LONDON, Oct. 25.-Chamberlain, speaking to-night at a meeting to bid him farewell on his American trip, said they had all seen the telegram stating that Irish-Americans would do all in their power to mar his mission. The sources of the statement might be tainted, yet represented undoubt-edly the fact that the Irish-Americans were ready to use every effort to prevent a settlement. There never has been a time in the last thirty years when the Irish in America has not been willing to use the privileges conceded them by their adopted country in order to sow disension and promote ill-feeling between Great Britain and America. He was encouraged, however, by the belief that a vast majority of native Americans and every Englishman and Scotchman in the United Kingdom would regard conflict between these two countries as a crime of the deepest dye. They were carnestly desirous of an amicable, honorable-settlement, and would not allow it to be jeopardized by party rancor or personal feelings. Referring to the remarks of a Toronto paper construing one of his Ulster speeches into an insult to Canadians, Chamberlain said it was a great misaprehension of his meaning. What he said was that part of Canada was seeking com-mercial union with the United States, which would practically mean free trade between Canada for Canada and the United States, while at the same time Canada was to con-tinue to impose protective duties on imports from the mother comity. He had said if the people of Canada desire an arrangement of that kind he did not doubt they would be able to secure it. He did not think any one in England would attempt to pre-vent such an arrangement by force, a crime of the deepest dye. one in England would attempt to pre-vent such an arrangement by force, but he had remarked that in that case all the advantages of the slendor tie which still bound Canada to England would disap-pear as far as England was concerned, and it was not likely the people of Great Britain would continue much longer to sustain the obligations and responsibilities of relation-bin all the reviewed benefits of which had ship, all the reciprocal benefits of which had been withdrawan. Commercial union of this kind, if it ever came about, would be the first step towards signal and practical separation. Colonel D. B. until poverty stared him in the face again and then he would start out for new victims. He preyed on men in all walks of life, and sometimes soared high for game. Recently he tried to catch Senator Leland Stanford in his net, but the latter wouldn't bite, and left Hunter's letter requesting an interview unanswered. What he interview unanswered. What he thought of the senator's slight is freely expressed in a note which was found b the coroner among Hunter's letters. It had evidently been written just before he took the poison, and he did not find time to mail it. Here it is: Mr. Stanford: I sent you a note on the 30th of September, thinking you was a gen-natural presentment that my existence will terminate very abruptly on account of the numerous trances I have failen into lately, and on account of our old doctor at hom avoiding any intervention in my system or all occasions as being some thing beyond the comprehension of human skill, therefore, as Dr. O'Donnell kindly benefited me one day in sickness by furnishing medicine for noth-ing, I, in return dedicate this frame of mine to him in event of what is called death, for the doctor to experiment for the advance-ment of the human race to which I cheerfully dedicate myself. Doctor, please give this your close attention and you will not only advance the human tion and you will not only advance the human race, but very materially advance your and my fortune in the event of my death. You observe my legs are cut off. Take galvanized wire, after first having pumped all the blood out of my veins and the marrow out of my bones, and connect with the arteries the gal vanized wire; then connect the different different veins with the galvanized wire, and the bone with the galvanized wire, and the bones with the galvanized iron tube, and make arti-ficial legs; cover the whole with some kind of flesh. Seeing all the connections form a complete circuit with the body, pump elec-tricity into the whole body through the nostrils and I am a new man again for another generation. But the actual process of eternal life I hold that secret myself and will impart it to none until after my proper restoration as directed by me, and if that is not done I shall have the pleasure of restoring myself when I please in another form. Then those failing to comply with my request must suffer ac cordingly. Yours, J. S. HUNTER. SAN FRANCISCO, October 9.

CATARRH DESCRIBED.

The Symptoms Attending That Disease Which Leads to Consumption.

When cature the state in the head and the upper part of the throat for any length of time -the patient living in a district where people are subject to catarrhal affection—and the dis-ease has been left uncured, the catarrh invari-ably, sometimes slowly, extends down the wind-pipe and into the bronchial tubes, which tubes convey the air into the different parts of the hungs. The tubes become affected from the swelling and the nuccus arising from catarrh, and, in some instances, become plugged up, so that the air cannot get in as freely as it should. Shortness of breath follows, and the patient breathers with labor and difficulty. In either case there is a sound of crackling and wheezing inside the chest. At this stage of the disease the breathing is usually more rapid than when in health. The patient has also hot and wheezing inside the chest. At this stage of the disease the breathing is usually more rapid than when in health. The patient has also hot dashes over his body. The pain which accompanies this condition is of a duil character, feit in the chest, behind the breast bone, or under the shoulder blade. The pain may come and go-last a few days and then be absent for several others. The cough that occurs in the first stages of bronchial ca-tarrh is dry, comes on at intervals, hacking in character and is usually most troublesome in the morning on rising, or going to bed at night, and it may be in the first evidence of the disease extending into the lungs. Sometimes there are fits of coughing induced by the tough mucns so violent as to cause vom-iting. Later on the mucus that is raised is found to contain small particles of yellow mat-ter, which indicates that the small tubes in the lungs are now affected. With this there are often streaks of blood mixed with the mucus. In some cases the patient becomes very pale, has fever, and expectorates before any cough appears. has fever, and expectorates before any cough appears. In some cases small masses of cheesy sub-stance are spit up, which, when pressed be-tween the fingers, emit a bad odor. In other cases, particles of a hard, chalky nature are spit up. The raising of cheesy or chalky lumps in-dicate serious mischief at work in the lungs. In some cases catarth will extend into the lungs in a few weeks; in other cases it may be months, and even years, before the disease at-tacks the lungs sufficiently to cause serious in-terforence with the general health. When the disease has developed to such a point the pa-tient is said to have catarthal consumption. With bronchial catarth there is more or less fever which differs with the different parts of the day—slight in the morning, higher in the afternoon and evening. afternoon and evening.

