Ladies Will Go. It is now understood that a great many ladies will go on the excursion next Thursday to Herndon. This, we are glad to note, as it presents them an opportunity to see the natural curiosity of gas utilized for many purposes besides giving them an elegant ride over Iowa's beautiful prairies fn autumn. Neighborhoods can make up their picnic parties, take their lunch baskets, and spend the day with games and general good cheer. It will probably be the last opportunity, until the long winter months are gone.

Locked Horns for Big Money. During the past few weeks Mr. A. J.

Freenameyer has had in his employ one Abbott, who was purchasing stock for him in the southwestern part of the him in the southwestern part of the order that everybody may see the gen-state. Four or five days ago there were upon natural gas, where they utilize it in the stock yards here 220 head of for heating their house, running manucattle belonging to Greenameyer. Upon the stock was a mortgage held by one of the local banks. On Wednesday last Abbott arrived here and immediately forbid the bank taking any action in the matter, saying that he had a claim of $4,000 upon the cattle. On Thursday the bank replevined the stock and made all the parties defendants in the suit. They then sent the cattle to Monona county to the Peake pasture. That night the parties who had charge of the cattle were absent at Onawa, and it is alleged that Abbott and his helpers went there about 2 o'clock at night, released the cattle, and drove them across the county to-ward the Decatur ferry. The absence of the cattle was not discovered until 11 o'clock, Saturday. As soon as possible after the discovery Mr. Greenamever was notified, and, accompanied by his attorneys, he immediately repaired to the scene of action. When they arrived warrants were already sworn out for the arrest of Abbott and a man by the name of Armstrong, who was with them. The papers were put into the hands of Deputy Sheriff Popejoy to serve, and the whole party started for the ferry in hot pur-When they arrived at the river they found the steamer already busily engaged transporting the cattle over on Nebraska soil. All but thirty-seven head had been safely landed on the other side. These the officer took pos-session of, while those who were running the cattle out of the county skip-ped over the river to avoid arrest. It was about 6 o'clock when arrangements were completed to get the cattle back again, together with those why were with them. They then rowed across the river in a frail skiff, and a council of war was held. A warrant was also sworn out in Nebraska, and about 9 o'clock the cattle there were taken possession of. The steamer was chartered and the work of removal back to Iowa began. The man Armstrong, who was left to guard the property (Abbott and his attorney having left hours before for Omaha), was asleep during most of the time of the removal and waked up just in time to see the last hoof disappearing on the boat. He became furious and had to have the hand-cuffs applied before he was reduced to quiet. He was locked up until after the work was completed. The cattle were Criticising Christianity. Yesterday morning the Congregational pulpit was filled by the Rev. G.

W. Cowan, of Tabor, who delivered a most excellent sermon. The musical selections were of a high order and were rendered with exquisite taste. The opening organ solo was followed by a contralto solo, "Not Ashamed of Christ," by Danks. Mrs. Ward did this beautiful composition full justice by her faithful interpretation. The responsea quartette-showed nicety of shading in the climaxes and unison and accuracy in modulation with closer portions of the harmony. As an offeratory Mrs. Wadsworth and Mrs. Wescott rendered Phelps' "Morning Land" in an artistic and excellent manner.

The sermon followed from the text: "For this rock is not, as our rock, our enemies themselves being the judges." The speaker said: "If you have an important case on trial, in which the interests of property or life are involved, you do not want your enemy to sit in the jury box; nor do you wish the case to be closed when only the evidence of the prosecution is in. But Moses is willing to do this very thing. He trusts his case to the knowledge of God's dealings with his chosen people, which had become historic. God had called Abraham and made certain promises, all of which He had fulfilled, and had made of His seed a great people. God had protected his chil-dren on their road from Egyptian bond-age—forty years in the wilderness—and had given them an heritage and a name. Moses recounts God's wonderful dealings with men, and at the close of a long and useful life he rises in explanation and gives us the words of the text. The same statement can be made with equal truth to-day. The "Rock of Ages" is the sure foundation—the solid basis upon which to place the building of numan life, human hopes and faith in an immortality of being.

The indirect evidence furnished by our enemies is fruitful in fortifying our position. One says: "I do not believe as you do, but wish I could." Why does he wish so? Another says: "I wish to think as you do, but I have found it to be an illusion. It was a beautiful illusion, and I was happy in it, I wish I was as happy now." Because a belief makes one unhappy is no evidence of its truthfulness—but the con-trary. William Lloyd Garrison, the foremost agnostic of his time once said at a meeting of his club in Boston that he did not believe in the Christian church or its religion. The doctrine of materialism satisfied his philosophy, hence he believed it; but while this was true he was not ready yet to teach his children that existence was purely physical—animal; that man had no des-tiny beyond the gratification of taste and passion; no eternity but as a part in the ever changing forms of matter. He had rather his child would believe this and be free from bad habit, than to believe in the Christian doctrine and be subject to the temptations on wine and tobacco. Religion gives us a higher responsibility than that of self to self, and a power higher than of self to free man from these habits and the environments of passion.

