The Fitzgerald Block Catches Fire

RATES REDUCED BY THE ELKHORN

in the Third Story.

Mr. Porter and the Board of Transportation - A Heavy Verdict-Against the Burlington-The Township Law Invalid.

[FROM THE REE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.] At 3 a. m. yesterday morning a family living on the second floor of the Fitzgerald block on Tenth street were aroused from sleep by the discovery that the ceiling above them was ablaze. Word was sent to the department at once and the boys soon had a stream on the flames, which were quickly smothered, but not until the household effects of the family were well nigh ruined. The ground floor of the block is occupied by Mayer Bros., extensive whholesale and retail clothing house, and the third floor of the building was occupied by company D as their armory. It was on the third floor that the fire originated. Company D had a meeting there in the evening and left a brisk fire in the stove, from which the floor became ablaze. In the morning Mayer Bros. found that water had done considerable damage, in places coming through the ceiling, and estimated their damage at $1,000. They carried $20,000 in insurance in twelve of the leading companies, and the damage done to the building owned by Mr. Fitzgerald is fully covered. The latter damage will not exceed $5,000.

THE ELKHORN TAKES A TUMBLE.

There was a great deal of comment in the city yesterday when it became known that a new Chicago-Lincoln rate had been ordered to go into effect dating yesterday over that line of road. It is very evident that the agitation of the past few months is bearing fruit and that the fear of the new Lincoln, Red Oak & Des Moines road has not been without good results already. The reductions ordered from Chicago to Lincoln on the different classes are as follows, by classes:

1 2 3 4 5 A B C D E
Old rate......100 84 57 41 35 40 35 28 25 21
New rate......80 65 44 34 28 23 28 23 20 4 19
This is something that will undoubtedly make up the other lines entering Lincoln and will materially enhance shipments over the Elkhorn line toward Lincoln.

over the Elkhorn line toward Lincoln. POTTER REFUSES.

A communication was received from T. J.

Potter, vice president of the Union Pacific, at the board of transportation rooms yesterday, in which he refuses to comply with the recommendations of the board in regard to the Waterloo overflow case. The board meet Thursday, and will take action to see that their order is enforced and obeyed.

An interesting case in equity is on hearing in the district court. The suit is brought to remove a cloud on some valuable property in the city known as McNewtry's addition. The case is over the taxes in the land that have been levied by both the county and the city for a number of years and have been allowed to go by default or have been paid in an irregular manner. The taxes are a perpetual regular manner. The taxes are a perpetual lien against the property and the suit is to determine just how much is back on the tract determine just how much is back on the tract so that the present holder can make them good and make deeds without a cloud to the title. The tract is a part of the original property of Luke Lavender that, in the division, was described by notes and bonds other than the government lines and the assessors had for years assessed and taxes have been paid on the irregularly described trusts until at the present time it is difficult to determine upon what parcels taxes are yet delinquent. The present owner of the tract, Mr. McNewtry, has been through the books and at his calculation some $500 are yet delinquent. These he offered to pay, but the county treasurer was not satisfied that they would meet entirely the requirements of the law and hence the case in equity was brought to have the court go over the entire grounds and the old tax lists and determine just the amount due for a final settlement. As this would occupy a week's time it was mutually agreed by both sides in interest that the matter be referred to Denuty Clork Churchill. ter be referred to Deputy Clerk Churchill, he to make examinations and report his find-ing of facts at the next term of the court.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION. Judge Chapman in district court to-day rendered a decision in the case of Hull and rendered a decision in the case of Hull and others against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad involving some $10,000 worth of Lincoln lots that were taken, practically without leave or license, by the road for right of way and trackage purposes. The ludge found that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover from the road the value of the preparaty taken. property taken.

THE LAW INVALID.

Attorney General Leese in looking up the law and the amendments in regard to town-ship organization finds that the amended law passed last winter is void and useless. The part of the law that has puzzled the town part of the law that has puzzled the township treasurers is in chapter 27 of the compiled statutes of 1887. In looking up this law Attorney General Leese finds that the bill was entitled "House Role 150, introduced by Mr. Cannon," that it passed the house and reached the senate March 25, reading, "to amend sections 62, 63, 70 and 88," and as such was read the first time. March 28 it was read the second time and referred to a committee. It came back from the comcommittee. It came back from the com committee. It came back from the committee as "to amend sections 63, 70, 89, 96 and 97," and on final passage it was reported in the correct form, but when the president of the senate and governor signed it, it was as though it amended sections 63, 70, 89, 96 and 97. Hence the attorney general finds that it is void and without semblance of law. GOVERNOR THAYER IMPROVING.

