Agrees With Oberly.

Grover and the Gobbler. WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.-The following proclamation was issued late this afternoon; Proclamation was issued late this afternoon:

By the President of the United States:
The goodness and mercy of God which have followed the American people during all the days of the past year claim their grateful recognition and humble acknowledgement. By His omnipotent power He has protected us from war and pestilence and every calamity. By His gracious favor earth has yielded a generous return to the labor of husbandmen and every path of honest toil has led to comfort and contentment. By His loving kindness the hearts of our people, have been replenished with fraternal sentiment and patriotic erdeavor, and by His unerring guidance we have been directed in the way of national prosperity. To the end that we may with one accord testify our gratitude for all these blessings I. Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 24th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by all the people of the land. On that day let all secular work and employment be suspended, and let our people assemble in their accustomed places of worship and with prayer and songs of praise give thanks to our Heavenly Father for all that he has done for us, while we humbly implore forgiveness of our sins and a continuance of his mercy. Let families and kindred be reunited on that day, and let their hearts, filled with kindly cheer and affectionate reminiscences, be turned in thankfulness to the source of all their pleasures and the giver of all that makes the day glad and joyous. And in the midst of our people and our happiness let us remember By the President of the United States glad and joyous. And in the midst of our people and our happiness let us remember the poor, needy and unfortunate and by our gifts of charity and ready benevolence let us increase the number of those who, with grateful hearts, shall join in our thanks-Express Companies Get a Hearing.

Chloroformed and Robbed.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Oct. 25 .- Burglars entered the residence of the late Hon. D. S. Wilson Saturday night, and after chloroforming Mrs. Brock, daughter of Mrs. Wilson, secured a valuable diamond pin and a lady's gold watch and chain. About 6 o'clock Sunday morning one of Mrs. Brock's little children, who slept in an adjoining room, went into her mother's apartment and found her breathing with great difficulty. She aroused Mrs. Wilson, whose room was near by, and said her mamma was sick. Mrs. Wilson hastened to her daughter's room and the odor of chloroform being strong ough to almost strangle her she soon rea ized the situation. She aroused the servants and every effort was made to restore Mrs

Brock to consciousness, which she regained an hour later. She is still confined to her bed and her condition is quite critical. The robbers had several hundred dollars' worth of solid silverware piled at the head of the stairs leading to the front hallway. When Mrs. Brock's daughter angle she seem light Mrs. Brock's daughter awoke she saw a light in the hallway outside of her room and called to her grandmother, when the light was promptly extinguished. The burglars un-doubtedly decamped at once, leaving their valuable plunder.

CHAMBERLAIN'S FAREWELL. The English Statesman's Last Speech

Before Leaving For America. LONDON, Oct. 25 .- Chamberlain, speaking to night at a meeting to bid him farewell on his American trip, said they had all seen the telegram stating that Irish-Americans would do all in their power to mar his mission. The sources of the statement might be tainted, yet represented undoubt-edly the fact that the Irish-Americans were ready to use every effort to prevent a settlement. There never has been a time in the last thirty years when the Irish in America has not been willing to use the privileges conceded them by their adopted country in order to sow disension and promote ill-feeling between Great Britain and America. He was encouraged, however, by the belief that a vast majority of native Americans and every Englishman and Scotchman in the United Kingdom would regard conflict between these two countries as a crime of the deepest dye. They were carnestly desirous They They were carnestly desirous of an amicable, honorable settlement, and would not allow it to be jeopardized by party rancor or personal feelings. Referring to the remarks of a Toronto paper construing one of his Ulster speeches into an insuit to Canadians, Chamberlain said it was a great misapprehension of his meaning. What he said was that part of Canada was seeking commercial union with the United States, which would practically mean free trade between Canada for Canada and the United States, while at the same time Canada was to continue to impose protective duties on imports while at the same time Canada was to continue to impose protective duties on imports from the mother county. He had said if the people of Canada desire an arrangement of that kind he did not doubt they would be able to secure it. He did not think any one in England would attempt to prevent such an arrangement by force, but he had remarked that in that case all the advantages of the slender tie which still bound Canada to England would disappear as far as England was concerned, and it was not likely the people of Great Britain would continue much longer to sustain the obligations and responsibilities of relationship, all the reciprocal benefits of which had been withdrawan. Commercial union of this kind, if it ever came about, would be the first step towards signal and practical separation.

