There is such a rush of work at the city clerk's office, that he is compelled to have three assistants. Two are busy upstairs making out special assessment certificates, and the other assists him in the lower office, manufacturing democrats.

Mrs. Murphy and her man Donahue are again in court. She has had him arrested for thumping her and shows a badly swollen arm as proof of the cruelty of the man. The case is to be heard before Justice Schurz to-morrow.

Donahue has thus far been unable to furnish bail. W. L. Hovey, a teacher of dancing, was in the city yesterday, looking over the field with a view of opening a school here. He has been engaged in this business for several years, and has many new dances which he proposes introducing here. His present home is in Missouri Valley, and he will return here this week to make further arrangements.

Some time ago, Mrs. Hastie, of this city, had one of the Salvation Army soldiers arrested for trying to make her give up to him a trunk belonging to her daughter, who had run away from home to join the army. The young lady is still in the work, and has been recently promoted to a lieutenant. She is now located at Kansas City.

Edward E. Wright, who has gained no little reputation as a writer, and whose recently published novel has given him additional prominence, has issued a little tract on "Inconsistencies," which will doubtless be read with interest by his many friends here at least. It shows the inconsistencies between christian belief and christian practice, comparing the teachings of Christ in the sermon on the mount, with the practices of the majority of the church members.

SUNDAY IN THE BLUFFS.

The Doings Among the Churches and the Services Announced.

THE CASE OF MAJOR WILLIAMS. He is Preparing to Get Clear—The First Marriage License in This County—Trouble Over Paving.

Just Like "The Major." The readers of the BEE in Council Bluffs are especially interested in the case of Major Williams, alias Brown. He has hardly recovered from his surprise at being acquitted of the murder of Hughes at the Union avenue hotel in this city than he rushed into another bloody affair, killed his man, and is now charged again with murder. The details were recently given and the following additional news is now received:

Nov. 5, N. Y., Nov. 5.—James Brown, alias "Major Williams," was arraigned in the city criminal court, Judge Doering, presiding, Tuesday, Nov. 2. He waived examination and the right to make a statement in his behalf and was committed to await the action of the next grand jury, which convenes Nov. 15. The murderer has employed as counsel the Hon. Charles E. Patterson, ex-speaker of the New York assembly. Money, official credit and political influence are combined in the murderer's favor, and to the law-abiding portion of the community it is already evident that Brown will never be punished as he deserves.

The Political Pot. In political circles there is now a great deal of gossip about the probability of Pat Lacy being crowded forward into the mayoralty of the city, in case that Groneweg is elected senator. It seems that the democrats are counting chickens a long ways ahead even of the egg laying. Lacy has always had political ambition, and his election as alderman has inflamed his appetite for office so that he is doing as much as the size of Groneweg's hat. Lacy is proving a better alderman than was generally expected, but it is quite premature to talk of him for mayor. The promise of the democratic nomination is said to be an incentive for him to work zealously for Groneweg.

Both political organs are busy themselves charging and counter-charging concerning the large registration of voters. Each claims the other has been running in some non-resident in an attempt to make any specific charges, giving names and addresses, as they ought to, if they are honest in this matter. The fact is that Council Bluffs has been growing rapidly in population during the past year, and there ought to be a larger number of voters registering. The increased number had better be set down to the credit of the city until proved otherwise.

The friends of Frank Shinn, the republican candidate for senator, are confident that he will lead Groneweg in the county by at least 300 votes. They are anxious to see the city rally a little more enthusiastically, feeling sure that if his friends work well for him here the victory is assured. Shinn is a stronger candidate than most supposed. His friends know him and his record in his running, despite his personal repugnance. He has never sought an office, and now it is not of his seeking, but as he is in the race, he is no laggard.

The prohibition question is being used locally in this campaign in a variety of forms, and there is little doubt but that it will cause many voters to swing away from their old parties, in order to give expression to their convictions on this question.