Inquiry at the home of Governor Thayer in this city yesterday disclosed the fact that in this city yesterday disclosed the fact that the governor was on the gain from his recent sickness and indications were favorable for a speedy recovery, although it will be several days yet before he can officially attend to business in the executive office. His physician prescribes rest and absence from business for a number of days as the best possible thing to aid the governor in his recovery. There is little business at the present time that will suffer for a few days. e that will suffer for a few days

THE CITY COUNCIL. At the regular meeting of the city council are report of the city treasurer for the month of November showed a balance in the treasury of $26,100.94 and in the school fund $15,354.24. The question of lighting the city building was reported favorably for using the electric lights, the committee reporting that this would be a large saving over the present use of gas. In the matter of the license of J. C. Cuttern, the council granted a week's time for the defense to show by transcript why the license should not be revoked. Councilman Brock, as agent, made a proposition to dispose of the $30,000 refunding bonds at a commission of 25 per cent or to have an op-tion for the sale at that figure up to the 2d of January and the option was granted. Judges and clerks for the special bond election were

From this place she was released a few days later, the sheriff becoming convinced that the charge was a wrong one dictated by malice, and that her arrest and imprisonment was brought about by the cupidity of her relatives, who sought to gain possession of the property owned by h specific act mentioned her. The by her accusers, which tended to show that she was of unsound mind, was that she threw stones at boys, and afterwards the additional charge was made that she violently assaulted the officer sent to arrest her. This was absolutely true, but on investigation it was shown that the hoodlums living in the neighborhood had for a long time been in the habit of persecuting the poor old lady after her son had left for his work. They stoued the house and assailed her with the vilest of language, so that at last she lost her temper, and sought to rid her premises of her persecutors by making a vigorous assault upon them. No one was hurt, but the boys were thoroughly frightened and ceased their persecutions. That night a deputy sheriff called to serve a warrant for her apprehension, but being a stranger to her Mrs. Werth resisted the officer, and this was also referred to as an evidence of her insanity.

It now seems that this arrest was a part of a scheme to defraud the lady out of her home and that her own son is the instigator. Sheriff Coburn states that the house on Fifth and Dorcas streets was purchased by that she was of unsound mind, was that she Sheriff Coburn states that the house on Fifth and Dorcas streets was purchased by Mrs. Werth and her son, Fred W. A. Werth; that Mrs. Werth paid $200 down on the place, through her son, supposing that he also paid a like amount and that the deed was made out in their joint names. It was, however, made out to Fred Werth and a few days ago he sold the property to Frank Dworak. The new owner has given Mrs. Werth notice to vacate and the poor lady does not know what to do, as she is liable to be set into the street any day. She applied to the sheriff yesterday and to him poured out the tale of woe, but as she had trusted in her son to have the deed made out properly and he had deceived her there is little chance of her being able to recover anything. Mrs. Werth claims that her son has treated her shamefully in this matter and she fears that she will be sent to the poor farm.

FARNAM STREET WINS.

The Pythian Hall Will be Built on Farnam and Nineteenth Streets. There was an important meeting yesterday of the committee of Pythians having in charge the preliminary arrangements for the erection of the new castle hall of that order in this city. It was resolved to select Farnam and Nineteenth street as the site for the proposed structure, which, with the ground, will cost $200,000. It has not yet been decided upon which corner of the above intersection the building will be built.

There was a bad break in the Chicago market yesterday, and prices sympathized here. Receipts were heavy, 124 cars being reported at noon, and as neither American nor Anglo-American buyers took anything, the support of the market fell on Steward and Hammond. Prices were strong at the opening, and some of Steward's hogs cost him $5.60, but a sharp decline followed until $5.25 was all that was offered for choice heavy weights. Sellers would not accept, and business became stagnant, but it was thought ness became stagnant, but it was thought that during the afternoon sales would be made at from $5.35 to $5.40 About fifteen cattle were reported, with prices quoted steady.

There was some tall swearing done before Justice Levy yesterday, and in despair he adjourned the case until Saturday. Livingstone Bres., wholesale notion dealers, sued Adam Sneider and Israel Mendleson for a balance of $45 due on a $136 bill for goods, and their witnesses apparently proved the balance of $45 due on a $136 bill for goods, and their witnesses apparently proved the case. The defense, however, put in another cloud of witnesses, who swore that all the goods had been returned, although they admitted having endeavored to peddle them for five months. The justice couldn't see how any salesman could carry goods for that length of time without selling some of them, and adjourned the case to think it over.

Chills and Fever Cured. 216 SENECA ST., BUFFALO. N. Y.

Dec. 14, 1885. I was a great sufferer for many years with chills and fever, and tried remedies of all kinds, but found no relief until a friend of mine told me to buy a box of BRANDRETH'S PILLS and take them as directed. I used two boxes and believe that I am cured, as I have not been troubled with them for the past year. I cheerfully recommend them to all who suffer. G. W. MESSENGER.

