The Remains of the Late Washburr F. Stow Arrive in Omaha.

MARRIAGE AT THE BARKET

Death About to Claim Two Well-Known Capitalists Strike at South Omaha-After a Burglar From Schuyler.

Washburn F. Stow.

The remains of the late Washburn F. Stow arrived in this city from Lincoln at 10:45 yes terday morning over the B. & M., the train being forty-five minutes behind time. The following committee appointed by Judge Groff at the opening of court were at the station to act as escort: Messrs. W. Switzler, G. F. Brown, W. S. Shoemaker, J. R. Clarkson, W. H. Keysor, J. C. Smith and Judge Bartholomew. There were also a number of other members of the bar present.

It was said that many more friends of the deceased would have been present but no one had received any word when to expect the remains. No hearse had been ordered and the coffin was placed in a wagon and taken to Mr. Stowe's late residence, corner of Twenty-ninth and Charles streets. They were accompanied by the committee in carriages. Mr. Washburn F. Stow was born in Vermont, where he attended the common schools, going at an early age to Wisconsin, where he commenced the study of law, removing thence to lowa where he commenced to practice in Waverly. He removed thence to Hamburg Waverly. He removed thence to Hamburg where he was the leading practitioner in his profession. The progress made by Omaha and the name it was rapidly achieving in the mercantile and professional world induced Mr. Stow to move to this city about five years ago, where he resumed the practice of his profession. He was accompanied by his wife in a feeble condition and his mother, an aged lady who survives him, but is badly grieved over the unexpected death of her beloved son. One year ago Mr. Stow's wife died after a lingering illness, and it is said that his thoughtful attention to all her wants intermingling with demands all her wants intermingling with demands upon him of his profession wrought heavily upon his constitution, and that he had not at the time of his death outlived the effects. Four years ago Mr. Stow first became known here on the stump for Cleveland. He had been a stump to the his head here and his fidelity to ago Mr. Slow hist occame known hare on the stump for Cleveland. He had been a student in his home and office, and his fidelty to his party led him to appear in public in its support. He acquitted himself with considerable credit to himself. He showed himself to be a calm, thoughtful, prudent, carnest, and the standard to the second transfer with a full and argumentative speaker, with a full resonant voice which displayed the unmistakable tone of sincerity. His practice grew rapidly and when death called, he enjoyed one of the and when death called, he enjoyed one of the most encouraging incomes at the bar. Mr. Stow had served through the war as a sol-dier and though, in private life, he had been suggested several times for official positions, he had accepted but one, and that was ex-tended to him by the last democratic convention of this judicial district, which nominated him for one of the judges of the court. It is pretty generally believed that had Mr. Stow lived to make the race with Judges Warkeley, Groff and Hopewijo he would have been elected.

The date of the funeral has been an-

The Sudden and Probably Fatal Illness of Zachary Thomasen.

The business community of this city will be surprised to learn of the sudden and probably fatal illness of Mr. Zachary Thomasen. About the middle of last week Mr. Thomasen went to his old home in Kingsville, Mo., to attend to some business. Soon afterward he was attacked by an old chronic complaint and prostrated so severely that his life seemed to be in danger. At his request his physician here, Dr. Lee, was telegraphed and immediately left for Mr. Thomason's bedside. Thursday evening a telegram was re-Thursday evening a telegram was received from the physician confirming the fears which had been entertained from the time
Mr. Thomason had been stricken down, to the effect that he could not recover. Yesterday morning another telegram was received from
H. Gremmett, at Mr. Thomasen's home, stating that the latter's recovery, in the estimation of the physicians, was still without home.

Mr. Thomasen has been in this city about Mr. Thomasen has been in this city about two years, having come here when the city began to experience the first effects of the prosperity which has given it such a name all over the country. He was well supplied with means and these he liberally invested in local property, purchasing several prominent business sites, among what was formerly known as the Goodrich property on the south-west corner of Sixteenth and Farnam streets, paying for it the handsome sum of $55,000.

Mr. Thomasen is a widower and two of his daughters are now in Europe, in attendance upon one of the continental educational institutions.

HARRY OELRICHS.

A Fatal Disease is Bringing His Life to a Speedy Close.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Mr. Thomason's illness came that of the above well known gentleman. Later, the information was received thatMr. Oelrichs had died and the BRE immediately took steps to ascertain whether or not the news was well founded. Mr. Oelrichs was a strong, hearty and jovial gentlemen, who, it was thought would be able to withstand the attack of disease for many a year, and whose disposition it was deemed such as to make jest of the approach of death. Besides he had been seen here in apparent good health, but so short a time since that it was felt the rumor could not be well authenticated. It seems, however, to be but too well founded

Mr. Oelrichs is beyond recovery, and is about to fall a victim to Brights disease. He had been living at his ranch in Oelrichs, Dakota, to which, last July, he, with other congenial spirits in this city, planned an excursion on an elaborate and novel scale. But he has been compelled to leave the ranch and return to his former home in Philadelphia, in the care of a physician. A few days ago, he was accompanied to Blair on the Sioux City & Pacific road by William Paxton, sr., whence he took the train cast. Telegrams are hourly expected relating his death.