London, Oct. 25.—The foreign office has issued a circular announcing that Chamberlain will depart for Washington early in November and will be accompanied by Mr. Bergne, superintendent of the treaty department, and Mr. Maycock, another attache of the foreign office.

GARRETT'S CONDITION.

Dr. Barnard Says the Reports Have Been Greatly Exaggerated.

St. Paul, Oct. 25 .- Dr. Barnard, who was Mr. Garrett's confidential assistant in the Baltimore & Ohio, and who has charge of the details of the present trip, said to an Associated Press reporter to-night that Mr. Mr. Garrett for a number of years has been very desirous of visiting the Pacific coast and Mexico. The recent severance of his executive relations with the Baltimore & Ohio now enables him to carry out this long entertained project without jeopardizing any important corporate or priyate interest, and this is all there is in the many sensational stories that have been published of late. Mr. stories that have been published of late. Mr. Garrett and party will leisurely visit all points of interest between here and the Pacific coast, spend considerable time on the coast and then visit Mexico. In reply to an inquiry as to Mr. Garrett's mental condition, Dr. Barnard said, in substance, that for more than two years past Mr. Garrett has recklessly abused himself by mental overwork, while neglecting physical exercise. Inheriting from his father the characteristic of large blood vessels in the head, in moments of undue the head, in moments of unduction the head, in moments of unduction mental excitement as a result of prolonged mental application, there is inevitably an unduc running of blood to the head which has long been a subject of grave con cern to the family. They is necessary of late to serve his movements, have felt it serve his movements, and keep him from great excitement. A portion of the press has been very inconsiderate in persistently misinterpreting these precautions, the facts being that Mr. Garrett's family and friends have only been solicitous to protect him from an attack of congestion of the brain or brain fever, of which he has been in imminent peril for son

IS TRAIN COMING?

A Dispatch Which Would Indicate That He Is Not.

George Francis Train was expected to ar rive in Omaha this morning from Kansas City, where he has been lecturing for the past three days to crowded houses. Yester day the BEE received telegraphic assurances from the eccentric lecturer, in his own peculiar style, that he was to take a Turkish bath here to-day and invited the reporters to meet him. But it would seem that Mr- Train is going to disappoint all who have been expecting to see and hear him. At least that is the way the BEE translates the following dispatch which was received at an early hour this morning:

Detroit 4, St. Louis 3.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—St. Louis should have beaten Detroit to-day, but somehow or other did not. The gentlemen in blue suits made all the hits and only one error more than their opponents, but their hits were so scattered that they did not count and Richardson's three-bagger and Thompson's single both came in the same inning and between them two men got bases on errors, so there were three runs for Detroit in one lump. Ganzell made another one in the fifth inning, going to first on Roninson's error and getting around by virtue of a passed ball and Latham's error. The day was so cold that the attendance was very small, only 400. THE SCORE :

Burned to Death. HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 25 .- This morning about 7 o'clock a German farmer named Schooke, was found burned to death along side of the public highway, about one mile east of the city. From what can be learned he was pretty well under the influence of liquor and his clothing caught fire from a spark from a cigar or pipe and, being chilled and helpless, he was slowly burned to death. The wagon striking a rut in the road, threw him out, where he lay until found. He was a horrible sight, his head and face being burned beyond recognition, while nearly his entire body was in the same condition. A coroner's jury was empaneled, but the inquest has been postponed until to-morrow morning. Schooke leaves an aged mother and six children in destitute circumstances who will have to be looked after by the county. The body was buried in the potter's and helpless, he was slowly burned to death.