A MILLION DOLLARS OF CASH. This Amount Saved From the Ruins ofa Burnt Vault.

Chicago Mail: Over $1,000,000 worth of valuable papers and money were re-covered this morning from the iron vaults in the ruins of the Phelps, Dodge & Palmer shoe factory, and a dramatic seene accompanied the safe finding of the valuables, and a big sigh of relief escaped each of the partners in the great shoe house when the climax was reached. At 7 o'clock the three members of the firm, accompanied by a half-dozen clerks and several workmen, arrived in clerks and several workmen, arrived in front of the bare and shattered walls. Anxiety was deeply depicted on the faces of all the party, and a clerk who entered the ruins, followed by a brawny blacksmith with a heavy chisel and mallet, was told sharply by Mr. Phelps to "hurry along, there."

Bang' went the workman's hammer.

Bang! went the workman's hammer. and for a half hour the heavy blows fell on the strong lock of the lower vault, made doubly difficult to break because of the warping of the iron. The little party closed up around the safe, and scarce room enough was given the workman to swing his stout arms. When at last the bolt cracked and the ponderous door swung open in obedience to a heavy pull from many willing arms a rush was made for the inside. A dense volume of steam stopped their hasty progress, and a wait was an enforced necessity. When this was cleared away Mr. Phelps said anxiously: "Is everything safe ?

"It is," came the short but reassuring About four months ago, one Mrs. Werth, who resides at the corner of South Fifth and Dorcas streets, was arrested on the charge of insanity, preferred by relatives, and for several days was incarcerated in the county. Aside from a slight wetting the books, papers, and money are untouched," he added, joyously.

"Just $1,000,000 ahead," muttered the head bookkeeper, punching a bluecoated policeman in the ribs, making the latter gasp for breath and laugh in

Then the work of removing the valuables began. A line was formed to an express wagon standing on the side of the street, and slowly the precious load the wagon was to carry was passed along the line. First came a pile of insurance the line. First came a pile of insurance papers without which it would be next to impossible to collect the insurance. They were slightly dampened by water. The receipts of the day's business transacted before the fire broke out were next lit upon. There were several tin boxes full of paper, gold and silver mony, in all amounting to several thousand dollars, although the paper money could not be counted because of its water-soaked condition. The books of the concern were next taken out, and of the concern were next taken out, and the vault was closed while the express wagon and its precious load, under guard was driven around to the temporary quarters, where the books, papers and money were spread out in a well-heated room to dry, and afterward sent to the bank.

"We knew there was something valuable in those vaults," said a fireman engaged in tearing down dangerous walls, "and on the night of the fire we just soaked the whole affair pretty thoroughly, the water seeping through the bricks at the top. If we hadn't literally drowned it the iron walls would have heated to a white heat, and the contents would have been destroyed. We always look out for the safes and vaults in that way."

"When we two parted I felt that I had taken cold," said Thomas Takeintime, "and next morning I was hoarse indeed. But a 25 cent bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup fixed me up.

Story of Pioneer Days.

San Francisco Correspondence New York World: In the superior courf at Oakland yesterday, during the trial of the suit of Nicholas Beerval. who returns from South America after twenty years' absence to recover a portion of the Livermore valley, which has passed into the hands of his stepmother, a wit-ness—James E. Costillo—dropped the thread of an interesting tale.

He testified that a chest of gold was buried on the ranch of Dr. John Marsh in 1854 by the doctor and a Mexican servant. Dr. Marsh was the father of Mrs. W. W. Cameron, of Oak-land. He was murdered in 1859 by robbers, who waylaid him. According to the testimony given by Mr. Cos-ello, the chest containing the treasure was buried about one hundred yards from the site of an old adobe dwelling

Mr. Costello subsequently said to the World correspondent that the exact location of treasure was known to himself alone. He said that in the early days-Dr. Marsh was troubled by robbers. One night they came to his house and took $300 from him. They saw an old iron chest in a corner of the room, but on opening it only nails were exposed to view. Had they scraped aside the nails they would have found gold. How-ever Dr. Marsh was taught a lesson, and the next day, exacting a vow of secrecy from his servant, they buried the chest. Two years afterwards Dr. Maran was A. S. Day, of Day Bros., North Bend, Neb. is at the Exchange hotel.

To night the K. of L. social club dance at their hall on Twenty-sixth street.

President Smith of the council has finally secured suitable offices for the city at the corner of Twenty-sixth street.

W. W. Cameron, a son-in-law of the late Dr. Marsh, while not placing credit in Castello's ability to find the treasure, says there is no doubt that $20,000 or $30,000 is buried somewhere on the ranch. Dr. Marsh, he says, located on the ranch in 1837, and was robbed in all eleven times, which experience induced him to bury his money.