Mr. Oelrichs was well known among the cattle men of this section of the country as well as among a coterie of good livers hereabouts, especially in this city, who philosophically seek to find as much pleasure as may be permitted to them in this life. Among these, the announcement of his hopeless illness will be received with astonishment and regret. Oelrichs, not many years Mr. Oelrichs is beyond recovery, and is less liness will be received with astonishment and regret. Oelrichs, not many years ago, enjoyed the proud distinction of the "cowboy dude," a sobriquet which attained to national repute when it was known that its owner basked in the smiles of no less an artistic eye than that of Langtry.

A Ray Screne.

A gang of graders who have been at work near Schuyler, Nebraska, were paid off Thursday, each man receiving in the neighbor hood of $100. Among the men who must heeds celebrate the occasion by hitting the cup that cheers, and at the same inebriates, was John Murphy. He got gloriously full and while in this condition was robbed of his hard earned wages, $95 in all by one of his fellow-work-men, a man named Dick Ray. The latter was suspected by Murphy and an effort was made to recover the money, but Ray eluded Murphy and came to Omaha. He was followed here by Murphy and a number of his friends, and the police were called into the case yesterday. In looking the matter up, Scregeant Matza got into a gang of hard-looking customers near the depot, and enquired of one of them if Ray was in the party. The reply was that Ray had been with them, in fact he had come in from Schuyler with them, but just then he was up town. With this information, the was John Murphy. He got gloriously from Schuyler with them, but just then he was up tewn. With this information, the fellow who offered it got away from the officer and disappeared. He then inquired of one or two of the others about Ray, and to his chagfin and disappointment learned that he had just been talking to the man himself, and had been cleverly beaten.

How Jocko Won the Battle.

George Canfield, proprietor of the Canfield house, has a pet monkey. For the past few days Jocko has been laying "very quiet," and had to be fed with a spoon. The cause of this lamentable state of affairs is a big Brahma rooster, for whom Jocko had conceived an intense and undying hatred, and so one day when the rooster strutted too close to his abode Jocko threw down the guantlet. and with an utter disregard of Marquis of Queensbury rules "sailed into" the aston-ished bird. The moukey, however, had un-derestimated the prowess of his antagonist, and while he bit and scratched furiously, the rooster did such excellent work with bill and spur that Jocko soon lay bleeding on the ground with a hole in his neck. This ended

When time was called for round two the rooster seemed as fresh as ever, but the monkey appeared somewhat "groggy." The cock forced the fighting, and made an ugly rush which Jocko just managed to evade, and at once opened up with a fusilade of stones, sticks and dirt, driving the fowl over the fence and winning the fight. Jocko is now onlinely exceeded. entirely recovered.

The Wrong Man.

Deputy United States Marshal S. S. Etheridge arrived from Des Moines yesterday morning with the necessary requisition papers for taking possession of James Ryan, held here on a suspicion of being the noted safe blower who jumped a bail bond of $10,000 in Des Moines. In company with United States Marshal Bierbower, Marshal Etheridge proceeded to the county jail and was ushered into Ryan's cell. It required but a glance to satisfy him that it was not the Ryan he was after, and much disappointed he left. Ryan \ Romantic Wedding at the Barker Last Evening.

Miss Nellie M. Kaye, a plain, but rather omely young girl, registered at the Hotel Barker on Tuesday last, from Des Moines. towa. It was soon reported that she was an mployee at the Western Union telegraph ompany; regularly every morning she left he hotel, presumably for her work, and reurned in the evening. On several occasions she was joined on the street by an elderly gentleman, who, it had been noticed, was a egular caller in the evening. He was old mough to be her father, and, in fact, this was understood among the other boarders of the house, but Thursday night much sur-orise was occasioned when the old party ap-orised the gentlemanly clerk that he and Miss Kaye desired to be married, and solicited him to send for a minister. Instead, however, the to send for a minister. Instead, however, the clerk despatched a messenger boy after Justice Scabrooke, who promptly responded, and the nuptials were celebrated in the parlor. Then it was learned for the first time that the groom was Mr. Avery Miner, aged sixty-three, while the bride is barely twenty-two. Reportorial inquiry developed that Mr. and Mrs. Miner had been immates of the same private boarding house for some the same private boarding house for some weeks back, and the old gentleman becoming desperately enamored of the maiden, pressed his suit, proposed marriage and was accepted. The old gentleman's family strenuously opposed the match, and to avoid all unpleasant-ness Miss Kaye left the boarding house and went to the Barker. Here she and her aged but ardent suitor matured their plans with the result above stated. Mrs. Miner was at her post of duty at the Western Union yester day just as if getting married was nothing at the extraordinary in a young girl's life. The couple will take up their residence at the home of the groom, 1810 Farnam street.

GRATEFUL .-- COMFORTING Epps's Cocoa BREAKFAST.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and mutrition, and by careful application of the line properties of well-selected Cocon. Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast lables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the justicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle manuface are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatial shaft by keeping ourselves well fortilled with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Chyil service Garette.