Consumption of Coffee.

Good Cheer: The Hollanders are the greatest coffee drinkers in the world their annual consumption being about eighteen pounds per head of the whole population. Amsterdam has long been one of the great coffee marts of the world, and, being admitted free of duty, coffee is very cheap. Next comes Belgium and Denmark, in which the consumption per capita is about half of that of Holland. Next comes the United States, in which the consumption per capita in 1880 was eight and eighttenths pounds. The present consump-tion of coffee in the United States may be stated at a little over one pound per week for each family in the nation. In the use of tea and conce the people of England and the United States present a most remarkable contrast The annual consumption of the peopl of England is just about a pound of coffee per head, or about one-eighth of that of the people of the United States. Comparing the consumption of tea with that of coffee, it will be found that, while the people of the United States use about five pounds of coffee to one of tea, the people of England use five pounds of tea to one of coffee.

There are fashions in coffee, as in almost everything. At Aden and Alexandria the Mocha coffee is carefully picked over and assorted, in compliance with the singular fashion in trade which creates a demand in Europe for the larger beans, while the United States will have none but the smaller ones. In point of fact, the larger beans are the best, being fully developed, more perfect in appearance and flavor.

New Invention in Calico Printing. Cotton Factory Times: The severe competition in recent years in every branch of industry has set innumerable keen wits to work, with the result of many startling improvements in various trades; but there are few which compare in importance with the "simultaneous" process of color printing, which promises to entirely revolutionize some classes of calico and velvet and velveteen printing, and also the printing of advertisements in colors. The novel character of the "simultaneous" process will be at once understood when we mention that by it, if required, 1,000 shades could be printed off at one impression. Instead of using en-graved rollers, as in ordinary calico printing, or stones, as in the case of colored advertisements, the designs or pictures are "built up" in a case in solid colors, specially prepared, somewhat after the style of Mosair work; a portion is then cut or sliced off about an inch in thickness, and this is waapped round a cylinder, and the composition has only to be kept moist and any number of im-pressions can be printed off on calico, velvet or velveteen, the colors being thoroughly "fast."

Maxon for work on patrol house were referred to fire committee. The printing committee was ordered to procure 5,000 blanks for serving notices of improvements on owners of adjoining property. The report of the city attorney, to the effect that the clerk should procure names of parties residing on streets where public improvements were made, so that the marshal might give personal notice of amount due against the property on such streets for such improvements, was adopted. The report of the city attor-ncy in regard to the proposed extension of Fifth avenue to Glen avenue was laid over until the next meeting The petition of Mr. Keller and Bennett to change the grade of Fourth street to conform to the grade of Broadway was referred to the city engineer, to report at a future meeting. The pids of the Omaha & Council Bluffs paving company being the lowest for additional paving, the contract was awarded them and the city attorney authorized to draw up a contract for th same and the mayor to sign it. All bids for grading of lower Broadway were rejected, and the clerk instructed to advertise for new bids. The bids of M. Callahan for the additional grading was accepted and contract ordered.

Mr. Wickham was granted permission to put down brick paving in front of his property on Fourth street, the work not to conflict with that of the block paving, the consent of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Paving company to be secured. The city attorney was instructed to cut out the Anamosa stone clause from the curbing contract of R. G. Williams.

Republican Rally. Although a very limited notice was given of the republican rally of last evening it was sufficient to fill the opera house, which indicates that the principles of republicanism have yet a fair hold upon the hearts of American people. Colonel D. B. Henderson was the speaker of the evening, and for an hour and a half he showed facts and figures; comparisons between republican and democratic administrations; debated the question of finance, tariff, civil service, labor and capital, obedience to law the duty of every citizen, and the other questions which enter into and constitute the political problem of to-day. The colonel is a strong speaker and is especially forcible in his illustrations.

