The young ladies of the Presbyterian church are earnestly requested to attend the monthly business meeting of the Kings Daughters, at Miss Jennie Baldwin's, this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon Judge Biggs was called upon to make husband and wife of Thomas Hanson and Ellen Nelson, both of this city. The ceremony was quickly performed, in the presence of a few friends.

Mrs. Henry Pothbridge, wife of the proprietor of the great market, Mrs. Robert Pothbridge, at her home, 222 Vine street, dangerously ill. But three days ago she was in perfect health, and now her death is expected to occur at any time. Five howling, rip-snorting drunks were corralled by the police Christmas night. They were pretty well sobered when brought into the police court yesterday, and the usual prescription was administered by Judge Aylesworth.

Hill & Robinson's "Lights of London" appeared at Dohany's opera house to one of the largest audiences that has assembled in that place during the present season. The company is a strong one, and the audience was splendidly entertained. The jury appointed to settle the difficulty concerning the fixtures and furniture at the Ogdan house, met at the sheriff's office yesterday. They were unable to fully agree, and adjourned until this morning. It is expected that a decision will be reached to-day.

W. J. Hancock, of the Wells Fargo express, kindly and generously remembered the boys in his office by presenting them with a ten dollar gold piece, and to each of the married ones a turkey and two cans of oysters besides the gold. The friendliest relations exist in this office between employer and employed. On the night of the 24th inst. a team belonging to John Gilmore at Honey Creek was taken from the stable. The team was soon discovered and a hunt began. After a short search the missing team was found about eight miles from the city. It is supposed to be the work of tramps, who used this means to further them on their journey.

Lee Thurman, a commercial traveler living at Lincoln, died at the Ogdan house in this city Sunday night. He was a native of Lincoln, and his friends that he has been addicted to the opium habit for some time, and this undoubtedly hastened his death, which was caused by heart disease. The wife of the deceased telephoned from Lincoln that she would be in the city last evening to take charge of the funeral. She was in the city at the undertaking rooms of Field & Estep.

THE MAYOR'S RESIGNATION.

An Altar Cloth of Old Creeds—A Turkey Shoot—A Boy Gets a Broken Leg for Christmas.

New Suits.

W. F. Sapp has commenced suit against Sheriff Reel and M. E. Stout, the controversy arising over the possession of some furniture in the Ogdan house, which Colonel Sapp claims belongs to him, and which is in the hotel, and which is claimed as part of the hotel furniture.

Mathilda Handke has applied for a divorce from William Handke, to whom she was married in 1883, in Kosuth county, Iowa. She claims that he has acted in all ways too badly for her to longer call him husband. She charges him with being too intimate with another Council Bluffs woman, Anna Jensen, and that he has been so violent in his temper as to render it impossible for her to live with him, even if he was true to her in other respects.

The controversy concerning the lot just south of the old Catholic church has crept into the papers, the title being Robert P. Young vs. the Right Rev. Henry Cosgrove et al. It will be remembered that the Catholic church folks reported they owned only 200 feet on Main street, and this was sold to Mr. Merriam, of Omaha. In making the survey and examination of the plats it was discovered that the church property extended considerably farther, taking almost all of another lot which was supposed to belong to Mr. Young, who lives in Louisville. The church folks proceeded to take possession of the find, valued at about $10,000, by putting a fence about the lot. Now Mr. Young steps into court, and protests against the taking down of his fence, and asks for a verdict in his favor, and that he be paid for the suit, which is an important one, and it will be stoutly contested, as the Catholics are confident, as they are right, while Mr. Young seems equally confident, as he has been paying taxes on the lot for years, and has claimed possession with no one to dispute or challenge his ownership.

Lost—A very small rat-and-tan dog. Finder rewarded. Return to W. H. Baldwin, No. 1812 Ninth street. Troxel Bros. headquarters for Christmas poultry. Leave your orders.

