FINE BLACK GOODS.

We have just received the last of our import order of fine Black Goods from
B. PRIESTLEY & CO.,
BRADFORD, ENGLAND.
Priestley's Silk Warp Black Goods are the most thoroughly reliable goods in the market. They are made of the finest silk and best Australian wool. You easily distinguish them by their softness and beauty and regularity of finish. They are always the same in quality, weight, width, and shade, thus enabling you to match any piece, and are dyed in two standard shades of black. None genuine unless rolled on a "varnished board," showing the grain of the wood, which is the Priestley trademark.

To ladies who have worn Priestley's Silk Warp goods we need not say anything, but to those who have not we would beg to say that these world-famed black fabrics are the finest made in the world, the most reliable and satisfactory to the wearer. No make of black goods has ever given such universal satisfaction as Priestley's. A $10,000 FIRE.

Destructive Blaze at Fifteenth and Burt Streets.

A fire that caused a damage of nearly $10,000 occurred at the corner of Fifteenth and Burt streets, yesterday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock. Two small cottages were completely destroyed, and three others were badly burned. Two barns, several sheds and also a four and five store occupied by P. M. Mullin, were also destroyed. Two horses owned by Mr. Mullin, two of Mr. McNamara, and two by Mr. Curran, were killed in the flames, besides considerable household furniture, harnesses, a buggy, and a large amount of grain and feed. The buildings burned were owned by the late John H. Mullin, and leased by him to Mr. Mullin. The whole northeast quarter of the block is now a mass of black ruins. Ladderman Van Alstyne, No. 2, was quite badly injured by falling from the roof of one of the buildings into the ruins.

Colonel John McCouhne.

Many of our citizens will remember the generous, gentle, whole-souled, perfect gentleman, particulars of whose sad death were known to but few of his associates, in the early days of Nebraska, before the rebellion broke out. Colonel McCouhne was well known throughout the sparsely settled territory, and was private secretary to Governor Sargent, who was also killed in the war while Colonel of a regiment in his native state of Pennsylvania. On the breaking out of the rebellion Colonel McCouhne raised a company of men by his own exertions and mainly at his own expense, was chosen captain, joined the Nebraska First regiment under General (now our governor) Thayer. He participated in the taking of Fort Henry, Donaldson, etc., and at Shiloh was severely wounded in the arm, and was sent to a hospital in Ohio. Before he fairly recovered he had been sent back to his regiment, but circumstances induced him to resign and go back to his native place (Troy, N. Y.) and enter the field again among the comrades of his early years. He entered the service the second time as lieutenant colonel of the one hundred and sixty-ninth regiment New York state volunteers, raised in the city of Chicago, and in the campaign, Clarence Huel commanding, in September, 1862. In January, 1864, Colonel Huel resigned and Lieutenant Colonel McCouhne was promoted to fill the vacancy. The following extract from the Troy, N. Y., Times containing an account of the proceedings and an annual meeting of the survivors of the regiment, held last month, will be read with interest by all who knew him throughout the war. After detailing the arduous and important services performed by the regiment, the report says: "On the 10th of the month the One Hundred and Sixty-ninth engaged in the battle of the Clouds, near the Manchester & Petersburg railroad, with a loss in killed and wounded of fifty-six men. Drury's bluff and Foster's plantation (two fights at the last place) followed to be succeeded by Cold Harbor, June 1, where the regiment suffered a loss of 102 men; among the number Colonel McCouhne, killed, and Lieutenant Colonel Alden wounded. Colonel McCouhne's last words were: 'Close up to the colors, men!' His loss was sincerely regretted, not more so to his numerous friends at home, to whom he was affectionately endeared by the possession of great social powers, than among the officers and men of the regiment. He had rendered to the regiment the line of intrenchments held by the enemy, and had stepped upon the embankment when he was shot, and instantly expired. The color bearer had been wounded. Lieutenant Colonel Alden seized the standard and planted it—one of the very first—on the rebel works, when he, too, fell with a wound that happily was not mortal. The regiment bore itself with the most conspicuous gallantry during the battle, and at once asserted itself as one of the very best fighting organizations in the army."

Arrested For Attempted Murder.

A young man named James Morton was arrested yesterday morning for threatening to shoot and kill Mrs. Hughes, the wife of an engineer on the B. & M. All the parties formerly resided in Burlington, Iowa, where Morton fell in love with Mrs. Hughes. He followed her to Omaha, and despite a coldness of demeanor on her part, he has courted her.