The audience that gathered at St. Paul's Episcopal church last evening was decidedly complimentary both to the singers who took part in the concert programme and the object for which it was rendered. The auditorium was well filled by an audience that was critical and appreciative, and that they found enough to satisfy them was abundantly evidenced in the applause which followed the rendering of each number. selected numbers and gave evidence of careful preparation.

HUNTER'S LEGACY. How He Proposes to Live After Death and Make a Fortune.

San Francisco Chronicle: J. Hunter, who is better known as the "man without legs," and who formerly sold papers at the ferry landings, died a horrible death yesterday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock in the city receiving hospital. Hunter had gone there about one week ago, saying that on the night previous he had eaten by mistake, or rather while he was asleep at the Commercial hotel, a piece of bread on which before retiring he had spread rough on rats. He was immediately made to take severe emetics, after which he went into epiteptic fits. Since his admission to the hospital he has had six of them, during the last of which he

The hospital steward believed yesterday morning that Hunter had entirely recovered and intended discharging him at noontime. Prior to that, how-ever, he cut off the handle of a broom to replace Hunter's lost cane and handed it to him to try if it was short enough. Hunter immediately used the stick to administer a threshing to the steward, in which he was fairly successful for a while, until a misdirected blow brought the cudgel up against the hospital wall. when it broke. The steward then mas-tered his assailant and put him in a strait-jacket. He promised Hunter his release in an hour provided he behaved himself, but the man, by that time fairly frenzied, yelled and cursed horribly.

To a reporter of the Chronicle, who spoke to him during the afternoon, he said he had been put in the jacket be-"a being the — rascal has never heard of before." He further stated that if he were not given his liberty he would "soon peg out." True enough, a few minutes later, when he was alone, he was taken with a fit and when found he was dead. Hunter was a typical character. was a shrewd, discerning New Hamp-shire Yankee, who lived by his wits. He always had some scheme on foot to mulet people out of money, and when he was in funds he took his ease until poverty stared him in the face again and then he would start out for new victims. He preyed on men in all walks of life, and sometimes soared high for game. Recently he tried to catch Senator Leland Stanford in his net, but the latter wouldn't bite, and left Hunter's letter requesting an interview unanswered. What he thought of the senator's slight is freely expressed in a note which was found by the coroner among Hunter's letters. It had evidently been written just before he took the poison, and he did not find time to mail it. Here it is:

Mr. Stanford: I sent you a note on the 30th of September, thinking you was a gentleman. I proposed to have a gentlemanly talk with you, but as you was hog enough to even keep the 2-cent stamp I sent you I advise you to look out for the Future if you magine there is no Beath. imagine there is no Death. Yours with con Another letter, original both in its style and idea, was addressed to Dr. C.

C. O'Donnell, to whom Hunter "dedicates" his body in the following language: Dr. C. C. O'Donnell-Dear Sir: Having a natural presentment that my existence will terminate very abruptly on account of the numerous trances I have fallen into lately, and on account of our old doctor at home avoiding any intervention in my system on all occasions as being some thing beyond the comprehension of human skill, therefore, as Dr. O'Donnell kindly benefited me one day in sickness by furnishing medicine for nothing, I, in return dedicate this frame of mine to him in event of what is called death, for the doctor to experiment for the advancement of the human race to which I cheerfully ledicate myself.

Doctor, please give this your close attention and you will not only advance the human race, but very materially advance the human race, but very materially advance your and my fortune in the event of my death. You observe my legs are cut off. Take galvanized wire, after first having pumped all the blood out of my veins and the marrow out of my bones, and connect with the arteries the gal-vanized wire; then connect the different veins with the galvanized wire, and the bones with the galvanized iron tube, and make artificial legs; cover the whole with some kind of flesh. Seeing all the connections form a complete circuit with the body, pump electricity into the whole body through the nostricty into the whole body through the hos-trils and I am a new man again for another generation. But the actual process of eternal life I hold that secret myself and will impart it to none until after my proper restoration as directed by me, and if that is not done I shall have the pleasure of restoring myself when I please in another form. Then those failing to comply with my request must suffer accordingly. Yours, J. S. Hunter.
San Francisco, October 9.

