STARTED FOR THE FIGHT. Smith and Kirrain Off For the Centennial Battle Ground. Copyright 1887 by James Gordon Bennett.

Lincoln, Dec. 16.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—A fox hunt at Richard K. Fox hunt, indeed will commence to-morrow on the part of large numbers of sports who desire to obtain a slight of the brush between Kirrain and Smith. Last evening the Jen of the sporting fraternity, also Dick Roberts, his old competitor when they were both amateurs, and Jen Hayes, Smith's trainer, left for the continent. At least they were hovering around Channing beach station and carrying the baggage of Scotch mules and catches. This evening Kirrain and Mitchell, Pony Moore, Penel Lynch, Charles Johnston, James Wakeley and W. E. Harding, similarly hovered around the same railway station. In each case when the train moved off none of these gentlemen hovered long. The stakeholder is, however, in town yet. If your correspondent knows their destination he will not divulge it, but will be in a situation to let your readers know all about the Fox hunt in a live and timely method and also who is to hold the Fox-diamonds and championship.

Republican Mass Meeting. NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—A mass meeting under the auspices of the republican club was held in Chatham square to-night. Hon. Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, discussed the tariff issue, and then Hon. Rowell G. Horr, of Michigan, was introduced to talk on temperance. He said the republican party never had been on the wrong side in any question, and it was not so in the liquor question. He believed in local option. "If a man believes in temperance it might be asked why does he not join the third party?" he asked. "I do not join the third party because every vote would simply be helping the democracy and because the democracy wants me to. What the democracy want done should be avoided by those who desire temperance. There is another reason in that we have other issues than temperance. The republican party has a right to be considered for its strength. The democracy's strength is measured by the number of saloons. The president has given the right to the saloon platform of his party. The difficulty here has been that we never knew when we had a democrat on a question." The speaker said that he had received a letter given up their time to accusing republicans and excusing democrats, chiefly the latter, and was indignant to think that a round block like Higgins had put his name on the civil service list. He was against any legislation of the democrats on general principles, as he was against any favored by Great Britain.

Mormons in Canada. OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—There is an uncertain feeling in political circles over the settlement of Mormons in the Canadian northwest territories. Fifty Mormon families have already taken up land near Fort McLeod at the foot of the Rocky mountains. The impression prevails here that the new arrivals will not be molested. The settlement of the Mormons is a subject of inquiry in parliament next month. Allen, collector of customs at Fort McLeod, arrived here to-day. Speaking of them he said: "There is no necessity for any settlement of Mormons next year. They make first-class settlers and are industrious, zealous and well behaved. They are determined to adhere strictly to the laws of our country, as they are perfectly well assured that any breach of them would be severely dealt with. They do not wish to be molested by the local light, but understand it will not be tolerated. There is no feeling against them on the part of other settlers who regard them as industrious and hard-working people." The Mormon elder is Mr. Card, who married the daughter of the late Brigham Young.

Illinois Freight Rates. CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The Illinois railroad and warehouse commissioners concluded a session here to-day. During their sojourn they heard some of the different railroad companies regarding the proposed reduced Illinois tariff. The Chicago & Alton opposed it and said the reduction would be a heavy blow to the line between the Burlington and Wabash. The Illinois Central took the same position. Receiver McNulta explained the reasons which impelled him to put in reduced tariffs, all of which have been gone over before. From the remarks of Chairman Braker it is inferred the commission will order a moderate reduction, making the maximum somewhat more than the rates proposed in the railroad tariff. It is believed, however, that low inter-state rates will inure to Illinois territory and the present maximum be lowered.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Queen of Sheba Delights a Large Audience at the Grand. Manager Locke of the National Opera company had promised us "Nero" for the national tariff, but instead, gave us "The Queen of Sheba." The exercises were started by the change was the defection of certain members of the company. The defection was occasioned, it is fair to say, because of the inability of the management to keep its contract with the defectionists. There is nothing strange in this. It has been one of the characteristics of the National Opera company since it was organized.

But knowing of his defection, he worked before his company arrived here. Mr. Locke should not have endeavored, up to the moment people took their seats for last night's performance, to perpetuate the deceit that he had not been working. He sought to excuse himself by endeavoring to produce "Nero," with which the disaffected people had been identified by the efforts of artists who remain with him and who are even over-worked. At the last moment, after almost everybody had purchased his seat to see "The Queen of Sheba," he proposed to change this was a species of deceit unworthy a manager who wishes to elevate American opera. If Mr. Locke had not been so unfortunate, he should not resort to those which are foul. Everybody can easily imagine what Mr. Locke will urge in extenuation of his conduct. But in no wise lessens his offense. Deceit in amusement enterprises with what intent soever it may be encouraged, as reprehensible as it is in any other undertaking. Unfortunately, there is too much of it in the business which Mr. Locke follows. While considerate people will give the management all the credit he deserves, they will unhesitatingly condemn the management either to start out upon his enterprise in a manner commensurate with the credit he has earned, or to entirely abandon the field for some other person.

The audience, however, bore the disappointment bravely. "Sheba" was regarded entirely to its satisfaction, when it is considered in the main from a musical standpoint. The title role was assumed by Miss F. M. Miller. Her singing was of a penetrating quality rather than that of roundness which distinguished her predecessor, Fursch-Madl, when here eighteen months ago. But her vocal resources have ever, she more nearly approached the ideal than could Miss Fursch-Madl; and her vocal resources were of a penetrating quality rather than that of roundness which distinguished her predecessor, Fursch-Madl, when here eighteen months ago.

Unity Club's Meeting. The Unity Literary club held its usual semi-weekly meeting at Unity church last evening. The session both in numbers and interest was even better than that of the meeting of two weeks ago. The first essay, "Federalism and Anti-Federalism," by Mr. W. E. Burlington, although lengthy was very interesting, and gave an excellent outline of the rise of those two great parties. Mrs. C. C. Holden's essay on "Hamilton," was finely written and full of literary beauties. In her delineation of the character of the great statesman she was warmly appreciated. The essay commanded the closest attention. The usual "conversation," or informal discussion, which is a great feature of the club, followed. The subject last evening was "Confederacy and Constitution." Prof. H. P. Lewis presiding as moderator. The program for January is "Manufactures," "Tariffs," and "The History of the Democratic Party."