Who Will Be Mayor? The resignation of Mayor Groneweg has not been formally acted upon, and yet there are numerous rumors afloat as to who will be his successor. It is expected that the resignation will be accepted, and a committee has been appointed, their duties being understood to be the drawing up of a formal acceptance, and of suitable resolutions commending the manner in which Mr. Groneweg has performed the duties of his position. There is outside of the council a report that the committee is to nominate a successor, but this is not the understanding of the aldermen.

The name of M. Keating has been announced as the probable successor, but there seems to be nothing tangible at the bottom of this report. The council will probably select some one to serve until the spring election. Under the law of the state the council, in case of such a vacancy, has the right to elect a mayor to serve until the people can elect one. Under the present election laws it takes so long to secure a majority of voters and give notice for a special election that these preliminaries could hardly be done before the time fixed for the regular election. Few additional expenses to the city would also be considerable, and in view of this peculiar situation there is an apparent desire on the part of the council to select some one who will serve until the regular election, at which time a mayor can be chosen by the people.

The legal points involved need careful examination, however. It is not merely a question of conferring honor upon this or that man. There are many important city actions, in fact all the city legislation, which depends upon a legal election of mayor for validity. It is essential to every financial move of the city to have a mayor elected without the smallest legal flaw.

In regard to who the man will be, and who the man ought to be, there is a great diversity of opinion. Mr. Keating is a man who is the only one made public thus far, but there will be others, which will strike many with more favor. Mr. Keating has been in many respects a valuable citizen and a worthy official. He will carry the democratic strength with him, and this with a democratic council will be a great advantage to him over others who might be named. There are several whom the people would like to secure for their mayor who would not accept the office, if elected. In due time there will be better opportunities for comparison and choice.

Opium, morphine habits cured. DR. BELLINGER, 614 B'way, Council Bluffs.

History of an Altar Cover.

The altar cover at St. Paul's church, the gift of which has been already noticed in the Bee, has quite a history connected with its making. Five shades of religious belief are combined in it. The silk was given by one, the gold bullion, of which there is more than twenty-five dollars worth, by another, the gold fringe by a third, the work was done by a fourth and the fifth possesses it. This is a practical evidence that religious faith is above creed, as well as a demonstration of the truth that christianity is greater than denominationalism.

For best quality coal and wood, call on Glenwood, 25 Pearl street.

We have buyers for property that must be sold. Johnston & Van Potten, 33 Main street.

Shooting for Turkeys.

There was a grand turkey shoot arranged by Vint Corbally, at Crescent City, for Christmas. The winners were as follows, with the number of turkeys taken by each: A Smith 4; Dave Widing 3; Ab Chase, of the Council Bluffs Rifle club 3; Henry Terry 3; J. Boulden 2; B. Smith 2; Henry Haywood, of the Council Bluffs Rifle club, Mr. Gage, Charles Hamling, of Council Bluffs, and S. McClure one each. In the evening there was a masquerade ball, and a merry time. There are no liquors sold in Crescent, but liquor and beer seemed to have fully as cheering an effect, and the lack of exhilaration was not noticeable.

A Leg Doubly Broken.

Courtesy Coffeen, son of Henry Coffeen, was riding his pony at a speedy little jog, when, in turning the corner by the Kiel house, the pony slipped and fell with him. The boy's leg was found to be broken in two places. He was taken to his home on Madison street, and Dr. Finney called in to attend to the injuries. He is now resting as comfortably as could be expected, but the accident knocked much of the merriment of Christmas, and will keep him housed for some time.

He Couldn't Stand the Weather.

"Coal Oil Sullivan" completed a thirty-day term in the county jail and was released yesterday morning. Not liking the winter weather outside he immediately adopted means to secure board and lodging for the remainder of the winter. He went to the St. Louis house, 700 Broadway, and entering the room of a boarder took a suit of clothes and an overcoat. The theft was soon discovered and the police notified. "Coal Oil" was easily recognized notwithstanding his disguise of clothing, and was lodged behind the prison bars. He gives no reason for his rash act, but will be called on to-day to confide the secret to Judge Aylesworth.

Santa Among Justices.