Dr. O'Donnell could not be found last night to tell what he thought of Hunter's novel partnership proposition. As deceased has no relatives here he will probably be consigned to a pauper's

STYLES IN WALKING STICKS. Dudedom Will Be Relieved of a Burden That Has Long Overtaxed It. New York Mail: "The fashionable walking sticks for this fall and winter will not be as large as they were last year," said a salesman in a Broadway, shep, "The swell youths who carried those telegraph poles last winter found themselves pulled down in flesh when spring came. The result is that the medium weight sticks will be most in demand this season. The plain styles are selling best now. The English hazel and the French crab sticks, with medium-sized silver caps, are popular, and ash, olive, orange, and snakewood, with crooks or knobs all in one piece, are correct for all but dress occasions. rooks and crutches of buckhorn are still very popular, and some new sticks are made of American laurel, which, by the way, comes from Mexico. Old English oak is also in use this season, and is as stylish for canes as it is for house decorations. "Silver-deposit canes came out this year, and are in great demand. They are made by covering the wood with graphite to make it a conductor of electricity and then electro-plating the top.

"A great many gentlemen this year have cut articles for themselves where they have been summering and brought them to us to have the silver deposit put on them. We have to keep a large variety of fantastic styles, such as demons, dragons, harlequins and clowns. These are all in silver, and some are very effective, as, for instance, this one of a skull with a lizard crawling on it. Another skull cane has emeralds for eyes and the lower jaw pivoted so that t opens and shuts as you move the stick. We get the London and Paris designs as soon as they come out, and we import some of the classes of sticks that we think we sell. There are more home designs sold than imported ones."

Care for the Children

Children feel the debility of the changing seasons, even more than adults, and they become cross, pecvish, and uncontrollable, The blood should be cleansed and the system invigorated by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. "Last Spring my two children were vaccinated. Soon after, they broke all out with running sores, so dreadful I thought I should lose them. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them completely; and they have been healthy ever since. I do feel that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my children to me." MRS. C. L. THOMPSON, West Warren, Mass.

Purify the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence. "Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass. "Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

A Conversation Overheard on an Elevated Railroad -- A Young Lady's Statement.

[Kansas City Star, March 8.]

"It is very disagreeable."
"What is very disagreeable?"
"Why, to get up every morning of your life with a bad taste in your mouth, bad breath, no appetite for your breakfast, feeling like a man had been intoxicated the night before."

The above conversation took place on the elevated line between our reporter and a gentle man friend last Sunday.
"Have you ever felt that way?" asked the reporter.

"Have you ever felf that way?" asked the reporter.
"Did I?" replied the gentleman, "Well I should say so. Not only I, but there are thousands of people who feel jast that way. I myself have had this trouble in an aggravated form over three years. My ears became affected: I could not hear well; my sight grew dim and bad, and I spoke with a pronounced masal twang; my sense of taste was fast leaving me. I tell you, sir, that it is not very pleasant, this catarrhfor that is the term that this trouble is known by—but the name does not express the horrors and tortures of the loathsome disease. My breath became so bad that my friends could not come near me. I would blow out such offensive scabs that I feared my nostrils were decomposing."

scabs that I feared my nostrils were decomposing."

"Well, sir," said our reporter, "you seem to have gotten bravely over yorr troucle?"

"Yes, sir, I am as well as yon to-day. But had I not went to Drs. McCoy & Henry I would no doubt have been dead by this time."

"Would you object to my using your name in this case?"

"No, sir; but as I am a stranger in your city, would rather you use one who is known better than I. Now, there is Miss Emma Overstreet, a neighbor of mine, at I'lly Locust street, who had catorrh for a year, not as bad as I, but still is very grateful for the c centl she obtained at their office, and will be glad to tell you all about herself."