The food that the body thrives on is most proper for it no matter if it cannot be mathematically reduced to absolute proportions or its affinities precisely ascertained. So with the soul. That food which gives a healthy and vigorous soul life is the food man needs.

In the evening there was a missionary service, conducted by Mrs. S. A. Wheeler, who spent thirty years as a teacher in the Turkish empire. Her lecture was very interesting and fur-nished a strong array of facts why the missionary work should be continued with greater zeal and earnestness. The music was excellent.

Grand Excursion. On Thursday next Council Bluffs and Omaha join in an excursion over the C., M. & St. P. railroad to Herndon, in factories, and lightning the streets.

This little city is growing with unprecedented rapidity and with the gas facilities it has, will, in a few months, be the Finley, Ohio, of the west. Arrangements have been made to run a special train, at a very low rate, and the prospects now are that from 500 to 1,000 people will take advantage of the day out, and go on the excursion. An auction sale of lots will take place at Herndon, and lots will be sold at what they will actually bring, with a small payment down and the balance on time. Property is cheap there yet, but is all the time on the rise, and a splendid opportunity presents itself for large profits on a small speculation. A band will accompany the excursion, and every detail will be looked after to make this an extremely pleasant day for the crowd who have signified their intention to go. The excursion from this city and Omaha will be met by a large excursion party from Des Moines and Cedar Rapids and Marion, and every arrangement will be made by the citizens of Herndon to make the day pass off pleasantly.
But there will doubtless be a great many people there, and the committee having charge of the excursion desire all parties, as far as they can conveniently, to take their lunch with A number of neighborhoods, both ladies and gentlemen, have signified their intention to do this and it is hoped by the committee that others will generally do the same. The coaches will be left at Herndon so that coaches will be left at Herndon so that all who desire will be made perfectly comfortable while there, engaging in social games, making the day one gen-eral round of pleasure. The fare will be one fare for the round trip, from Council Bluffs and Omaha, and one and one-third fare for parties of ten or more from all intermediate points. It is requested by the management that all parties contemplating going, will leave their names with either J. G. Tipton or J. R. Rice, Council Bluffs, or J. A. Matthews, 218 South Fifteenth street, Omaha, in order that ample time may be had to procure proper accommodations.

A Star Preacher. At the Baptist church yesterday morning Rev. H. L. House, of Omaha, preached and proved a very acceptable supply, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cooley, who is attending the state convention at Osage. Mr. House took as his text in the morning, "I am the bright and morning star." He opened with a vivid bit of word-painting, picturing the ancient shepherd watching his flock by night; how the hours were passed in protecting his sheep from the wild beasts, and how his eyes looked anxiously into the heavens for the appearance of the morning star, announcing that day was at hand, and the dan gers of the darkness were passed. Christ was the morning star for which the world had been watching and waiting for centuries. There had ever been a longing for the rising of the star. There was in the heart many a great longing after Christ that even his followers realized. Christ was the morning star because his coming was the beginning of better things, the opening of day. His religion was one of development. The path of the righteous shines more and more into the perfect day. In closing he forcibly presented the ques-tion whether his hearers would follow the light of the morning star and be led into the brightness and glory of a noon-day, or turn from it and go into darker ways. Humanity and Aristocracy. At St. Paul's church yesterday morning Rev. T. J. Mackey reviewed a recent paper in the Forum, by Prof. Davidson, his topic being, "Humanity and Aristocracy." As usual he spoke very plainly and practically. He did not believe in the idea that christianity was to level humanity by pulling down, but by building up. It was not a sin to be wealthy. Wealth was a blessing, but it brought with it advertional responsibilities, and God would bring each to a strict account, demanding of the one who had ten talents much more than the one having one only. Wealth was simply given man for use, for helping others, for developing character. The misuse of it, the development of avericiousness, was the sin. Some practical truths were spoken concerning wealth and aristocracy. In the belief of the speaker the true aristocrat was the one possessing the greatest nobility of soul. The mansion, the coach, the train of servants, the elegant wardrobe, were often the veneer of a very ungentle and poverty stricken soul. In the hut might be found sometimes the true, gentle manliness. The great thing after all was character, and this could be developed both by those who were wealthy as well as by those who were poor, by taking as their pattern the great Master. Matters at the Valley.

MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., Oct. 23.-Preparations are making for a grand republican rally Monday evening. Colonel Henderson and other speakers will address the meeting.

Considerable interest is felt in the election this fall, and it is predicted that the ballots will look very much as if they had been afflicted with the itch when they come to be counted. The matter that concerns the voters of this city most is the $25,000 bonds for waterworks. This, no doubt, will experience some opposition, as the attainment of most worthy objects do, and makes them most worthy objects do, and makes them more highly appreciated when secured. Another question of grave import is the removal of the county seat from Logan to Magnolia, the former location. The latter place is within a mile of the center of the county, and a beautifully situated town for the capital. Of course the Logan people are ital. Of course the Logan people are opposing the move strenuously.

The Christian church is enclosed and nearing completion. It promises to be the most imposing edifice in the city