The regular meeting of the ministers of the city will be held Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Y. M. C. A. room. Visiting and resident clergymen are cordially invited. Rev. Dr. Phelps will present a paper.

Services in the Congregational church this morning. Sacrament of the Lord's supper and admission of members. Subject for meditation: "The Triple Edomment." All are cordially invited who may desire to attend. There will be no evening service.

Rev. Dr. Cooley yesterday received the sad news of the death of Rev. C. E. Higgins, of Independence, Ia., formerly general superintendent of the Baptist missions in this state. He was in attendance at the meeting of the association two weeks ago, and was then in apparently good health. The announcement comes with surprise to his many friends, and to the denomination in which he was so prominent.

The new German Catholic church on Pierce street is rapidly approaching completion and will be a decided ornament to that portion of the city. The exterior work is about finished, with the exception of the spire, which is to 133 feet in height, surmounted by a twelve-foot gilded cross. The windows are expected to-morrow, and as soon as they are in the work of frescoing will be commenced. This work is to cost $700. The contributions for this church are very liberal, and the names of the donors will be published later. The middle altar will be a beautiful affair costing $800, and is the gift of Peter Wise. The building will be completed and ready for consecration about Christmas or New Year's. The chimes have arrived. The bells are three in number, and were cast at the foundry of H. Stuckelade & Co., St. Louis. On each one appears the inscription, "Dedicated to St. Peter's by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Neumayer." They are named Jacobus, Francis and Theresia, and weigh respectively 1,100, 700 and 450 pounds. They are so arranged that they can be played as chimes or rung as individual bells. Bishop Cosgrove of Davenport, is expected here about the 10th, and the ceremony of baptizing the bells will take place on Sunday, the 20th. They will then be ready to be raised to the belfry of the church.

Mrs. Judd, of Omaha, will sing in the Congregational church this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Judd are building a home on Fourth street and will soon be permanent residents of this city. She is a sweet singer, and will prove an addition to the musical and social circles.

Harkness Brothers will this week display many desirable goods on their remnant counter. Cupid's First and Last. A glance at the musty old records of the county reveals the fact that fifty years ago to-day the first marriage license ever granted here was placed on the opening page of Cupid's registry. The names of the parties were John J. Smith and Susanna Downs. He was aged forty-six years, and she nineteen. The last marriage license issued yesterday afternoon, completing the fifty years record, was that of Lawrence H. Hanson and Kate W. Nichols, his age being twenty-five years and hers thirty. During these fifty years there have been 4,996 licenses issued. There is a chance for a wonderful play of the imagination in an attempt to figure out half a century. The human experiences, the sorrows and joys, the successes and failures, who knows? Yet cupid goes right along, apparently just as young and frolicsome as though he had to have to start over in the face that the records of the county prove him to be at least fifty years old now.

Election Bets. Bets were freely placed at the Manchester last evening that the fifty years record, was that of Lawrence H. Hanson, the real estate broker, has the largest list of bargains to select from.

Raisins—London layers, eighteen cents per pound at Troxell Bros. Forty-five cents for a full size bed comfort, at The Fair, 18 Main street.

The paving work is going on along Fourth street at a lively rate. A little hitch was occasioned, Friday afternoon, by two men who had been discharged. The pavers work for an hour and then have a few minutes rest, which they have been utilizing to get a drink. The contractors objected to this and it was for continuing in it that these two lost their places. For revenge they called an inspector's attention to a pile of split blocks which they said were being laid, although unfit for use. The inspector summoned the city council to the scene, claiming to be unable to prevent the use of poor blocks, as they were all of inferior material. The contractors authorized the discharge of any man who was slighting his work, and put two men to work culling the blocks in front of the pavers. The matter was amicably adjusted and the good work still goes on.

Look out for BIG BARGAINS in California fruits next Saturday at Troxell Bros.

The Anarchists.