IS TRAIN COMING? A Dispatch Which Would Indicate That He Is Not.

George Francis Train was expected to arrive in Omaha this morning from Kansas City, where he has been lecturing for the past three days to crowded houses. Yesterday the BEE received telegraphic assurances from the eccentric lecturer, in his own pecu liar style, that he was to take a Turkish bath here to-day and invited the reporters to meet him. But it would seem that Mr- Train is going to disappoint all who have been expecting to see and hear him. At least that is the way the Bgg translates the following dispatch which was received at an early hour this morning: KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25.-BEE, Omaha. Kansas City captured. Western engage-ments cancelled. Anarchists saved. Twenty million Credit Foncier organizing. Has Bemis experienced religion? GEO. FRANCIS TRAIN.

Congregational Missionaries.

Mexico Swept By a Cyclone.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.-Captain Wetherell, of the steamer Thornhill, which arrived here from Progresso, Mexico, to-day, reports that a cyclone swept over Progresso on the night of October 12 and continued for four days. For five days there was no communication to be had with the shore. About twenty-five voice were stranded, the majority loaded with perishable goods, which were destroyed. About thirty-five houses were razed.

Wilson and Rochefort Wrangle.

PARIS, Oct. 25 .-- A republican meeting was held at Tours to-night. An angry discussion took place between M. Rochefort and M. Wilson. The climax of indignation was reached on M. Wilson refusing to answer the charge of using President Grevy's frank-ing mark. His efforts to clear himself proved ineffective and the meeting closed at midnight in great disorder, the crowd shouting "Resign!" "Resign!" "Vive Boulanger."

The cold weather yesterday interfered greatly with the shooting and prevented big scores. Tommy Crabill, aged ten, a son of F. S. Crabill, of Loup City, is a phenomenon indeed. He was in most all of the matches yesterday just for the price of the birds, and in two of these, the live bird match and ten single blue rocks, he was a tie with the winner, and in the other two a tie with the second man.

Detroit 4, St. Louis 3. CHICAGO, Oct. 25 .- [Special Telegram to the BEE.]-St. Louis should have beaten Detroit to-day, but somehow or other did not. The gentlemen in blue suits made all the hits and only one error more than their opponents, but their hits were so scattered that they did not count and Richardson's three-bagger and Thompson's single both came in the same inning and between them two men got bases ca errors, so there were three runs for De troit in one lump. Ganzell made another on in the fifth inning, going to first on Ronin son's error and getting around by virtue of a passed ball and Latham's error. The day was so cold that the attendance was very small, only 400.

The hospital steward believed yesterday morning that Hunter had entirely recovered and intended discharging him at noontime. Prior to that, however, he cut off the handle of a broom to replace Hunter's lost cane and handed it to him to try if it was short enough. Hunter immediately used the stick to administer a threshing to the steward, in which he was fairly successful for a while, until a misdirected blow brought the cudgel up against the hospital wall, when it broke. The steward then mas-tered his assailant and put him in a strait-jacket. He promised Hanter his release in an hour provided he behaved You himself, but the man, by that time fairly frenzied, yelled and cursed horribly.

with crooks or knobs all in one piece, are correct for all but dress occasions. Crooks and crutches of buckhorn are still very popular, and some new sticks are made of American laurel, which by the way, comes from Mexico. Old English oak is also in use this season, and is as stylish for canes as it is for house decorations.

"Silver-deposit canes came out this year, and are in great demand. They are made by covering the wood with graphite to make it a conductor of electricity and then electro-plating the top. "A great many gentlemen this year have cut articles for themselves where they have been summering and brought them to us to have the silver deposit put on them. We have to keep a large variety of fantastic styles, such as demons, dragons, harlequins and clowns. These are all in silver, and some are very effective, as, for instance, this one of a skull with a lizard crawling on it. Another skull cane has emeralds for eyes and the lower jaw pivoted so that it opens and shuts as you move the stick. We get the London and Paris designs as soon as they come out, and we import some of the classes of sticks that we think we sell. There are more home designs sold than imported ones."

seasons, even more than adults, and they beinvigorated by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last Spring my two children were vaccinated. Soon after, they broke all out with running sores, so dreadful I thought I should lose them. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them completely; and they have been healthy ever since. I do feel that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my children to me." MRS. C. L.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities : 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown.
