, and the fact becoming known, the band and all the companies were gathered together, and with great deal of noise and infinite merriment the fellow was drummed out of the fort, the more fully to appreciate the company of his colored love.

Debate at Creighton. The first regular meeting of this year of the Daniel Webster Debating society of Creighton college was held last even ing in the hall of the college. The officers elected for the ensuing session are Rev. James J. O'Meara, S. J., president; Patrick Burks, vice president; E. C. Noon, secretary, and Joseph H. Mc-Carville treasurer. The programme of the evening consisted of a declamation by M. McGrievy, an essay on Julius Cæsar, and a debate on the question:

Resolved, That the Death of Cæsar was Beneficial to Rome." Joseph McCarville, John McCarville, Patrick Burke and John Brannan participated in the discussion, each showing marked rhetorical and oratorical ability. The flowery rhetoric of John McCarville, the splendid deliv-ery of Messrs. Bark and Braman, and the argumentive style of Joseph McCarville elicited great applause. The au-dience was fair in number, being mostly college students. This session starts out with flattering prospects, the number of students being greater than ever before. The time set for the next meet-

Ryan, the "Gopher." United States Marshal Bierbower received a telegram from Des Moines yesterday informing him that a deputy marshal from that city would arrive here in the afternoon for James Ryan, the safe-blower who is charged with having jumped a $10,000 bail bond. Marshal Bierbower says there is considerable doubt about Hyan's being the right man, that he is such a big liar that it is im possible to ascertain any thing about him. His opinion, however, is that Ryan is a crook and that his case ought to be carefully looked into.

Albert Pencke's Blighted Hopes. Albert Pencke, a German farmer living about seventeen miles west of this city, some time since sent a sum of money to Miss Olertric Kunde, a former sweetheart living in his native town, with the request that she take the next steamer for America, and take up her abode in his house. She arrived one week ago, and an immediate marriage was proposed by Pencke. This offer she rejected, and left the house at once. coming to this city. Monday, Miss Kunde, in company with a Mrs. Kurtz, went to Pencke's and demanded her wardrobe and other articles she had brought from home. Penske refused to give them up until she had repaid him the money he had sent her for passage money. The ladies returned, and yes-terday morning went before Justice Brandeis and began a replevin suit. The attachment papers were given to Constable King, who served them last night, and brought the goods to Omaha. Pencke says he will contest the suit.

BLOCKING THE TRAMWAY.

Some of the Difficulties President Johnson Complains About. Speaking upon the remonstrance of Mrs. Murray to the drum of the cable tramway company on Dodge and Twenty-sixth streets, President Johnson yesterday said: "There is no more harm to be apprehended from our work on that thoroughfare than there is in any other place on our line. The 'drum,' as they call it, will be underground, and give the people no more annoyance than does the cable which runs beneath the track. Besides, the 'drum' will be at this side of Mrs. Murray's. In fact, the chamber is now under way, and before long will be so covered up that nobody will be aware of its existence. The people of this city are too much disposed to be captious over matters which can in no way injure them. We are putting $500,000 into this line and it seems to me that we ought to at least enjoy the priviliges accorded others who are investing not a cent. Look at Kansas City. Why, that place has more cable lines than we have lines of all kinds, on its streets. The projectors of these lines are not hampered with petty little annoyances such as we have been. They are encouraged to go ahead and build their lines, and at the same time the city is built. Yesterday I saw Captain Rustin, who had just returned from that place, and when I asked him what he saw in Kansas City, he said, 'I saw a live city, you bet.' Then in the matter of railroad demurrage, we are again annoyed. Here a few days ago we had to unload an enormous engine bed which weighed about fifteen ton. The Union Pacific wrecking car was the only thing we could get that would unload it. We had a great deal of delay in this and getting a man who understood the work, although we searched all around and agreed to pay good money for the work. Yet the best we could do did not save us from demurrage. Now there ought to be allowances made for circumstances. It is impossible to un-load cars loaded with our material in a minute, but no allowance is made for us and others situated like us any more than there would be for people who would like to use cars for storage purposes. Some of the representatives of eastern lines are not in favor of such a cast-iron exactness, but they say they are in the business and cannot help it."