The justices of the peace in this city fared pretty well all around, so far as Christmas presents were concerned. Justice Barnett returned from Weeping Water, Neb., yesterday morning, where he spent Sunday. He sported an elegant pair of gold-bowed glasses and a fine gold watch-chain. They were the gifts of his two sons-in-law, and the "squire observed, with a twinkle of his eye, "I wouldn't mind it if I had a few more new sons, but the deuce of it is the girls are all gone. I am sorry, but what am I to do?" The "squire" man, to whom the question was addressed, was sorry too, but could offer no suggestions.

As Squire Schurz sat in his office yesterday afternoon, the foreman of Frank Levin's cigar factory walked in, and presented him with a box of fine Havana's in behalf of Assembly No. 170, of the Cigar Maker's union. "What in the world have I ever done for them?" said the astonished "squire. "Well, tell them if I can ever do anything for them in any shape or form, to let me know, and give them my thanks. He immediately opened the box for his visitors, and took one himself, remarking, "If I wait until my boys find it out, I will get a chance for a single whiff." From the way they disappeared, it is very doubtful whether the "boys" got a chance to take a single whiff from them.

He Whipped The Boy.

James Keller, an employe at the Union elevator, was brought before Squire Barnett yesterday, on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. The recipient of the castigation was Charles Jones, a seven-year-old son of Monroe M. Jones, a Union Pacific switchman. The boy was making himself a nuisance around the elevator, and Keller tried to make him desist, but without avail. Finally his patience was exhausted, and exclaiming "Ah there, my ash barrel, I will dump you," he seized the youth with one hand and a stick with the other, and proceeded to "warm" him. When brought into court, he acknowledged the whipping, but wanted time to get an attorney and witnesses. The case was continued until Wednesday at 2 o'clock. W. P. Gunnold furnished bonds to the amount of $200, for the appearance of the prisoner.

Nabbed for Horse Stealing.

The horsethief who stole Chris Darr's grey team, and traded with a farmer at Plum Hollow for a span of mules, is in custody at Rockport, Mo., where he is held with the mules in his possession. A telegram was received yesterday, saying that he would be held to await the arrival of officers from this city. Marshal Ghauff left for that place last evening, and will be in here to-morrow. The name of the thief is Ed. Adams, and if he refuses to come without a requisition, the marshal will be compelled to make a trip to Rockport, to procure the necessary papers. Mr. Darr's team has been received, and the Plum Hollow grazer's team will be restored in time for him to tend next year's crop. The thief made private and give telegraph and United States mail rather laid it over him.

Shot to Death.

The dispatches of Sunday contained an account of the shooting of one Joseph Hottis, a colored man, in Lincoln, Neb. A bottle was drunk and quarrelsome, and an officer attempted to arrest him. He resisted and in the fight was killed by the officer. At one time Hottis lived in this city. He had two brothers, David and George, the latter living in Sioux City, Ia., where he lives here. A fight for Lincoln, yesterday morning. The body will be buried here.

Death of a Dickens Character.

St. Louis Correspondence: The tragic death of C. R. Garrison, who met such an awful end at Webb City, recalls the fact that his first appearance in St. Louis attracted much attention. Few in January, 1842, Charles Dickens made his first appearance in America, and in traveling from Cairo to St. Louis by boat he met a little woman and her baby. "That baby was C. R. or 'Dick' Garrison, as he was familiarly called. Few of those who gazed on the mangled remains guessed that the face had touched a chord in one of the greatest hearts that ever throbbled. This is how the incident, as Dickens told it, begins: "The 4th, after leaving Louisville, we reached St. Louis, and here I witnessed the conclusion of a pleasant incident. There was a little woman on board with a little baby; both little woman and little baby were cheerful, good-looking, bright-eyed, and fair to see. The baby was born in her mother's house, and she had not seen her husband, to whom she was returning, for twelve months. Well, to be sure, there was never such a little woman—so full of hope and tenderness and love and anxiety—as this little woman was, and all day she wondered if 'he' would be at the wharf and whether 'he' had got her letter, and whether if she sent her baby ashore by somebody else 'he' would know it by meeting it."