Unless the government will annul their sentence the anarchists will be executed on Friday next. J. G. Tipton, the real estate broker, says that until their cases are formally submitted to him, he shall decline to express an opinion upon the subject, for fear that the newspapers might interpret his language; but that meanwhile he will continue to work off his snags in real estate to such as are wise enough to take advantage of the opportunity to secure a home while property is cheap.

The Fair. J. GOLDBERG, 18 Main st. MASQUERADING AS A FEMALE. Boston Globe: The arrest of the young man in female attire at Chelsea on Friday afternoon proves to be one of the most remarkable cases of female impersonations ever brought to light in this country, and the disclosure has been one of the greatest surprises to the supposed "female's friends." When arrested the supposed young woman gave the name of "Kitty Russell," but her identity was suspected, and the services of a physician being called in by Chief Sibley, the matter was quickly decided, "Kitty" proving to be a man.

Saturday morning Chief Sibley had the young man photographed and afterwards rigged him out in a boy's suit. He was then taken to barber's shop, where some nine inches of hair was cut from his head.

Chief Sibley returned with his charge to the station and, after giving the young man some sound advice, allowed him to depart in company with his foster-mother, a Mrs. Peter Cottrell, of 488 Commercial street, Boston.

Considerable difficulty was experienced fitting the young man out in clothing, as he measures but eighteen inches around the waist and wears a No. 4 lady's boot. The change in his attire was by no means an improvement in his personal appearance.

A Globe reporter called at 488 Commercial street last night, and found Peter Cottrell and his wife comfortably quartered on the third floor. Upon inquiring for the young man, he was told that "Kitty" was out, but would shortly return. Mrs. Cottrell became very communicative, and both she and her husband said they were perfectly thunderstruck by the revelations made the previous day by the police of Chelsea. They had always looked upon the young man as their daughter, and what could have led "Kitty" to keep the secret all these years from them was something beyond their comprehension.

Mrs. Cottrell in her conversation always spoke of the young man as "Kitty," and never mentioned the feminine gender, and told a remarkable story. She said:

"Some sixteen years ago we lived out at Washington village, and for neighbors had a man named Morris, who married a woman with one child, always supposed to be a girl by the neighbors. The couple did not live happily together, and the stepfather's illusage of the child was the cause of many a quarrel between the pair. In the absence of the mother one day I was unmercifully beating the child when I stepped in and took it to my tenement and have been a mother to it ever since. This child was "Kitty," and at that time was but eight years of age. My husband taking a fancy to the child, we brought it up and sent it to the public school in Washington village, and until told by Chief Sibley yesterday, had no more idea that "Kitty" was a man than a babe unborn. She has always made this her home. When she grew up I sent her out to work, and when she left her situations she invariably returned to us."

The above was fully substantiated by her husband, who, if it were possible, was more astonished than his good wife at the way in which she had been deceived. He said: "Kitty did not like the new rig, as she felt like a duck out of water."

The reporter waited for some little time for "Miss Kitty" to put in an appearance, and being assured that she would soon arrive he took a stroll with Mr. Cottrell around the block, and while standing on the sidewalk the "fair maid" again in female attire, walked past and into the house.

The Globe man followed, and "Kitty" after taking off her bonnet, told him that she was brought up by Mr. and Mrs. Cottrell. They have been father and mother to me in every respect. When I grew up I secured the place of maid-of-all-work in a family residing in Boston, and have filled that position in various places ever since, with the exception of twelve months. My last place was in Springfield street, with a Mrs. Morrill, living there off and on for the past three years. On no occasion have I been suspected of being a man. About five years ago I was married to a man named Frank King, who is now employed as a driver on the South Boston horse railroad. We were married in Tremont temple and went to live at Mattapan. We had lived together about twelve months when he commenced to abuse me, and I left him. He has caused me more or less trouble ever since."

On being asked what he intended to do he said he would leave the state as soon as he could secure the funds. It seemed very little use to try and persuade him to discard the female attire and adopt that of his own sex.