The Public Schools. Superintendent James reports the city schools in a most excellent condition. He says all are now in full blast with the exception of the Davenport, West Side and Forest schools, and the latter will begin with a roster of forty scholars Monday. The other two will be gotten under way within course of a few weeks. The superintendent is lavish in his praise of the board of education superintendent and declares that the amount of work which they have accomplished since the first of August is simply wonderful. They have provided in the neighborhood of thirty school rooms, all of which are doing splendid. He considers the general condition of much better than of the schools ever bewith better teachers, a more thorough and complete course of studies, and more satisfactory progress. He thinks that hitherto the board has been over anxious to accommodate home applicants for teachers' positions, and thereby as efficient a corps as could be obtained by employing foreign talent was not obtained. This year they have had plenty of money to pay good salaries, and have employed many teachers who do not reside here, but in each case teachers of superior ability, and the work of the schools is showing up commensurately with the importance of this change.

The Fairchild Wind-Up. Douglas B. Fairchild, the father of little Stella Fairchild, who was taken away from this city on Friday last, had an interview with a BEE reporter yesterday. He said that the story about his living with a woman who was not his wife at 712 Marcey street, last spring, is false. He said he boarded there with Mr. James Johnson and family, and never saw anybody out-side of the family there in his life. He said that it was the opinion of his doctor that Mrs. Fairchild is insane, though he himself considers her only devilish and not crazy. He says he was divorced from her at Aurora, Neb., three years ago, on the grounds of ex-treme cruelty to himself and children, and that he was granted the custody of his three daughters, and that he has maintained and supported them up to the present time.

A Sorrowful Death.

On one of the closing days of last September a young man named Hunsinger died of consumption in St. Joseph's hospital. He had wandered away from home and while confined to the hospital, wrote to his mother, a Mrs. McAloon, in Adrian, Mich., notifying her of his condition. Upon receipt of the letter, the mother answered, and judg-ing from the post-mark, the letter must have reached here the day young Hunsinger died. In some way it became mislaid and yester-day was forwarded to Drexel & Maul by the sisters. It was full of motherly love and advice but its precepts were never perused by the son. No friend appearing, the remains were interred in the county part of Forest Lawn cemetery. Mr. Maul wrote yesterday to the mother detailing the facts of her son's death and burial.

The President as a God-Father. The following letter, which was mailed to the president at Washington yesterday, explains itself: To His Excellency, Grover Cleveland: Sir On the happy occasion of your visit to the city of Omaha a boy was born to my wife, whom, with your consent, we will call Grover Cleveland. To me, as a staunch democrat, it will afford the greatest satisfaction to do so. Will you accept the God-fathership (by proxy), and in so doing you will gladden the hearts of his parents.

Very respectfully yours,

Mouttz Stegeman.

P. S.—I know that my boy will, if so hap-

P. S.—I know that my boy will, if so bap tized, necessarily be a good man.

Robert Jonas, of Atlantic, Ia, fell in an epileptic fit vesterday morning in front of the B. & M. passenger depot. The screams of his wife attracted quite a crowd, and the unfortunate man was borne to an adjoining drug store where restoratives were applied. He recov-ered sufficiently in half an hour to take SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

Mrs. Charles Vanorsdol, who has been ill for some time with typhoid fever, died Wednesday night. A. M. Jones will soon begin erection of a two-story business building on N and Railroad street. Mr. Dennis, of the Benson house, will give a grand ball on November 5 at his hotel.

The time of the police judge was occupied yesterday in hearing the Kalish replevin case.

The crossing of the Union Pacific railroad near N street will be moved about sixty feet north on a direct line with the Exchange building. The engine and machinery is being put in Swift's packing house.

Yesterday about seventy feet of side walkwas put down in the alley running from the city hotel to N street. The South Omaha Bank company will to-day begin the erection of a new building on N street. Wednesday night a man with a well matured case of the delirium tremens, created a sensation by running to a crowd of men on the street and asking them to accompany him to the third ward where there were about fifty men engaged in a terrific battle. A crowd followed his lead and found everybody in the neighborhood asleep. The alarmist was given quarters in the city

The proprietors of the carriage factory is Albright's station will put in machinery this winter and manufacture their own material. Heretofore they purchased all material from eastern manufacturers. The Union Stock Yards company are laying a main from the American Waterworks company's reservoir from which water will be used in the yards and packing houses. There is about 100 cars of the pipes on the ground ready to be put in, on which work seventy-five men are now employed.