MISS EMMA OVERSTREET.

Our reporter called on Miss Overstreet at her home. She told him that she had had a catarrh for a year past, but was now entirely well, and that she was willing to add her name to the many patients who had been cured at Drs. Mooy & Henry's office. The above cut is a very good likeness of Miss Emma Overstreet.

CATARRH DESCRIBED.

The Symptoms Attending That Disease Which Leads to Consumption.

When catarre has risted in the head and the Toper part of the throat for any length of time—the patient living in a district where people are subject to catarrhal affection—and the discase has been left uncured, the catarrh invariably, sometimes slowly, extends down the windple and into the bronchial tubes, which tubes convey the air into the different parts of the lungs. The tubes become affected from the swelling and the muccus arising from catarrh, and, in some instances, become plugged up, so that the air cannot get in as freely as it should. Shortness of breath follows, and the patient breathes with labor and difficulty.

In either case there is a sound of crackling and wheezing inside the chest. At this stage of the disease the breathing is usually more rapid than when in health. The patient has also hot dashes over his body.

The pain which accompanies this condition is a dell character felt in the chest, betting the than when in health. The patient has also hot dashes over his body.

The pain which accompanies this condition is of a dull character, felt in the chest, behind the breast bone, or under the shoulder blade. The pain may come and go—last a few days and then be absent for several others. The cough that occurs in the first stages of bronchial catarrh is dry, comes on at intervals, backing in character and is usually most troublesome in the morning on rising, or going to bed at night, and it may be in the first evidence of the discuss extending into the lungs.

Sometimes there are fits of coughing induced by the tough mucus so violent as to cause vomiting. Later on the mucus that is raised is found to contain small particles of yellow matter, which indicates that the small tubes in the lungs are now affected. With this there are often streaks of blood mixed with the mucus. In some cases the patient becomes very pale, has fever, and expectorates before any cough appears.

In some cases small masses of cheesy sub-has fever, and expectorates before any cough appears.

In some cases small masses of cheesy substance are spit up, which, when pressed between the fingers, emit a bad odor. In other cases, particles of a hard, chalky nature are spit up. The raising of cheesy or chalky lumps is dicate serious mischief at work in the lungs. In some cases catarrh will extend into the lungs in a few weeks; in other cases it may be months, and even years, before the disease attacks the lungs sufficiently to cause serious interference with the general health. When the disease has developed to such a point the patient is said to have catarrhal consumption. With bronchial catarrh there is more or less fever which differs with the different parts of the day—slight in the morning, higher in the afternoon and evening.

SNEEZING CATARRH.

What It Means, How It Acts, and What It Is.

What it Means, How it Acis, and What It Is.

You sneeze when you get up in the morning, you try to sneeze your nose off every time you are exposed to the least draft of air. You have a fullness over the front of the forehead, and the nose feels as if there was a plug in each nostril which you cannot dislodie. You blow your nose until your ears crack, but it don't do any good, and the only result is that you succeed in getting up a very red nose, and you so irritate the lining membrane of that organ that you are unable to breathe through it at all. This is a correct and not overdrawn picture of an acute attack of catarrh, or "Sneezing Catarrh" as it is called.

Now, what does this condition indicate? First, a cold that causes mucus to be poured out by the glands in the nose: then those diseased glands are attacked by swarms of little germs—the catarrh germ—that float in the sir in a locatity where the disease is prevalent. These animalculae, in their efforts to find a lodgment, irritate the sensitive membrane lining of the nose and nature undertakes to rid herself of them by producing a fit of sneezing.

When the nose becomes filled with thickened diseased mucus the natural channels for the introduction of air into the lungs is interfered with, and the person so effected must breathe through the mouth, and by such means the throat becomes parched and dry, snoring is produced, and then the catarrhal disease gains ready access to the throat and lungs. ready access to the throat and lungs.
