Chief Templeton, of the fire department, have been busy for the past two days ex-amining the heating apparatus in the different school buildings of the city. A little carelessness on the part of the janitors in regard to the radiators is all that has thus far been revealed. They will get through with the examination Monday.

A stray horse was yesterday placed in the city pound. During the afternoon a woman with warm-tinted hair appeared at the mar-shal's office and had a brief conference with that dignitary. When Frank emerged he were a hurried, call-off your-dog expression, and quickly gave the animal into the care of a boy who was waiting. He said that if the horse had only been white, he would never have meddled with it.

The Western Union Must Pay For a Mistake.

SENTENCE MAKING IN COURT.

Judge Loof bourow Treats the Sinners Rather Mildly - Salvationists Quarrel About Seeing the Girls Home.

Mistake in a Telegram.

The case of Z. T. Lindsey against the Western Union Telegraph company was decided yesterday afternoon by Judge Loofbourow. In this case there was no dispute about the facts, it being purely a controversy of law. Mr. Lindsey, while selling goods in the west, had his sample trunks left at South Pueblo, Col., the hotel porter not getting them down to the train in time. On reaching Canyon City Mr. Lindsey telegraphed back to have the trunks forwarded to Salida. In some way the telegram, in being transmitted, was made to read Salt Lake instead of Salida, and the trunks were sent there. Mr. Lindsey was put to an expense of about $27 in getting his trunks back, and was delayed in his business for about a week. He commenced this suit to secure damages. The claim was made that the company was liable for the results of its negligence. The company claimed that at the head of the sheet on which the message was written were the conditions in the form of a contract, by which the company was relieved of all liability for mistakes in sending messages, unless the sender paid the extra toll for having the message repeated back. Judge Loofbourow said there was no question but that there were de-cisions in the state to the effect that these printed conditions were reasonable, and that they constituted a contract. It had been held constituted a contract. It had been held in this state that the business was such that mistakes could not but occur, and that the fact of a mistake occurring was not sufficient evidence of neglect on the part of the company. It seemed to him, however, that the character of the mistake in some cases might indicate whether there was neg-lect or not. For instance, if words were omitted from a message it might be that at-mospheric interferences with the wires might have caused temporary interference with the wires and the company not have been negli-gent. In this case it seemed that no such in-terference could have caused the mistake. No thunder storm could cause words to be in-serted in a message, nor could it change Sa-lida into Salt Lake. He thought the oper-ator sending the dispatch must have care-lessly read it wrong and sent it wrong. Despite the opinions given in similar cases, ir which the company was not held liable, he thought that this case was sufficiently differ ent to warrant him in deciding the way he thought the law ought to be and allowing the upper court to pass upon it. He therefore gave a judgment in favor of Mr. Lindsey. In fixing the amount of the damages he allowed the expenses to which the plaintiff had been put in getting the trunks back, $27. As to damages for delays and interruptions to busi ness by reason of his not having his samples to show and sell by, he considered these as special damages, which could not be recov-ered under this action. The telegraph company excepts to the judgment because it is in Mr. Lindsey's favor, and Mr. Lindsey ex-cepts because he was not allowed damages in Superior Court News.

The case of Charles Adams for disturbing the peace was called in the superior court yesterday morning. Edward O'Donnell, the plaintiff, was present, as was also Mary Gage, his Salvation army "mash," and her sister. The blushing Mary was the first witness called, and O'Donnell was requested to conduct the examination. His method of so doing was rather novel, as he told the story to suit himself and then asked her to corrob orate it. The embryo lawyer was making out a very good case for himself when the judge a very good case for himself when the judge interfered, and concluded to do the questioning. Mary admitted that the defendant had been in the habit of going home with her from the army meetings until the plaintiff, whose name she did not know, had appeared upon the scene. She said that "Charley" was mad because "Ed" wanted to go home with her, and frowned and shook her head at "Ea" because he blushed when she made the with her, and frowned and shook her head at "Ed" because he blushed when she made the statement. The testimony of the other witnesses varied so much that the court concluded that both were guilty, but as there was a charge against but one of them he should discharge both. He thought there was more "wind" than "sand" in the make-up of both of them, and doubted if either of them could be scared into a fight. He advised them to continue to attend the Salvation army meetings, but to let the girls Salvation army meetings, but to let the girls decide who was to escort them home. O'Don-nell was much displeased at the decision, and told Adams that he would "have him where the dogs wouldn't bite him inside of a week." Adams was fined $7.60 for driving over a fire hose a short time ago, and as it was not paid the judge ordered him to jail. The case of John Sandel for assaulting Solomen Vance was continued until Menday morning. Sandel furnished $500 bends for his appearance.

Unlucky Luck. Thursday evening C. A. Russell won a horse named Dakota Maid in a raffle at the Manhatten. Yesterday afternoon a boy named Charley Dickinson was riding the animal on Broadway, when it became unmanageable and ran away with him. Near the corner of Fourth street it took the sidewalk and fell upon the wet, slippery flags. The boy was thrown to one side and escaped un-injured. The momentum was so great that that the horse slid for nearly ten feet, stopping just in time to avoid going through a large plate glass window into Millea's hard ware store. A grindstone standing just out-side the door was smashed to pieces. The animal has run in several races, but on ac-count of its mean disposition and "bolting" propensities, is nearly worthless.

Four sentences were given in criminal cases. McBride and Moore pleaded guilty to the larceny of some overcoats, and were sentenced to three and six months respect-sentenced to three and six months respectively in the county jail.

"Kid" Grant pleaded guilty to larceny and was given nine months in the penitentiary. John Edwards got off very easily with six months in jail for an assault to do great bodily injury. The affair occurred in John Lee's stable on Third street, where Edwards attempted to carve a boy with a pocket knife. The testimony as given in the lower court was very damaging, and there is no doubt but what he would have been sent to Fort Madison if he had allowed the case to go to trial. Judge Loofbourow goes from here to Avoca, where he will open another term of court. He left the city last evening.

A Disagreeable Finding. After deliberating for more than thirty hours the jury in the Rothery-Williams case were unable to agree, standing four for the plaintiff and eight for the defendant. One juryman was sick, and for this reason the jury was discharged. Another stated that if the jury were out a month he would never agree with the four, to which the court re-plied that but for the illness of the one he would have seen whether a decision could not have been reached. Whatever the merits of the case this shows that the court has little sympathy with the practice of "hanging" a

The Holidays

And the colder winter weather are now rapidly approaching. The joyful sea-son is cagerly anticipated by young folks in thousands of homes; but in nearly all there are one or more older ones to whom cold waves and the storms mean renewing suffering from rheumatic backs or limbs. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a positive specific for rheumatism; we doubt if there is or can be such a remedy. But the remarkable success of Hood's Sarsaparilla has had in curing this affection is sufficient reason for those who are suffering to try this peculiar medi-