The South Omaha cornet band has ordered eighteen new instruments. The ball and game supper given by the South Omaha gun club in the K. o L. hall Wednesday night, was a success. About sixty couples were present, and an excellent band of music made the occasion a most enjoyable one. The supper was excellent in every respect. Mr. Kalish, who was represented as drawing a revolver on Constable Anderson, denies the charge and says the officer took the weapon from his pocket. CITIZENS' MEETING.

John Jenkins A Queer Break.

A negro effected an entrance to Imogene Clarke's house, Eighteenth and Chicago streets, yesterday morning, and boldly attempted a most flagrant outrage. He proceeded to a bed chamber occupied by two female domestics. The girl were awakened, and aroused the house with their piercing screams. A light was struck, and a couple of the male lodgers of the house rushed into the girls apartment just in time to see the scoundrel leap from the rear window. The police were notified, but as yet no clue to the identity of the man has been obtained. One of the girls has a couple of badly bruised arms where the brute grasped her, otherwise no injury was

He Drops the Plunder.

Wednesday night about 12 o'clock Louis Goldsmith was attracted by a noise in his father's stable Twenty-second and Grace streets, and slipping his gun in his pocket, he went out to investigate. As he entered the front door he saw a man leave the back door with a double harness. He ran after him calling upon him to halt, but failing to induce him to stop, he fired his gun in the air to frighten him. The fellow dropped the harness and disappeared in the dark-

Kyner to Build the Road. James H. Kyner, of this city, has been awarded the contract for building the new Lancaster & Hamden railroad, to run from Lancaster, O., to Hamden Junction, which is situated in the center of one of the richest mineral and coal fields in the country. Mr. Kyner and family left for Ohio yesterday morning. The construction of this line, which is about forty miles in length, will cost something like Cleans Out the Car. Edward Thomas boarded a horse car on the Red line, near the corner of Lake and Eighteenth streets yesterday morning and by his boisterous language and warlike demonstrations frightened several ladies and a gentlemen off the car. The conductor remonstrated with him, when Thomas turned on him and threatened to throw him off. He refused to pay his fare and was turned over to a policeman and locked up.

Malicious Destruction.

Michard Gathaway was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of malicious destruction of property, preferred by Charles P. Benjamin. The complainant alleges that Gathaway tore and destroyed certain fencing about a piece of property belonging to the latter in the northern suburbs. Gathaway claims the property himself, as also does a half dozen other parties.

Happily Mated. Mr. Joseph Goldwater, of Leadville, Col., and Miss Sohpia Stone, of this city, were married by Rabbi Benson yesterday at the residence of the bride's parents, on Thirteenth and Pacific. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of both the bride and groom. Congratulatory telegrams and costly presents were received. The happy couple leave for their Leadville home to-day.

Another New Industry.

Secretary Nattinger of the board of trade, stated yesterday that in all probability a large soap manufactory would soon be erected in this city. He stated that the senior partner of a large Iowa concern was very desirious of removing their plant to this city and in the secretary's opinion it would soon be done. Mr. Nattinger refused to give the name of the firm as it might be hartful to the enterprise. The proposed capital is $50,000, of which the old firm will subscribe one half.

K. of P. Awards.

The committee in charge of the awarding the prizes in the contests incidental to the late gathering of Knights of Pythias in this city, have distributed about $1,800 and forwarded to all the winners the prizes offered, the last mency having been sent away last night. There still remains about $800 in the treasury and the committee is desirous that all who have claims against it shall present the same as soon as possible.

Too Much Morphine.

Jack Nugent, it is reported, was roaming about the city Wendesday night in a half demented condition, imagining that he was pursued by a gang of men who wanted to kill him, and calling upon all his old friend to stand by him. His wife says that he took a big dose of morphine and has not been right since. He went to Council Bluffs yesterday morning, and fearing harm might befall him, friends left for that city at noon to look him up.
